Miskimen Orders A Probe Of Financial Procedures

San Rafael Councilman Acts In Report's Wake

By NELS JOHNSON

The habit of some San Rafael city officials of wining and dining at city expense has sparked an examination of city financial procedures.

Council finance committeeman John A. Miskimen said he ordered the move in the wake of an Independent-Journal report last week that several city leaders were accustomed to charging the city for costly luncheons.

The report drew from Councilman Miskimen a startled declaration he had never seen "cash revolving account" vouchers detailing the luncheons, although he and finance committee chairman Harry A. Barbier are charged with final approval of such expenditures.

Miskimen said yesterday he had directed Finance Director John B. Averett to develop proposals for a clearer accounting system "to let the finance committee know what is going on."

An example of the confused state of expense account records came to light yesterday when the I-J discovered a misfiled packet of vouchers, including a record which asserts that an $89.15 dinner was shared by councilmen Miskimen and Barbier, City Mgr. James H. McCown and their wives on Sept. 28, 1971 in Julius Castle Restaurant in San Francisco. The 1971 packet was filed with 1970 records.

Miskimen's presence was an unusual variation on the restaurant circuit list, since those dining together most frequently at city expense last fiscal year apparently were McCown, Barbier and Councilman Fred E. Jensen, as reported last week.

Consumed at the dinner, according to a bill attached to the voucher, were three New York steaks ($24.75); two filet mignons ($17.50); one sole Julius ($5.25); two avocado salads ($4); two caesar salads ($4); one shrimp roquefort ($2.75); and five coffees ($2.50) as well as other illegible items. Miscellaneous expenses were listed as costing $8, for a $98.35 total expense, according to the records.

McCown and Barbier said yesterday the dinner was part of an official function of a conference of the League of California Cities. Miskimen, however, said the group skipped the official League banquet in favor of a private dinner because the food had been cold at a previous league banquet.

"Frankly, we were shocked at the tab," Miskimen said, adding that none of the group had been before to the fashionable restaurant on Telegraph Hill. He said the price would have been about the same had the six attended the official banquet.

Finance Director Averett declared he had no idea how the voucher had become misplaced. The packet, including the luncheon voucher, evidently had been reviewed by the finance committee, then misfiled.

Averett is required to submit all revolving account vouchers detailing such luncheons for finance committee approval, but has apparently not provided a summary sheet of revolving expenses nor submitted revolving vouchers in a separate file for overall scrutiny.

"We've got a serious control problem," Miskimen said, adding that the council had experienced "difficulty in attempting to regulate expenditures of money between meetings."

Miskimen said Averett had failed to notify him or other councilmen of the cost of luncheons charged to the city by city leaders.

"At the very least he should have complained to his boss (McCown) about the expense," Miskimen said. As finance director and city treasurer, Averett is in a better position to know what the city is billed for than is City Manager McCown, according to Miskimen.

Miskimen said he dislikes the finance department's policy of issuing advance reimbursements for officials who want prepayment for expected expenditures. "If you advance money, there's an inclination to spend it," he said.

McCown said he would aid

Bike Bumps, Dents The Nixon 'Tank'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon's new armored limousine—with a reported price tag of half a million dolars and described as "strong as a tank" —got the worst of it in a collision with, of all things, a $197 bicycle.

The bike rider, though, didn't come out of it as well as his vehicle.

A police report today showed that the bike ridden by Orville Jackson ran into the left rear fender of the presidential Continental (the President was not aboard) as both vehicles were turning into a service station Wednesday afternoon.

Police estimated the damage "in excess of $100" —all of it to the limousine, evidently, since all Jackson had to do to put the bike back in operation was to straighten the handlebars.

Jackson was treated at a nearby hospital for abrasions. While there he was presented with a traffic ticket, for failure to stay in the proper lane, by a police delegation he described as "one lieutenant, one sergeant, one motorcycle patrolman and two officers."

Someone suggested to Jackson that, in view of all this official attention, he had run into the wrong car. "No, sir," he replied, "the wrong car hit me." He said he plans to fight the traffic ticket in court.

DEATH-BY-MAIL CAMPAIGN SPREADS

Israel Blunts Anti-Terrorist Plot

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Israeli police said today they had broken up an anti-terrorist plot involving the militant Jewish Defense League aimed at smuggling weapons to Europe to mount a counteroffensive against Palestinian guerrillas responsible for the deaths of Israeli diplomats and athletes.

The death-by-mail campaign against Israeli diplomats spread today to Africa where three booby-trapped letters were intercepted at the Israeli Embassy in Kinshasha, Zaire, the former Belgian Congo. And in Tel Aviv police said they had intercepted 10 more deadly letters addressed to prominent Israelis.

A police spokesman said an industrialist, Amichai Paglin, was detained for questioning Tuesday in connection with the reported bid to smuggle weapons to Europe so that militant anti-Palestinian groups could mount a terror campaign of their own against the Arabs.

A Tel Aviv magistrate ordered Paglin released on $5,000 bail, turning down a police request for a remand order for further questioning. Police said they planned to appeal the decision at the district court.

In a related development, police raided the headquarters of the Jewish Defense League, seizing dozens of documents. A police source said the raid followed the arrest of a JDL memberand the interception of a Europe-bound crate of weapons at Lod International Airport.

Police Minister Shlomo Hillel told Israeli newspapers his men would do all they could to prevent weapons being sent to Europe for antiguerrilla actions, especially by the JDL.

The explosive devices, so small they can be sent in an ordinary letter, have been received in a number of cities of Europe, Tel Aviv, Montreal and New York. The first one in London killed an Israeli embassy official; the others have been detected before they could cause harm.

The letters have been attributed to the Arab Palestinian Black September terrorist group held responsible for the Munich massacre of 11 Israelis at the Olympic Games and a shootout in which five guerrillas and a German policemen were killed. All were mailed from Amsterdam.

The new terror campaign has brought warnings from Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban and Deputy Premier Yigal Allon that the perpetrators must be liquidated. The implied threat was that there would be more Israeli strikes against guerrilla bases in Lebanon and Syria.

Israeli police intercepted 10 more booby-trapped envelopes today before they could be delivered to prominent Israeli addressees, Jerusalem dispatches reported. It brought to 12 the number of bombs to have arrived by mail in two days.

The latest batch of letters, discovered in a last-minute check in Jerusalem's post office was aimed at the chairman of the Jewish Agency, Arye Pucus, and many of the organizations officials, among others.

Transport Minister Shimon Peres and Moshe Kuretz, director-general of the Welfare Ministry, were the targets on Wednesday.

The Vatican warned today against Israeli reprisals. A press spokesman said such reprisals could only spark more hatred and he reminded Jews that the Old as well as the New Testament condemned vengeance.

The Israeli embassy in Brussels Wednesday received a second letter-bomb which was defused before it could explode, a Palace of Justice spokesman said today. The bomb was of the same type as the one intercepted Tuesday. Both were mailed in Amsterdam.

Two more parcels received by the embassy Wednesday aroused suspicions, the spokesman said. A cylindrical parcel, mailed from Holland, contained no explosives. It might have been sent by a practical joker, he said. Another letter, mailed in Italy, is being investigated by an army explosives expert.

The International Union of World War II resistance fighters and Deported Persons (UIRD) today called on the United Nations for international action against terrorism.

UIRD president Maj.-Gen. Albert Guerisse, in a cable to the General Assembly, asked that "the United nations adopt an international convention, linking all countries, to fight on a world scale the taking of innocent hostages, blind terrorism and torture as crimes against humanity."

Housing, Redevelopment Head Gets Pay Increase

By ERIC M. INGRAM

Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of Marin's housing authority and redevelopment agency, joined the ranks of higher-paid public officials last night when the agency boards increased his salary to $21,204 a year.

The $3,204 increase, retroactive to July 1, came as the two boards met jointly to consider personnel problems including the suspension of Shepherd's chief assistant, Keith E. Kelly.

Kelly was suspended last week by Shepherd, who told the Independent-Journal the two men found it "difficult to work together,"

Last night, however, the boards emerged from a joint closed session to announce Kelly had been improperly suspended, since Shepherd does not have that authority.

Another session was scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday at Marin County Civic Center to consider charges for dismissal of Kelly and to give him a chance to reply. He was not present at last night's session.

(State law governing closed sessions by public agencies, the Ralph M. Brown Act, makes no provision for two agencies which meet jointly behind locked doors.

(Possible violation of the law was pointed out last night to the two boards, which said they had the right anyway, since

Retirement Pay Benefit To Survivors

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon signed into law Thursday legislation providing the first real survivor benefits for widows and orphans of retired military personnel.

Retirement pay in the past generally has ended when the retiree died. Under the new law, survivors will continue to draw up to 55 per cent of what the retiree was paid.

Congress drafted the law after learning that many survivors of retired military men — some of them widows of high ranking officers —had been left almost destitute.

The new law gives military personnel the same survivor benefit privileges already enjoyed by federal civil servants.

Although participation in the new plan will be optional with the retiree, positive action will be required to "opt out" of the system and few if any career servicemen are expected to do that.

Sample benefits cited in congressional reports will range from $143 monthly for the widow of a staff sergeant who had 20 years of service to $1,237 monthly for the widow of a general who served 38 years.

The new law does not cover those already widowed; but there is a provision under which those in that category are covered by a minimum benefit so that their income from all sources will be guaranteed to reach at least $2,100 a year.

U.S. Judge Says Demos Can Go Ahead On Stan s Lawsuit

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Democrats have been allowed to proceed with a $3.2 million damage suit growing out of the break-in of Democratic national headquarters against Maurice Stans, chief fund-raiser for President Nixon, and three others formerly connected with the campaign.

At the same time, on a technicality, U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey dropped the five men accused of the actual June 17 break-in as defendants. The Democrats said they would appeal the ruling.

Richey ordered lawyers for both sides to appear at a closed hearing today to determine how much time it will take to file all motions and take depositions in the case.

By Richey's order on Wednesday, the original $1 million invasion of privacy damage suit brought by former Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien against the "Watergate Five" —since indicted by a federal grand jury along with two former White House aides —was superseded by the $3.2 million damage suit naming Stans and his campaign finance committee.

Other remaining defendants in the revised suit are Hugh W. Sloan Jr., former treasurer of the Committee for Re-election of the President, and two former White House aides who also were indicted Friday —G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt Jr.

Dropped from the Democratic lawsuit —but still under indictment on federal charges of conspiring to steal documents and install illegal bugging devices at Democratic headquarters —were Bernard L. Barker, Virgilio R. Gonzalez, Eugenio R. Martinez, Frank R. Sturgis and James W. McCord Jr., former security chief for the re-election committee.

The technicality Richey cited in dropping the original Watergate Five was that Democratic lawyers failed to file a response to an Aug. 31 motion by Henry Rothblatt, attorney for the five, asking that the suit be dismissed.

The amended suit charges that Stans diverted Nixon campaign funds for the purpose of financing a "political espionage squad" to gather intelligence on Democratic officials and candidates in violation of their constitutional rights.

Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., said today the indictment of the five break-in suspects, along with Hunt and Liddy, was evidence of "political dishonesty" on the part of the administration.

In a prepared Senate speech, Stevenson said the administration wants the public "to believe the unbelievable."

"We are asked to believe that these men operated with no authority but their own; that large sums of money slipped magically into their hands from Mr. Stans' remarkable safe. We are asked to believe that the accused men had no connection with the highest officials of the Republican campaign ... We are asked to believe that the fruits of the burglars' labors — the photographs and transcribed conversations —were for their own entertainment."

Amtrak Reports Huge Loss, But Notes Return To Trains

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Amtrak says Americans are beginning to return to the passenger train, but for every dollar the passenger has paid in fares, Amtrak has paid about $2 to carry him.

Amtrak, the semigovernment corporation established May 1, 1971, to save the vanishing passenger train, told Congress and its shareholders Wednesday that it lost $153.47 million during its first full fiscal year ending June 30, 1972.

It listed revenues of $152.71 million vs. expenses of $306.18 million.

But Amtrak also reported:

—Ridership in May and June of this year was 13.7 per cent more than May and June, 1971. This was the first opportunity to directly compare Amtrak's present ridership with a year ago.

—Revenue in June was 11 per cent more than June, 1971: $14.4 million compared with $13 million.

The ridership figures indicate "that a historical decline in railroad passenger service has been reversed," Amtrak said in a report to its stockholders, who are mostly the railroads operating Amtrak service.

The corporation indicated the ridership increase might have been substantially greater if Hurricane Agnes had not severly disrupted eastern rail service in June. The ridership increase in May was 28.1 per cent over May, 1971, but the increase in June was only 7.4 per cent, largely because Agnes shut down many eastern rail lines.

The ridership increases also might have been greater if Amtrak had been able to accommodate all the passengers who wanted to travel by rail this summer. Because of equipment problems (40 per cent of Amtrak passenger cars were out of service for repairs this summer), reservations were hard to get on some trains, particularly in the West.

Amtrak also suffered from air conditioning breakdowns during summer heat, and on-time performance was mediocre. Roughly one of every four trains was late.

Nationally, 2,761,861 passengers rode trains in May-June, 1972, compared with 2,429,758 in May-June, 1971.

State Supreme Court Ruling— No Death For Killer Of Nurses

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI)— Richard F. Speck, 31, convicted murderer of eight nurses, cannot be sentenced to death.

The Illinois Supreme Court Wednesday, interpreting rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court, said Speck must be sentenced again for the slaughter of the nurses in Chicago, but cannot be sentenced to death.

Speck had been sentenced to the electric chair five years ago for the murders of the nurses and the Illinois court had earlier upheld the sentence. However, the U.S. Supreme Court reversed the decision because of what it called deficiencies in the selection of the jury which tried Speck in Peoria, Ill. Then, no resentencing took place because Illinois courts were waiting to see what the U.S. Supreme Court would rule concerning challenges of the constitutionality of the death penalty.

The nation's highest court ruled last June that in cases of condemned men such as Speck, the sentences be remanded back to the state courts for resentencing. The high court called the death penalty "cruel and unusual punishment" which is barred by the U.S. Constitution.

The Illinois Supreme Court, in an opinion written by Justice Walter V. Schaefer, interpreted the ruling to mean that Speck "could not be validly sentenced to death under the same Illinois statutes that are applicable to this case."

Wallenda Loses His Grip, Falls

DETROIT (AP) — High wire artist Karl Wallenda has escaped serious injury in a 20-foot fall, another incident in a series of tragedies that has stalked his troupe.

The 67-year-old Wallenda was descending a rope from the high wire, hand over hand, when he lost his grip and dropped to the floor last night.

Doctors said a preliminary examination disclosed no serious injury.

The accident occurred as Wallenda finished his high wire act on the opening night of his new show at the Detroit Olympia.

Ten years ago, two members of the Wallenda troupe died in a fall at Detroit. Two other Wallenda erformers have been killed since that accident.

FBI Search For Robber Of Casino

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI)— The FBI is heading a two-state search for a gunman who held up busy Harrah's Tahoe Casino of $178,500 and escaped in the direction of California on a motorcycle.

A spokesman for Harrah's Tahoe said the robbery Tuesday night was the largest ever in a Nevada casino. The robber was described as wearing "an awful lot of clothes and a false beard" along with a Western hat and wraparound glasses.

The spokesman said that the gunman met a security detail of five men bringing money to the casino floor from a basement. He pulled out a .45 caliber pistol and said "give me the money or I'll blow your head off."

He took two bags and ordered the club workers to go back downstairs. He then hurried across the crowded casino and left through a door on the California side of the casino, which is right on the state line.

He dropped a sack holding $4,500 in gambling chips after running into a slot machine attendant, but held onto the bag of currency as a security guard gave chase.

They ran a short distance down U.S. Highway 50 until the robber arrived where someone with a motorcycle was waiting. The robber leaped aboard and they sped away.

Indian Activist Killed; Investigation Under Way

SANTA ROSA (AP) — Richard Oakes, a 30-year-old Mohawk Indian and member of the original band of Indians that occupied Alcatraz Island in 1969, was shot to death at a YMCA camp, the district attorney says.

John Hawk, Sonoma County district attorney, said yesterday sheriff's deputies arrested Michael Morgan on investigation of manslaughter.

Morgan, whose age and hometown were not immediately available, was connected with the YMCA camp where Oakes was shot. The camp is located about 60 miles northwest of here near the coastal town of Annapolis.

Hawk said he would issue a news release today after completing an investigation of the shooting.

A former high-rise steel worker, Oakes served as a chief spokesman for the Indians that occupied Alcatraz, a former federal prison in San Francisco Bay, on Nov. 20, 1969. The Indians demanded that the empty prison be turned into a cultural center, a proposal rejected by the government after nearly two years of haggling.

Oakes left the island after his daughter Yvonne, 12, was killed in a fall from a three-story building.

A frequent critic of the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs, Oakes subsequently became active on behalf of the Pit River Indians to reclaim land in north-eastern California from the National Park Service and Pacific Gas & Electric Co.

He was arrested several times for trespassing and was briefly jailed for attempting to collect road tolls from motorists passing through the Kashia-Pomo Reservation in Sonoma County.

Oakes was nearly killed in the summer of 1970 after being struck with a pool cue during a bar-room fight in San Francisco.

At first paralyzed, he made a long recovery after undergoing brain surgery at the University of California's Medical Center in San Francisco.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Trial Recessed

FT. ORD (UPI) — The court-martial of Pvt. Billy D. Smith, 24, was in recess today after a prosecution witness said Smith was not the soldier he saw running from the "fragging" explosion which killed two officers in Vietnam.

Army officials said the Friday session of the trial was also canceled and added it would be reconvened "at the call of the presiding judge."

The interruption of the court-martial came late Wednesday after Bradley W. Curtis, 20, testified that he saw a black man running from the scene of the slayings, but he was not Smith.

However, Curtis, who served as an enlisted man with the defendant, told the court that he had been "smoking heroin" at the time and this interfered with his "powers of observation."

FDA Accused

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration was accused by a group of lawyers today of permitting widespread use in fish products of a food additive linked to cancer in animals.

The additive, sodium nitrite, is widely used in preserved meat and fish as a curing agent and in some products as a preservative, the Environmental Defense Fund said in prepared testimony before the Senate Select committee on Nutrition and Health.

This substance combines with stomach acids and other chemicals in laboratory animals, including rats and monkeys, to form powerful cancer-causing agents, the organization said.

Arrest In Uganda

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI) — Uganda military police today arrested Chief Justice Benedicto Kiwanuka, a former premier, in a government crackdown on critics of President Idi Amins policies.

The action came at a time when Uganda was embroiled in a dispute with neighboring Tanzania with each side making threats to invade the other.

In addition, Uganda military broadcasts bitterly attacked Sudan for intercepting five Libyan jet fighters carrying men and arms to Uganda for the conflict with Tanzania.

Witnesses said Kiwanuka was seized at the High Court building in Kamala. They said his coat and necktie were taken away from him and he was led away in handcuffs.

Strikes Continue

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Teachers in Washington, D.C., in defiance of their union leadership, continued to strike today while Philadelphia's 285,000 student school system was into its third week of immobilization.

Members of the District of Columbia School Board and Washington Teachers Union leaders hammered out an agreement during a marathon bargaining session which ended early Wednesday. The union membership, however, rejected the pact less than 12 hours later after branding the settlement "inadequate."

In Philadelphia, 13,000 teachers dropped 150 demands, but refused to accept the board's call for a longer work day, larger classes and a 4 per cent pay hike.

Grain Bill Fails

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Agriculture Committee has rejected an administration-opposed bill which would have compensated farmers who sold their wheat crop before the government announced a $650 million grain deal with the Soviet Union.

A similar bill is expected to come before the House Agriculture Committee next week. It stands a better chance of approval there.

The Senate panel Wednesday overwhelmingly voted down the bill to authorize higher price support payments to farmers who sold their grain this summer before disclosure of the Russians' purchase of 400 million bushels of grain. The sale drove wheat prices up and, according to wheat industry spokesmen, cost farmers who sold early between $20 million and $25 million.

Talks Suggested

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet Union has suggested a European Security Conference be held next June and has bowed to U.S. demands that parallel talks be held on mutual force reductions in Central Europe, diplomatic sources said today.

Preparatory talks for the full-dress 34-nation conference were now certain to begin in Helsinki Nov. 22. All going well, the June date for the full conference, with U.S. participation, will probably be accepted.

Sources said the Russians have yielded to U.S. insistence that the full conference be preceded by exploratory discussions on mutual, balanced East-West force reductions

On July 27, 1972, General Radio Co. tested a '73 LTD against an airborne glider. Both at 60 mph and with identical sound level meters. The result: the Ford was quieter. But the new LTD is more than just quiet. It is well made from its power front disc brakes, power steering and automatic transmission, standard equipment, to its luxurious, comfortable, roomy interior. There are 16 new Ford models to choose from and each will convince you that quiet is the sound of a well-made car.

Ford, the company that built the first basic, solid, reliable car seventy years ago—has built today's basic, solid reliable car: Pinto. It's become America's top selling economy car for more reasons than economy. Here are some of those reasons: A 1600 cc. engine developed and perfected in over 10 years of actual driving. Rack-and-pinion steering. Solid welded body, electrocoated to fight corrosion. 4-speed transmission—lubed for life. Everything we've learned in seventy years of car making—all the basics—we build into every Pinto Wagon, Runabout and Sedan. When you get back to basics, you get back to Pinto.

FEDERAL DRUG CASES

We Gave U.S. Run For Its Money, Juror Says

Serving on a federal grand jury and being a chemical engineer share at least one common trait: both jobs call for drawing conclusions from data.

So says Richard A. Wuopio of San Rafael, who has done both. He is a senior research engineer at Chevron Research Co. in Richmond and recently completed the first of two four-month terms as a member of a special federal grand jury appointed in May to investigate wholesale drug trafficking in the Bay Area.

The grand jurors met about once a week from May through August in the 17th floor conference room of the federal building in San Francisco.

A skeptic by training and inclination, Wuopio described himself as the kind of person who questions advertising claims and statements of politicians. He nevertheless was impressed by the way the Justice Department presented its cases. "They answered most of my questions before I had a chance to ask them," he said.

Although there was frequent disagreement among the group,

RICHARD A. WUOPIO
San Rafael resident

Wuopio and the 22 other grand jury members were impressed enough by the government's evidence to hand down "several dozen" indictments.

More than that, Wuopio will not say. Since jury proceedings are supposed to be confidential, Wuopio would not talk about the number of cases he heard, the details of the investigations, or the extent of the narcotics traffic in the Bay Area.

Wuopio, who has served on municipal and superior court juries in Marin, was uncomfortable at first by a built-in characteristic of grand juries — hearing only the prosecution's side of the story.

"By and large we gave the government's case a pretty good run for its money. In some ways we acted as a kind of defense attorney to see if the government had a case. We were by no means a rubber-stamp jury," he said.

A strong believer in the grand jury system as a way of providing checks and restraints against the government, Wuopio criticized the way grand juries are chosen.

The $20 per day allowance, he said, makes it hard on small businessmen and other self-employed persons to give up working days to serve.

Wuopio said he was lucky. With his employer's blessing, he spent about 15 working days in the past four months on the jury.

He added, "I was never bored."

Terrorism Debate On U.S. Agenda

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Secretary General Kurt Waldheim recommended today that the issue of world terrorism be debated first in the general assembly's legal committee for "measured and calm analysis and discussion".

In this way, he advised the Assembly's 25-nation Steering Committee, he hoped to avoid "acrimonious debate" that would do nothing to ease "the feeling of general helplessness which peoples and governments all over the world have so often experienced in recent years."

Waldheim put the question of terrorism on the Assembly's agenda after China and the Soviet Union vetoed a Security Council resolution because it took note of the Arab terrorist attack on the Israeli Olympic team at Munich. The United States then vetoed the measure because reference to the Munich incident had been deleted.

China and the Soviet Union suffered a setback last night when the steering committee, which gives preliminary consideration to proposed agenda items, voted to shelve the Korean question and leave it to the authorities of North and South Korea to settle their own problems.

Deferred until at least next year were Communist-backed proposals to dissolve the 22-year-old U.N. commission for the unification and rehabilitation of Korea and to order withdrawal of 40,000 U.S. troops in South Korea, remnents of the 16-nation force that fought against Communism under the U.N. flag there 20 years ago.

U.S. diplomats were confident the assembly, which will meet Friday to consider the steering committee's agenda proposals, would uphold the 16-7 vote, with France abstaining, on the Korean question.

About 80 per cent of the books published in Brazil are sold in Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo.

Liberalized Benefits Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Payroll taxes would rise sharply next year to pay for a broad liberalization of Social Security and Medicare health insurance benefits under provisions approved Wednesday by the Senate Finance Committee.

The committee is expected to complete action on the measure today or Friday after approving other provisions replacing the welfare system with a "work-or- else" program. Senate debate may start next week.

Improvements approved Wednesday—many over the administration's opposition—call for providing some drugs to the elderly at a charge of $1 a prescription, raising pensions for widows by 17.5 per cent, providing Medicare coverage to the disabled and guaranteeing pensions of $200 a month to people who worked all their lives at poverty-level wages.

But $6 billion must be raised in additional taxes to pay for the changes and doing so will take a bigger chunk out of every worker's paycheck and increase the tax burden of employers, starting Jan. 1.

Well-paid workers will see withholding rise by $180 a year in 1973 and more in 1974.

The maximum tax, paid by those earning $10,800, would go to $648 from its present $468. The tax had been scheduled to rise next year anyway, but not that sharply. In 1974, the tax would go to $720 for those who earn $12,000 or more.

Since Congress increased all benefits by 20 per cent this summer, effective Oct. 1, the new measure carries no across-the-board increase for the 28 million people who draw Social Security checks.

The new provisions would:

—Allow people over 65 covered by Medicare to buy drugs for the treatment of chronic, long-term diseases at a cost of $1 for each prescription.

—Raise from $1,680 to $2,400 the amount a pensioner could earn with no loss of his Social Security benefits. But 74 senators are co-sponsoring a bill to put that figure at $3,000.

77 Streptococcus Cases Reported

Seventy-seven cases of streptococcus infection and 31 of gonorrhea topped the list of communicable disease cases reported in Marin County for the week ending Friday, according to Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Novato reported 34 streptococcus infections, San Rafael 15.

Suspect In Robbery Pleads

One of three men charged with robbing an invalid June 28 pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

A preliminary hearing for Leonard Franklin Pyles, 20, of Pittsburg, was scheduled for Oct. 3.

Pyles was arrested Sept. 9 by Petaluma police on suspicion of participating in the robbery of a 79-year-old television repairman.

San Rafael police said four persons gained entry to the San Rafael home of Ralph D. Hoy on the pretext of needing a television repaired, then held a toy gun to his head and demanded money.

The four took $300 and fled in a car which police traced.

On July 11, San Rafael police arrested Paul Brent Caldwell, 25, of Sonoma, and Danny Ray Pyles, 23, of San Rafael. Trial for the two is scheduled for the week of Oct. 24 in Marin Superior Court.

A 13-year-old boy believed to have been involved was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Prop. 17 Foes Name Chairman

Richard C. Sloan of Woodacre has been named Marin chairman of Californians Against Proposition 17, the initiative on the November ballot to restore the death penalty.

Sloan, a trustee of the Lagunitas School District, was selected by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco. Moscone is statewide chairman of the group opposing the proposition.

A former counselor at San Quentin State Prison, Sloan works now as a carpenter.

Finance chairmen of the Marin campaign are Evelyn Schaaf and Yogi Overton.

Moscone will discuss the proposition at 8 p.m. on Oct. 19 in the Edgewater Inn, Corte Madera. The meeting will be sponsored by the Marin branch of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Board Approves Phone Referral

A proposal of the Marin Suicide Prevention Center to establish an information and referral telephone service that could direct callers to proper sources of help was unanimously endorsed last night by the Mental Health Advisory Board of Marin County.

The suicide prevention center has been gathering endorsements of its proposal before it takes the plan to the board of supervisors, said a mental health board spokesman.

The plan calls for a comprehensive telephone service to operate Monday through Friday from 5 p.m. to 8 a.m. and all day Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

The mental health board also approved the county mental health plan for next year, without dissent.

Protest Against Redevelopment

Concerned over possible impact of redevelopment agencies on school district finances, members of the Marin Association of School Administrators decided yesterday to protest their formation to the board of supervisors and all city councils.

Association president Ralph D. Giovanniello, superintendent of the Reed Union School District, said he was directed to write to the supervisors protesting "the redevelopment concept", with copies to all 11 city councils.

Members began their meeting with a memorium to former president Anthony Bacich, superintendent of the Kentfield district who died Tuesday.

Year's Largest Test Detonated

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI)— The largest underground test conducted this canendar year was detonated today at the bottom of a 1,800-foot shaft in this remote area of the Nevada Test Site.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the test was "weapons related" and had a yield of 20 to 200 kilotons, meaning a maximum equivalent of 200,000 tons of TNT. The tremor from the blast caused some motion in high rise buildings in Las Vegas some 75 miles south of the test site.

All other announced tests this year have been 20 kilotons or less.

SHEPHERD

they share the same staff.

(The boards declined, however, to phone for advice from either of their attorneys each retained at $8,000 per year.)

Shepherd's salary increase came after more than an hour of discussion in which some board members questioned the 17 per cent raise.

Philip S. Ehrlich Jr., a housing authority board member, said he would support increasing the salary but noted it was only slightly less than that paid top county department heads.

He said he questioned the propriety of disregarding a state salary study which put the executive director's top salary at $21,204 after five years. Shepherd now will receive that amount after only 18 months on the job.

The director of the county welfare department has worked 20 years, and heads a larger organization but makes only slightly more, Ehrlich said.

The head of the county public works department, a licensed engineer, also makes only slightly more — about $24,000 a year, Ehrlich said.

Shepherd also drew criticism from board member Norman D. Campbell who said he couldn't support the raise because he thought there was a "lack of performance" by Shepherd during the past year.

He questioned why several projects — such as the move of offices from Marin City to San Rafael — had been delayed. "That move should have taken two weeks and it's been two months already and we are still in Marin City," he said.

Campbell, who cast the lone vote aginast the raise, said he wanted an analysis of work performance before considering a salary increase.

Housing authority chairman Arthur Miller defended Shepherd, saying he had performed adequately in the face of opposition from elements of the Marin City Community.

Miller was joined by boardmembers Collie Gaines and James O. Quiett of the redevelopment agency in praising Shepherd's administration of the two agencies.

"He has performed great under the circumstances and the boards have been part of the circumstances," Mrs. Gaines said.

Following adjournment of the joint meeting, the housing authority board reconvened and was approached by Melvin Randolph, a former housing authority employee, asking for a hearing on his dismissal last May.

Shepherd told the board that Randolph formerly the Marin City housing manager, hadn't been dismissed but, instead, lost his job in a reorganization of the agency.

The executive director later noted, however, that the reorganization was used to get rid of Randolph without causing him the embarrassment of being fired.

Randolph, a long-time employee of the agency, charged he had been dismissed unfairly under the guise of reorganization. He said he was in the hospital at the time he lost his job and that if he was, in fact, fired he had a right to a hearing. He said a formal request was made June 1 in a letter to the agency but he had not received an answer.

Shepherd said that under the personnel manual, the executive director had the right to hire and fire employees. If the board granted the hearing, he said, it would be usurping his powers as executive director.

Randolph countered, however, that the personnel manual provision cited by Shepherd were adopted after he lost his job.

SCHOOLS SHUT FOR FUNERAL OF BACICH

All Kentfield schools will be closed tomorrow, the day of the funeral for Anthony G. Bacich, superintendent of Kentfield School District, who died Tuesday.

The funeral will be held at 10 a.m. at Blessed Sacrament Church, 160 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia.

The district board will meet in closed session today immediately after a rosary service at 8 p.m. at the church and select an interim superintendent.

PROBE

Averett in overhauling cash revolving account procedures, and asserted a summary sheet detailing revolving expenditures would be developed for the finance committee.

The city manager noted that officials are required to refund portions of advance reimbursements not spent, but that such refunds are not presently recorded on original vouchers.

"We're going to set up a cross-reference system on original vouchers so that when refunds are made we can determine whether in fact an expense took place," McCown said. He said that while qualified accountants had no problem with the city's record system, outsiders found it confusing.

Averett said last week that such a system of annotations had not been made because it was an improper accounting procedure.

Finance committee chairman Barbier was less sure yesterday of what changes would be made regarding the cash revolving account.

Barbier backed Miskimen and McCown in urging a summary sheet of revolving expenses be provided for council scrutiny, but said he did not know what else would be changed. "Once I find out what's involved in the revolving account, I'll make recommendations, but until then I can't say how it'll be changed," said Barbier, who has been on the finance committee since 1963.

The revolving account was set up about seven years ago to pay for day-to-day expenses incurred by city officials while on city business, according to Averett. Merged last July with the city's payroll trust account, the revolving account pays for conferences, luncheons, training courses, travel expenses including gas, airfare and hotel accommodations, and library postage, among others. Also paid from the account are "payroll trusts," or early payment of salaries to employees taking paid leave or vacation.

The account exists to take care of expenses that occur between council meetings and before council authority is given, according to Averett. A check is drawn aginst the account, and the account is replenished at the next council meeting through finance committee approval of expenses, Averett said.

More than $19,000 flowed through the cash revolving account in the last fiscal year, in addition to a $1,500 seed fund.

Sausalito Council Lowers Speed Limit

The Sausalito City Council, on the recommendation of City Engineer Norman Wohlschlaeger, has declined to reduce the speed limit on Bridgeway between Napa and Easterby streets from 35 to 25 miles per hour.

Some residents in the area complained at Tuesday, council meeting that the 35-mile-per-hour speed endangered pets and children.

Judge Allows Battery Plea

Four peninsula men who had been charged with kidnap were allowed to plead guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a misdemeanor count of battery.

Judge Peter Allen Smith accepted the pleas from James Tsopanakis and Eugene Garza, both 20 and from San Francisco, Eric Carlisle, 21, of Menlo Park, and Gerry Estrada, 20, of San Jose, then set sentencing for Oct. 27.

All were arrested April 16 by the California Highway Patrol after a beer can was tossed from the window of their vehicle. The patrol reported that after the car was stopped near the Corte Madera offramp of Highway 101 a San Francisco woman inside began screaming she had been kidnapped.

Misdemeanor Charges Filed

Only misdemeanor charges of possessing marijuana and drug injecting equipment have been filed against a 20-year-old Michigan resident arrested during a traffic stop Monday.

Joy Lynn Campbell pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court yesterday and her case was continued to Oct. 4 for pretrial conference.

Miss Campbell was arrested after the car in which she was a passenger was stopped for having a broken taillight. The arresting sheriff's deputy said he smelled marijuana and found possible marijuana and a hypodermic kit among Miss Campbell's possessions.

Investment Company Given An Extension

The Mill Valley Planning Commission last night granted the Cal-Fong Investment Company an additional year's time to submit precise plans and file a subdivision map for a proposed 109-unit apartment development in the Alto Bowl area.

Planning Secretary Evelyn B. McCrary said the development firm had not wanted to prepare plans or a map at this time because of the present moratorium on new sewer connections in Southern Marin.

OBITUARIES

James B. Elzey Dies In Germany

Funeral arrangements for Retired Navy Lt. James Bradley Elzey of Corte Madera are pending at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

He died unexpectedly Monday while on vacation in Germany. He was with his wife, Dorothy Lee Elzey, and had been in Germany only six days.

Elzey was born in Philadephia and enlisted in the Navy in 1928. He was on board the battleship Pennsylvania during the attack on Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941. He served on the carrier Coral Sea and the command ship El Dorado in the Pacific during World War II. He retired from the Navy in 1953.

Since then Elzey had been an engineer for the California Divison of Highways. He had lived in California for 30 years, making his home at 279 Golden Hind Passage since 1961.

Elzey was a member of the Naval Order of the United States, San Francisco Commandery; Retired Officers Association of Washington D.C., and the Marin County Retired Officers Association.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Lee Ann Zernik of Novato; a sister, Jane Lee Morrison of Bristol, Tenn., and two grandchildren.

DOROTHY McFARLANE

Mass for Dorothy McFarlane, San Rafael resident for the past 32 years, will be at 9 a.m. Saturday at St. Ambrose Church at Cornell and Gilman Streets, Berkeley.

Mrs. McFarlane died Tuesday in a local hospital after a long illness.

She was born in San Francisco and later moved to San Rafael. She was a claims adjuster for the State of California for 26 years prior to her retirement.

She was a member of the California State Employees Association and St. Anthony's Dining Room Guild.

She is survived by a son, Thomas J. McFarlane of Albany; a daughter, Marie T. Burton of Lancaster, Los Angeles County; two sisters, Ann Jones of Hayward and Stella Zumwalt of Novato; a brother, Frank Jones of San Francisco and 10 grandchildren.

Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Ellis-Olson Mortuary, 727 San Pablo Avenue, Albany. Burial will be private.

MATILDA MENEGUZZI

Graveside funeral service for Matilda F. Meneguzzi, mother of Joanne Priolo of Rohnert Park and Rosemary Alioto of Terra Linda was held yesterday at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

She died Sunday in a San Francisco hospital after a long illness.

She was born in San Francisco 55 years ago. She had lived all her life in the Bay area.

She is also survived by her husband, John Meneguzzi; another daughter, Josephine Park; a son, Dante Angelo Meneguzzi, all of Burlingame and 11 grandchildren.

Memorial contributions to the American Heart Association would be preferred by the family.

HENRY CHANG

Funeral for Henry Yin Chang, father of Darlene Lau of Mill Valley, will be at 11 a.m. Saturday at Cathay Mortuary at 1213 Powell Street, San Francisco.

Chang died Saturday in a San Francisco hospital. He was 67.

He was born in China and had lived in San Francisco for the past 17 years. He had been a merchant seaman.

He was a director of Chinese Six Companies and Gway Sen Association and Marine Cooks and Stewards' Union.

He is also survived by his wife, Moo Hin Chang; a son, Wilson Chang; three other daughters, Susan, Donna, and Lisa; three brothers, Sing Leong, Sing Ho and Sing Oi Chang, all of San Francisco.

Burial will be in the Six Companies Cemetery in Colma.

C. F. STAUFFACHER

Funeral for Charles F. Stauffacher, father of Charles F. Stauffacher Jr. of San Rafael, was held yesterday in Los Altos.

Stauffacher died at his home Monday. He was 90.

He was a native of Monroe, Wis., and a resident of California for about 74 years.

After arriving in California in 1898, he went to work for an uncle, who owned the Fink and Schindler Co. of San Francisco. He was continuously employed by the company — which manufactures equipment for offices, stores and banks — for 71 years. By the time he retired, in 1969, he was owner and president.

His son, Charles F. Stauffacher Jr. is now owner and president.

In addition to his son, Stauffacher is survived by his wife, Lili of Los Altos; a daughter, Jane Farina of San Carlos; three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Private funeral was held at Spangler Mortuary in Los Altos and burial was at the Cypress Lawn Cemetery in Colma.

The family prefers contributions to the Heart Fund.

MINNIE NEIMEYER

Minnie K. Neimeyer, 81, of Novato, widow of Milton H. Neimeyer, died Tuesday at a local convalescent hospital after a long illness.

Inurnment was at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael, and at her request, services won't be held.

Mrs. Neimeyer of 489 Gage Lane had been a resident of Novato since 1946 and previously lived in Wood, Siskiyou County. She was a native of Bradbecks, Pa.

She was a member of White Pine chapter, 487, Order of the Eastern Star, in Weed.

Surviving are two stepdaughters, Helen Carleton of Long Beach, Los Angeles County, and Naoma Packwood of Susanville, Lassen County, and two stepsons, Robert Neimeyer of Wrangel, Alaska, and Eugene Neimeyer of Salem, Ore.

MRS. SHILEIKIS

Eugenia Frances Shileikis of 423 Cedarhill Drive, San Rafael, died in a Redwood City hospital yesterday after a five-week illness. She was 48.

A Marin resident for four years, she had been a deputy clerk in the Marin County Sheriff's Department for a year.

Born in China of American parents, she came to California in 1949 and lived in San Francisco. She was a member of the Marin County Employees and Marin County Sheriff's associations.

She is survived by her husband, George Shileikis, and her son, James Alfonse Shileikis, both of the family home; by two daughters, Georgia Jeanne of San Francisco and Mary Louise of Santa Rosa; by her parents, Oleg and Valentine Matkovsky, and her sister, Valentine Bank, all of Daly City.

Funeral will be Saturday at 9:30 a.m. at Church of the Nativity, 240 Fell Street, San Francisco, where a Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Keaton Chapel, San Rafael.

How $24 Can Become A Million

LITTLE FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) —Ticket No. 8186082 in the state's "instant millionaire" lottery changed the lives of John and Anna Mizerak Wednesday.

Their income will rise from a Social Security pension to $50,000 a year for the rest of their lives, or a minimum of $1 million.

Mizerak, 76, is a blind retiree from a local knitting mill who immigrated to the United States, "more years ago than I remember."

"Miracle! Miracle! Miracle!" was all the east European native could say when his son, John Jr., 40, told him of his good fortune.

Mrs. Mizerak bought eight $3 tickets. Her reaction was much like her husband's: "It's just a miracle. Now we can remodel the house."

The new millionaires live in a tidy two-story frame house on quiet Loomis Street in this upstate city of 9,000.

Mizerak, who can only leave the house when accompanied by his wife or son because of his sight problem, appeared to be stunned as newsmen, neighbors and well-wishers pushed into their small living room.

One reporter offered his hand in congratulations and Mizerak grasped it and kissed it.

Mrs. Mizerak carried the winning ticket in the pocket of her house dress for two hours after learning that she had won, until a reporter suggested that it be put in a safety deposit box.

Miss New York State, Judith Ann Keithley, helped pick the winning ticket at the World Trade Center in New York, and lottery officials determined it was sold at the Arvid Sodergren Jewelers shop in Little Falls.

The ticket holder will get $50,000 a year for life. If he dies before receiving $1 million the balance will be paid to his estate.

FOR ONLY $4,000

Library Renovated, Now Multi-Purpose

For $4,000 a 60-year-old "beat-up nothing" multipurpose hall at Larkspur Corte Madera School has been transformed into a multi-media library and much more.

It's a colorful, carpeted place where children can go on rainy days, a center for plays and films and art displays and suppet shows. It's a meeting hall for the PTA and the Larkspur-Corte Madera School District board and teachers, and community groups.

It's also, of course, full of books.

"It really was an "old beat up nothing" before," said district Supt. Milton S. Cohen. "Built before the 1920s, and used as a multi-purpose hall for PTA and class meetings. Now it's the focal point for the whole school."

The facility was renovated in time for the first day of school last week, with turquoise carpeting, vividly painted walls in cerise, green and yellow, and a raised carpeted stage at one end.

Facilities include a listening center, records and film loops — with projectors that the kids can check out and take home overnight.

The library is turning out to be a genuine multiuse facility, with a district wide teachers' meeting set for it next month, plus other events, said Cohen.

It's open all day and after school, and children come in at recess and lunchtime too. Teachers bring whole classes in, and work closely with district librarian Barbara Dillon. The district's building librarian, Esther Woll, works at Neil Cummins and San Clemente schools.

"Each of our four libraries has a library clerk, which frees the two librarians to work directly with the youngsters and teachers," explained Cohen." They don't sit and do clerical jobs, they excite kids to the use and enjoyment of books and how to use a library. They read to the kids, study poetry with them, show them how to look up information. Children going through these schools won't have any trouble in high school or public libraries using card catelogs."

A few years ago the district's four schools possessed a total of two or three books a child, said Cohen, but now they meet the American Association of School Library standards of 20 books per child. Over 100,000 items were circulated in the district last year.

Mrs. Dillon, who also works at the Henry C. Hall school library, said the library isn't expected to maintain the traditional silence, "a certain level of noise is fine."

This year it's hoped to continue expanding student-produced audio visual materials, added Mrs. Dillon. Two years ago this started at Neil Cummins with slides and tapes; now it's spread to the district's four schools with students making 8mm movies at both Henry C. Hall and Larkspur-Corte Madera.

"And we'll have puppet, and slide shows, movies, drama and story telling and poetry sessions," she predicted.

Motorcycle Stolen From Larkspur Lot

A 1968 Triumph motorcycle was stolen from the Silver Peso parking lot on Magnolia Avenue on Monday night, Larkspur police reported today.

The motorbike is owned by Michael Lindell Brady of 59 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera.

Northern Front Tour By Thieu

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu, who just missed being hit by Communist artillery at Quang Tri City Wednesday, flew today to the central coast where Communist troops hours earlier attacked three district towns. The president, on a two-day tour of the northern battlefront, visited the province capital of Quang Ngai City 318 miles northeast of Saigon. The Communists last weekend shifted the emphasis of their offensive to the region and heavy fighting has been under way south of Quang Ngai City for six days.

The U.S. command in Saigon announced today that no Americans were killed in Vietnam combat last week and that seven men were wounded. It was the lowest overall weekly casualty toll of the war for the United States.

Command spokesmen said monsoon weather limited air strikes to 210 Wednesday over North Vietnam. They said pilots destroyed 20 warehouses in the Thanh Hoa-Vinh area, 137 to 210 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ). The closest raid to Hanoi was 30 miles to the south where Navy pilots reported knocking out or damaging six buildings at the Lang Loc army installation.

A command spokesman said a Navy A7 Corsair jet developed engine trouble during the raids and crashed into the Tonkin Gulf. The pilot, Lt. Stanley F. Bloyer, 26, of Ripley, Ohio, parachuted into the sea within sight of two U.S. 7th Fleet vessels and was rescued unhurt within 18 minutes.

Thieu told UPI reporter Edward Bassett that government forces had "the situation in hand" despite the attacks earlier today on the three towns. He arrived from Da Nang with Lt. Gen. Ngo Quang Truong, the South Vietnamese commander in the five northernmost provinces known as Military Region I.

Communist troops staged an all-night assault on Ba To, 25 miles southwest of Quang Ngai City, and by dawn today had partially captured a government ranger compound in the district town, field reports said. A South Vietnamese spokesman said at least 403 Communists were killed in the fighting He put government losses at eight dead and 36 wounded but reported no other details of the fighting.

900,000 Ford Vehicles Recalled

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. today announced it is recalling 900,000 1972 model cars and light trucks in an attempt to locate some 200 vehicles with suspected power steering malfunctions.

Ford said it also has instructed dealers to inspect the steering mechanisms of all early-production 1973 intermediate, standard-sized and luxury cars and light trucks and 1972 vehicles in stock before delivering them to customers.

A total of five malfunctions have been discovered on late 1972 and early 1973 model cars, none involving accidents or injuries, Ford said. The cause was traced to an omitted steering gear manufacturing operation.

Involved in the recall are 1972 model Torinos, Montegos, Fords, Mercurys, Thunderbirds, Lincoln Continentals, Mark IVs, Rancheros and light trucks built since March 1.

No GIs Die During Week In Viet War

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. command said today there were no American soldiers killed in the Vietnam war last week. It was the first time since the United States entered the ground war phase in Vietnam more than seven years ago that no American combat deaths were reported.

Last week's casualty toll of seven wounded and none killed is the lowest in the records of the U.S. command, which go back to Jan. 1, 1965. The last time there were no American deaths over a weekly period was March 1, 1965, when the United States officially entered the war.

The U.S. combat role in the Vietnam war ended last month but the air war is at the highest pitch ever.

Ground fighting for the week ending Saturday took its toll of Vietnamese soldiers, however, with 409 government and 4,625 Communist troops reported killed. In addition, 1,710 South Vietnamese were reported wounded.

Call For Cease Fire By U.S. Negotiator

PARIS (UPI)—The United States called on the Vietnamese Communists today to agree to an internationally-supervised cease-fire in all of Indochina and to begin direct political negotiations with South Vietnam.

U.S. peace negotiator William J. Porter told Hanoi and Viet Cong diplomats the latest Communist call for the creation of a tripartite coalition cabinet in Saigon with Viet Cong participation will not be accepted.

Porter, denouncing the demand as designed to assure a Viet Cong political and military takeover, said the most practical way to peace was a cease-fire and direct talks between the warring South Vietnamese factions as demanded by Washington and Saigon.

Porter, speaking at the 160th Vietnam conference session, said Communist calls for a three-segment coalition cabinet to be formed after the dismissal of President Nguyen Van Thieu and a complete U.S. military pullout "would, if achieved, lead neither to peace nor to self-determination for the south Vietnamese population."

"Instead, prolonged warfare and Communist dictatorship by the north would be the clearly predictable consequences," he said.

Porter added, "By contrast, the need for an internationally supervised cease-fire throughout Indochina, and the subsequent resolution of political questions throughout discussions among the Vietnamese themselves, has become even more apparent than before."

Porter said the Viet Cong, in their latest call for a tripartite coalition or "national concord" cabinet, called for a pledge that none of the contesting political factions should seek the elimination of the other by physical violence.

Such a non-elimination guarantee, Porter said, can come only through an impartially controlled cease-fire.

Peevy, Giacomini To Debate Oct. 4

A debate between Fourth Supervisorial District candidates Michael R. Peevey and Gary T. Giacomini will be held at noon on Oct. 4 in the Straw Hat Pizza Palace, Larkspur, according to Larkspur City Councilman Joan Sestak, who is organizing the event.

The Independent-Journal Tuesday carried two stories, one listing the correct place and the other giving it as in Mrs. Sestak's home.

Chrysler Aims For New Smog Curb Device By '75

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. has announced two major steps toward equipping its 1975 models with catalytic converter emission control devices, including a multimullion dollar purchase from Russia.

Chrysler said Wednesday it has contracted through an international trading company to purchase 100,000 troy ounces of palladium, a metal akin to platinum, from the Soviet Union. Delivery was set for 1973.

Auto industry sources said the cost of palladium was "in the same ballpark" as platinum, which costs $130 per ounce. A troy ounce weighs 480 grains, compared with the 437 grains in the ordinary ounce.

Chrysler said it also signed an agreement with Universal Oil Products Co. of Des Plaines, Ill., to begin engineering work on a factory to produce catalytic converters—muffler-like devices containing chemicals to change exhaust gases into harmless carbon dioxide and water. The auto makers see the converters as the only way to meet stiff 1975 emission standards set by the federal government.

In 1871, Alcorn A & M College at Lorman, Miss., became the nation's first state-supported college for Negroes.

Board Asks Voice In Rezonings

The Cotati School District board has asked a voice in proposed residential rezonings to protect itself from student crowding.

Board Secretary Miriam Horne said the board on Tuesday adopted a resolution asking the Cotati and Rohnert Park City councils to submit requests for residential rezonings to the board for impact reports. The board has been receiving subdivision plans only for comment.

The board also approved a resolution urging residents of the two cities to bring pressure on their city councils to share costs in providing portable classrooms for interim school housing.

Schools Supt. James H. Davidson said opening day enrollment of 1,695 students had jumped to 1,826 in two weeks. He projected even faster growth as more subdivision homes become occupied.

Davidson said he had met with representatives of the state board of allocations on the possibility of building an eight-classroom school in the Holiday Park area, but noted that interim classroom space must be provided within two years.

In other business, the board approved adding a fourth bus to handle the increased enrollment and hired two new teachers. They are Gayle M. Bulger, to be paid an annual salary of $6,969, and Suzanne Cosette, whose pay has not been determined.

Tools Worth $265 Taken From Store

Tools valued at $265 were taken between 5 p.m. Monday and 5:23 a.m. Tuesday from San Rafael Sales at 513 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, police reported.

Patrolmen found the garage had been broken into and called the owner, George Steinert, who listed the items missing, according to police reports.

Guilty Plea To Property Concealment

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Three San Franciscans charged with receiving stolen property including a valuable painting from Kentfield and an antique clock from Sausalito entered guilty pleas to some of the charges in San Francisco Superior Court and will be sentenced Oct. 6.

Gary Webb, 26, pleaded guilty to receiving stolen goods and a drug charge. Gary and Norma Schlemme, both 24, pleaded guilty to one drug charge. Other charges against the trio were dismissed. They had pleaded not guilty in May.

They and another man, Villard Martin III, were arrested in a raid on the Schlemme home April 18 in which large quantities of drugs and stolen property were seized, according to police.

Included in property confiscated were a $30,000 painting taken March 28 from a Kentfield residence and an 18th century clock stolen in Sausalito.

Salt Sued By Accident Victim

I-J Special Report

SANTA MARIA — Haddon N. Salt of San Rafael, founder of H. Salt's Fish and Chips, has been sued in northern district Santa Barbara County Superior Court today for $150,000 for injuries suffered by a pedestrian in an auto accident last May.

The suit was filed by Thomas Park Neely, 43, of San Marino, who was struck by a car allegedly driven by Salt at 9:30 p.m. on May 7 on Highway 246 outside Solvang. Both of Neely's legs were broken and he suffered head injuries. The suit charges Satl with negligence. It says he was driving a rented car at the time of the accident.

A California Highway Patrol report on the accident said Neely was hit when about six feet onto the roadway.

Oregon 'Bottle Bill' Date Is Upheld

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—An Oregon "bottle bill" aimed at reducing litter by the re-use of containers goes into effect next month despite a pending suit by brewers and soft drink producers, the Oregon Court of Appeals ruled Tuesday.

Opponents of the measure had wanted the effective Oct. 1 date delayed until the appeals court held hearings on whether the law was constitutional.

The suit to overturn the law passed by the 1971 Oregon Legislature was filed by can and bottle manufacturers, brewers and soft drink producers and claimed the law discriminated against their industries and was an unjustified interference with interstate commerce.

WHERE IS IT? — Apartments proliferate on Bon Air Hill with a bewildering variety of postal addresses, so bewildering, in fact, that no one knows which fire department to call; next door neighbors may live in Kentfield or Greenbrae or San Rafael or Larkspur, yet may all be within Larkspur Fire Department's jurisdiction — but then again they might not. Only the fire departments know for sure. Said one fireman, "My department might be taking care of a house on some street, then skip two or three before coming to another. My department may have houses on one side of a street, and another department the other side." (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

Firemen Explain Mix-Up Door To Door

By PAT PERRY

If you live in Greenbrae or if your mailing address is Kentfield or even San Rafael, don't be surprised if a Larkspur fireman rings your doorbell soon — he's your legal fireman.

The mixed-up postal addresses of the Greenbrae and Bon Air areas have got residents so confused that hardly any of them know they should call the Larkspur Fire Department in an emergency; according to Larkspur Fire Chief William C. Shurtz.

So in an attempt to clear up the confusion all Larkspur's firemen, paid and volunteers, have begun going from door to door distributing fire protection brochures, and issuing fire call telephone number stickers.

The location of greatest muddle is in Greenbrae and the Bon Air Hill apartment areas. Residents have all kinds of postal addresses — Kentfield, Greenbrae, San Rafael — yet they're all within the city limits of Larkspur, and under its fire protection.

The mixup arose some ten years ago said Asst. Chief William C. Lellis, when Larkspur's little post office was unable to handle the growing Bon Air and Greenbrae area because carriers couldn't cross the creek. It was easier to get mail delivered from Kentfield or San Rafael.

By the time Bon Air Bridge was constructed the postal addressing system was "locked in" said Lellis, and too difficult to change.

The effect is that next-door apartments can have postal addresses of Kentfield and San Rafael. A house at number 30 can be Kentfield, the next one, at 32, Larkspur.

The towering Tamalpais Retirement Residence has a Greenbrae address, but is in Larkspur's city limits. Apartments on Bon Air Hill are postally in Kentfield but physically in Larkspur.

"What happens is that if you have a heart attack case for instance," said Lellis, "a resident will call the Kentfield Fire Department for assistance, knowing their address is Kentfield.

"Then Kentfield will have to notify us to turn out, and precious minutes are lost. "Every minute counts."

Work on the firemen's public relations project began this week, said Lellis, with firemen carrying out a door-to-door public education campaign.

Reactions from residents range from astonishment to disbelief, according to Lellis, when told they are in Larkspur's jurisdiction.

Firemen also are telling people about the department's other services besides firefighting, including rescue, first aid, resuscitation, fire prevention inspections and home and school programs.

And they're distributing special instructions on fire escape from apartments. Lellis said it's estimated at least 1,000 apartment units are involved in the confused address situation.

FBI's Grapp Is 'Granted Request For Retirement'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Wesley G. Grapp, former head of the FBI office in Los Angeles who was censured and suspended recently for defying orders by Acting Director L. Patrick Gray and for bugging his own office, is retiring, Gray said today.

Gray announced in a lengthy statement that Grapp, 54, a veteran of more than 25 years service, had been granted a request to retire effective next Tuesday. Gray said Grapp's censure and suspension had been withdrawn but that both would remain part of Grapp's file.

Gray stressed in his statement that Grapp's failure to adhere to his policy relaxing former director J. Edgar Hoover's strict groom and dress standards —like length of hair —constituted "a direct violation of orders regularly and lawfully issued" by him.

Grapp's retirement means the veteran agent, who headed the nation's second largest FBI office for eight years, will leave government with a rating of GS18 which carries a $36,000 annual salary. His retirement benefits will not be affected. Gray had reduced him to GS13, which carries a top salary of $24,362.

Grapp, a native of Aberdeen, S.D., was demoted Aug. 25 as chief of the Los Angeles office for telling several agents to shave off their mustaches and reportedly boasting that he did not intend to abide by Gray's orders.

Temporary Inspector Decides To Retire

Mill Valley's temporary building inspector, Milton Reed, quit his job and retired when he was notified recently that it was unlikely he would be offered the permanent position.

Reed had filled the temporary post since the departure of former building inspector Henry E. Anderson, who is now chief building inspector of Petaluma.

Reed left last Thursday after working for the city for 39 days.

According to planning director Tom W. Newton, he did not score well on the exam administered to all candidates for the permanent position.

When Newton informed Reed of his score, the 62-year-old inspector decided to retire immediately.

Reed had previously spent 23 months in Mill Valley as building inspector during the construction of the new Mill Valley Middle School.

Newton told the Independent-Journal yesterday that he expects to advertise the vacancy widely and hire a permanent inspector by the end of October.

In the interim, another part-time inspector, Richard Shelley, has been hired to work two days each week. Newton said there will be no interruption in the building inspection process while the search for a new man is under way.

Shelley, who is also 62, recently retired after 11 years with the Marin County Planning Department. He will be paid about $140 per month, said Newton.

New Papaya Drug Getting Results

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—A bone specialist says a drug made from papaya can dissolve spinal cord tissues damaged by an injury, possibly eliminating the need of surgery for reducing pain.

Dr. Edward H. Mills said that good results have been achieved with 83 of 100 back patients given the drug chymopapain. He told the Washington State Medical Association Wednesday the Food and Drug Administration is presently investigating the drug for safety and usefulness.

The drug can be injected into the damaged spinal disc to dissolve or digest the damaged tissue and eliminate pain, said Mills. He said that although some unwanted side affects were noted, the drug involved less risk than surgery.

Reed School District Approves Joint Powers

The Reed School District board last night approved a joint powers agreement with the town of Corte Madera to build two tennis courts at Granada School.

Under the agreement, the school district will supply the land and Corte Madera will pay the $28,000 construction cost.

According to Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello, the project will include two tennis courts, landscaping and a road down from Prince Royal Passageway.

The construction will be completed by the end of October, said Giovanniello.

At the request of the superintendent, the board also considered hiring an additional teacher to teach a combined class of kindergarten, first grade and second grade students at the Belvedere School.

Currently, those three grades have 89 students who overburden the school's three teachers, said Giovanniello.

Of the three board members present at the meeting, two voted to hire the new teacher. In the absence of a clear majority of the full board, the three members decided to reconsider the additional teacher at an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. today.

The board also endorsed Tiburon's $1.25 million open space bond election because the acquired open land could be put to recreational and educational uses, said Giovanniello.

Americans conduct more than 75 per cent of their daily business by using personal checks, says the American Banker's Association.

Drinking Policeman Files Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Arthur T. Lord Jr., the whisky-drinking cop who said he got down a fifth a day as a cure for hives, has filed suit for the disability pay to which the city Retirement Board says he is entitled.

The suit, filed Wednesday in Superior Court, demands that the Police Department pay him $1,161 a month and names as defendants the Police Commission and Police Chief Donald M. Scott.

In ruling that the 45-year-old policeman — recently fined in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving on Highway 101 — was entitled to disability pay for 12 months, the board decided his drinking was job-related, that the tensions of patroling on a motorcycle made him so nervous that he broke out in hives and took to drink.

Objecting, the Police Department fired Lord, saying that such a ruling would make it possible for every cop with a hangover to claim disability pay.

"Let the Retirement Board pay him," said George Eimil, police personnel director. But the board has no funds for such payments and Walter Johnson, the retirement system's administrative assistant, contended: "It's up to the Police Department to pay disability checks for its disabled men from the police payroll."

Judge Ira A. Brown Jr., starting Tuesday, will make the decision.

Moscow Recalls Envoy In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)— Russian Ambassador Viktor Minine has been recalled to Moscow some 10 days after a junior embassy staff member with intelligence links defected to the Americans, informed Foreign Office sources said today.

The sources said Minine, who cut short a home leave in Russia to return to Vientiane last Saturday, has informed the Foreign Office of his recall and asked for an audience with King Savang Vatthana to say farewell.

The defector, Yevgeni Sorokin, 24, was interpreter and driver to the Russian military attache, Col. Vladimir P. Gretchanine. Sorokin defected to the Americans the evening of Sept. 10. He was flown out of Laos the next day and is now in the United States.

Guilt Found In Fairfax Assault

A Marin Superior Court jury has convicted Roger Elliott Lindman, 29, no known address, of assault with a deadly weapon but cleared him of robbery.

The jury deliberated almost five hours Tuesday in the court of Judge E. Warren McGuire.

Lindman was arrested by Fairfax police on June 21, the day after Bruce F. Grams of Fairfax told officers two men burst into his home, beat him and took $300.

Lindman was traced through the license number on the car used by the assailants, police said.

Defense Policies Draw Fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rejecting administration policy statements to the contrary, the McGovern Panel on National Security charged today that U.S. defense plans for the 1970s call for the United States "to undertake unilaterally the policeman's role throughout the world."

In a sharply-worded, 39-page report the panel appointed by Sen. George S. McGovern also charged President Nixon and his aides with poor defense management, excessive military spending, deliberate overstatement of the Soviet threat and misuse of recent nuclear arms limitation agreements "as a hunting license to stepup the arms race."

The panel pledged McGovern's support for NATO, Israel, Australia and New Zealand but said U.S. forces should be withdrawn from Korea, Vietnam and from other Pacific areas supporting the war in Indochina. While calling for major cutbacks in arms spending, the panelists said the federal government should start programs to employ former defense workers in solving domestic problems.

The report contended that the government could eliminate waste in defense spending and "still retain more than enough in nuclear forces to prevent any use of foreign nuclear power and more than enough in conventional forces to protect our vital interests abroad."

"Basic changes in the management of our military establishment are essential," the 10 co-chairmen and vice-chairmen of the panel said in a separate introductory statement.

They said if Nixon's defense policies are continued for four more years, the Pentagon budget will reach $100 billion by 1977.

By contrast, the panel cited as ideal the $54.8 billion defense budget for fiscal 1975 proposed by McGovern in January.

McGovern Will Return To War As Main Issue

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Sen. George McGovern has returned to the issue that built his national career with a powerful speech, charging the administration with "an assault on the decency and self-respect" of the American people by the bombing of Vietnam.

The 50-year-old nominee, who built his national career with a relentless crusade against American involvement in Vietnam, vowed that he would use the remainder of his campaign to remind Americans who might have forgotten that thousands of Asians are "burning, bleeding and dying" every day in a war which he said President Nixon promised to end.

Holding up cannisters for anti-personnel bombs he said were being used for the sole purpose of "penetrating human flesh." He promised "with every fiber of my being" to bring "every soldier, every bomb, every plane and every prisoner" out of southeast Asia within 90 days of his inauguration.

The speech, delivered in a solemn, almost ministerial tone that McGovern reserves exclusively for the war, was the first devoted entirely to Vietnam since the nomination. It brought an audience of about 500, some of whom sat with their heads buried in their hands, to their feet cheering for several minutes.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, who ran against McGovern in the primary, and who joined the McGovern campaign Wednesday, led the applause for a colleague who preceded him by several years in speaking out against the war.

The address—probably a preview of a nationwide television talk McGovern is planning to tape next week—seemed to breathe life into a campaign in which McGovern had come off sounding flat next to men like Muskie and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who introduced him.

Advisers to McGovern said he planned to stress the war more frequently in the coming days in a direct appeal to the conscience of the people.

They said Vietnam clearly was the one issue which revealed McGovern's personality and compassion to listeners.

In a speech to a small gathering of Southern New Jersey labor and political leaders this morning, McGovern said that if the United States would "put an end to killing, destruction, dying and waste" in Vietnam it would work to restore the nation to a prosperous economy and full employment.

He said it was time to "stop the bombing of South Vietnam and begin the building of America."

McGovern was up at dawn for an early morning tour of the RCA plant in Camden where he was greeted enthusiastically by several hundred workers. One man tried to stop him to ask for his views on amnesty and McGovern chatted with him briefly but moved on at the urging of his aides who wanted to avoid a repetition of Wednesday's long dialogue in Columbus with a severe critic of McGovern's Vietnam policies.

The plant workers, many of them wearing McGovern buttons distributed by an advance man before the candidate arrived, shouted at McGovern, "bring it home" and "no more war."

His next stop was New York City, where he scheduled a walking tour through Brooklyn, a meeting with Jewish leaders, and a handshaking stint at a Flushing subway stop.

Children, Dads To Hear Stories

Storytellers Tom Weller and Leif Glomset will read tales to children ages 2 to 6 and their fathers in the Corte Madera Regional Library from 10:30 to 11 a.m. Sept. 30.

Children's librarian Teddy Olwyler said mothers may come too, but the experiment is designed especially to lure fathers and their small fry into the brightly decorated story corner to sit on pillows, hear the yarns and get acquainted.

Weller is administrative supervisor of the radiology department at Kaiser Foundation Hospital; Glomset is a former Peace Corps volunteer and teacher.

Two Jailed In Petaluma Arson

Two Petaluma men were arrested last night on suspicion of arson after police said they tried to set fire to restrooms at Wickersham Park in Petaluma.

Gordon Willian Jensen, 22, of 230 Payran Street, and James Emmett Rolison, 19, of 300 Bodega Avenue, were booked into city jail for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Police said they were caught breaking windows in the building and had set fire to a window ledge. Officers said the youths were found at 10:45 p.m. with beer bottles filled with a flammable liquid and wicks. Damage was estimated at $25.

BARGE BARGES INTO BRIDGE

A 285-foot barge, after being broken away from a tug by strong winds early today, smashed a 60-foot gap in the roadway and pilings of the trestle of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel at Virginia Beach, Va. It was the third time since 1967 that the 17.6-mile complex was closed after being struck by a vessel. It will be closed for several days.

Pat Nixon Out West– 'No Long Hairs Here'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Pat Nixon is happy with the all-American "no long hairs here" crowds she has been attracting on her campaign tour of the West.

That might be because her crowds run to the very young and the old, with not many from the long hair generation.

The first lady, stumping in seven states on a western swing this week to re-elect the President, has been heartened by the youngsters who hold up signs reading: "We Are Pat People" and cheered by the senior citizens who tell her "We're going to vote for your husband."

But the college youth and protesters who four years ago cut classes to dog candidates and their wives on the hustings are missing this time around.

Mrs. Nixon makes it plain she likes the new "all American" look she has seen from Illinois to California.

She told an audience of several thousand who gathered to honor her at the Idaho Falls, Idaho, high school stadium Wednesday that the President and their daughter, Julie Eisenhower, told her they "didn't see any long hairs here" when they stopped in Idaho last year.

Pollster: Deceptions Corrected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A New York pollster testified today that a correction is promptly issued if a politician uses data from a private poll taken by the firm to make false claims about the popularity of his candidacy.

Oliver A. Quayle III told a House Administration subcommittee that in one case an unnamed governor who was trailing in several public polls announced the Quayle survey showed the election would be very close.

"He did not give any figures but his words were false," said Quayle. "We released the correct figures."

Quayle said that earlier this year his firm's private poll on the Wisconsin Democratic primary appeared incorrectly in press accounts and "We immediately supplied the correct figures and the details of our methodology."

Oliver Quayle and Company has completed over 10,000 political polls in the last 10 years, according to Quayle who emphazsied that politicians rarely misuse or abuse private polls.

He said that a candidate in a recent Senate race who was trailing in the Quayle polls "undertook a late, widespread telephone campaign that gave voters the impression that he had a poll showing him to be very close. That one turned out to be a survey of newspaper editorials and news stories around the state."

In another instance, Quayle said, a mayor trailing in the polls announced he was even with his opposition or slightly ahead on the basis of his own polls which turned out to be based on interviews by members of his own party apparatus.

"My major recommendation is that you direct your attention to the person who orders the poll and then makes it public either inaccurately or without making clear who did it and how it was done," Quayle said in his prepared testimony.

The subcommittee headed by Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., is considering a bill to require pollsters to file with the Library of Congress data about public polls.

Agnew: TV Debates Not Needed By Nixon

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has rejected suggestions that President Nixon step up his schedule of campaign trips and debate Sen. George S. McGovern on television.

The vice president told a news conference Wednesday that Nixon's record of accomplishments speaks for itself; that he does not need debates, and that his proper place is in Washington looking after the country's problems.

Agnew visited Columbus to speak before the Ohio Republican Convention, and he told the news conference a series of televised debates with McGovern would "serve no useful purpose and would help Sen. McGovern improve his recognition factor."

"Even three or four debates would bring out only a handful of questions," Agnew said. "The performance of the candidates would depend on their ability of the moment to be either sharp or flat on that particular day.

"The President has been on the tube a number of times explaining his policies, and there is just no need for a debate. Furthermore, it just isn't good politics, just as it wasn't when Barry Goldwater asked President Johnson to debate in 1964. It would serve no useful purpose and would help Sen. McGovern improve his recognition factor."

Agnew also rebuffed a suggestion that he debate his Democratic opponent, Sargent Shriver.

"He's on the trail, and I'm on the trail," Agnew said. "There's nothing on my mind that you fellows haven't been able to plumb or discover."

Asked why Nixon did not plan more campaign trips to keep up with his opponent, the vice president replied:

"We only have one President to deal with our nation's problems, and we need him in the White House. There's no dearth of information about the President."

An estimated 3,000 persons on their way home from work turned out to greet Agnew as he arrived at a downtown hotel across the street from the Statehouse.

Nonviolent Group Slates A Benefit

A benefit performance for the Bay Area Nonviolent Community, will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium at the Civic Center.

Old Tradition At The Faire

Lagunitas Woman Spins, Weaves Like Ancestors

A young woman in 16th Century dress, spinning yarn and weaving cloth at the Renaissance Pleasure Faire each weekend near Black Point is a modern version of her own forbears who wove and spun centuries ago.

For Rayven Hockett of Lagunitas (Mrs. Randall Smith) weaving and dyeing have been a tradition in the family for almost every generation on her mother's side since the first English settlements in North Carolina.

"Since almost every woman spun, wove and dyed in ancient times, it is probably safeto assume my ancestors also carried on these arts in Elizabethan times, just a few years before comming to the "New World" ", Rayven surmises.

FOR THE PAST year she has been concentrating on spinning and weaving tapestries, tubular gowns and one-piece capes while also teaching in a special arts program at San Rafael High School.

At the Renaissance Pleasure Faire, Rayven continues her gift of instruction, teaching fairegoers how to spin while, of course, offering her own yarns for sale.

"Most of those who want to learn spinning at the Faire are young girls from 10 to 14 although many high school and college girls also try their hand," she notes.

"There seems to be a reawakening interest in the older arts; and certainly spinning and weaving are among the earliest, born of necessity," Rayven adds.

Rayven teaches two methods of spinning at the Pleasure Faire; drop-spindle, which one can learn6in an hour; and wheel spinning, which is more complicated.

"The drop-spindle method requires the hand-twisting of fibres which then must be continually pulled and wound on a spindle-shaft," she explains.

"The wheel does two things for the spinner; twists the thread and winds it on the bobbin."

"The average four-ounce skein of yarn spun on a wheel takes about 15 minutes," Rayven adds.

The basic techniques of spinning, weaving and dyeing have changed little from Elizabethan times, although 20th Century spinning wheels offer some benefits," Rayven observes.

She, herself, spins on a Saxony wheel which Rayven believes may be 200 years old.

Reyven works with raw wool, mohair, camel, goat and yak hair, cotton and flax, silk and even dog hair.

Her aunt in Montana raises goats just for the hair. Wool she gets from New Zealand; silk, camel and yak hair from the Orient; and friends bring her Shepherd, Afghan and Poodle hair.

SHE MUST first tease or separate all the fibres and then cart (comb) them so that they are all parallel before spinning.

The dyeing process is next, which first means she must mordant the fibres to accept the dyes. To do this, she simmers the yarn with one of a number of materials such as alum, copper, tin or iron.

Rayven then prepares her dyes which she drops into a pot. She uses only organic materials for her dyes such as wood chips and roots which she boils overnigh, then strains and pours into the dyeing pot. All of this requires continuous research.

For instance, madder root is used for her reds and red-oranges; crushed Cochineal beattles provide a brilliant red and Cochineal with log wood chips or indigo give her purples.

RAYVEN HOCKETT teaches Pleasure Faire-goers the ancient art of spinning. "There seems to be a reawakening of interest in the older arts," she says.

AMONG THE oldest of dyeing materials is tumeric which was used throughout the Orient for yellow, she explains, adding that bright greens are, perhaps, the most difficult to obtain.

People in Elizabethan times and even in early Colonial America, of course, didn't have access to as many dyes and generally did their dyeing in iron pots, resulting in drab colors due to the darkening effect of the iron on the dye."Rayven explains.

Hand-spun yarns look different and are more lustrous with a greater sheen then commercial yarns; and there are the advantages of one-ply yarns instead of two-ply which last just as long, plus the ability to mix fibres just as one wishes, or spin them thick or thin, she said.

"Another advantage is that one has a greater variety of colors with softer hues which also are faster than most commercial dyes; and the spinner can match almost any color a person wants, Rayven avers.

"ALMOST EVERY middle class home or poorer middle class in Elizabethan England did its own spinning, weaving and making of clothes for the family; and most of those accomplished women also produced a much finer linen than can be found commercially today." Rayven observes.

"However, it all took time. A woman would probably spin four pounds of yarn, enough to dress a man or woman, in a week, as the Elizabethans like to spin fine and weave tight," according to Rayven.

"Then another week would be required to weave, and a thir week to cut and sew the garments," she continues.

Working at home on the top floor of a glass-walled, skylighted studio which her husband built, Rayven spins in the morning from around 8 a.m. to noon or 2 p.m., and then does her dyeing and weaving in the afternoons, when she is not teaching.

I find spinning and weaving very relaxing and enjoyable and sometimes I spend as much as 18 hours at a stretch at it," Rayven adds. "It is a craft however, that does require great patience."

Marin Women

KEY U.S. JOB

Black, Female: It's No Handicap

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Being black and a woman is more of an asset than a disadvantage in finding and holding an important job, according to one who should know.

She is Barbara M. Watson, first black woman to hold the rank of assistant secretary of state. She is head of the State Department's Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs.

"A woman can bring to any type of work, and especially to government, a kind of sensitivity which is valuable in dealing with problems, particularly human problems," she said. "It gives you a broader view.

"Being black is another asset, since you are able to bring another point of view, because you are in a minority as well."

EXPERTISE IN a chosen field is an advantage —and here, too, she is fortunate. Her grandfather was a magistrate in Jamaica, her father served in the New York City municipal court, and her brother is one of nine federal Customs Court judges.

Miss Watson also brought plenty of personal experience to her State Department position, whose main functions are to provide passports, visas and consular services to travelers. She was an assistant corporation counsel in New York, then pleasure of the White House, "I tor of the city's Commission to the United Nations. In tpat job, she dealt with problems of international law, "particularly with respect to the settlement of the UN in New York."

She says she has no particular ambition for a judicial appointment. She was named to her present position by President Nixon and will serve at the pleasue of the White House. "I have no thought of what I will do when I leave here. I like my work."

Miss Watson likes to spend occasional weekends in New York City where she has a 10-room apartment on Riverside Drive.

WHILE NEW YORK is big and bustling, she said, it has an undertone of excitement. But she also enjoys Washington.

She has a house only six blocks from the State Department, with a patio where spring and winter camillias bloom, and a rambler rose mixed with pink and white clemantis cover a stockade fence. Azaleas and tulips decorate the small garden behind the house, and two tubs o geraniums bloom profusely.

"I've found Washington very, very friendly," she said. "The pace is more leisurely than in New York, and there's a great deal more greenery in gardens that people are proud of. And lots of social parties."

Her work is time-consuming. Her day begins early, at 7 a.m. sometimes, and occasionally continues until after 8 p.m.

Fairfax Man Takes Bride In Richmond

Susan Candace Parker of El Sobrante and James Nathaniel Dismuke Jr. of Fairfax were married at St. Luke's United Methodist Church in Richmond on Sept. 9.

A reception was held afterward at the Bermuda Room of the Richmond Civic Center. The couple will live in San Leandro.

For the nuptials the bridal attendants were Anita Cagle, maid of honor, and Melody Palmer and Virginia and Jeannette Dismuke, sisters of the bridegroom.

James' brother Joseph Dismuke was the best man. The guests were escorted to seats by Steve Pelleriti, Ken Svanum, Mike Conroy and Pat Doherty.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Parker of El Sobrante. Now a junior at California State University, Hayward, she was graduated from DeAnza High School.

James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dismuke of Fairfax. He was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and is a senior at CSU, Hayward. He is also employed in San Leandro.

Air Base Is Setting For Wedding

Chapel One at Hamilton Air Force Base was the setting for the wedding of Cecilia Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Holland of Novato, to Sgt. Christopher Bolin, son of Merril Bolin of Minneapolis, Minn., and Mrs. Frank De Lorenzo of Riverside.

Carolyn Holland of Novato, sister of the bride, was maid of honor for the Sept. 9 nuptials, and best man was Richard Bolin of Riverside, brother of the bridegroom. Ushering guests to their seats were Wally Morris and Ed Wood of Hamilton.

The reception was held at the bride's parents' home. The couple went on a wedding trip to Minnesota and Texas and then to Tampa, Fla., where they are living.

The bride was graduated from Novato High School and attended College of Marin. She is also the sister of Butch and Samuel Holland of Novato.

The bridegroom was graduated from Pomona High School and attended Riverside City College. He is serving in the Air Force.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Talk About His Childhood And Maybe He'll Loosen Up

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I am the mother of two growing boys, 13 and 14. They are active in many sports. They also eat umpteen meals a day — so my husband says. He is their stepfather. Whatever he is doing, when the boys come into the house, he immediately gets up to see which way they are headed. If they go to the refrigerator (even for a glass of water) he hollers, "Get the h— out of there! Don't you eat for 10 already?" He constantly checks to see how much fruit and other food is gone — he's been known to hold an apple-count! Says he never saw kids eat so much. The truth is; he has never been around teenagers before.

The boys aren't hogs. They're actually on the slim side. They eat wholesome meals, but they get hungry in between times. Must they beg for every snack, and be refused? I've seen my husband tell them they can't have this or that and it's stayed in the refrigerator until it's spoiled.

Another thing, he won't allow them to watch any type of sports on TV because he doesn't care for sports.

I tell him better food and sports than hanging around the streets or popping pills. He says that's an illogical female argument — the first doesn't shut off the possibility of the second. Incidentally, we aren't broke.

So what CAN I tell him? Boy, do I need help! — WITS' END

DEAR WITS' END:

Boy, you sure do! I could see a refrigerator-guard if the boys were overweight, or you had a big budget problem. Neither of these being the case, then your husband needs a refresher course on teenage hunger pangs. Can't he remember what it's like to be 14, active and never quite full? Start him talking about his childhood and maybe he'll loosen up a bit — on food, sports and all-around fatherhood. — SUE

DEAR W.E.:

For your husband's information, that "illogical female argument" of yours makes a lot of sense. Kids who are denied normal privileges (and between-meal snacks for growing boys are normal!), yelled at, treated as expensive nuisances and given few rights, could easily drift to the streets where drugs are plentiful. Of course a closed refrigerator won't drive a boy to dope but an unfriendly stepfather can drive him out of the house, and into company that goes for different kinds of "sports." — HELEN

DEAR RAP:

I've read those advertisements about enlarging your bust "up to two inches in 14 days" if you just buy "our product." One company has a massager that costs $19.98 and hooks to your bathtub faucet. It guarantees your money back and no harm to your body.

If you're sure to get your money back unless you get bigger upstairs, would it be safe to send the $19.98? — HOPEFUL

DEAR HOPEFUL:

You can be sure of only one thing: nothing outside of surgery will enlarge your breasts two inches in 14 days! No mere machine can make mountains out of molehills.

As for getting your money back: don't count on it! A company that puts out false advertising might also renege on its "guarantee." — HELEN AND SUE

America's Own Education Terms

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

This week we'll discuss two education terms which are peculiar to the United States — "career education" and "community colleges." But "evaluation" is in wide use throughout the world.

Career education: You may know this term by some of its other names: "vocational education" or "technical education" or "occupational training."

"Career education" is the new term being used at the U.S. Office of Education. And in all fairness, it intends to represent more than just a name change.

The words "vocational" and "technical," narrowly interpreted, signify training in such specific skills as plumbing, auto mechanics, typing, nursing, power mechanics, bricklaying, etc., while the phrase "career education" implies learning about skills and jobs as well. IF YOUR FIRST or second grader comes home from school talking about career education, you can assume that he is getting an early introduction to a vast array of skilled and professional job opportunities.

Some career education programs actually have the little ones perfecting earning skills; that is, skills that earn money. Other career-education programs combine in-school visits by professional parents with field trips to teach all schoolchildren what the world of work is like.

Community colleges: These institutions are uniquely American. In 1900, there were just eight junior (two-year) colleges in the United States. All were privately owned and operated. Total enrollment in all eight was about 100 students.

But unless another community college has opened in the past two months, there now are 1,120 two-year colleges; they enroll2.7 million students. Most of these institutions are public and are known locally as community colleges.

Some parents, whose goal for their children is four years at college and a bachelor's degree, overlook the community college field. You don't need to.

THEY ARE fine alternatives to four-year institutions and cny actually have just the atmosphere your high school graduate needs. Most offer the same courses that four-year colleges do in their first two years, hundreds have transfer arrangements, a great many provide training for immediate employment. And most live up to their name — they serve as a focal point in the community for cultural and intellectual pursuits.

Evaluation: Do you know that even the people who make up standardized tests distrust their own tests' abilities to evaluate what any given child had learned?

It's true. The testmakers readily admit how weak their instruments are to evaluate learning; those who give the tests to children make similar admissions if pressed. But this has not stopped schools around the world from using tests not only to evaluate an individual pupil's work, but to designate which children should be made to leave school, and which should be encouraged to learn more.

SINCE THE word "testing" has fallen into disfavor, educators have turned to the word "evaluation." But it's the same, and parents would be wise to be alert to its use and abuse.

When the word "evaluation" is not used as a replacement for "testing," it has a positive meaning. Everything a school does should be subject to evaluation —the goals should be stated and some way must be designed to test whether the goals are being met. This is what the true evaluation is all about.

SUZZANNE HORTON
Worthy advisor

Rainbows To Install Miss Horton

Suzzanne Horton of Novato will be installed worthy advisor of Novato Assembly 194, International Order of Rainbow for Girls, Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the Druids' Hall in Novato.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Horton of Novato.

Other elected officers are Kathleen Fountain, worthy associate advisor; Karen Wagner, charity; Janet Gilmore, hope; and Andrea Nordstrom, faith.

Appointed officers are Kathleen Hitchcock, chaplain; Patricia Foster, drill leader; Cathleen Gramlich, love; Nena Clements, religion; Sandy Bowyer, nature; Jean Anderson, immortality.

Linda Andrews, fidelity; Kit Koykendal, patriotism; Carol Woods, service; Elizabeth Fountain, confidential observer; Joyce Thompson, outer observer; Sue Harrington, musician; Holly Allen, choir director; Terri Oliver, rainbow banner, and Nancy Hall, Christian flag.

Nurse In Sonoma Scholarship Study

Carole E. Benson of San Rafael, a registered nurse, will attend Sonoma State College to study effects of environmental pollution on respiratory disease. She is recipient of a $1,500 Eight and Forty Tuberculosis Scholarship for nurses.

A graduate of Redwood High School and the College of Marin nursing program, she has been a nurse in the heart unit at Marin General Hospital.

Film Festival Visitors Will Need Guides

Volunteers are needed by the International Hospitality Center during the San Francisco International Film Festival Oct. 12 to 22.

Stars, producers, directors and others in the film industry begin arriving Oct. 11 and volunteers will be needed to meet them at the airport then escort them to their hotels and to the Palace of Fine Arts in San Francisco where the festival will be held, according to Mrs. Bruce Bosley of Hillsborough, chairman of the volunteer committee.

The film festival will need men and women volunteers on a standby basis and also will need a crew to staff the office at the Palace of Fine Arts nights and days.

Since many of the visitors will be foreigners, volunteers with knowledge of other languages are preferred. The visitors may also want to be taken sightseeing, shopping or entertained in private homes.

Persons wishing to volunteer should contact Bunny Hinckley at the International Hospitality Center in San Francisco.

Ingredients Will Be On Jars

Kraft Foods is putting an ingredient clause on all jars of salad dressing, mayonnaise and bottles of French dressing as a service to consumers, according to Chester R. Green, senior vice president of marketing.

The company is not required by law to list the ingredients on the package itself because these products are made in accordance with federal standards established by the Food and Drug Administration for the manufacture of salad dressing, mayonnaise and French dressing.

The company's action follows guidelines established by the sub-council on packaging and labeling of the National Business Council for Consumer Affairs.

Other products in the company's salad product line that were not covered by government standards already list ingredient information on labels or lids.

Simple Candles

Candles are simple to make, using household paraffin colored with dye powder. Set out a variety of molds before beginning. Choose from juice cans, gelatin molds, milk cartons, paper cups and muffin pans.

ON THE AGENDA

Bagley, Moore To Appear At Novato BPW Dinner Meeting

A candidates' legislative dinner meeting will be sponsored by the Novato Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Alvarado Inn in Ignacio.

Guest panelists at the public meeting will be candidates for California Assembly District Seven — William T. Bagley, the Republican incumbent, and Hary J. Moore, Democrat of Novato. Panel moderator will be Lois McLain, immediate state BPW past president.

According to Penny Kane, the club's legislation chairman, it is important to keep the public informed on legislative matters affecting the community and to hear platforms of the candidates in order to be informed voters.

Through the efforts of Mrs. Kane, the Novato BPW "has kept abreast of state and national legislation affecting the welfare of all women and men," publicity chairman Mrs. Dorothy Krieger said.

Reservation chairmen for the dinner are Mrs. Gloria Hansen and Mrs. Walter Kane.

BELVEDERE'S SAN Francisco Yacht Club will hold its women's fall sailing training program on five consecutive Mondays beginning next week. Students will bring their lunches to the 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. sessions aboard Rhodes 19s.

Mrs. William Sparrow of Novato is chairman. Teachers are Mmes. Benton Mathews, Robert Potter, Herbert Ross and Edwin DeFrees.

SAN RAFAEL Assembly 195, International Order of Rainbow for Girls, will hold a farewell meeting for the retiring worthy advisor, Patty Garbarino, on Saturday at 1 p.m. at the San Rafael Masonic Hall.

THE FALL general meeting of the Mill Valley Branch of the American Association of University Women is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Michael Praszker in Mill Valley.

Previews of the year's activities, emphasizing this year's theme, "Women," will be presented.

The Mill Valley Branch serves Southern Marin.

Mrs. George Olson of Mill Valley is box luncheon chairman, and Mrs. Thomas Kostic of Mill Valley is baby-sitting chairman.

ST. RAPHAEL'S Mothers' Guild is having a "Junk, Etc." sale Saturday and Sunday in the St. Raphael School gymnasium. Hours are Saturday, noon to 5 p.m., and Sunday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Chairmen are Mmes. John McEwen and James Szy Kowny, and members of the committee are Mmes. Diana Thomas, Helen Fodness, Susan Howard, Almarima Viscovi, Elvira Lindeman, Adreanne Hale, Marlene Ritter, Irma Ferrer, Kay Hicken and Peggy Bernardoni.

Donations of articles for sale may be delivered to the gymnasium tomorrow between 1 p.m. and 3 p.m., according to the chairmen.

MARRIAGE AND Its Alternatives will be the topic for the second in the "SOS — Stress in Our Society" series Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Olney Hall at College of Marin.

Speaker will be Charles Gompertz, ordained minister and Marin County mental health educator, who will discuss the factors which determine the quality of the relationship between two individuals.

The series is sponsored by the Marin Association for Mental Health and the Marin Community College district.

ASSEMBLYMAN WILLIAM T. Bagley will discuss school financing at the "Broaden Your Horizons" luncheon to be sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Central Marin Monday at noon at Lark Creek Inn in Larkspur.

Reservations chairman is Mrs. Thomas R. Dahlgren of San Rafael.

THE ANNUAL meeting of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Marin will be held Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. at the home of M.B. McGowan in San Rafael.

Cocktails and a buffet supper will be served.

LAWYERS' WIVES of Marin will have the annual membership tea Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Glenna Colistra in San Rafael.

Mrs. Frederick W. Bradley of San Rafael is reservations chairman, and membership chairman is Mrs. James M. Kennedy of San Rafael.

Fall 1972 Starts 'Year Of Collar'

Fall 1972 will start the "year of the collar," according to a men's shirt maker spokesman.

Speaking at the firm's fall sales meeting, the executive predicted there will be more interest in collar styles than in the past few seasons. "The big news is not button-downs, which are going to be good, but blunt and round style collars.

"The big fashion collar is going to be the pin collar, then the spreads an button-downs."

Follow The Fashion Leader With Smocks

When the petite miss of the family wants to follow-the-leader in fashion she'll ask for smocks. And, a charming array is ready for her choice.

She'll find tenty and pinafore smocks. One yoked style has long full sleeves — just like Mom's.

Get Estimates

When having any kind of major repairs done to your home get three estimates and judge for yourself which price is the best buy for you— considering quality and reputation of the repairman. It's a good idea to check references, too—from persons who have used the repairman. He may just give you the names of three relatives or bogus customers, but it's worth a try.

Fiberglass Sculptures— Latest Work Of Kishi

By ADA GARFINKEL

SAN FRANCISCO — Masatoyo Kishi, painter turned sculptor, uses tough, industrial materials — fiberglass and polyester resin —to create airy, semitransparent, chrysalis-like shells of the human figure, currently on exhibit at the Triangle Gallery.

Kishi, a professor of art at Dominican College, came to the United States from Japan in 1960 and has had wide recognition as an important painter in the Abstract-Expressionist mode. This was followed by shaped canvases, and abstract sculpture in wood. He was invited to exhibit one of the latter in the International Expo '70 at Osaka.

His present work, the fiberglass sculptures, done this year, was preceded by a period of intense concern with the human figure, mostly in drawings as shown in a smaller room in the gallery, tracing the direct development through textural, dry-brush Sumi ink drawings to the matty, stringy fiberglass head, torsos, and figures.

The Kishi sculptures, which are untitled, consist of the most minimal aspects of the human form. They are hollow; some have no backs, some have see-through openings which become shaped voids, or facial planes alone suggest the head; they are dominated by asymmetry. Yet they are expressively rational and classical, two recalling the Winged Victory and a slender, elongated goddess figure.

Comparisons are not the essence of the Kishi sculptures, only the direction he may be taking according to his plans to further reorient himself to his earliest roots in Japan in his future work.

What the artist has done in his present phase is to align the fluidity of his imagination to the malleability of his material in a very original and striking form. And he has also succeeded in drawing the viewer in as an accomplice to the act with almost a command performance to complete the form in a personal extension of the creative process.

As for process, Kishi starts with a small model of crumpled and crunched aluminum foil for inspiration. He then proceeds by cutting and shaping chicken wire to the desired size and adhering the splintery fiberglass to it with liquefied polyester resin, wearing a mask and gloves for protection.

New Clinic For Care Of Animals

Work will begin by Oct. 2 on a $65,000 spaying and veterinary clinic addition to the Marin County Humane Center in Novato, according to John N. Gill, new executive director for the society.

Gill reported a contract has been awarded to the Page Construction Co. of Novato, the firm that built the center. The building job is expected to take 120 days, Gill said.

The present carport for society vehicles will be walled in to provide 2,000 square feet, and rooms within the building will be remodeled to give an additional 1,500 square feet for the long-planned clinic.

The clinic will offer low-cost spaying and neutering of cats and dogs — with the fees yet to be determined — as well as veterinary checkups for every animal entering the humane center or placed into a home, Gill said. The society also plans to offer welfare veterinary care for animals whose owners are indigent or on low, fixed incomes, the director added.

Gill said the society's board of directors will decide soon whether to contract with a veterinarian, employ its own in-house veterinarian or follow some other policy for staffing the clinic.

Behr To Speak At Conference

Sen. Peter H. Behr, D-San Rafael, will be the main speaker at a Sonoma County open space conference Saturday at the New Methodist Church, Montgomery Drive, Santa Rosa.

Behr will give the luncheon address and speak on the future of the Russian River.

The session will begin at 9 a.m. with a slide show on potential open space preserves and a panel discussion with representatives of the Army Corps of Engineers, local governments and geologists.

Other sessions will include a report by Petaluma City Councilman Fred V. Mattei on the city's environmental design plan; Col. John L. Lammie of the Army Corps of Engineers on flood plain zoning for safety and open space; and David Kelly, a Napa County attorney, on "Making open space pay its way."

Sponsors fo the conference include league of women voters, American Association of University Women and Sonoma County Organization for Planned Environment.

Check-Writing Charges Dropped

Charges against a 29-year-old Marinwood man suspected of writing a check on a closed account have been dismissed because the prosecution was not prepared to present evidence at a preliminary hearing.

But the district attorney indicated the charge of passing a fraudulent check against David Hennessy will be refiled, and Judge David R. Baty scheduled arraig ment for Friday.

Novato police arrested Hennessy on Aug. 29 at the Cala Market at 1530 Center Road when he tried to cash a check on an account closed in May. Police said 70 checks totaling $5,400 had been cashed in the Bay Area since the account was closed.

Mayor To Talk On New General Plan

Novato Mayor Wayne Sartain will talk about the city's proposed new general plan and the proposal for a redevelopment agency at a meeting of the San Marin Improvement Association board at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Home Savings and Loan office, 1450 Grant Avenue.

It will be an open meeting and a member of the Novato Jaycees will talk about the city's $500,000 bond measure for a community swimming pool, publicity chairman Diane Ryken reported.

'Encores' Opens Ballet Season

By DAVID EINSTEIN

San Francisco's Pacific Ballet dance company opens its fall season tomorrow night at San Francisco's Veteran's Auditorium with the world premiere of John Pasqualetti's production of "Romeo and Juliet."

Set to the Prokofiev score, the ballet will star 22-year-old John Loschmann. Choreographer Pasqualetti, at 26, has already established himself in the Bay Area with productions of Stravinsky's "Firebird" and "Petrouchka" for Pacific Ballet, and "The Flaming Angel" for the San Francisco Ballet.

"Romeo and Juliet" will be the first of five performances in Pacific's "Encores" series, which will include performances Saturday night of Rimsky-Korsakov's "Scheherezade," Stephen Simmons's "The Silver Pilgrimage," and "Firebird." Shows begin both nights at 8:30.

DRAMA

Jack Aranson's San Francisco Theater Company, which has been homeless since its San Francisco City Theater was torn down in 1969, will move into new permanent headquarters at 3250 19th Avenue next Wednesday. The company's opening offering will be a two-week engagement of "Juno" with Aranson in the title role. Later this year Aranson will perform his one-man productions of "Moby Dick" and "Dylan Thomas."

MUSIC

The Modern Jazz Quartet opens tonight at the El Matador on Broadway in San Francisco. Saturday night the focus switches to rock music with a concert by Boz Scaggs at the Berkeley Community Theater.

British rock group Pink Floyd will be in concert at San Francisco's Winterland on Sunday, and Joe Cocker, also from England, will play Monday at the Civic Auditorium. Both shows are Bill Graham productions, and tickets for both can be obtained at all Northern California Ticketron outlets.

Other events:

Oakland Museum — "Observations/Translations: Four Photographers," through Oct. 1.

M.H. de Young Memorial Museum — "Norman Rockwell: A 60-Year Retrospective," through Nov. 5. Docent tours at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. daily. Open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Youth Sentenced For Auto Theft

An 18-year-old San Rafael youth convicted of auto theft by a jury was sentenced yesterday to the California Youth Authority by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court.

The judge who heard the trial ordered Charles James Gaines turned over to the state juvenile authorities in connection with his arrest Feb. 13.

San Rafael Police arrested him in the Montecito Shopping Center after following a car that gave him a ride after he abandoned a car in the left turn lane on Second Street at Grand Avenue.

The abandoned vehicle had been stolen near the residenc of its owner, Marie Casassa of 275 Canal Street, San Rafael, police said.

Second Berkeley Strike Threat

BERKELEY (UPI) — City workers who went on strike for three weeks in July have threatened to walk off the job again in a squabble with the city over retroactive pay raises.

The strike ended Aug. 1 and the city agreed that pay raises would be retroactive to July 1. The union demands the money by Monday, but the city said it cannot arrange the payment before Oct. 6.

Paul Baracalli, executive secretary of Local 390 of the United Public Employes, which led the July strike, said Wednesday the union would ask for strike sanction from the Alameda County Central Labor Ctuncil if the situation were not settled by Monday.

Treatment System Plans Reviewed By Committee

The Marin Municipal Water District's Improvement District A advisory committee last night reviewed a rough draft of plans for a consolidated waste treatment system for southeast Marin, then agreed to provide copies of the report to all sanitary agencies which will be involved in the merger.

John T. Schulte, project manager for district A, said the agencies will be asked to study material in the report relating to their particular district, then submit in writing any correction or addition they think needed.

The plans for the consolidated system have not yet been presented to the MMWD board, which is scheduled to see them next month.

The advisory committee also agreed to ask the water district directors to proceed with plans to obtain financial, administration and environmental impact reports on the project, which would consolidate sewage treatment and disposal in southeast Marin into one huge system.

Commission Assigns Priority To Park

Development of Lucchesi Park got top priority last night from the Petaluma Recreation Music and Parks Commission.

Recreation Director James R. Raymond said the commission agreed that the 33-acre park on Maria Drive be developed before any spending on Schollenberger River Park adjacent to the city boat launching ramp.

Raymond said the commission recommended the 2-year-old master plan for Lucchesi be resurrected and developed in three phases. The first phase would be tennis courts and athletic facilities, followed by a turf area in phase two, and parking lots and buildings in phase three including restrooms and a senior citizens center. Total cost of the entire park has been estimated at $1.2 million.

Representatives of the Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association also urged that Lucchesi Park get top priority and said it would be more beneficial to the city than Shollenberger Park.

The commissions said that work on Miwok Valley Neighborhood Park on St. Francis Drive should also move ahead before the river park.

Raymond said the commission adjourned to Oct. 4 at 7:30 p.m. to prepare a priority list of all park development as well as a five year capital outlay program.

'Custody' Fight Over Rail Car

Going . . . going . . . but not quite gone.

The antique railroad car which actor Sterling Hayden at one time occupied in Sausalito is on the auction block again to help pay his back taxes.

But Hayden's 21-year-old daughter, Gretchen, has filed suit in U.S. District Court in San Francisco claiming the vintage car belongs to her, not her father.

According to Miss Hayden, her father never owned any part of the 79-year-old car, which now reposes on a railroad siding in Greenbrae.

She claims the car was actually bought by the actor's wife, Catherine, six years ago and was given to her last year. The car was purchased from the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad for about $2,700, Miss Hayden said.

Doug Morgan, owner of a railroad refurbishing company in Greenbrae, recently appraised the car at about $10,000 after it had been extensively refurbished.

The auction is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Monday at Morgan Railcar Co., 15 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Greenbrae.

But the auction may not occur. Judge Charles B. Renfrew was to hear Miss Hayden's plea today for an injunction blocking the sale.

An Internal Revenue Service spokesman has said that the actor-author-sailor, who now lives in Connecticut, owes about $42,000 in unpaid taxes for 1968 and 1969.

Highway Traffic Report

Projects in progress on Highway 101 which will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic were announced today by the State Division of Highway.

Sections of the freeway involved are:

1. Southbound, between Richardson Bay Bridge and Golden Gate Bridge, outside lane subject to closure at spots between 9 a.m. and 12 noon for cleanup.

2. Northbound, between Richardson Bay Bridge and Golden Gate Bridge, subject to closure at spots between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. for cleanup.

3. Both northbound and southbound, north of the Highway 37 Interchange, inside lanes closed from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. for drainage work.

4. Northbound, between Marinwood and Hamilton Air Force Base, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. for crack sealing.

Year In Prison For Michaud

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (UPI)—Marine Pvt. Thomas Michaud, who surrendered in July on the floor at the Democratic National Convention, has been sentenced to one year in prison for being absent without leave for three years.

The sentence handed down Wednesday by a court-martial panel produced protests from Michaud's attorneys, who said they had been promised he would be sentenced to no more than six months if he pleaded guilty.

Defense attorney Thomas Loftin III told newsmen that Brig. Gen. Robert Nichols made the agreement in a conversation last week.

Reagan Aide: Get Into Politics

By FRANK FARRARA

Frank Walton, Secretary of Business and Transportation in Gov. Ronald Reagan's cabinet, urged Novato businessmen "to get into politics and to get into government."

He warned at a meeting of the Novato Chamber of Commerce that there are "strong, loud, potent" antibusiness forces "that want to wipe you out."

He told the luncheon group at Shipwreck Pete's restaurant that some feel that business has become a menace and they are providing the impetus of the anti-business forces. "Some want to take us back to the days of the buffalo and that's not the way America goes and grows," he said.

In past years, when businessmen failed to take an active part in government, "certain elements of our citizenry stepped into the breach," including militant anti-capitalists and "kami-kaze environmentalists," he said.

Walton said he favored preserving whatever benefitted mankind, but wouldn't preserve some species just because it was rare: "I wouldn't want to preserve the dinosaur.

"If some had their way, there never would have been a project bringing water from Northern California to Southern California," he said.

Those who are trying "to have business stopped" don't recognize business as benefitting mankind. Business has brought a "great way of life," and "I, as a businessman hope we are going to improve the lot of people, he said. "Business has moved this nation to what it is."

Businessmen have allowed profit to become a dirty word, but profit encourages initiative and creativity, he said.

Businessmen, who often are preoccupied with "business at hand," should "apply themselves to what's going on in government," Walton said.

"One problem is that too many people in public office have as their goal keeping the job rather than doing the job," he said.

The state isn't getting the kind of representative government it should have, Walton said. "We wouldn't have 22 propositions on the ballot if we were getting it. This is a barometer of the loss of faith in the kind of representative government we have."

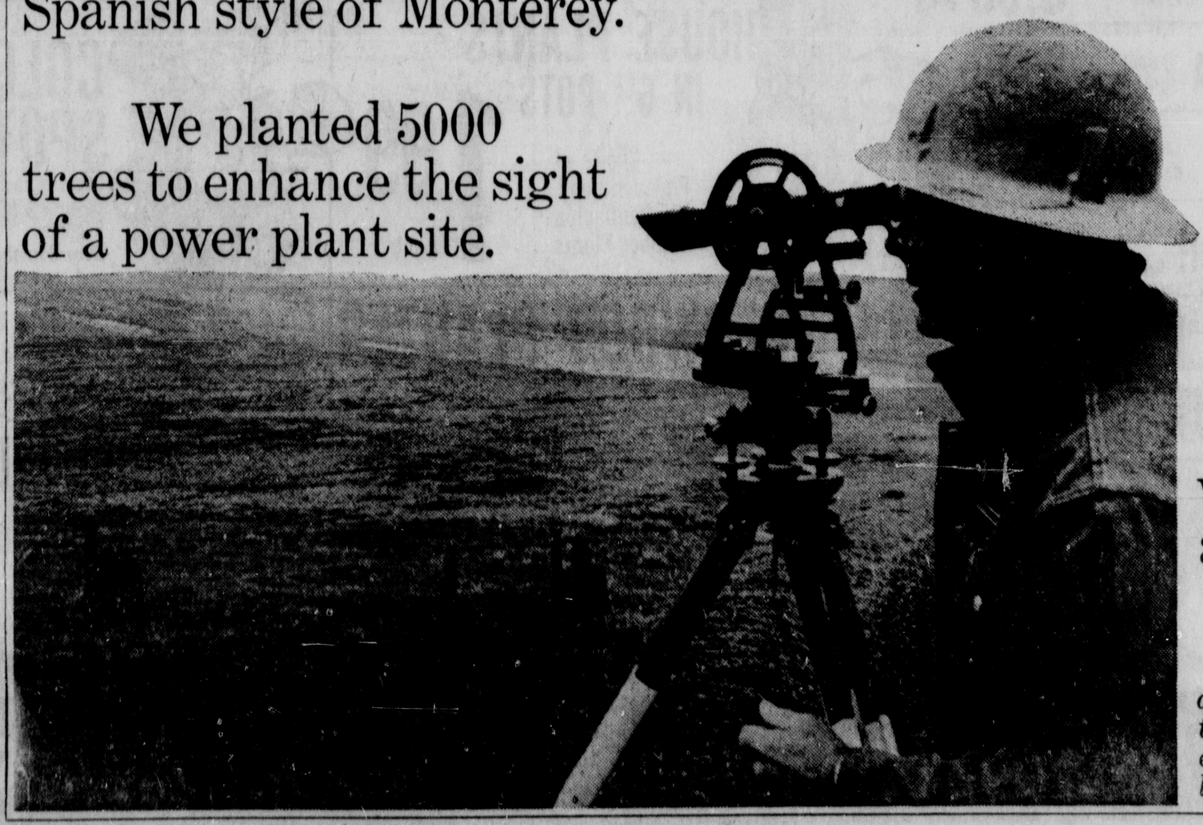
Progress report #2

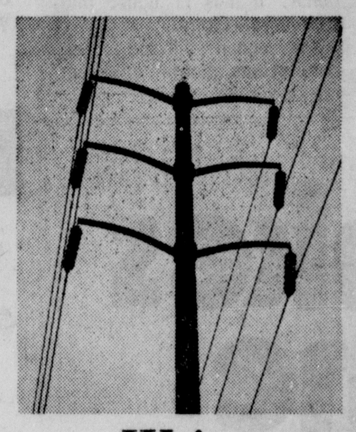
Your environment: What we're doing for it around our own plants.

We remodeled this substation to blend in with the early Spanish style of Monterey.

We planted 5000 trees to enhance the sight of a power plant site.



When we build something, we want it to be attractive as well as useful.



We're spending extra money for better-looking transmission towers.

To fight air pollution, we're experimenting with electric and natural gas-fueled vehicles.

We're working hard to preserve and enhance your environment and also to provide you with adequate, reliable energy. Both are essential to the good life everybody wants to enjoy.

Leitzell Lot Split Before Hub Council

The San Anselmo City Council will consider a proposal for a two-lot subdivision on a parcel at 30 Oakwood Avenue owned by City Engineer Charles R. Leitzell when it meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The planning commission has rejected the proposal on three separate occasions.

The lot split has been proposed by Dennis B. Canning, who has offered to buy the parcel on condition of subdivision approval, according to Leitzell.

Neighbors have opposed the proposed subdivision, citing a 42 per cent slope, limited access, a sewer easement which bisects the parcel, traffic congestion and slide problems.

The commission first rejected the proposal on July 17, saying that although all conditions of the municipal code had been met, the slope was too steep and a second house would have undue impact on the neighborhood.

A ruling from City Atty. John G. Buresh - requested by Leitzell — declared the commission action illegal, however, because written notice outlining reasons for denial had not been sent to the applicant. "Matters such as the whims and desires of neighbors are not proper considerations" for denial unless they represent law violations, Buresh said.

Buresh said that if proposed subdivision met all requirements of the municipal code, it must be approved.

The commission on Aug. 7 reaffirmed its denial of the subdivision, citing a steep slope, limited access and sewer easement problems, and issued a written explanation in compliance with the Buresh ruling.

Buresh again considered the commission action, this time calling the denial illegal since neighbors and the applicant had been deprived of due process by not being notified of the hearing.

The commission last week for a third time rejected the proposal, after notifying neighbors and applicants, and found that a tentative map "could not be remedied by alteration."

Leitzell said that he would not issue a recommendation to the council on the subdivision proposal since he had a vested interest in the matter. "It seems when you become a public official you lose some of the rights you would ordinarily have as a citizen, however," he said, saying the proposal met all municipal code requirements.

Leitzell said that although he didn't think it proper for a city engineer to be in the businessof subdividing within his own city, anyone — public official or not — should have the right of subdividing the parcel on which he lives.

Leitzell became the center of controversy for a brief period in July 1969, when anonymous accusers charged him with using city personnel to install a driveway on the Oakwood Avenue property. The flap ended with the council giving the city engineer a vote of confidence after finding no new driveway had been installed.

Two To Be Tried In Assault Case

Two men said to have robbed a 90-year-old woman have been bound over to Marin Superior Court for trial.

Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court ordered Kenneth Foss Allen, 23, of Larkspur and Don Edward Fleischer, 26, of Lagunitas to report to the higher court Monday.

San Rafael police arrested the two Sept. 3 after angry witnesses cornered them, then called police.

The attack on Margaret Farrar of Laurel Place took place on Fourth Street as she walked home from church, police said. The elderly woman was knocked to the ground when one of the two hit her in the head, police said.

Mexico Buys 10 U.S. Ships

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Ten former U.S. minesweepers were turned over to the Mexican navy Tuesday.

Authorities said the price was about $280,000.

Adm. Bravo Carrera, head of the Mexican navy, accepted the ships. He said they will be used for countering narcotics smuggling and enforcing the 12-mile fishing limit.

He said the Navy also is seeking to buy another 20 minesweepers.

U.S. Files Suit To Lower Prices

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—The federal government is suing the state of California on grounds that while Washington is trying to cut the cost of living, California won't let liquor stores reduce some prices.

The federal Cost of Living Council filed suit in U.S. district court Tuesday against the California Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, saying it was the first such suit in the nation.

The suit centers on attempts by Fed-Mart stores to reduce prices to meet the federal rules. The complaint said the state fair trade laws, enforced by the beverage control department in the case of liquor, set higher minimum price levels on "national" brands of liquor than the federal ceiling.

The council said the federal regulations should supercede the state rules.

Syria Plans To Try American As A Spy

BEIRUT (UPI)—Syria is planning to try Maj. Richard Barratt, the American assistant military attache in Amman, on spy charges, the weekly news magazine Al Hawadess said Thursday.

Damascus will use the trial to denounce American policy in the Middle East, in the same way as Russia exploited the trial of U2 pilot Gary Powers in the 1950's, the magazine said.

Barratt was arrested by Damascus authorities on Sept. 9, as he traveled from Amman, through Syria, to Lebanon to see his wife and child.

The U.S. Government has protested his detention to Damascus via the Italian embassy, which looks after American interests in Syria, in the absence of diplomatic relations.

Both Lebanon and Italy intervened on America's behalf to secure Barratt's release, but their efforts have failed so far, political sources said.

Damascus has so far failed to confirm Barratt's arrest officially, and the reason for his detention was not known.

Al Hawadess said there were two theories in diplomatic circles in Beirut on why Barratt was arrested.

The first is that Damascus has proof that Barratt was spying for American intelligence and his job in the American embassy in Amman was only a cover.

The second theory is that the Syrians wanted to use the incident to pressure the Americans to intervene with Israel to set free five Syrian officers who were captured by the Israelis a few weeks ago.

110 Tons Of Pot Seized In Mexican Drug Haul

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (UPI)—Mexican officials said today they believe their seizure Wednesday of more than 200 pounds of pure heroin and cocaine and 110 tons of marijuana might be the biggest drug haul in history.

Estimates of the market value of the drugs in street sales run as high as $100 million.

Police said they needed 22 trucks to haul away the 110 tons of marijuana seized on a single plantation.

The heroin and cocaine were found in a house in Guadalajara, along with eight persons who were arrested at the scene.

Police said they also confiscated a small arsenal of weapons and two luxury cars. The eight suspects all gave Mexican names, but federal police said today they suspected some of them might be "important international smugglers."

The marijuana was found on a 47.5 acre plantation in the mountains outside the city. Two persons were arrested, but authorities said they were only farmers paid to tend the fields, not the growers.

Mexican Assistant Attorney General David Franco Rodriguez, who heads anti-drug forces, officiated Wednesday at a giant burning party near the plantation.

Lagunitas School Fire Damage Told

The fire on Sept. 13 in the multimedia center at Lagunitas School did $32,000 damage, according to Richard D. Pedroli, Marin County Fire Department chief.

Pedroli, who announced the figure after an assessment of losses, also said the fire apparently started in a plastic wastepaper basket, probably caused by a cigarette.

Damage was given as $12,000 to the building and $20,000 to contents.

Marin Painter's Stamps Issued

Another set in a series of wildlife conservation stamps designed by Kentfield painter Stanley W. Galli has been issued by the U.S. postal department.

Galli said that a block of four eight-cent stamps was issued yesterday in Warm Springs, Ore. The stamps depict a brown pelican, Bighorn sheep, fur seal and cardinal, he said.

Another set of wildlife conservation stamps designed by the 59-year-old artist were issued last June and won "best of the year" honors from the Postal Commemorative Society.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Dear Birthday Editor:

My little daughter has the same birthday as another child in the same room at school. Isn't this unusual? What are the mathematical chances of this happening? Mrs. S.C.

Dear Mrs. C.:

What you have discovered is not unusual. According to the laws of chance, this happens all the time, only you don't know about it. Statisticians figure it this way: Let 1.0 represent certainty and 0.5 an even chance. We only need to put 22 people in the same room for the probability to be 0.493 that two will share the same birthday. Increase the people to 23 and the odds increase to 0.524. And so forth. With approximately this number of pupils in your average schoolroom, it is not surprising for coincidental birth dates to occur. When Julie Andrews was apperaring in the hit musical, "My Fair Lady," she discovered she had the same birthday as her co-star, Stanley Holloway, in a cast which hardly numbered a dozen people. Both were born October 1st.

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS TODAY

Larry Hagman (1931-), Hollywood TV actor ("I Dream of Jeanie.")

H. G. Wells (1866-1946), English novelist and lecturer

Mrs. Zachary Taylor (1788-1852), wife of the 12th U.S. President

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Larry Hagman is the real-life son of Hollywood film star Mary Martin.

2. H. G. Wells invented the submarine in his book, "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea."

3. Mrs. Zachary Taylor spent 35 years on frontier Army posts with her soldier-husband.

ANSWERS

1. True; 2. False; 3. True.

(Send local birthdays to Birthday Editor, Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael, Calif. 94902, at least four days before the date of the birthday. Include name to be published and telephone number of sender; print legibly.)

Drawing Trumps Prematurely Like Guarding Against Fire

Drawing trumps at the earliest possible moment is like turning on the sprinklers to guard against fire. This is a good idea when there is danger of a fire but no help at all when you're threatened by a flood.

TRUMPS ABANDONED

South took the ace of hearts and drew two rounds of trumps with his own ace and dummy's ten. He then abandoned trumps, but it was already too late.

Declarer tried a finesse with the jack of clubs, losing to the queen. West returned a heart to the queen, and East shot back a third trump.

South cashed the ace of clubs, dropping the king, and then led a diamond, losing dummy's king to the ace. Back came a diamond to the queen, and South could ruff a heart in dummy to iscard a diamond on the ten of clubs.

This was the end of the road. South still had a losing diamond and could do nothing with it. Down one.

START CLUBS EARLY

South should start the clubs at the second trick, losing to the queen. West's best defense is to return a trump. South wins, cashes the ace of clubs and leads a diamond to force out the ace. East returns a second trump.

Declarer wins in dummy with the ten and ruffs a low club with the ace of trumps so that he can then lead the jack of trumps to dummy's queen. South can discard two diamonds on the ten and seven of clubs and can eventually ruff a heart with dummy's last trump to make the contract.

Chalet Raided— Hash Oil Found

SQUAW VALLEY (UPI) —A ski resort chalet was raided Tuesday where a laboratory was found that produced liquid hash oil, a powerful derivative of marijuana and hashish, police reported.

Ten persons were arrested and 1,500 vials discovered which were ready to be filled with the oil, a potent chemical said to be 100 times stronger than hashish, said Ralph Clay, supervising agent for the Nevada Division of Narcotics.

Clay said the chalet had been under surveillance for about a month before agents from California, Nevada and the federal government moved in.

The 10 persons arrested were charged with possession of narcotics and conspiracy to set up a clandestine laboratory to manufacture illegal narcotics.

Effects Of Marijuana, Pot Initiative Debated

The harmful effects of marijuana — or lack of them — was the central issue today in a radio debate in Marin on Proposition 19, the pot initiative on the Nov. 7 ballot.

And it was the remarks of two physicians who appeared on KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" that set the tone of the discussion, one saying the compulsive use of anything was potentially harmful and the other warning that the mystery over medical effects of marijuana was the very reason it should not be "decriminalized."

Proposition 19, while not legalizing the narcotic, would remove criminal penalties for private use and cultivation by adults. Sale of marijuana would remain illegal.

Besides the two physicians, Dr. Alan Matzgar of San Francisco and Dr. Elmer Weden of San Anselmo, Lt. Albert Howenstein of the San Anselmo Police Department and Gaile O'Connor, an attorney in the county public defender's office, appeared on the program to debate the ballot measure.

Speaking to the question of possible deterioration of judgment from extensive or prolonged pot use, Matzgar, who is a member of the California Marijuana Initiative Speakers Bureau, said: "There's no doubt about it — anybody who gets into compulsive use of anything will lose his judgment."

As to medical effects, heavy ingesting of food and water could be looked upon as potentially as dangerous as heavy marijuana use, Matzgar said. "Obesity is a massive problem," he noted.

Weden, in an opposing stance, argued, "It's not in the historical interest of mankind to encourage any use of drugs unless they have therapeutic value." Although he said studies seemed to indicate the need for a neutral position on the marijuana issue, it is a valid reason against "imposing a new toxin on our culture."

Weden also believed passage of the initiative would compound social ills already posed by alcohol use, and remarked that a study by the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse seemed to dictate the conclusion that Proposition 19 "flaunts the established morality" of the nation.

Mrs. O'Connor, declaring a "pragmatic" outlook on the initiative, said she personally supported its passage because of her experience as an attorney that "marijuana is not, in fact, harmful."

While remarking she could distinguish heroin and amphetamine users and alcoholics from nonusers, even though the users were not under the influence, Mrs. O'Connor said she couldn't do the same with marijuana.

She argued, moreover, that pot did not lead to hard drugs in the present day, although there may have been a correlation years ago, and that the narcotic was not a "causative factor" in crime.

Howenstein, however, said he considered marijuana the "most dangerous drug" on the illicit market because it is a "rallying point" for many young people.

Expressing confidence Proposition 19 would be "resoundingly" rejected the officer noted potential law enforcement problems arising from the "very ambiguous" nature of the measure.

The panelists were asked by an audience listener whether they had used marijuana.

Matzgar said he had tried the drug twice, falling asleep once and experiencing no effect the second. Mrs. O'Connor said she had tried it and didn't like it, but held open the possibility she might use it again as a "social gesture."

Howenstein said he didn't think it necessary to "reduce myself to the level of participation" in order to judge marijuana, preferring instead to rely on his experience as a policeman. Weden said he had never found a reason to depart "from reality" through use of the narcotic.

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be repeated at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Two Counties Get Tax Shares

Marin and Sonoma counties received $346,269 as their share of the Bradley-Burns local sales and use tax and the rapid transit district transaction and use tax, state Board of Equalization member William M. Bennett announced.

Marin County received $87,360, with the cities' apportionment thus: Belvedere, $1,826; Corte Madera, $41,726; Fairfax, $7,275; Larkspur, $17,398; Mill Valley, $27,882; Novato, $54,475; Ross, $940; San Anselmo, $20,049; San Rafael, $186,242; Sausalito, $50,689 and Tiburon, $11,568.

Sonoma County's share was $258,908, with Cotati receiving $8,709; Petaluma, $66,143, and Rohnert Park, $15,911.

Unlocked Car Stolen In Corte Madera

Nancy Bates Yates of 810 Pine Lane, San Rafael, reported to Corte Madera police yesterday that her unlocked car was stolen from the Corte Madera shopping center parking lot at 1 p.m.

The car, a 1962 green Chevrolet has license CUZ 302.

Cash Is Stolen By House Guest

An impromptu house guest allegedly stole more than $300 from his host in a bizarre incident Monday, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Charles A. Lidourel of 2 Captain's Landing near Tiburon called deputies shortly after 5 a.m. to report he had been awakened when the guest came into his bedroom strangling a cat and threatening to wring Lidourel's neck.

Lidourel told deputies that when he fled to a neighbor's to call, the man apparently took his wallet containing $312 in cash, checks and receipts and left.

The man, whose name Lidourel didn't know, had been at a party at the residence and was too drunk to leave so he was allowed to spend the night, deputies said.

Sewer Work Low Bid Acceptance Delayed

The San Rafael Sanitation District board last night postponed acceptance of a low bid on construction regarding the Bayside Acres Sewer Assessment District in the face of news that project costs could run $180,000 more than estimated.

"The estimate was so much lower than what the project may actually cost that the board delayed acceptance of the bid to Oct. 4," said Virginia Congdon, board secretary.

She said the board did not want to act without board chairman C. Paul Bettini, who was absent.

Low bidder on the project was Prodanovich, Inc., which bid $570,000, she said. The engineer had estimated project costs at $478,627, she said.

In addition, the Prodanovich bid did not include land acquisition or off-site and on-site construction of three pumping stations. The engineer had estimated the total project to cost $686,000, but the figures last night showed total cost might run as high as $866,000, she said.

The new cost figures could increase the average cost to the homeowner from an estimated $4,430 to $5,620, she said. Costs differ to each individual homeowner because of varying slope and terrain, she said.

The board on Oct. 4 will either accept the low bid and renotice a public hearing because of the increased cost, or throw out the bid and call for new ones, Mrs. Congdon said.

Social Security Benefits Noted

Residents of Marin County received $2,365,000 a month in Social Security benefits during 1971, Edwin H. Leuin, Social Security district manager, announced today in San Rafael.

Of the more than 19,000 Social Security beneficiaries in Marin, 12,121 were retired workers and their dependents.

Another 4,829 received benefits as survivors of workers who have died, and 1,496 received benefits as disabled workers or their dependents.

There were 3,921 people under age 60 who collected Social Security payments; about 2,000 of them were under 18.

San Rafael Sets Example In Vote

San Rafael residents have shown that they are interested in saving open space in the city, and are willing to pay to save it.

The 3-to-1 approval of a $2,250,000 open space bond issue in Tuesday's voting makes it plain that the people of San Rafael are concerned about their environment. It makes it plain also that they recognize that it's7up to them to save it — and that if wooded and scenic areas are in private ownership, the owner has a right to sell them. Proceeds of the bond issue will be used to buy such lands for the benefit of the public — San Rafael's own public.

THE CAMPAIGN in behalf of the bond issue was low-keyed. As we commented earlier, the organizations usually most vocal about conservation and saving the environment weren't heard from. The vote proves their voices weren't necessary; the people recognized the need without a lot of rhetoric about it.

Only a minority turned out to vote. This always distresses us, but it is the usual case in local elections, especially one-issue special elections such as this. The 34.19 per cent turnout actually was better than expected, and better than usual in local bond issue elections which are not tied in with elections to office for which the campaigning candidates have drummed up interest.

SAN RAFAEL may have pointed the way for other Marin communities. The next test will come Oct. 3 in Tiburon, in a special election on a $1.25 million bond issue for open space land purchase there.

It may not be so easy to get the necessary two-thirds approval for the Tiburon issue. Tiburon has much smaller assessed valuation than San Rafael, so the load on the individual taxpayer will be greater. Whereas the San Rafael issue will mean initial cost of just under 10 cents on the city tax rate, that in Tiburon will add 27 cents to the tax rate, according to figures prepared by City Mgr. Bert W. Balmer.

"Based on the average value of a house sold in Tiburon in 1970 ($55,000), this would cost the property owner $37 a year," Balmer reported. He then used the favorite equation in appealing for funds — "less than the cost of two packs of cigarettes" per week.

WE DOUBT that Tiburoners, or much of anyone else, equates such matters on the basis of open space vs. cigarettes. And $37 per year is not a tiny item to anyone — not even to all those who live in Tiburon. But again, the choice is clear: If we want to restore lands to public ownership to keep them open, we must pay the cost.

We congratulate the San Rafael voters who showed their willingness to pay to preserve their environment. We hope their example will be followed by those in Tiburon.

Labor Ignores Presidency But Not Lesser Offices

By RUS WALTON

If the California AFL-CIO has its way, the nation will be without a president for the next four years, starting in January, 1973.

At its recent state convention, the California Federation of Labor called for the defeat of President Nixon. It did not endorse the election of Sen. George McGovern. As far as the labor bosses are concerned, the White House shoud be vacant from 1973 to 1977.

That's kind of silly.

I mean, if they don't want more of Nixon, then they must want McGovern. And, if they can't stand McGovern, they must favor Nixon. Or, do they want John Schmitz of the American Independent Party? There has to be someone in that big executive mansion on Pennsylvania Avenue.

BUT, IF THE UNION fat cats want to sit out the presidential campaigns of 1972, that's their business. It does not mean that they won't be active in politics. No way!

In the final analysis, what the state AFL-CIO decided was that it would put its money and its muscle into campaigns for congressional and legislative offices. That could be a lot of money and a lot of muscle.

All-in-all, it could add up to several million dollars and hundreds of campaign workers — smart, sharp professionals trained and set in motion by COPE, the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Action.

Most of the money and effort — about 97 per cent of it — will go to Democrats. While the AFL-CIO was hanging the "Vacant" sign on the White House, it was endorsing 131 candidates for California's federal and state offices: 126 Democrats and 5 Republicans — which, for organized labor, is about par for the course.

Meanwhile, the Committee to Re-elect the President is busy building a new majority for Nixon. That is not the same as building a new majority for the Republican party or other Republican candidates.

IN MANY California counties, the Nixon vaccuum cleaner has sucked up most of the campaign money; candidates for lesser offices are having a rough time raising funds. Many Republican congressional and legislative campaigns are limping along for lack of competent management; the pros were drawn away into well-paid jobs in the Nixon campaign.

The awesome controls evident at the GOP convention in Miami Beach are now visible in the states and counties and districts.

The vaunted Republican Cal Plan — originated in 1962 by former GOP chairman Gaylord Parkinson and responsible for building a Republican majority in the legislature by 1968 — is in disrepair. It is not getting off the ground this year. Not enough money, poor leadership, dissenstion, and confusion.

Democratic leaders and workers, who feel McGovern will not govern come January, are shifting their money and efforts to local races. They are thinking ahead.

A RECENT statewide poll indicates that most of the Democrats who plan to vote for Nixon plan to vote Democratic on the rest of the ballot. Nixon's armor looks strong but his coat-tails seem to be weak.

Add it all up. The AFL-CIO disengagement with the presidential race; its efforts on behalf of Democratic candidates throughout the state; the lop-sided Democratic increases in registration; the Nixon organization's tunnel vision at the expense of other races. It spells trouble for the Republican party.

"I hope those Gallup poll undecideds aren't standing in front of me at the polls."

Two-Year-Old Hub Report Still Pondered

The city fathers of San Anselmo struggled again last week with the citizens' report on "Non-Conforming Residential Uses" prepared by the Citizens Committee on Zoning and Housing in August 1971.

I regret that not all councilmen see it my way, but the least I can hope for is that they read the report and come to the conclusion that it deals with existing units only, those units that existed in the fall of 1970 — yes, two years ago.

Welfare System 'Pay Or Get Paid'

It's true — the welfare system in this country is a farce. A friend of mine, whose assets exceed $15,000, applied for food stamps here in Marin when he was out of work. It's such easy money, he sees no reason to ever go back to work. My sister, who lives in Los Angeles, describes the welfare office as an assembly line, giving you what you want, just to get rid of you. My other sister, living in Washington with her illegitmate child, gets almost as much from the government for not working as my mother gets for working fulltime in a department store in the same state.

It's a "pay-or-get-paid" system, and you can't blame someone who wants to "get paid," can you? Nor can you blame the wage earner for wanting to lynch those planners in government who throw their precious money around.

When Can Others Remove Bracelets?

How fortunate for the relatives and friends of the three prisoners of war soon to be released by Hanoi! Jill Degnan can remove her bracelet, now that her wishes, and perhaps prayers, have been answered.

How unfortunate for the other 1,800 men who remain on the prisoner-of-war or missing-in-action lists! When can those wearing their bracelets remove them?

The prisoner-of-war bracelets have helped keep the plight of 1,800 men in the public eye. They have helped the families of these men, by making them feel their sons and husbands have not been forgotten.

The local Red Cross has further information on how to obtain these bracelets, for those interested.

Fluoridated Water And Kidney Patients

The question of possible hazard of fluoridated water to patients using artificial kidneys has been raised. These patients are exposed to 400 gallons of water weekly via their artificial kidneys and have impaired ability to excrete fluroide because their own kidneys are damaged. The normal person has normal kidneys and consumes one to two gallons of water weekly.

I discussed this matter with several doctors specializing in renal disease at the artificial kidney unit of the San Francisco General Hospital. Dr. Patricia Schoenfeld, who is the acting director of the artificial kidney unit there, provided the following information: There is some evidence that using fluoridated water for renal dialysis (artificial kidney) may contribute to bone disease. Bone disease occurs in patients on chronic use of the artificial kidney, whether there is fluoride in the water or not, and there is no clear-cut data at this time that patients who are dialyzed with fluoridated water have a higher incidence than those dialyzed with water not containing fluoride. Dr. Schoenfeld felt that ideally non-fluoridated water would be preferable. There is a growing feeling amongst experts that tap water, which is now generally used for the artificial kidney, is not entirely satisfactory since other substances besides fluoride may cause problems. San Francisco General Hospital is instituting special purifying devices for the water they will use for their artificial kidney patients.

Such water purifying apparatus is readily available. . .It would seem that an ideal solution would be to make such water purifying devices available to those patients who have artificial kidneys. Fluoride could be removed from their water without denying the benefits of fluoridation to the rest of the population of the county.

Swedish Pharmacologist On Water Fluoridation

My dictionary says that pharmacology is the science of drugs, and pharmacy is the administering of drugs. Now if the pharmacist whose letter appeared in the I.J. on Sept. 5 is concerned, as he should be, with the pharmacological aspects of artificial fluoridation, I suggest that he consider a recent report by one of Sweden's top scientific authorities on fluoride and fluoridation, Prof. Arvid Carlsson. Dr. Carlsson is head of the department of pharmacology, University of Goteborg, and his report was presented as back-up evidence for the banning of fluoridation throughout Sweden, which became effective late in 1971.

What the professor charges has to be common knowledge among worthy pharmacists. Members of the dental profession might be excused for lack of such information, but not the dispensers of drugs. For example, the Carlsson report emphasizes that fluoridation supplies "a pharmacologically active substance (a drug) to an entire population in order to induce a systemic effect."

Within pharmacology, says Dr. Carlsson, there's hardly any drug that hasn't side effects, even at normal levels. "By adding a drug to tap water, the risk of overdosage becomes greater than normally because of wide individual differences in water consumption," Professor Carlsson concludes.

The entire report, translated from the original Swedish, is recommended reading for all fluoridation advocates and must be considered a major step toward re-evaluation of the fluoridation theory in the United States as well as Sweden.

Problem Of Saving Environment Especially Difficult 'Down East'

NEWAGEN, Maine — The equinoctial rains have come, the summer visitors have departed, and in the brilliant sun of Indian summer the rockbound coast, the long sweep of the ocean, the dark forest of pines take on a new and gentler life here. The best season of the year, Indian summer is a belated blessing and a promise against the long winter to come.

Around the pond across the road the goldenrod glows as though with an inner light. On the top of some of the taller maples the first brush of frost has left its scarlet mark. The sumac is beginning to turn.

How to keep Maine green? How to keep it relatively unspoiled when tourists are second only to lumbering in the state's economy? These are questions Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis is trying to answer. It comes down to striking a balance between the need for more industry and more jobs — in Maine with unemployment over seven per cent as the urgent need, and keeping the coastline, the lakes, the rivers, the silent, empty spaces in something like their natural state; that is to say, unpolluted and not too cluttered with the rash of motels and hamburger stands that spring up with the tourists.

IT IS THE dilemma of all of America as a rapidly increasing affluent population takes to the road and as industry expands. For Maine the dilemma is acute, since many of the four million visitors come for unspoiled beauty and for the solitude that has been obliterated almost everywhere else.

Governor Curtis has just received the report of a distinguished task force set up by Resources for the Future. The report recommends that heavy industry on the coast be limited to two zones, one at Portland and the other at Machias Bay. Portland last July had the second largest oil spill in the east coast — 10,000 gallons —and the muck has not yet been entirely cleaned up.

In view of the spill, oil development, limited to Portland, should be deferred even there until corrective action has been taken with regard to navigation, training and stockpiling. Dependent for domestic and industrial use on oil, Maine is at the end of the line and the expectation is for shortages and higher prices this winter. Over this vital flow the state has virtually no control other than a limited veto.

It is like the timber industry, owned almost entirely outside the state. Maine is, therefore, a province with the decisions on economic destiny taken in board rooms in New York and elsewhere. While there is no competition in the oil industry, the hope here is that with the development of Canadian oil a pipeline can be brought down from the north and this could be a lever on the pricing of the big domestic producers.

THE TASK FORCE proposed, hopefully, that perhaps 98 per cent of the 3,300 miles of coastline should with certain exceptions be kept for open, scenic benefits, recreation, tourism, summer and year-round residences and light industry such as boat-building. This is a noble prescription but the degree to which the state can carry it out is one of the uncertainties. It sometimes looks as though government deliberately designed to frustrate any action and that goes double for Maine.

Curtis during his six years as governor — he is in the middle of his second and last term — has had not only a Republican legislature but a Republican executive council. The council with extensive powers over state officeholders is chosen not by popular election but by the legislature. In effect, it means a veto on even small matters, such as firing an incompetent officeholder.

In the state capitol in Augusta, Governor Curtis speaks with modest hope of what can be accomplished. He notes that the Republican speaker of the house, David J. Kennedy, a member of the task force, had earlier called for some of the recommendations contained in the report.

But effective antipollution measures cost money and they can cost jobs. They can mean the closing of older and less efficient plants. Turning several hundred men out of work in a pulp mill in a small community is a grievous blow.

"And was Jerusalem builded here among those dark Satanic mills?" That was the dour response of William Blake to England's industrial revolution. The mills have scarcely smudged the Maine landscape. But it is a struggle that at times seems to be a losing one.

ERWIN D. CANHAM

Uncle Sam, Big Industrialist, Depends On Farms For Trade

The new trade relations the United States is building up with various countries — with the Soviet Union, with mainland China, with Japan — have one curious aspect. A large part of the American exports consist of primary products — raw materials — like wheat and soybeans and, in the case of Japan, lumber.

Most nations which export such products think rather poorly of themselves. They regard themselves as in a kind of colonial status, at the mercy of prices set by the buyers. They see the fruits of their soil being exploited while the products of their industry — if any — are spurned.

Here is the United States, an advanced industrial nation, being reduced to the function of supplier of farm and forest. It's a switch.

OF COURSE the picture is not total. Many governments, like the Chinese, are buying impressive quantities of jet airplanes. They also are buying great American engineering skills, as in the plan of American oil companies and big construction firms to enlarge greatly the petro-chemical resources of Central Asia.

American agribusiness is scarcely the same thing as the production of cocoa in Ghana or coffee in Brazil. The American farms are exceedingly productive and efficient, due to their heavy capitalization, merchanization, and genetic advancement. And they are American-controlled, not dominated by the foreign importer-exploiter.

All the same, a paradox remains, especially between the United States and Japan. Americansare the farmers. Japanese are the highly skilled industrialists.

THIS INVERTED state of affairs has been produced by various causes. There is no getting away from the immense productive power of the American agricultural revolution. Someday this green revolution may hit the Ukraine, or central China, with equal force. It hasn't yet.

Nor is there any evading the competitive power of retooled Japanese industry, manned by its exceedingly skilled and economical work force, strengthened by astute management, banking, and alliance with government.

Nor can one escape the high costs of American industrial production, beginning with steel and running right through the factories and transportation systems and marketing. Trade union pressures, seeking a higher standard of living, have forced costs of production up and up. Management has not been far behind in its search for profits, and sometimes in its wasteful organization and operation. Taxes place a very heavy burden, from the community through to the Internal Revenue Service. Defense contracting has produced bad habits.

Of course, the United States isn't going to take a back seat as an industrial power. Its research and development, especially in the areas of information gathering and sharing, and of computerization, are far from standing still. International corporations which are largely controlled by Americans have penetrated into much of the world and share in the generalizing of industrial progress elsewhere.

THE WORLD ECONOMY is taking on a far better balanced posture than ever before in history. The development of Siberian oil and natural gas, for example, may be seen by some Americans as adding to the war-mking capacity of the Soviet Union.

Maybe it does, although the military power of Soviet thermo-nuclear weapons was already as massive as can be imagined, and is serving as a deterrent to war (matched by the American stockpile) rather than as a threat. So to have more oil and gas in the Soviet Union is much more likely to raise the standard of living. It would give the Russian citizen a stake in prosperity which would help to preserve peace. The economic rise of Japan, also, is not necessarily a factor of war-making power but rather of peace-preserving.

Uncle Sam, farmer, is first cousin to Uncle Sam, aero-space merchant, or Uncle Sam, engineer, or Uncle Sam, capitalist. The world economy does not stand still. Nor can the United States.

What Worries NASA Officials: Did Astronauts Sell The Moon?

WASHINGTON — The retail value of the commercial exploitation of the Apollo program has now passed $1 million. That is to say, people have made over a million dollars cashing in on the astronauts' trips to the moon. Unfortunately the astronauts have shared in this questionable rip-off of the space program. Every day reveals some new commercial aspect of the Apollo trips that was not known to the American public. There is a fear among some that the million dollars is just the tip of the iceberg, and the really big deals that the astronauts made with promoters have not come out yet.

THE BIGGEST nightmare of all for the space agency is that astronauts may have sold the moon to an unscrupulous real estate developer. One day in the not-too-distant future someone like E. Pluibus Yunum may walk into NASA headquarters and say, "I understand you're building a space shuttle to land on my moon."

"Your moon?" a NASA official asks.

"Yes, I bought the moon from the astronauts 16 months ago. Here's the deed, registered in Houston, Tex."

"But they had no right to sell the moon to anyone," the NASA man says frantically.

"Who says so? I gave them each $2,500, and they sold the place to me, air rights and all. Now don't get me wrong. I'm not against the space shuttle, because we will need transportation when we develop 'Moonlight Acres.' But we just want to make sure the landing field for the shuttle won't interfere with our master plan."

"JUST A MINUTE," the NASA man says. He pushes the button on his intercom. "Send in any Apollo astronauts you can find in the building."

A few minutes later three astronauts come into the office.

"Did you sell this guy the moon?" the NASA man asks.

"He took an option on it," one of the astronauts replies sheepishly.

"And I picked up the option," Yunum says. "Don't you remember I gave you each a check and the right to build a house apiece on the Sea of Tranquility?"

"I knew we signed some papers," another astronaut admits, "but I didn't know the sale was final."

"IT'S FINAL, all right," Yunum says. "We're taking ads in next Sunday's newspapers announcing the sale of lots on the Sea of Fertility. We're making it into a senior citizens' complex.

"We're also selling acreage, $10 down and $10 a month, along the Sea of Serenity. We'll provide a golf course, tennis courts, schools, roads and fishing and boating facilities to the lucky owners. And each site will have an unobstructed view of earth."

The NASA man says, "I don't know what it is, but there has to be something illegal about this sale."

Yunum says, "I checked it out with my lawyers. There is no question about it; I own the moon and I'm going to develop it. Now if you people still want to land on it, it's all right with me. But I don't want a lot of spaceships landing late at night. It could discourage real estate sales."

THE NASA EXECUTIVE looks at the astronauts. "How could you do it? How could you cheapen the whole space program by selling the moon to this joker?"

"If we hadn't," an astronaut says defensively, "one of the other guys would have done it. Besides, he told us he wanted to make a national park out of it."

"If you want," another astronaut says, "we'll give the $2,500 back."

"It's too late," the NASA man says. "But you will have to live with it for the rest of your lives. Whenever someone looks at the moon and sees a Holiday Inn sign blinking in the night and the neon lights of a McDonald's hamburger stand, he'll know you guys put them there."

Jazz Ensemble To Play Tuesday

The Sonoma State College Concert Jazz Ensemble will bring its "Cavalcade of Big Bands" to San Rafael Tuesday with an 8 p.m. performance at San Rafael High School.

The group, directed by Walter Oster played to packed houses at the college last spring. The San Rafael program will be the start of a Bay Area tour.

The program will also feature narration, dances and vocalists Bertha Wims, Jeff Oster, Billy Browning and Ben Benzmiller.

Trial Date Set In Injury Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Trial has been set for Oct. 31 in superior court here in a $5 million damage suit filed by a San Francisco man on behalf of his young son who was seriously injured in a school yard fight.

The suit was filed against the City of San Rafael by David Niles of San Francisco on behalf of his son, Kelly.

The boy, according to the suit, was almost totally paralyzed, the result of a fight in 1970 with another boy at Bahia Vista School in San Rafael during a city-sponsored recreational program.

The suit contends that the school district and the city failed to provide proper supervision over the school yard.

The injured boy, who is now 13, lives in San Rafael with his mother, Joan.

Bullet Ricochets, Man Wounded

A 47-year-old Marin City man was treated for gunshot wound in the leg Monday, received as he walked toward his home at 271 Drake Avenue.

Handy Eskue was shot about 5:30 p.m. in the 200 block of Drake Avenue, apparently by accident, according to Marin City sheriff's deputies.

Eskue told officers he did not see who fired the gun, but noticed a group of young boys near the scene after the bullet hit the ground near him, then richocheted into his leg.

The injured man refused hospital treatment and was treated by a private physician.

Guilty Plea In Richmond Knifing

A 23-year-old Marin City man who had been charged with felony assault stemming from an argument over an unpaid debt was allowed to plead guilty Tuesday to misdemeanor assault with a deadly weapon.

Judge David R. Baty of Marin Municipal Court scheduled sentencing for Oct. 20 for Herman Turner Jr., arrested July 25 after a Richmond man was knifed during an argument.

Wife's Name

In the Norman Boyd obituary published Tuesday in the Independent-Journal, his wife's name was listed as Nellie when it should have been Halycon (Hallie). Nellie Boyd of Susalito is his step-mother. He was also a member of Sons in Retirement.

100 Hear Tiburon Land Bond Panel

By JAY GOODWIN

About 100 Tiburon residents turned up at Del Mar School last night and politely listened to a panel of speakers endorse the city's $1.25 million open space bond election Oct. 3.

The five-member panel, moderated by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, discussed the bond issue and fielded questions for about two hours. A few residents expressed concern over their escalating property taxes, but no one clearly opposed the bond issue.

The panel consisted of former Mayor Denis T. Rice, former councilman Anne L. Ellinwood, planning commissioner Jacqueline Parnell, former parks and recreation commission chairman George Ellman, and Peter H. Watson.

If the bond issue is approved, the City will sell up to $1.25 million worth of general obligation bonds to finance the acquisition of about 125 acres of undeveloped land in Tiburon. Though no specific parcel has yet been designated for purchase, the city council has indicated it intends to buy a 300-foot-wide corridor of open space running along the top of the ridge.

Rice said he learned while a council member that zoning ordinances by themselves are insufficient to protect open space from impending development. The ordinances must be supplemented by land acquisition, he said.

"While the bond issue is not a panacea, it is a necessary touchstone to getting any meaningful preservation of the Tiburon environment," he said.

Miss Ellinwood found herself playing the "devil's advocate" in the absence of any bona fide opponent of the bond issue. She said she supports the bonds, but was bothered by a few unanswered questions.

For example, what happens to the property owner who has dreamed of building a house on his land for years and is suddenly forced to sell the land?

Since we don't know which open space parcels are to be purchased, are we being asked to buy a pig-in-a-poke? Why doesn't the city consider buying some of the lands lower on the hillsides, where they are more accessible? Will the city face inverse condemnation proceedings by property owners reluctant to sell their land at less than what they consider fair market value?

Miss Ellinwood predicted property values would rise throughout Tiburon when the city council purchased the 125 acres and removed the lands from the market. The remaining lands would become more scarce, thus more valuable, she said.

She stressed the need for additional recreational areas and a more balanced housing stock in Tiburon.

After Ellman demonstrated the percentage of the taxpayer's dollar that would go toward the bonds by slicing up an aluminum pie plate, Mrs. Parnell attempted to answer Miss Ellinwood's questions.

She said few property owners would be deprived of their "dream houses" if the bond issue is approved.

There are relatively few parcels being considered for acquisition, she said. The owners of those parcels that are bought would probably be allowed to keep a small portion of their property to build on.

She agreed with Miss Ellinwood that ridgetops should not be the only open space considered for acuisition, and encouraged acquisition of "community separators" of open space that would maintain a distinction between existing neighborhoods.

Mrs. Parnell opposed paying property owners less than the fair market value for their land.

Watson said the Citizens Committee for Open Space, spearheading the campaign for the bonds, is a heterogeneous group with members from all areas and economic levels of Tiburon. "In a sense, I feel the bond issue can be a stimulus for unity in this community," Watson said.

In answer to a question about the bond issue's affect on the tax rate, Rice said the rate would increase less if the land is purchased than if it is developed.

"Residential development does not pay for itself," he said.

Rice predicted a greater increase in taxes, if the land is developed, to pay for new schools, sewers, streets and other services required by an influx of residents to a new development.

October 4-H Parade In Novato

A 4-H-sponsored parade for members and others will be held at 1 p.m. Oct. 8 in Novato, according to parade chairman Nancy Gauer.

The theme is "Our America — The Land and the People," marking National 4-H week. A similar parade last year drew more than 200 entries.

Entrants may check in at Marion School at Seventh Street and Grant Avenue at 12:15 p.m. The parade will proceed down Vallejo Avenue to First Street, south on First Street to Grant Avenue and west back on Grant Avenue, to Marion School.

All 4-H clubs in the county have been urged to enter.

Parade categories include families, groups, decorated nonmotorized vehicles, motorized vehicles, mounted horses, individuals and bands. Three prizes will be awarded in each category, plus a trophy for the best 4-H club entr and a grand prize for other entries.

Further information or entry blanks may be obtained from Mrs. Gauer at 2358 Dominic Drive, Novato.

Smog District Action On Oxides Delayed

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — The staff of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District yesterday said they have too little information on nitrogen oxides to justify controlling their emission from some 8,000 sources.

At least one to two years will be needed to get enough information to tell whether any controls are warranted, staff members told the district's ad hoc committee on nitrogen oxides.

The district's top administrator, D. J. Callaghan, repeatedly rejected the committee's pleas for a deadline for the staff to complete its study of the problem. Anyway, he said, the major source of nitrogen oxides is the motor vehicle — and vehicles are under the state's jurisdiction, not the district's.

Callaghan did not make clear his reasons for refusing to set a deadline, except to say his staff was too busy with enforcement work to devote its time as well to other problems.

He drew sharp criticism from James F. Reed III of San Anselmo, who said "everything is always a year away, and it never gets any closer. 'One to two years' just goes on and on," said Reed, a member of the committee.

While Callaghan was out of the room, however, other members of the staff promised to come up with a deadline by the end of next month.

The chairman of the committee, Bernard D. Tebbens of Berkeley, cautioned that the staff's proposed delay in controlling nitrogen oxides was contrary to the board of directors' request for prompt action on controls.

Warren Crouse, supervising engineer for the district, explained the controls may prove unwarranted because of their high cost for a modest reduction in pollution.

Of 720 tons of nitrogen oxides thrown into the region's air every day, 500 are from vehicles and aircraft, according to Crouse. Of the remaining 220 tons under district jurisdiction, more than half come from Pacific Gas and Electric Co. power stations and from oil refineries. The rest come from home heaters and industrial boilers.

Improvements to boilers to meet tougher standards could cost up to $1 million per unit, with PG&E putting its cost alone at up to $50 million, Callaghan reported.

Nitrogen oxides give the air its brown tint on smoggy days and are the key ingredient in the photochemical smog process. They are considered potentially hazardous to human health.

Cimmarron County in Oklahoma is the only county in the United States bordering on four states: Colorado, Kansas, Texas and New Mexico.

Tanner Has Not Given Up Hope Despite A's Loss

By JOE SARGIS

OAKLAND (UPI) — Chuck Tanner, as gracious in defeat as he is in victory, hasn't given up hope his Chicago White Sox will catch the Oakland A's, but you'd have to saynow his chances range from poor to none at all.

After the A's, behind the home run bats of Reggie Jackson and Sal Bando and the pinpoint shutout relief pitching of Rollie Fingers, beat the White Sox, 6-3, Wednesday night, no one, not even Tanner, was making plans beyond Oct. 4 — the last day of the season.

"This was the one to win and we won it," said A's skipper Dick Williams, who was thrown out in the sixth inning for arguing a call at the plate and watched the rest of the game on closed circuit television. "Now, we're in the driver's seat and while we haven't clinched anything yet, I feel our chances are very good."

The victory, Oakland's eighth in 15 meetings with the White Sox this year, put the A's five games up on Chicago with 12 to go. The simple mathematics of the race would indicate the White Sox have no chance at all but Tanner is still hoping.

"It can be done," he said. "I remember one year (1964) the Phillies had an unbeatable lead in the last six games and blew it, so you are never sure of anything until you've won it. We're in the position now of having to win all our games (11 are left) and hope someone knocks off Oakland."

Then in the next breath Tanner talked about what a great ball club Oakland has and the fine managing by Williams.

"Dick has done a great job with that club," said Tanner. "He came in two years ago and did a job few others could have done. He made the club produce and I'm sure that wasn't lost on Mr. (Charlie) Finley because he gave him another two-year contract."

Over on the other side, Williams was promoting Tanner for American League manager of the year.

Jackson hit his 25th homer leading off the second in Wednesday night's big game and Bando followed with his 15th after a single by Gene Tenace.

That gave Ken Holtzman and the A's a 3-0 lead over Wilbur Wood but Holtzman buckled a little in the fourth when Rick Reichardt and Carlos May reached him for back-to-back homers.

But Wood, failing to win his 25th game for the fourth straight time, was touched for two more runs in the fifth. Bert Campaneris started the inning with a single, stole his 44th base and rode home on a single by Joe Rudi for one run and Rudi scored the second after a wild pitch, an infield hit by Jackson and an error by Dick Allen.

The White Sox got their final run in the sixth on a single by Reichardt, an error by Bando on a smash to third by May and a fielder's choice grounder to short by Ed Spiezio.

A walk to Dal Maxvill, a sacrifice and a single by Campaneris scored an insurance run for the A's in the bottom of the sixth.

Holtzman left in the sixth but Fingers came on to hold the White Sox hitless the rest of the way and save Holtzman's 18th victory.

Williams said he will give Holtzman three more starting assignments and will even have him in the bullpen if necessary this weekend against Kansas City.

"I want to give Ken every chance I can to win 20," said Williams. "He deserves it for the way he has pitched for us all year long."

Vida Blue will start against Kansas City's Dick Drago Friday night while on Saturday it will be Jim Hunter against Paul Splittorff. Kansas City's Sunday pitchers are uncertain but John Odom and Dave Hamilton will start for Oakland.

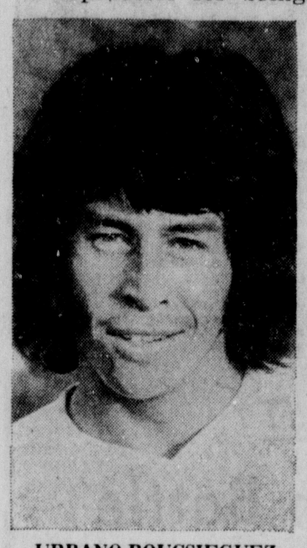
Outstanding Soccer Match Set In Marin

The best soccer Marin County has ever seen is in store for those who take in the game next Thursday night between University of San Francisco and St. Louis University on the San Rafael High School field.

Responsible for bringing this game to Marin County are the men who run the Marin Youth Soccer Association, the bulk of the work being done by Robert A. Braghetta of Ross, perhaps the biggest soccer buff in Marin County.



URBANO BOUCSIEGUEZ

It will be one of two regular season meetings between the two college soccer powers; there will be a rematch two days after the San Rafael game, the Saturday afternoon contest at Kezar Stadium.

IF YOU HAVEN'T followed college soccer, you might not realize St. Louis University is perennially the No. 1 team in the nation. The Billikens are like the New York Yankees when I was a kid, always winning pennants and playing in the World Series.

USF made it all the way to the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) semi-finals last year before losing to St. Louis U., 3-2. It was the fifth time in six meetings St. Louie has gotten the best of USF's soccer team.

DOING THE COACHING at USF is Steve Negoesco who makes his home in Corte Madera. Two of the players on his team came up through the ranks of Marin County Athletic League — Urbano Boucsieguez from San Marin High and Bill Mejia from San Rafael High. Boucsieguez, a kicker on the 1971 USF football team, is a starter for the Dons' soccer team this season.

Both Marin players are good examples of what soccer has over the United States' brand of football — you don't have to be a moose to play. Urbano is 5-foot-8 and 145 pounds and Bill is 5-8 and 165. Both are sophomore sociology majors.

A glance at the USF roster shows players on the team have come from places such as Mexico, West Germany, England, Colombia, Iran and Greece. In these countries, soccer is THE sport and they supply many of our college teams with manpower. That's today. Tomorrow things might be different.

ONCE SOCCER GROWS in stature and local programs start developing the U.S. youngsters, things will change. The Marin Youth Soccer Association program has tripled in size in just one year. Where 126 boys participated last year, the association's first, there are 430 players, boys AND girls, this year. Last year there were 10 teams in Ross, one in Mill Valley and one in Greenbrae. This year there are 26 teams in Ross, six in Kentfield, four in Greenbrae and four in Mill Valley.

AN OLYMPIC atmosphere will prevail at halftime of Thursday night's soccer game. The San Rafael Chamber of Commerce will present certificates to seven Marin County residents who performed in the Munich Olympics and executive director Robert Nelson hopes all will be back in Marin County in time for the presentations. Swimmer Rick DeMont is back and swimmer Robin Backhaus, who will be living in San Rafael, is due in Marin County in the next few days. Bicyclist Emile Waldteufel of Mill Valley has returned, but race walkers Goetz Klopfer and Tom Dooley and boxers Jesse Valdez and Ricardo Carreras have not yet returned to Marin.

Tickets for the Thursday night game are being sold at Ross Valley Savings and Loan in San Anselmo and Greenbrae; all six Marin County offices of Frank Howard Allen Realty; Mill Valley Realty, and Taveggia-Brusati Sport and Saddle Shop in San Rafael.

Erving Awarded To Milwaukee

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Julius Erving, facing possible export from the Atlanta Hawks to the Milwaukee Bucks, has suggested that the Hawks may want to offer a deal to the Bucks involving "cash and a future draft choice."

The 6-foot-7 forward expressed surprise at Wednesday's ruling by the National Basketball Association's board of governors that rights to his talents belonged to Milwaukee, not Atlanta.

"I hadn't anticipated this," said Erving.

Floyd: No Need To Hide After Muhammad Victory

NEW YORK (UPI)—Floyd Patterson won't have to wear a mustache and beard today but he'll probably have on a pair of dark glasses to hide an ugly left eye toat forced an end to his fight with Mahammad Ali Wednesday night in Madison Square Garden.

"I'm ashamed whenever I lose a fight," said Patterson after Dr. Harry Kleiman stopped the scheduled 12-round fight at the end of the seventh as Floyd's eye was slashed and swollen shut.

"I hope you (press) will see this fight as I saw it. He did not carry me like the last time. I'm still ashamed that I lost but there will be no more mustache and beard."

That old disguise that Patterson once used after being humiliated by Sonny Liston was part of the old Floyd Patterson.

The new Floyd Patterson, the man who no longer fights with the whole world on his shoulders, put up a game effort against Ali for five rounds. But Ali, disinterested in the early going, put an end to Patterson's endless dream of getting another shot at the heavyweight title in the sixth round.

Told by his trainer Angelo Dundee, that he was behind on points, Ali rushed from his corner at the start of the sixth and nailed Patterson with a hard combination. Floyd never recovered. A hard right caught Patterson on the left temple and he came off the ropes with his eye puffed and bleeding.

When the final round began, Patterson's eye already was closed and Ali was hitting him with everything he threw.

Three more minutes of leather from Ali and that was enough for Floyd. "The cut was too close to the eyeball," said Dr. Kleiman, who stopped the fight just before the bell sounded for the eighth. "I didn't want him to suffer any permanent damage."

Ali, who back in 1965 as champion punished Patterson for 12 rounds and felt no remorse about it, was sympathic

Reds Top Giants In Series Finale

CINCINNATI (UPI)—It was a somewhat joyous goodbye to Riverfront Stadium for the San Francisco Giants.

That's because they won't have to play in that place again this year after dropping an 8-6 decision to the Cincinnati Reds Wednesday night to close out the season series between the two clubs.

Catcher Johnny Bench and reliever Clay Carroll again proved too much for the Giants to handle. Bench hit his third homer in three games against Giants starter Don Carrithers leading off the second.

Carroll came on in the ninth inning and struck out two of the three batters he faced to notch his 32nd save of the season and third straight against the Giants.

San Francisco was leading 6-4 until the Reds salted it away with a four-run explosion in the eighth against Elias Sosa and Jerry Johnson.

Al Gallagher and Ken Henderson each drove in two runs for the Giants.

Billie Jean's Easy Coast Net Victory

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI)—Billie Jean King breezed past Jill Cooper, 6-0, 6-2 in first round competition of the Pacific Coast International tennis tourney.

"I guess it's good the match ended when it did," said Miss Cooper, a 23-year-old British girl. "I was getting tired of running for drop shots."

"I guess I played all right," said Billie Jean after Wednesday's match. "It's my first match on cement in maybe seven weeks. I've been playing on grass and clay courts and they're pretty slow compared to this. Still I didn't think much of my first serves."

Mrs. King had one mishap when she swiped at her face with a towel between games of the second set and broke off a silver earring. "I not only ruined the earring," she complained, "I hurt my ear." She tossed the offending jewelry into a trash can.

The tourney is being played at Golden Gate Fields and in San Francisco.

Second-rated Margaret Court of Australia breezed past Margaret Cooper of Florida 6-1, 6-1 in the main San Francisco match.

The Astrodome's Leaking Roof

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Houston Sports Association began a $1.2 million project to repair the leaking roof of the Astrodome Wednesday.

A spokesman said holes in the Dome are being taped, covered with polyster and then covered with another substance to protect against ultraviolet rays.

ANALYSIS

Prep Grid Tomorrow

By LEW CODDINGTON

Introducing a new, true-to-life football game called "comparative scores." It's challenging, fun, and almost meaningless.

When the seven Marin County Athletic League football teams finish their schedule of games tomorrow and Saturday, analysts will have a fistful of scores agaist common opponents, all the better to compare the title contenders.

The schedule calls for four games tomorrow. George Washington of San Francisco will play at Redwood High in Larkspur, 3:30 p.m., and Terra Linda will entertain Alameda at San Rafael High, 8. Drake visits Vallejo and San Rafael journeys to Antioch, also at 8.

Saturday's schedule calls for Novato at Lincoln of San Francisco, 11 a.m.; Sonoma vs. San Marin at Novato, 1:30 p.m.; and Tamalpais at Marin Catholic, 2.

Redwood last week defeated Antioch, 7-6, and San Rafael's score against the Panthers will provide a comparison. San Rafael annihilated Lincoln last week, 38-0, which can be compared with Novato's effort Saturday. The Giants, Bulldogs and Hornets all are expected to contend for the MCAL title, along with Terra Linda.

Redwood's foe Washington is "inconsistent right now, but an explosive team with good speed. Their quarterback is an exceptional short passer. They're off to a slow start, and they're not big up front, but they're tough on defense," according to Giant coach Phil Roark.

Redwood suffered several injuries against Antioch. Halfback Daryl Edralin will miss this game and possibly the next with a shoulder pointer, and gauard Pete Massoletti, linebacker Gerald Jack and fullback Ron Small are doubtful starters.

San Rafael coach Bob Muster is wary of the Antioch toughness that forced those injuries.

Bulldog tackle Dan Dell'Era will miss the game with stretched knee ligaments, but is expected to return to practice next week.

Coach Don Lucas juggled Terra Linda's lineup drastically after last week's 22-7 loss to Concord, installing five new starters on defense and three on offense.

Greg Beltran, Kevin Kirby and Kevin O'Keefe will start in the secondary, Cam Lieth and Larry Madden in the defensive line, Larry in the offensive line. The game will tell if all-star tackle Madden has recovered from the side effects of a broken leg.

"Alameda is easily one of the best teams in Northern California year after year," Lucas says.

Drake defensive back Ric Herbert will miss the Vallejo game with a collapsed knee, but otherwise the Pirates will be healthy.

Cross Country Wins By Redwood In Loop Opener

Redwood High School Varsity runners swept the first four places yesterday in winning twice in a triple-duel meet to open the 1972 Marin County Athletic League cross country season.

Dave Brainerd won on the three-mile course with a time of 15:52.8. Sdcond was Ned Overland, 15:58; third was Pete Sweeney, 16:08, and a surprising fourth was Jan-Eric Moller, the course record holder, 16:26.

In team scoring, Redwood defeated San Rafael, 15-49, and whipped Novato, 15-50. San Rafael won its meet with Novato, 29-30.

In another league varsity meet yesterday at Terra Linda High School, Tamalpais defeated Terra Linda, 23-33.

Frosh-Soph scores: Redwood 23, San Rafael 32; Tamalpais 18, Drake 38; Drake 27, Terra Linda 28; Tamalpais 18, Terra Linda 41.

Skywalking Act Of Wallenda

CINCINNATI — Karl Wallenda says there is one fundamental difference between baseball and his favorite sport — skywalking.

"An error in baseball becomes a book statistic," said the amazing 67-year-old aerialist. "An error in my business becomes a vital statistic."

Wallenda would welcome the opportunity to walk across Candlestick Park on a high wire — for a fee, of course. He received $3,500 for his 600-foot walk across Atlanta Stadium on a 142-foot high tightrope following last Sunday's baseball game between the Giants and the Braves.

Wouldn't Candlestick's wind deter him?

"It doesn't blow all the time," said Wallenda. "I know San Francisco from my circus visits there. It is one of my favorite cities."

WALLENDA THEN RECALLED his 1970 walk of 1,100 feet across Tallulah Gorge in the northeast corner of Georgia.

"Just before I started that walk someone said I was crazy to try it because of a down draft in the gorge.

"Fifty years ago in Germany when I told my father and mother the career I was going to follow, they, too, told me I was crazy. But, being circus people themselves, they understood. Anyone ever connected with the circus dreams about doing the unusual, the thrilling act."

WALLENDA CAME to the United States 42 years ago and has been here ever since his first stateside high wire walk in Madison Square Garden April 5, 1928.

Wallenda speaks with deep feeling about the tragedies that claimed the lives of his daughter, sonin-law, and other members of his family in high wire accidents but he isn't maudlin in his sorrow.

"I have been asked many times how I could continue after the accidents," he said. "A man can't give up because of personal sorrow. A man doesn't quit his job because of personal grief. And my job is on the high wire.

"FEAR? I HAVE no fear up there. But I do have great faith in God. I put my trust in the Lord. I pray to Him."

Wallenda speaks about praying matter-of-factly, without any holier-than-thou attitude. Indeed, he switched from the subject of prayer to the fact that he enjoyed a couple of martinis before dinner with the greatest of ease and no embarrassment whatsoever.

"Karl is a man without pretense," said Jack Leontini, Wallenda's lifelong friend and manager. "He's like an old shoe, very comfortable to be around."

And Wallenda has a delightful sense of humor. He chuckled when asked if he intended to take Don Davidson on his shoulders for the skywalk across Atlanta Stadium.

"Donald," said Wallenda, referring to the four-foot midget who is the traveling secretary of the Braves, "is not crazy."

FIGHT

after it was over.

Floyd Patterson fought a great fight," said Ali. "He stunned me a couple of times and he was winning the fight. Floyd, you keep in training and I'll give you a rematch. You deserve it."

Actually Patterson was behind on two of the officials' cards and the other judge had the fight even through the seventh.

"I felt I was holding my own," said Patterson. "As the fight progressed I tried to step up the pace but I got hit in the eye and that was it.

"I felt I should have thrown more punches, done more fighting. I'll do it next time."

Raiders Change Lineup

ALAMEDA, Calif. (UPI)— Daryle Lamonica at quarterback won't be the only switch in the Oakland Raiders lineup Sunday when they call on Green Bay.

Lamonica, who led the Raiders to three fourth-quarter touchdowns last Sunday in a losing effort at Pittsburgh, was announced earlier this week as Sunday's starter.

Coach John Madden says Bob Moore will replace the injured Ray Chester at tight end while Charlie Smith is back off the injury shelf and will start ahead of Don Highsmith at one running back spot.

The fourth change finds receiver Mike Siani getting the nod over Cliff Branch in the battle of rookies for one wide receiver spot.

Siani caught 24 and 70 yard scoring passes last Sunday and may be in the starting lineup for quite a while.

A.L. Flag Flag Fever For Boston

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

The 28,777 fans at Fenway Park Wednesday night thought they saw the end of the race in the American League's Eastern Division.

Their Red Sox are only a game ahead but there was definitely an air of celebration at the old but cozy park as their favorites jolted Baltimore twice 9-1 and 4-0 and dealt a severe blow to the Orioles' hopes for a fourth consecutive pennant.

The guy who got most of the cheers was veteran Luis Tiant, who pitched a four-hitter in the second game.

Of course, it's not over yet but the race now seems to have boiled down to a two-team struggle between Boston and Detroit—two clubs who have seven games left against each other and open a four game series in Boston tonight.

Baltimore and New York, which was trailing Milwaukee 2-0 in the fourth inning Wednesday night when the game was rained out, are both four behind Boston in the loss column and they face an uphill struggle.

Detroit, which beat Cleveland 4-1, is two behind Boston in the loss column with a 78-66 record to Boston's 78-64.

In the first game, Carlton Fisk and rookie Dwight Evans hit two-run singles as Boston exploded for seven runs in the forth inning while routing Jim Palmer. In the second game, Tiant boosted his record to 13-5 with his four-hitter.

Duke Sims doubled in the tie-breaking run and winning pitcher Woody Fryman added a two-run single in the three-run ninth inning as Detroit downed Cleveland.

In the other games, Oakland beat Chicago 6-3, Minnesota edged Texas 3-1 and Kansas City beat California 9-2.

In the National League Philadelphia edged St. Louis 2-1, Cincinnati topped San Francisco 8-6, Los Angeles edged San Diego 5-3, New York defeated Pittsburgh 4-1, Chicago smacked Montreal 6-2 and Atlanta walloped Houston 13-6.

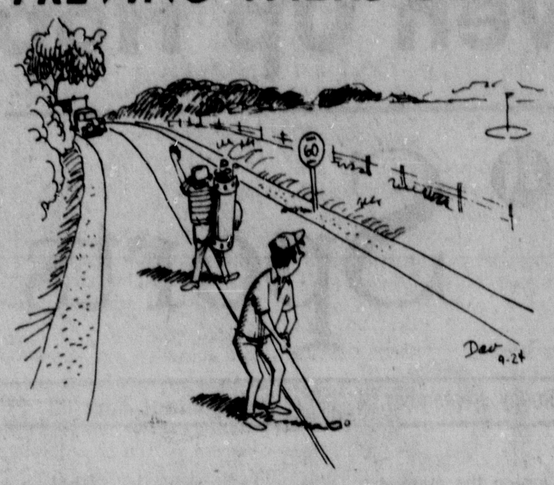
TREVINO TALKS GOLF



Hardpan Ain't Hard

By LEE TREVINO

One of the easier shots to me is off a hard surface. It'll be simple to you with a little practice.

Jack Nicklaus hit a great approach from a road to the 13th green to help him win the 1972 U.S. Open at Pebble Beach. It looked harder than it really was.

This isn't a situation calling for a full shot. Hit one club more than you would from a fairway —an eight-iron instead of a nine-iron, for example. (Is that more, or less?)

Anyway, you can control a ball good from hardpan. I mean you can do things with it — hook, slice, hit it high or low. Or you can blow it.

A bad shot from a hard surface usually comes from bad thinking. A guy will figure he has to lift the ball off the ground as clean as if he's using a chili ladle. He's wrong.

The shot is handled much like a chip from a depression, except it usually involves more distance. Play it back, with your hands forward. Strike the ball a descending blow and it'll jump off the hard stuff. And it'll have the kind of action on it that'll stop it on the green when it hits.

Chargers' Thomas Leaves After Day

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

SAN DIEGO — Running back Duane Thomas left the San Diego Chargers training camp Wednesday after a one-day stay.

Coach Harland Svare said Thomas did not report for the team meeting and told him he was returning to his home in Dallas. He said no reason was given.

Thomas reported to the Chargers Tuesday, seven weeks after he had been acquired from the Dallas Cowboys. Svare imposed a $150-a-day fine Aug. 29, but there was no indication whether the fine had been paid or was part of the reason for the disappearance.

More Football

CHICAGO — George Seals has signed with the Kansas City Chiefs the Chicago Bears announced Wednesday, and the Bears will get the Chief's No. 1 draft pick for the next season.

Seals, a defensive line star with the Bears, played out his option last year and has been seeking a new connection with a National Football League team almost since the end of the 1971 season.

WASHINGTON — Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., introduced a bill Wednesday to ban television blackouts of sell-out professional football games.

Six other senators jumped to their feet to become co-sponsors.

The bill prohibits local blackouts of home games if all tickets to the game are sold 48 hours before game time.

Tennis

LOS ANGELES — Defending champion Pancho Gonzales, 44, ousted from the Pacific Southwest Tennis Tournament by his 21-year-old pupil Roscoe Tanner, says "I'm tired, that's all."

The veteran tennis star, who was unseeded, lost 7-6, 7-6, in the $60,000 event he won last year. He said after the match, "I worked pretty hard to get in shape, but the legs aren't there any more."

In other major matches in second round play Wednesday, Stan Smith, the 1972 Wimbledon champion, ousted Brian Fairlie of New Zealand, 6-7, 6-3, 6-3.

Golf

ROBINSON, Ill. — In any other season, Frank Beard would probably have been a headliner in the Robinson Fall Golf Classic which began today at Crawford Country Club.

But this season, the 33-year-old slipped into this tiny Southern Illinois community — population 7,200 — with something less than fanfare. He is a respected, but not revered member of a 144-man field which is scheduled to compete in the $100,000 tournament.

This year's Robinson is indeed lacking in name power — none of the top 10 is present and only 18 of the top 50 are here, but its the likes of Jim Jamieson and Bob Goalby, a pair of Illinois favorite sons who are capturing the spotlight.

For 49ers: Willard Out, Schreiber In

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — Veteran San Francisco 49er running back Ken Willard, still suffering from the effects of a knee injury, is definitely out for Sunday's game at Buffalo, club officials say.

The eight-year pro, who gained 855 yards as San Francisco's top rusher last year, saw action for just two plays in the 49er's 34-3 rout of San Diego last Sunday.

He will be replaced by Larry Schreiber, who rushed for 13 yards in 11 attempts against the Chargers.

Meanwhile, coach Dick Nolan said Wednesday that veteran Johnny Fuller is assured a position at free safety, giving Fuller high marks after a review of Charger game films.

Rookie cornerback Ralph McGill hurt his back against San Diego and will not appear in the contest with the Bills, Nolan said.

However, Nolan said Mike Simpson, playing behind Fuller at free safety, may be off the injury list in time for the game. Simpson suffered a shoulder separation in a preseason contest.

Tam's Charge Of Light Brigade

By LEW CODDINGTON

(Last in a series on Marin County Athletic League football prospects.)

Tamalpais High School's football team this year will reenact the charge of the Light Brigade, hopefully without the same results which befell the original Light Brigade in the Crimean War.

Tam also could use the services of Florence Nightingale, who rose to fame as a nurse for the sick and wounded in that same war.

The Light Brigade is Tam's offensive line, which averages 166 pounds. Both guards, a tackle and the tight end weigh 160, the center weighs 170 and the other tackle 185. And don't call in the split end for additional blocking support — he weighs 140.

There are heavier players around, but they are in the hospital. Two-way tackle Rob Michaelson and offensive tackle-defensive end Alvin Hall are both expected to be out an additional three weeks with injuries, and starting quarterback Tim Nowell will miss five weeks with a broken collarbone sustained in Saturday's season-opening 8-2 loss to Bishop O'Dowd High in Oakland.

When you add in the fact that eight lettermen from last year's squad decided not to play this year for various personal reasons, it's easy to see why coach Mike Davlin's optimism has ben blunted.

"We had the best spring practice at Tam in several years," he said in May. "But now we're really hurting with injuries. We'll be small and hustling, and I guess we'll see how far attitude takes us."

Tam's roster of 28 players includes 10 lettermen back from last year's team, which went 0-9 for the year and 0-6 in the Marin County Athletic League. The Indians have a losing streak of 10 dating back to a season-ending, 28-7 victory over San Marin on Nov. 14, 1970.

Veterans in the line include center Gerald Russell (170 pounds), guard Art Slocum (160). Playing their first varsity season are tight end Mike Rinck (160), tackles Ray Snell (160) and Mike Lamb (185) and guard Ray Bell (160), son of the school's principal. Dennis Morini (140) plays split end.

Davlin thinks his offensive backfield is the team's strong point, with Fred Adams and Alvin Price at the running back spots, Mike Shimmin to do the blocking, and now Steve Gaddis replacing Nowell at quarterback.

Linebackers Kanoe Lyons and Steve Kohler and defensive end Bill Duvall caught Davlin's eye in practice. Speedy Rodney Williams plays monster on defense. The defense played a strong game against O'Dowd, stopping the Dragons once inside the 10-yard-line once and yielding the game's lone touchdown only after a fumble put the ball on the Tam five.

Tam will play at Marin Catholic Saturday at 2 p.m. and will open its MCAL season at San Rafael Sept. 29.

The remaining schedule:

Sept.	23	at Marin Catholic	2 p.m.
Sept.	29	at San Rafael	8 p.m.
Oct.	7	Drake	1 p.m.
Oct.	14	Open
Oct.	20	at Novato	3:30 p.m.
Oct.	28	San Marin	1 p.m.
Nov.	3	at Redwood	3:30
Nov.	11	Terra Linda at San Rafael	8 p.m.

SOCCER FORECAST

Five-Team Battle In Prep Loop Race

The battle for the Marin County Athletic League soccer championship figures to be a close one this season, with at least five teams being accorded reasonable chances for the title by the league's eight coaches.

The situation does not resemble last year, when Drake and San Rafael high schools were a head above Redwood and head and shoulders above everybody else.

"We will have a very green team," said Drake coach Imants Abers, whose Pirates went 11-2-1 to win last year, but did not prevail over 1970 champion San Rafael until the final day of the season.

Transfer student Enriue Weissenberg, a center forward from Guatemala, bolsters Drake. Center halfback John O'Shea is a returning letterman, but otherwise, the Pirates are inexperienced.

Chief challengers will be San Rafael, Redwood, Tamalpais and Terra Linda. The season opens Tuesday.

San Rafael returns an outstanding halfback, Misak Pirinjian, "possibly the league's strongest player" in coach Bill Monti's words. Star fullback Dave Hardin has been converted to a winger, and Dave Castro is a fine inside forward, but the team lacks experience otherwise. The Bulldogs were 9-2-3 last year.

Redwood will again have the services of all-league center hlfback David Harvard, spark-plug of an 8-3-3 team. Coach Pat Bacchus also likes the work of forward Tom Sleisinger, a high scorer, and goalie Sam Goodhope.

Tamalpais has a new coach, Jim Wehner (replacing Stan Ritchie), and four returning starters. They are goalie Paul Kewin, wing Tom Barbour, forwards Geoff Webster and fullback Kim Combs. Webster is a junior. Transfer forward Henry Onwubiko will help.

Terra Linda coach Bob Vasser will field "the strongest team since I've been here." It will include all-league fullback Joe Corbelli (now a halfback), honorable mention fullback Rich Martino, and strong offensive player Steve Kostecki. Martino currently is injured.

Novato, San Marin and Marin Catholic brought up the rear last year, and do not appear to have added enough to contend for the title.

Airlines To Meet— Security Conference

SAN DIEGO — Security chiefs from all the airlines of the world will meet here next week with a slate of top state and federal regulatory agency officials to further cooperation between them and to seek solutions to security problems which plague all airlines.

Pacific Southwest Airlines will host some 50 security chiefs representing as many airlines plus many delegates from related law enforcement agencies at Vacation Village Sept. 25-28.

Heading the list of distinguished guests scheduled to attend the meeting is Secor Browne, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, who will address the group Tuesday, Sept. 26.

International association members consider this series of meetings to be the most important ones ever held in that so many top government officials will be in attendance at a time when their advice and cooperation is so badly needed.

"While all airlines and regulatory agencies have always worked closely together as individuals this is the first time we have all been able to sit down at the same time to discuss our problems and the solutions," said PSA Director of security Stephen L. Gardella Jr., chairman of the seminar.

Gardella said most of the meetings will be closed to the public because of the nature of their discussions but revealed their talks will include problems in fraud prevention, prosecutin of crimes against aircraft and crews, airport/airline cooperation and investigation of hijackings.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Hold Stock For A Recovery Despite The Drop In Price

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. On our broker's recommendation we bought 50 shares each of ASE-listed Brad Ragan and Jewelcor. Both are down from our buy price. While we hate to sell and take these losses, we can't afford to hold and risk furthar loss. Your comments would be appreciated. — P.B.

A. Despite the drop in price, particularly for Brad Ragan, you have no cause for concern; both companies are healthy and growing. A recent flurry in Jewelcor shares has pushed this issue close to your cost. Investor interest was sparked by the announcement of a joint venture with W. T. Grant for a catalog showroom in Tucson, Arizona. Through the first half Jewelcor had reported a doubling of sales volume. Earnings gains were pared to 24 per cent by a higher tax rate, 30 per cent more shares outstanding and a narrower profit margin. Full-year net should reach the $1.00-a-share area.

President Bradley E. Ragan has estimated that sales for the current fiscal year to end next April will reach $50 million. No earnings figure was projected. However, assuming that the profit margin remains stable, earnings takedown of $1.25 is feasible. Several acquisitions of rubber companies or retailing and retreading companies have been completed or are in the works.

Q. I hold 100 shares of RCA (NYSE) at a cost of 52⅝. Shall I sell and take the loss or hold for recovery? — R.D.

A. Having held your shares through two years of reduced profits, now with earnings in a recovery phase, I would not suggest selling. In the first half earnings moved ahead 80 per cent to 99 cents a share, on an 8 per cent gain in volume. The disposal of RCA's computer business is the major factor in the earnings rebound, although problems still plague the company's car rental and semiconductor divisions. These areas contributed less than 25 per cent to sales in 1971. Color TV sets and communications.

RCA's major fields, have enjoyed a strong resurgence this year, more than offsetting any weaknesses in other areas. Hold for recovery.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Many Drugs Taken By Mother Could Hurt Breast-Fed Baby

Hundreds of drugs and medicines when taken by a nursing mother are excreted in the milk. So small an amount is involved that detection is almost impossible. However, there are instances in which breast-feeding is not advised because the drugs being used may affect the baby. This is especially true when the mother is ill and taking large doses of any medication. Under these circumstances, larger amounts are excreted in the milk leading to overdosage in the child.

Several specific drugs are known to cause problems in the infant and should be avoided by nursing mothers. These include anticoagulants, bromides, antithyroid drugs, radioactive preparations, antimetabolites, and steroids including cortisone-like hormones. New or unusual drugs also should be avoided because they may induce unexpected reactions in the infant. When medicines are needed, it is suggested that the baby be fed by bottle.

AS WE SAID, most drugs used in ordinary doses are allowable. There are reports of babies getting drunk or sedated after being nursed by a mother who drank a large amount of wine within 24 hours of the feeding. Blood disorders also have been traced to milk from mothers being treated with phenobarbital, Dilantin, and certain steroids. Infants born of narcotic addicts may develop serious withdrawal symptoms. Occasionally, these babies die, if untreated.

EVERYONE APPRECIATES the value of breast-feeding. However, it should not be done by a mother with a known breast malignancy or with a strong family history of these lesions. Electron microscopic studies of the milk demonstrate particles suggestive of the involved malignancy. In mice the leukemia virus is transmitted thru mother's milk.

Nicotine also is passed along in the mother's milk, but to my knowledge, has not been a problem.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

WANTS DEEPER TAN

J. writes: I tan fairly well, but would like to get darker. Is there a pill I can take to step up the tanning process?

REPLY

If you tan well, spend more time in the sun. Pills are available to hasten the process, but why use medicine and run the risk of unpleasant side effects?

FOOT ODOR

W. F. writes: What can be done about foot odor that can't be eliminated by frequent washings?

REPLY

Find and eliminate the cause which apparently is not being washed away. Ringworm and allergy to a chemical in the shoes are possibilities.

OATMEAL IN SUMMER

W. E. writes: Will eating oatmeal in the summertime heat the blood?

REPLY

No. Like other foods, oatmeal produces energy after it is eaten, but it will not set you afire.

Newsmen Rights Laws Opposed By Justice Dept.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department said today that it opposes proposed legislation to give newsmen the privilege of refusing to testify about news sources in federal court and congressional hearings.

Assistant Attorney General Roger C. Cramton said there was no need for legislation in light of guidelines for the subpoena of newsmen that the Justice Department laid down in 1970.

"Since the guidelines appear to be sufficient to protect the legitimate interests of the press from incursion by federal grand juries, legislation is unnecessary at this time," Cramton said in a statement prepared for a House Judiciary subcommittee.

The subcommittee is considering six bills that provide testimonial exemption. The bills range from complete exemption to provisions that newsmen could be asked to testify only when life or national security hung in the balance.

Jail Terms For Porno Showing

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—The owner and two employes of a downtown theater were fined a total of $10,125 and given jail terms Wednesday for showing pornographic movies in 1970.

Lawrence Nissinoff, 37, owner of the T & D Theater was sentenced to 540 days in the Alameda County Jail in addition to $3,750 in fines. The theater's manager, Harold Davis, 69, was fined $3,375 and given 360 days in jail and the ticket taker, Morris Nissinoff, 58, was fined $3,000 and 270 days in jail.

The group was found guilty last month of showing "lewd and obscene" films. Their attorney said he would appeal the sentences, handed down by Municipal Court Judge Malcolm Champlin.

Defeat Is Asked Of Prop. 17

The Marin Democratic Central Committee has urged defeat of Proposition 17, the death penalty initiative on the Nov. 7 ballot.

The vote on Tuesday was 14-1 with committeeman Michel J. Anthony dissenting.

According to Robert A. Mills, secretary, the committee felt that in light of the U.S. Supreme Court's recent decision declaring the death penalty unconstitutional, the initiative would be "an exercise in futility."

The committee unanimously endorsed Proposition 20, the Coastline Initiative which would limit development of California's shoreline.

Canoe Lessons To Be Offered

Courses in basic and advanced canoeing will be offered on Corte Madera Creek, cosponsored by the Corte Madera Recreation Department, Marin Canoe Club and the Marin Chapter of American National Red Cross.

The basic class will have its first three-hour session at 9:30 a.m. Sept. 30 from the dock on Lucy Drive, continuing for five weeks. The course will include a one-day canoe trip on the Russian River. The advanced course, three five-hour sessions, will begin at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 1 and will include a weekend paddling trip.

Signups may be made through the Corte Madera Recreation Department, or the Red Cross office in San Rafael.

Two Marin Agencies Get Foundation Funds

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The San Francisco Foundation has allocated a total of $15,300 to two Marin County volunteer agencies, according to John R. May, executive director.

The Marin Suicide Prevention Center received $5,300 to help pay its operating costs, and the Marin City Employment Center, which had faced shutdown Oct. 1 for lack of funds, was granted $10,000 to meet its $1,800-a-month operational costs.

Board Against Fluoride Poll

The North Marin County Water District board has decided against conducting a poll to determine resident opinion on fluoridation of water.

Directors, holding a neutral position, believed that conducting a poll might be construed by some persons as indicating the district favors it, S. L. Morris, district auditor reported.

About a dozen persons attended the board meeting Tuesday and only one favored a poll. Morris said Directors believed that any poll should be taken by proponents of fluoridation, he said.

The board awarded BIF of Providence, R.I., a contract to supply three butterfly valves at a cost of $1,529 each.

Eagleton Wouldn't Work For McGovern

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI)— Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., says he isn't interested in any post with Sen. George McGovern's administration if McGovern is elected president.

Eagleton, campaigning in Illinois Monday with Thomas Lyons, Democratic candidate for Illinois attorney general, said he would prefer to stay in the U.S. Senate than to serve either in the cabinet or as a presidential adviser.

Professor Dies, Youth Is Arrested

NEW YORK (UPI)—Detectives early today arrested a 16year-old boy in connection with the fatal stabbing of Columbia University law professor Wolfgang G. Friedmann.

Police identified the youth as Daniel Mingues and said he was picked up at his home. Two other teen-aged youths also were being sought in connection with the Wednesday slaying.

Mingues, was taken to the West 100th Street stationhouse and booked on homicide charges.

Friedmann, 65, who had successfully fought off a gang of youths who attacked him in 1956, was killed near the university's Morningside Heights campus while trying to fight off three teen-age attackers.

The international law professor, who fled Germany in the 1930s rather than live under the Nazi regime, was stabbed to death by one of the attackers as he struggled to keep them from taking his money and wristwatch.

Witnesses told police the youths, about 14 to 17 years of age, jumped Friedmann as he walked from the campus about 4:30 p.m. He resisted and during the struggle, his wallet was taken.

The professor continued fighting as the youths grabbed for his watch, witnesses said. Friedmann was then stabbed near the heart and the assailants fled. He was pronounced dead on the scene.

Sixteen years ago, Friedmann was attacked by two youths in the same neighborhood on his way home from classes. He fought back, wrestling one attacker to the ground, and the assailants fled.

Friedmann became a magistrate in a Berlin labor court after receiving his doctorate in jurisprudence from the University of Berlin in 1930. After the Nazis came to power, Friedmann lost his job in a confrontation with storm troopers and fled to England.

An acquaintance said Friedmann told him that when Nazis would come into his courtroom demanding stiff penalties for their opponents, Friedmann would order them to get out.

Friedmann taught law at the Universities of London, Melbourne and Toronto before coming to Columbia as professor of international law in 1955. He also was director of the international legal research program at Columbia.

American Travelers Warned On Uganda

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State Department has urged Americans not to travel in Uganda because of the uncertain political conditions in the African nation.

Charles W. Bray III, a State Department spokesman, said Monday that five U.S. citizens are known to be under arrest in Uganda. He said the Ugandan government has refused to allow American diplomats to see them.

CALLING ALL
CAMERA FANS
By Ken Reichard

PRESERVING UNUSED FILM

If you have more film left over from a vacation than you think you can use before its marked expiration date, we recommend that you store it in your refrigerator or freezer. Aging of the film will be greatly retarded in either place so you will have much more time to use it. In the freezer the aging will be almost negligible. This recommendation applies to both still including Polaroid, and movie films.

Most film these days come packaged in sealed foil wrapping or gasketed screw-cap cans. Such film can be placed in cold storage without further protection from dampness.

When removing film from cold storage for use, allow time for the film to reach room temperature before opening its inner packaging. This is to prevent condensation of moisture on the film. For refrigerated film allow 1½ hours; for frozen film, 2 hours.

Want to open up new avenues for exciting picture taking? Step up to one of the better cameras in our displays ... We'll be glad to give you expert advice on selecting a camera that will be right for you.

Labor Council Defies Meany, Defends Backing Of McGovern

DENVER (UPI)—The Colorado Labor Council has scoffed at AFL-CIO President George Meany's order to suspend it and boot out all officers because they violated Meany's neutral political stand and endorsed George McGovern for President.

"We're going to hold our ground and operate independently in spite of any harassment from George Meany," said CLC President Herrick Roth. "We'll operate in exile if need be—and we refuse to turn over any of our records."

Roth filed suit in federal court Wednesday asking an injunction to keep Meany and the AFL-CIO from suspending the Colorado group. He said the hearing will probably come next week.

Meany issued a terse statement from AFL-CIO headquarters in Washington earlier saying the Colorado group had endorsed the Democratic presidential nominee "in violation of AFL-CIO policy and refused to rescind its endorsement."

In justifying the suspension, the AFL-CIO cited its own constitution which says, "State central bodies, as chartered organizations of the AFL-CIO, shall conform their activities on national affairs to the policies of the AFL-CIO."

Presidential endorsements are definitely "national affairs," the union said.

Meany has not contested the right of any individual AFL-CIO union to endorse a presidential candidate. But state and local chapters of the national organization must follow the rulings from headquarters, he said.

"It would of course, be utterly destructive of the AFL-CIO's political effectiveness if state bodies were free to pursue their own courses in national elections," the AFL-CIO headquarters said.

Roth said his group voted to back McGovern because the Democrat had previously enjoyed strong labor support on the basis of his Senate voting record, while President Nixon was consistently criticized by national labor leaders.

The national AFL-CIO called this "mere playing with words."

Meany sent a trustee, Daniel J. Healy, to Denver to take over the CLC, but Healy did not appear at the state group's offices.

"He did not show up because he knows even if he delivered the suspension order he couldn't enforce it without going to court," Roth said.

Albert Zack, chief spokesman for the AFL-CIO in Washington, said Wednesday's action was the first time a state labor organization had been ordered placed in trusteeship since the AFL-CIO merger in 1955.

72 fashions

fall

Independent Journal
San Rafael, California, Thursday, September 21, 1972

DENIM AND knits are a winning combination for boys this fall. Sears will have the blue denim parka with pile trim (left.) The go-with-everything jacket is shown with denim stripe flared jeans. The joker (right) wears the popular Wallace Beery shirt with mariner jeans.

SEARS Men's Stores have contemporary styles such as the bold orangeand brown plaid long sleeve, zip front shirt shown with flared rust, bush jeans in brushed denim. Both shirt and pants are also available through the Sears catalog.

ACCESSORIES ARE a specialty at Sears, and especially popular for fall are suede and wool matchmates. The knit cap has insets of softly colored suede, and the roomy shoulder-bag in suede has great shaggy loops of wool.

FASHIONS FOR THE FAMILY

When the new Sears store on the Northgate Fashion Mall opens next month teen-age girls will find contemporary styles in the Lemon Frog Shop. Available in the shop at Sears are the wide tartan cuffed solid green acrylic pants (left) and the long sleeve, man-tailored knit shirt shown with it. The long tartan, sunburst pleated skirt (right), shown with a white seersucker middy blouse will also be found at Sears.

News In Bags — Shapes, Straps, Soft Leathers

The big news in bags this fall can be found in three areas: shapes, straps and soft leathers.

Handbag shapes come on soft, squashy and spacious for daytime, more compact and firmer for late day and evening. Leathers are supple to provide the creamy pliable textures needed. And the shoulder-strap, fashion's most popular device in bags, gets some new looks — as well as a run for the money from non-shoulder styles.

Giving substance to this season's fresh ideas from handbag designers is a capital collection of leathers. These include suede, smooth, grained, waxy, brushed, antiqued, embossed and real patent leather finishes.

THIS FALL'S operative accessory for the active woman is a good-sized softly leathered shoulder-strap bag. Envelope, pouch or tote, it will be smartly casual outside and roomy within, notes Leather Industries of America. Silhouettes vary, with some deep, some horizontal, some rounded off. There are scoop or crescent shapes, and pouchy feedbag or hobo styles. Leathers in just about every finish make up all these models.

Suede will be a favorite, also grained, waxy, smooth, brushed, antiqued and crushed patent leathers. In a number of bags, two tones offer contrast. Others use two leathers, as suede trimmed with smooth.

The shoulder-strap itself — functional and fun, as well as part of the bag's decor — comes in a wide assortment of looks. There are broad contoured straps, chains, chain-and-leather straps, heavily stitched straps, and simple self-leather straps. To convert the bag from shoulder to arm or hand-carry type, a number of methods are used including snaps, buckles, clips and removable straps. In addition, some bags carry a second handle for use when the strap is removed.

Accompanying the long-strapped bag are many non-shoulder strap handbags to accessorize handsomely with new layered looks, easy dresses and soft wrappy coats. These include casual leather totes, pouches and hobo-bags with regulation handles or straps, trimmed with lots of stitching or brass bits.

DRESSIER DAYTIME bags come in leathers such as suede, smooth, fine-grained, patent and reptile-embossed leathers. Here, too, leather combinations often come into play, with suede and smooth leather a popular teaming, and suede and crushed patent leather another. These clutches, envelopes, box-bags and swaggers also utilize refined hardware and smart handles or short straps as decoration.

One of the most important handbag looks this season is the supple leather envelope with no strap at all. It's large and flat, and tucks tidily under one's arm.

For dress-up occasions the best bag shapings are the chic clutch, the mini-envelope, the petite pouch, and the scaled-down shoulder bag. The latter will swing from jewelry-finished chains or leather-and-chain straps.

Textured leathers crafting these bags lead off with suede, followed by smooth, luster metallic-grained and real patent leathers. To add glamour, these styles may show off intricate frames, fancy closings, braid trim or jeweling.

The cast of colors in this season's leather handbag story stars the browns, along with tan and beige, black and navy. Among other featured shades are red onion, rust, red and purple. For further high fashion colors, watch for camel, grey and green.

French Denim Look Rapidly Catches On

Jeans fans — and who isn't — will be attracted to brushed denims trimmed with studs, grommets or colored stones. It's a look born on the French Riviera during the summer and rapidly catching on here.

The basic jeans cut is also great for bold lumberjack and box plaids on brushed cotton flannel in a season when plaids, scads of 'em, will be seen everywhere.

Fashions Begin Next To Nothing

Clingier fashions begin next to nothing. The natural shaping of softly constructed underthings smooths the way for skimming chemises as well as defined waistline dresses.

V-neck plunges, bare backs and shoulders get their support from the convertibles — bras that go haltered, criss-crossed or low backed and deeply plunged. They can also be worn the conventional way.

Like most popular bras they are no-seamed, molded, flat seamed or very gently underwired.

Long-line and all-in-oners glamorize by firming midriff, tummy and hips.

Hi-waist girdles and briefs slenderize waistlines and hips for fluid fashion lines.

Along with any-leegth hems are half and full slips. Knee skimming, over-the-knee, mid-calf and long.

The Neat Look

In keeping with the classic neat look of fall fashion, the pile of fake furs will be short and trim. Colors stick fairly close to natural animal markings, but there are some red, blue, yellow and green fabrics that get plaid and stripe treatments as they stray off the beaten path. One stylist says, "The long, shaggy look in fakes is going out of style and the furs are shorter and closer to the body."

The Soft Look

The soft look natural fibers will be back next fall in the once almost totally synthetic-fiber-dominated sweater and knitwear industry. Trade sources claim that natural fibers, predominantly mohair, angora and wool blended with synthetics, will be big this fall. The soft look is wanted in sweaters and knitwear to go with the layered and classic look in sportswear.

All-Time Best Fashion Ideas To Reappear In Fall Season

This fall, look for some of the best-loved fashion ideas of all time to make their reappearance — in a slightly different guise.

Today's classics have a spirited feeling that's anything but "safe" or tame. The delight is in the new and unexpected equations of familiar fabrics and silhouettes. Wear them anywhere, but don't expect to blend into the background.

Remember the sweater set? It's back. This time around, you'll wear the longsleeved pullover under a sleeveless cardigan. Have a set in Fair Isle pattern and another in Argyll checks. If you're a real fashion baby, you'll want a sweater set in baby blue or pink angora, sweet and sexy and very, very new.

FOR FALL the sweaterdress goes to new lengths to show its versatility. Halston has designed an anklelength version of this ultra-wearable classic in unbelievably luxurious camel colored cashmere. To toss around your shoulders, there's a matching cardigan, all adding up to a picture of unstudied elegance after dark.

The great gray flannel suit? It's come a long way from the strictly tailored jacket and skirt. Anne Klein puts it together in the spirit of '72: gray flannel pants are topped with a blouson jacket in dark brown suede. Add a printed foulard tie, a pale satin shirt, and you have the whole luxuriously easy message.

THE OLD gray sweatsuit ain't what it used to be, either. This fall's sweatsuit takes a new lease on your leisure life — as a hooded khaki knit by Marimekko, or a bright red nylon cire sweatsuit from Beene Bag.

Last summer's beloved smock shape is still a winner. Updated in solid color wools, it becomes this season's classic topper — probably the best car coat you could own. Originala does a charming variation on the double-faced coat theme, designing a solid color wrapper that reverses to gingham checks.

Missing from the after-five scene for several years, the short evening dress is staging a dramatic reappearance. Sarmi uncovers the full siren potential of black velvet with a halter-necked dress that plunges to the midriff in front. Hubert Latimer prefers the short velvet dress covered-up and positively clinging to the waist with elasticized ribbing.

Fabric Picture To Be Brighter

Bright colors for children's wear: the fabric picture for children's apparel will be turning brighter for fall, with lots of plaids — both tartans and checkerboards — and brushed fabrics.

According to one children's wear designer, the move away from the bonded fabrics is a result of poor consumer reaction. She noted that in many cases the bonded fabrics used to shed apart from the backing.

Replacing bonded goods for most children's wear designers are unbonded polyester and acrylic double-knits, brushed denim, flannel, sueded cottons, woven acrylics and quilted looks. Another industry spokesman mentioned that the clear primary colors are big. "Bottle green, burgundy and navy are good and there is a lot of black."

Big Fall Fashion Topic Is Tent Topper Look

The tent topper is a big fall fashion topic.

It gives pants a new mood and a new proportion.

"It's a soft way to do a short look with pants. Toppers are free and get away from the body. They are comfortable, and I see them only with pants," says one fashion analyst.

He adds that it takes some adjustment.

Another spokesman says, "The topper is the perfect look with pants. It's time for a look that's short, wider to give pants a new proportion. It's also time for function."

Another, a designer, agrees. "It is the newest shape and the newest way to put yourself together with pants. I'm doing what I call a leisure jacket, which is unlined. I think of it as more of a sportswear item than a coat."

The tent topper can look like a shirt, a poncho, a loden coat or be a jacket so soft it's almost like a second blouse. And designers like them in everything from plaids, tartan and lumberjack wools to brushed wools, chinchilla, gray flannel and soft knits.

The short raglan-sleeved topper zips up the front at one house . . . and the designer does it in red, dark green and navy plaid wool chinchilla. She puts it over a cotton shirt in te same plaid and dark green wool jersey pants.

Lumberjack checks are the topic at another couture house . . . and designers check them out on a wool tent topper in green and black over matching pants and a sleeveless pullover sweater in green and black striped mohair and angora.

The hooded poncho sets the mood in some showrooms . . . in pale shrimp, camel, avocado, heather pink and blue wool plaid over pale rust wool flannel pants.

Designers Move Away From Pattern Mixes

Designers move away from eclectic pattern mixes and on to simple sweater suits and more of those bodydresses.

Watch them define fashion in all areas — fabrics, colors, shapes.

CLASSICAL ENCHANTRESS

Black is back and with it goes gold, according to Granat Bros jewelers on the Northgate Shopping Mall. The jewelers suggest dangly gold earrings and looped bracelets.

THE ANKLE-LENGTH BOOT

Men have a choice of ankle-length boots in styles to match their own tastes. Some are strapped and some are zippered up the side. Made by Pedwin, ankle-length and tall boots are available at Chapman's Shoes, San Rafael and Novato.

Byword Is Control

Hair: No longer flying in careless abandon; the byword is control. Longer hair should be clean, sleeked back in a knot placed high on the head or low with a snood. Short hair looks great in a soft and shiny cap of waves. Those tendriled coifs are great — in the right place, with the ultra-feminine looks, usually after five.

Time says, "It's the most passive reduction plan yet developed."

THE PLAIDS ARE BACK

Easy care and easy wear polyester and cotton are made into a popular smock dress featuring the classic large plaid pattern. The dress by Cinderella is buttoned with heads-up shiny pennies for fun. The one-piece outfit gets a two-piece look with its make believe blouse that can't come untucked. Available at McKenzie's Junior Vogue, San Rafael and Northgate Shopping Mall.

SUBTLE PLAID DUET

Quiet elegance is a plaid suit with a gently tapered coat with flap pockets and a hint of flare to the pants. The man accustomed to the good things in life will find the suit at the Oxford Shop on the Northgate Shopping Mall.

PANT SUITED — In an all-wool pantsuit by Norman Todd, model Joan Saylor stands in front of the James Sears of Marin shop at Strawberry Town and Country Village in Mill Valley. The suit in cinnamon and black check with matching vest is available at James Sears.

Vinyl, Fake Fur In Courreges Collection

PARIS (AP) — Andre Courreges, the man who designs "second skins" for women, used to like his body stockings in heavy ribbed wool. Now, they are sheer.

His collection for fall and winter was pure Courreges. This means vinyl and fake fur, visors and chunky boots, and the Courreges colors — orange, white, navy and yellow.

This look this season is wearable. Slightly flaring dresses have short sleeves and high waistlines. So do the belted coats, even the one in orange mink.

Courreges is very proud indeed of his new square armhole, which fits into the coat "like a puzzle piece."

Skirts, sometimes soaring to three inches above the knee, are A-line and slit up the front. In gray flannel or wool, they go with ribbed T-shirts and over-the-knee socks sticking out of vinyl boots. The "in" color for these is pink.

Women who otherwise might soon be hard put to find a pair of couture pants will be reassured to know they can count on Courreges. This season, his are wider, straighter and cuffed.

Corduroy's Stand

Corduroy, formerly a country cousin, appears to be taking a sophisticated stand for city life as well. Many new weaves, textures and tweed-look prints make up the roster of this exciting new fashion trend.

Gray Is The Autumn Color That Matters

Neutrals are important. Especially gray. That's the color that matters for fall. Taking a tip from dresses and coats, accessories designers have come up with their own gray matters.

Handbags, belts, hats, jewelry and gloves carry the gray message — it's a tailored, Classic look. Designers like the look of gray in a variety of fabrics from soft suedes to rough wools. Jewelry goes gray with pewter and dark-finished silver. Even sunglasses are going a shade of gray.

Gloves In Comeback

Gloves will come back to keep the lady "dressed to the fingertips." New versions include crinkle leathers, crochets, cut-outs, hardware trim with grommits or buckles. The gauntlet is expected to return.

A Designer Gives Smock A New Look

The smock gets a new look when one designer does it in navy wool chinchilla. She adds wide shoulder pads and buttons it over navy, white, blue and grape Donegal tweed wool trousers.

The plaid shirt is the way another does it. She does it in unlined burgundy, cream, black and beige plaid wool over cuffed creamy white wool trousers and a burgundy shirt collared in white.

Prominent Position For Hats This Fall

With the return of classic fashions, the hat takes a prominent position for fall. It's definitely a headstarting accessory.

At a trade fashion show and luncheon in New York, the hat regained its top position. Hats take on an essential part of the new femininity, yet they have more than one specific look.

The Little Hat — White leather cuffed cap with a stitched crown and a matching pussycat bow.

The Little Hat — Off-the-face black felt cloche with a brushed plaid facing on brim.

The Flying Colors — Large gold velour slouch hat trimmed with gold eyelets.

Haberdashing — Stenciled fake fur fedora with leather band and matching bag.

Focus In Fashion Lifted To The Face

Make-up: The focus is lifted to the face, an area of greater individual interest. Facial artistry is an important part of fashion, and the purposeful change is happening here, too. The look is healthy, natural, glowing. Eyes are still very important. Long lashes, upper and lower, keep the face soft. Cheeks are rosy, high and wide, polished with clear gels rather than powder. The general impression is confident, alluring and well cared-for.

Colors Brighter

Colors are brighter and warmer than last winter, although rust, purple, brown and black are much in evidence again.

JUNIOR LOOKS FOR FALL

The Emporium on the Northgate Shopping Mall has a variety of fresh fashions for junior for fall. The new look is big on wide-leg pants and plaids.

Top Drawer News Could Be Sleeve

Top drawer news this season could be the sleeve. It's been many a season since sleeve treatment has been given such a fashion play.

The dolman, roomy but cut with non-bulky lines, is seen on coats, dresses, sweaters for night and day.

The raglan is soft and interesting — sometimes just an extension of the shoulder line — as in the capped effect in jumpers and vests.

At other times it's full-length, narrowing to the wrist. The epaulette frequently rides high on the raglan sleeve.

The sleeve-on-sleeve effect is often seen with coat sleeves rolled up, then worn over a sweater or a turtle-neck top.

Capelets can be found on coats, and in lesser numbers, on dresses.

THE BOOT TOPPER

Fully lined suede cloth with a furry pile trim make a dramatic combination in this boot-top coat for fall and winter. The wooden toggle closures and top stitching give it distinctive detail. In chamois at Stan's for Sports, Novato, San Rafael and Mill Valley.

DYNAMIC CREPE AND LACE

This late afternoon-to-evening maternity dress is right for fall with its blue-white lace top detail and tight-fitting sleeves. Of light crepe, the dress is fully lined. Available at Mother-To-Be Maternity Shop in the Northgate Shopping Mall.

Layered Look Popular Today

A wardrobe of sweaters, jackets, shirts and smocks is what's required to keep on top of fashion today as the layered lookcontinues in popularity. And what to wear under this top notch finery? Pants, of course.

Pants were responsible for bringing about our casual way of dressing and pants are a must again this fall in a season when separates are still the name of the fashion game.

Look for pants designed with flared legs (sometimes as wide as 38 inches) styled in cotton denims, pinwale thick and thin corduroys and smooth-as-suede brushed flannels. Wear them with Western-styled shirt jackets, or with dolman or batwing wide-sleeved sweaters often ribbed at the waistline for a new silhouette.

Try the classic tailoring of the new Oxford bags, sometimes called baggies: trouser-pleated pants with high-rise waistbands and turned-up uffs. Team them to fitted jackets over vests and shirts or accessorize them with twin sweater sets that either match or mix pattern-with-pattern for a more sophisticated effect.

Both flared leg and baggie pants come designed in the glen, box and abstract plaids that have sprung up in profusion of late. Give them a cuddly feeling by adding a furry, cap-sleeved jacket or look like a little girl with a storybook print smock.

Giant Lapels On The Big Coats

Seen at a preview of fall fashions: the big coat with giant lapels cascading down the front in a green, brown and black wool plaid. Underneath is a bias dress in a color-matching sheer printed wool. The deep armhole coat, shaped in red wool fleece with a fly-front.

One prestige designer picks a claret wool fleece for the dolman sleeve coat he does which is inset with leather down the front and on the big collar. A hyacinth blue melton tent coat over a caramel jumper teamed with a mustard sweater.

Fall Accessories Down To Earth

Fall accessories are down to earth. That's the direction designers of belts, handbags, jewelry, millinery, gloves and scarfs are taking this season.

There is a return to nature and to natural materials. Wood, bone, horn, ivory, nuts, seeds, leather, rope, tortoise shell, canvas, agate and even coconut bark are the newsmakers. Silver and gold get back to nature, too —either on their own or in combination with the natural materials.

WOOL PLAIDS are givingoff the biggest down-to-earth fabric message. Honest homespun plaids taken from the lumberjack and from the horse blanket are making news.

The charm bracelet, clusters of teeth as necklaces, the oversized beret, the continuation of the pendant, soft wool shoulder-bags, large leather envelope bags, skinny belts, vibrant plaid scarfs and stoles, gloves heavily patterned or in softy fabrics like mohair and angora, and ropes made of nuts and seeds — these are all trends to wlatch on the down-to-earth route for fall accessories.

The oversized beret is in angora in coffee and cream plaid.

The plaid oblong scarf is silk with a mixture of green, navy and yellow plaids on a maroon ground.

The plaid belts are skinny bands of denim in clan tartans.

The wool plaid toteis a Black Watch plaid with a wooden bar and convertible straps.

The plaid pouch is in red and green wool with a wooden bar and convertible straps.

THE PLAID and leather handbag is red, gray and white brushed wool trimmed in black leather with a gold chain handle.

The plaid hat is a floppy brim navy, green and red sou'wester in brushed wool.

The plaid necklace featured is a shoelace-like cord in yellow, blue and red plaids with a blue cat's eye marble pendant.

The plaid saddlebag is brown and white wool horse blanket plaid with a self-fabric shoulder strap. It is banded in brown leather.

The conductor's plaid cap is blue, green and white brushed wool.

Hunt For Fabrics Of The Season

This season's hunt for the most rewarding collection of fabrics has turned up some old favorites — some new species.

Among the trappings are soft, touchable wools, blends and knits.

It seems natural in a season of classics, that grey flannel has been recaptured for a contemporary revival.

Mohair and cashmere are evident here, there and everywhere for an even softer separates story — in day and evening wear.

The fuzzies have been coaxed out of hibernation — angora has come to light again. This time it may be blended with wool, rabbit hair, mohair or acrylics.

Wool is fair game in lightweights and appears in crepes, flannels, worsteds and gabardines.

Fall's knit pickings include homespun looks in crunchy tweeds, elegant looks in wool, casual looks in knits.

Corduroy merits a prized trophy for its super-and-big-wales, plushy no-ribs, cobble cords prints.

Fall Color For Men Richer And Cleaner

Color for men's fall '72 fashions will be richer and cleaner as men's wear returns to a more traditional look. A fibers fashion director says men are getting "away from the color riot, the costume look.

Men will definitely not be the anything-goes dresser, with a change of look for every change of mood." And this reversion is affecting all aspects of men's wear from business and casual suitings to shirtings and sportswear.

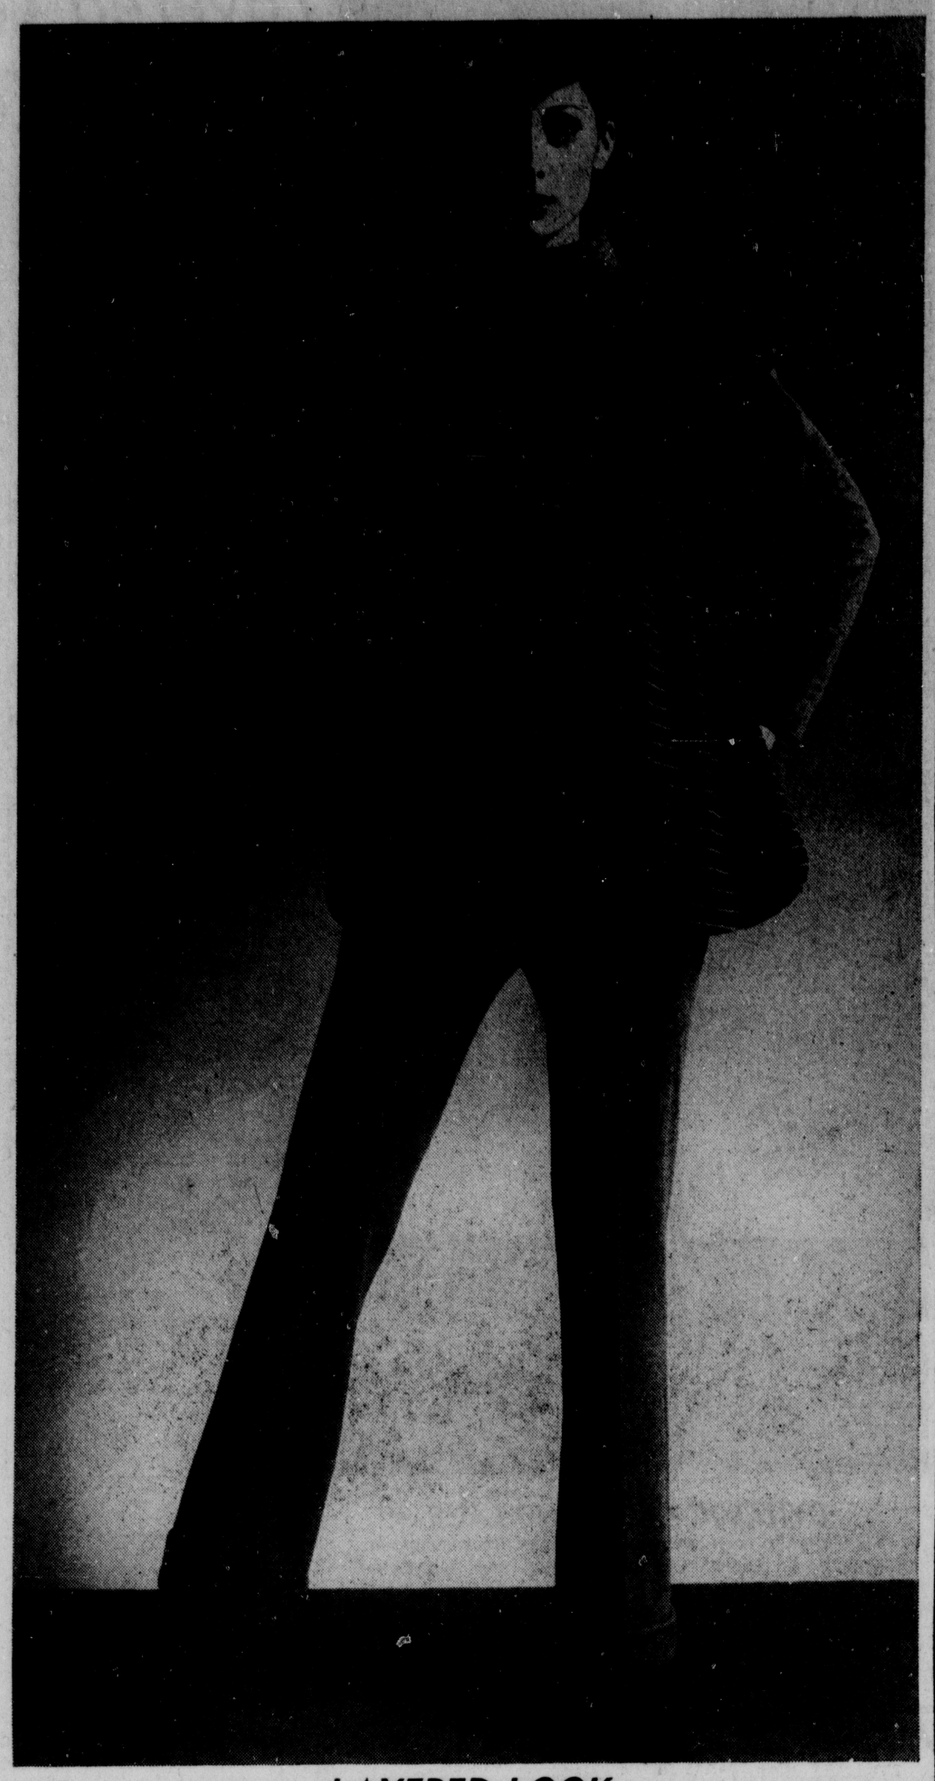
LUXURIOUS LAMB IN STYLE

For those nippy fall and winter afternoons this coat of fine shearling lamb keeps its wearer warm — with or without a matching hood. It comes in a choice of three colors and lengths at Le Beau Monde in Mill Valley.



LAYERED LOOK

The three pieces — pants, tunic and shirt — combine for a fall pant outfit. Orange is the predominant color in this orlon-and-polyester knit outfit from Marion's Maternity Fashions in San Rafael and Mill Valley.

Jewelry Important, Scarves Accenters

Jewelry is still very important. Throats will be decorated with pearls or delicate strands of beads perhaps with a campy home-strung look, perhaps falling below the waist. (If too "busy", the look comes apart and begins to look sloppy.)

Scarves will continue to be strong accenters, small squares tied at the head (often hiding hair completely) or neck (ascot or choker with small ends toward the back).

No two men are built alike...why should their suits be?

Alexander Taylor Custom Suits offer you a better fit than you've ever had - thanks to an exclusive computerized measuring system!

Why pay money for a suit that really doesn't fit right — or feel right — when for just a little more you can have a custom made suit, which fits you and you alone! Alexander Taylor's new computerized measuring system, called Automeasure® ensures you a perfect fit. Only one of 10 such machines in the United States, the Automeasure® eliminates the human error factor as it quickly and accurately measures posture and body contour, the slope of your shoulders, the curve of your spine. This system is capable of producing over 2 billion measurement combinations!

Do clothes make the man? — absolutely. But only if they fit perfectly. Come into our display room and let us fully explain how computerized measuring can give you this kind of fit . . . and a suit that will be uniquely yours! Select from a wide assortment of styles in over 100 distinctive fabrics.

Keeping Teens On Sure Footing

Appealing leather shoes — with a new and now look — will keep teens on a sure fashion footing this fall.

Today's teen miss seems to have a special instinct for the right styles for herself, notes Leather Industries of America. In her leather footwear, this fashion sensitivity will be well satisfied this season with the bountiful choices open to her. New tie-shoes, pumps, moccasins, boots and sandals come up to expectations in a fine assortment of leathers. This leather roll-call ticks off finishes such as smooth, suede, brushed, waxy, glove, grained, clear and crushed patent leathers. And with flexible leather soles and smooth leather linings, her new shoes assure a teen-ager of maximum comfort inside, outside and underfoot.

To lighten and brighten both school and after-class hours, teens want updated leather tie-shoes. The laced shoe is a leader with its bumpy toes, its perfs or stitching, and its new sole treatments —thicker, stacked and stiched-down. Many ties come in two or more colors, or in two leathers. There are ghillie ties, and occasional sporty speed-hook styles, but primarily the laced look teens like best features eyelets, especially the larger-sized type.

TWO STANDARD laced types this semester are the "athletic" tie and the newly returned saddle oxford. Rugged-looking ties patterned after bowling or racing shoes come equipped with long rows of eyelets, lots of stitching, multi-colors, and often stick-out soles. These are principally crafted in soft suede, glove and waxy leathers. The suddenly-smart-again saddle oxford looks newest with stitched-down soles, higher heels and in leather combinations.

Like saddle oxfords, leather moccasins are enjoying a renaissance this fall. There are many novelty versions to please teens — some sporting thick soles, bump toes and heavy hardware, and others with self-leather trim and higher heels. The traditional loafer, too, makes the classroom circuit. In addition, high-tongued slip-ons in smooth, grained, waxy, sueded and patent leathers will serve to complement her school and casual wardrobe.

This fall and winter, the boot gives aid, comfort and fashion to co-eds in a number of leathers, and at several heights. Above-ankle boots, to pair with pants, are special favorites, but there will also be calf and knee-high styles for skirt and coat accessorizing. Among boot leathers are suede, smooth, brushed and waxy leathers, many of which have been given a tanned-in resistance to weather and moisture effects. For warmth, shearling linings are often added.

THE LOOK OF the boot has been refined this year through sleeker lines and less trim. Side zippers or gored insets may provide closer fit, although a front zipper is sometimes used as a decorative footnote. Further ornamentation might include wedge or sole treatment, bucked straps, perfs, stitching, front panels, and two-tone or two-leather themes.

Neat, Nifty Looks For This Season

Layer looks could be leading little girls into a season of pert and pretty, neat and nifty looks.

A bit of fashion awareness can pull separates together for a super effect.

Flip skirts, A-lined or pleated, pull-over shrink vests and long sleeved shirts may be the ocmponents that get this fashion picture off the ground.

There are other additions, too. Slacks and jeans can substitute for the skirt, short sleeved ribbed sweaters for the vest, and a puckered bodysuit for the blouse.

There's still more! A smock, a blazer, a jeandress, an ascot can be donned for a layer-atop-layer look. The more the merrier!

Multi-layer looks can also be achieved another way. One-piece dresses and jumpers with the look of layer on layer make the scene. It's easy as pie for a young miss to be a fashion hit — however she chooses to get the look on.

Cardigan sweater sets make their comeback in fuzzy angora, mohair, cashmere and acrylic blends.

'Classics,' 'Costumes' Split Scene

Although the fall fashion scene is split between the pedigreed "classics" and the parvenu "costumes," both looks agree at the top.

Short, smooth hairstyles go best with both traditional and far-out designs of the fashion radicals.

The head-to-toe consensus is a classic recipe spiced with a bit of costume fun depending on the woman's whim for day or evening.

The classic revival in fashion is reflected in today's hairstyles, according to Ian Harrington.

"We believe in the "D.A." cut, an updated version of the short, swept-back style popular in the 1950s.

"It has the range of accentuating the alluring feeling of a long, slinky evening dress or the subtle aura of a man-tailored suit.

"I cut the hair to go back from the face, highlighting the cheekbones. The softness and movement is controlled by the length of the cut."

THE TENT-TOPPERS, bigcoats, and the loose-fit chemise will have a great influence on hair this season, reports Pierre Hambur.

To create this look, Hambur selects the short-page that lies smooth and close at the top of the head and then puffs slightly to curl under or wave at the bottom.

"I cut the hair six inches long all over the head, except for a fringe of uneven bangs in the front. There must be absolutely no teasing, no height. Because the hair is cut all one length, it will fall naturally, moving away from the head just below the ear. The idea is flat on top with slight width at the sides, like today's fashion silhouette."

JASON CROY predicts a neo-classic revival in hair. "There's a new consciousness today that directs women to want a less contrived, more realistic look. This is reflected in the short, simple hairstyles ranging from the super-short cut in the tiniest layers to a blunt-heaviness-cut that's evenly hemmed all around to frame and flatter the face."

Summing up the look for 1972: fashion falls divided into classics and novelties, while hair stands united in simple, short styles that make well-groomed toppings for either fashion choice.

Men's Fall Slacks To Be More Refined

Men's slacks for fall will be less gimmicky and more refined according to leading marketing representatives. In lower-priced slacks and jeans, "there will be a return to the classic look in both fabrics and models," says one. He noted that higher-priced casual slacks ($13 and over at retail) will have a look of "subdued elegance."

Both men felt the basic models will be very clean with four patch pockets. Low rise models will be very important "because girls are buying men's pants."

Camel, Stone Gray Are Colors Of Fall

The colors of fall? Look for camel and stone gray, a new rich and dark brown, black. As high-lights, the fire engine reds, the marigolds. Kelly green and an electric blue show up occasionally.

All in all, it promises to be a gala coat season with wide revers, stand-up, dramatic collars, important patterns.

TRAVEL IN FASHION

Luggage has become an extension of the individual's fashion tastes, especially pieces such as these carry-on-board bags, designed for the traveler who needs a functional and elegant travel case. They will be available at De Tour Luggage and Gifts, which is opening this month at the Northgate Shopping Mall.

Handbags In Swing Of Things

Come fall, the handbag that will really be in the swing of things is the soft leather shoulder-strapper. Casual and dress shoulder-bags are fall's overriding favorites.

Deep envelopes, soft roomy pouches and totes, and quilted Chanel-type bags see the most action. Leathers in just about every finish make up these newest shoulder-bag models.

Suede is the hands-down favorite, but grained, smooth, waxy, brushed, antiqued and patent leathers also look very good.

Offering the shoulder bag some lively competition will be a bright-looking group of more conventional styles.

Casual totes, pouches and box bags with regulation handles or straps sport such details as bold stitching, brassy-hardware and brush-blended trim.

New leather gloves are long and sleek, streamlined and extended. Shorties are in second place, with four and six-button lengths in the lead.

Leather belts are changing their image, scaling down in width and softening up on detail.

FOR THE SPORTS-MINDED

A fashionable warm-up suit of polyester stretch fabric is popular and features a zip front and pockets, a stand-up collar and flair pants. It is styled by Head and is available at the Seasons Ski and Sports Shop in San Anselmo.

Forecasting Fashion Trends Must Be Done A Year Ahead

By PEACE MOFFAT

NEW YORK (AP) — Virginia Sorem's job is to publish 12 books a year showing the fashions women will want to buy. Sounds easy enough, but there's one hitch — she has to work more than a year ahead of time — forecasting fashion trends long before clothes are off the designers' sketch pads.

How does she do it? The fashion coordinator, catalog division of J.C. Penney Co., explains: "I talk to a lot of fashion sources, read a lot of domestic periodicals and go to all the fashion showings. Just looking at people helps. And I'm familiar with the markdown racks at the stores — what hasn't sold. Fashion makes sense, too. You don't have to be the smartest graduate of Radcliffe to know that certain seasons will bring on certain colors and styles."

Mrs. Sorem, a bright blue-eyed woman with a trim tailored look, wryly notes that "there are no erasers in a catalogue" so she has to be sure she knows what she's talking about. She's quick to point out that her work is a team effort but, nevertheless, she's the one who is responsible for the $11 million in paper and $2 million in ink alone that go into those catalogs each year.

The way fashion trends are born has changed in the past 10 years, Mrs. Sorem says.

There used to be a filtering-down process," she points out.

"The couture houses in Paris would originate trends that would then find their way across the ocean to New York City and the expensive stores on 57th Street. Eventually, those same looks would end up at the cheaper stores, but it was months after the original had appeared in Europe.

"This started changing a decade ago," she says. "People in the United States needed clothes to wear for their active lives. In England, there was an uprising of youth. Fashions started coming from the young people on the streets. As a rule, trends today come from all over the world."

According to this fashion authority today's look has two main ingredients — individuality and a casual manner.

"Women don't want to look all alike," Mrs. Sorem says. "Now they can buy separates, put them together and change the look for a job, or for a date."

She attributes this individuality partly to the ill-fated midi skirt. "When designers tried to foist the midi off on women, and found it didn't work, they realized they couldn't make women buy something just to be fashionable.

"The casual look can be understood," she says. "It doesn't mean torn sneakers. It can actually mean elegant, and the same care and planning should go into a casual look as goes into a formal one."

Smocks Are Delicious For Fall

Autumn's running smack into smocks for delicious casual shirtings.

In baby doll pinafore and 'today" renditions of classic artists' smocks, they pop on over jeans, slacks and skirts.

On its own, the smock covers the dress scene and goes merrily on its way when worn with colorful tights.

Shirring, lace, applique or rick-rack trim, apron ties and ruffles are some of the pretties that make smocks so yummy.

Short, long, capped and dolman sleeved or, sleeveless smock toppings readily become part of the layered looks.

The role is versatility when buttoned smocks go unbuttoned over bodysuits and blouses for a perky jacket routine.

Gray Matters

Gray. That's the color that matters for fall accessories.

Autumn Bride Can Find Dress Of Her Dreams

Dramatic or romantic, simple or sophisticated, this fall's bride can find the wedding dress of her dreams.

Although most gowns seen are quite traditional in style, each has its own individuality.

The princess, the dolman-sleeve, the Chinese influence, the shirtdress and the layered-look are among the many styles.

Ruffles, lace, pearl beading, passementerie and insets of tiny crystal-pleating are some of the most popular trim details.

A wide range of fabrics is to be found. Included are silk-faced peau de soie, soft jersey, faille, nylon, gabardine, silk moire taffeta and ottoman.

Veil runs the gamut from long filmy sweeps to the tiniest head-hugging caps. An attached hood completes one medieval design gown.

Preview Of Men's Fashions For Fall

By LUIX OVERBEA
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Tall men, baggy men, layered men, color-aware men, matched men— all approved by wives, mothers, girl friends — will be the men people see this fall and winter. These are the clothing ideas that prevailed at the recent showings of the Men's Fashion Association of America.

In the fall fashion parade men will be tall — not because they all hail from Texas — but because they will wear high-heeled shoes or boots.

Men's trousers may be hip huggers, but from the hip down they will be big and bulky, even the flares. Cuffs will make a comeback, as deep as three inches on some of these "baggies."

Ken O'Keefe, MFA fashion director, says that elegance will be evident in flannel with gray the big color, in the blazer with plaids, mostly subtle, soft suits in corduroy, velvet, brushed-demin, and suedelike fabrics, and formal attire, with lots of velvets and new cuts.

The fray-flannel look also will be found in double knit wool and polyester, navy and denim blue. Everything will be single-breated. In keeping with the layered look, many suits will have vests, contrasting and matching.

BLAZERS AND jackets will be more subdued in color, subdued plaids, navy, brown, and bottle green, plus a few tartans and multi-colors. Some plaids will have the tweedy look.

A variety of leather and suede trims in several colors will distinguish the new from the early old on coats, sweaters, suits, and sports coats.

Creativity in suits and sports outfits will center around outerjackets — really another name for the non-traditional suit coat or blazer — and outershirts. They are becoming the upper halves of new-look suits or casual coordinates.

Most of these outfits give either the military look of battle jackets, Eisenhower jackets, and the like, or the bulky bulge of lumber jackets. Men coordinate these jackets with the baggies to become sophisticated or casual.

Competing with jackets and coats for coordination combinations will be the sweater — cardigan, cable, and turtleneck. It will come in the usual black, gray, green, brown, and tan, but will be supplemented with fanciful argyles, designed to match a favorite pair of slacks.

And sleeveless sweaters will vie with vests for the right to become the first layer of the layered look. They will feature all the colors — with vests offering contrasts, too.

On the evening scene, there will be tails with the shortened cut, slant pockets, and velvet lapel inserts. Dinner jackets will be even more fanciful, with a choice of velvet or suede touches. Tuxedoes will have their traditional look. And there will be a new choice of big bow ties to light up the evening attire.

TOPCOATS AND OVERCOATS will return to the "good old days" with the raccoon coat, the double-breasted look, and camel-hair featured. The military trenchcoat look will reappear in rainwear and storm coats.

The young man's look is supposed to be individualistic, but it is really more of the same. Brighter colors ae permitted, specially plaids and velvets and velveteens.

A casual youthful element is sought with jeans, layers, turtlenecks, argyles, knits, cardigans, baggies, cuffs and patterns. The young men will give up their so-called funky look to be neater, but not necessarily duller.

They will borrow from many others for their fads:

The military for styles in jackets, slacks, and colors.

Pro sports for bulky outfits with bold, brave hues.

Ski circles to cycling outfits for the sporty and the monster look.

"What shall I wear with . . .?"

Today's man will be asking this question after he buys a suit, a sports outfit, a sweater, or a jacket.

IN LINE with the mood for elegance and the revival of the classic look for men, accessories will take on a quieter tone compared to the brilliant colors and bold patterns of today.

Shirts must be coordinated with whatever the man wears, come fall. Even in the layered look, the shirt must not clash with the sweater or vest that covers all but the sleeves and collar.

A man will no longer wear white shirts; the name of the game will be white on white. Solid colors, more darker shades than pastels, are coming. There will be patterns too, all designed to match the outer garment. Turtlenecks will make a comeback to give the man the natural, rugged look.

For the young man who wants more excitement, shirts will feature Oriental motifs, tartans, checks, twills, glens, and oxford looks. And knits will move in. One shirt man predicts 35 per cent of the new shirts will be knit.

Styling will include long point collars, rounded shorter collars, and button-down collars. Many knit and woolens will have the stretch look. There will be French cuffs with the one-button look. Shirts may be worn outside or inside the slacks although the layered look moves shirts inside.

Ties will be worn with many shirts. Some stylists will stick with the bold, wide ones, but others are toning down. The news is in tie-your-own bow ties with bold bows in strong colors. This goes even for formal attire.

OF COURSE men will go tieless with the bold knit of jumbo paisley or the tailored sport shirts.

Belts will be different this year — more narrow bands, quiet buckles rather than the fancy shieldlike affairs of the recent past.

Men will be taller next year, thanks to the growth of the shoe heel. High hels, at least one inch and as high as two inches, and boots are the keys to foot fashions.

Knits don't prevent cold winter blasts, according to Alan S. Friedland, a spokesman for the hosiery industry.

The answer, he said, is in the new warm johns, or what is best known as "pant-he-hose." They will keep a man warm when he wears knit trousers.

REMEMBER THE baggy pants that Cary Grant wore in the old movies? They're coming back for fall and winter with wide lapels and flap pockets on the coat. These styles are by Pierre Cardin in flannel and wool for an athletic look.

Men's Ties Make Classic Return

By WALTER OGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — You've been reading about the return to the classics in men's suits and shirts. Ties are even more classic with fabrics your grandfather might have worn. Bow ties are in again although these are bigger and floppier than the ones worn back in the 1920s.

There are brocades inspired by the recent interest in China, ties with chess figures inspired by the Bobby Fischer-Boris Spassky set in Reykjavik, ties adorned with sports figures inspired by anything from steeplechasing to golf.

HANDWRITING ON the wall? The J.S. Blank Co. reports orders of 3½-inch ties for the Christmas season instead of the current 4-inch width.

If you're older than 19 you'll remember some of the fabrics — English foulards, ancient Madder, repp stripes, wool challis, wool tartans, grenadines, and Macclesfield — which your great-grandfather might have worn. The last is a woven silk fabric with tiny allover patterns named for the village in England where it was invented in the 1800s.

Many manufacturers are showing bow ties this fall. Hut, which makes the Lanvin tie, shows them 3½ inches wide, which is very wide, in neat figured designs, club prints, paisleys. Four-in-hands were in rich-looking silks with brocaded stripes, bright silk prints. The newest things were checks and plaids.

MOST SHIRT manufacturers are returning to the classics for fall and winter shirt-lines, such as white on white and button-down collars. But Pierre Cardin came up with a more colorful approach — embroidered panel shirts for semi-formal wear. (UPI Telephoto)

PULITZER WENT back into the past for English foulards in neat patterns and paisley, wool challis, wool tartans with fairly large patterns and very classic, handblocked English ancient Madders with their soft, dusty finish; Macclesfields, and ties with game scenes — pheasants in muted colors or a hunting scene.

Bill Miller used Quiana for vivid prints in florals, abstract designs, embossed nouveau-Damask designs in black on solid colored repps. There were big lacy designs of squares and circles on solids, many, many plaids, much surface interest and huge paisleys in deep jewel tones.

"With men adopting the neo-classic look his suits are more subdued and the best way to get color into his wardrobe is through the classic silk print ties," Miller said. "But then for the flower children who have to put on a suit and go to work there are wild flower designs."

Ralph Lauren of Polo used the word "classic" in everything he showed and shirts and ties were no exception. He liked a paisley foulard tie with a narrow, pin-striped shirt worn with a pinned collar as a foil to a classic gray flannel suit.

COUNTESS MARA, again with a $1,000 tie adorned with diamonds and gold, also had some classic bow ties and such items as classic stripes, a Chinoiserie collection of hand painted Chinese designs, career ties with appropriate symbols for doctors, lawyers, etc. There were polka dots, and new Mara stripes on backgrounds of mosaics, damask weaves, twills.

Robert Schafer, the chief designer at Burma Bibas, came out with his own line of wide knit ties designed especially for wear with sports shirts. They are basically solid or in unobtrustive patterns to coordinate with almost any kind of sports shirt.

John Weitz showed foulard printed silks, some very neat flag designs in two colors, framed diamonds that gave a plaid look and real plaids in subdued two color designs decorated with widespaced dots. Oleg Cassini had jacquard prints with borders or tips in the same color as the wide spaced printed designs above.

The Schiaparelli line had a frosty, swirly design like a Chinese tapestry done in watercolors.

BRONZINI OFFERED classic foulard prints and figured stripes in silk, political ties with such symbols as elephants and donkeys and the stars and eagles that appear on the ballot. And if you can wait until Christmas there are ties with Christmas trees, bells, candy canes and holly sprigs.

Superba had a line of Chess Yes ties with chess piece designs. In the Don Loper division there were borders, underknot designs and classic prints. King's Lynn showed classic wool plaids and Jacquard woven Mandarin designs. Superba showed more classic neat figures, Qiana ties with contrast borders and big underknot designs and ties with foreign coin designs. The Johnny Carson line included plaids with figures, very wide paisley stripes and paisleys with plaid border prints.

Ruffles by Rooster reported the biggest thing this season is wool. There were loose woven basketweaves with neat plaid effects, a similar in a brushed, fuzzy effect, tattersall and houndstooth in the same brushed wool. There were sweater-like jacquard knits in windowpanes, houndstooth and argyle designs. And with them were shown wool knitted mufflers in argyle and tartan designs — but big.

WEMBLEY FEATURED tops and bottoms, which in one case included a plaid top and a tip with various designs such as crests, bagpipes and cloverleafs. There were velvets with mat, all over designs, and a lot of classic wool challis.

Best Look— Wools And Pastels

A recipe for the best in young fall fashion — take the newest wools in the palest pastels and mix them with the latest looks — and you'll come up with a formula to make you a standout on the first crisp day.

Ivory flannels and pearl gray wool coatings, ice blue wool crepes and hint-of-tan wool jerseys all look fresh and unexpected in a season which usually wraps itself in bright or dark colors at the first dip of the thermometer.

The new platinum 'shades' are as flattering as cosmetics and in wool they'll never look like summer hangovers.

If you're worried about upkeep, some of the newest wools are machine washable and machine dryable.

Other light-colored wools can be maintained by coin-operated dry cleaning. They need only a slight touch with an iron afterward.

Miskimen Orders A Probe Of Financial Procedures

San Rafael Councilman Acts In Report's Wake

By NELS JOHNSON

The habit of some San Rafael city officials of wining and dining at city expense has sparked an examination of city financial procedures.

Council finance committeeman John A. Miskimen said he ordered the move in the wake of an Independent-Journal report last week that several city leaders were accustomed to charging the city for costly luncheons.

The report drew from Councilman Miskimen a startled declaration he had never seen "cash revolving account" vouchers detailing the luncheons, although he and finance committee chairman Harry A. Barbier are charged with final approval of such expenditures.

Miskimen said yesterday he had directed Finance Director John B. Averett to develop proposals for a clearer accounting system "to let the finance committee know what is going on."

An example of the confused state of expense account records came to light yesterday when the I-J discovered a misfiled packet of vouchers, including a record which asserts that an $89.15 dinner was shared by councilmen Miskimen and Barbier, City Mgr. James H. McCown and their wives on Sept. 28, 1971 in Julius Castle Restaurant in San Francisco. The 1971 packet was filed with 1970 records.

Miskimen's presence was an unusual variation on the restaurant circuit list, since those dining together most frequently at city expense last fiscal year apparently were McCown, Barbier and Councilman Fred E. Jensen, as reported last week.

Consumed at the dinner, according to a bill attached to the voucher, were three New York steaks ($24.75); two filet mignons ($17.50); one sole Julius ($5.25); two avocado salads ($4); two caesar salads ($4); one shrimp roquefort ($2.75); and five coffees ($2.50) as well as other illegible items. Miscellaneous expenses were listed as costing $8, for a $98.35 total expense, according to the records.

McCown and Barbier said yesterday the dinner was part of an official function of a conference of the League of California Cities. Miskimen, however, said the group skipped the official League banquet in favor of a private dinner because the food had been cold at a previous league banquet.

"Frankly, we were shocked at the tab," Miskimen said, adding that none of the group had been before to the fashionable restaurant on Telegraph Hill. He said the price would have been about the same had the six attended the official banquet.

Finance Director Averett declared he had no idea how the voucher had become misplaced. The packet, including the luncheon voucher, evidently had been reviewed by the finance committee, then misfiled.

Averett is required to submit all revolving account vouchers detailing such luncheons for finance committee approval, but has apparently not provided a summary sheet of revolving expenses nor submitted revolving vouchers in a separate file for overall scrutiny.

"We've got a serious control problem," Miskimen said, adding that the council had experienced "difficulty in attempting to regulate expenditures of money between meetings."

Miskimen said Averett had failed to notify him or other councilmen of the cost of luncheons charged to the city by city leaders.

"At the very least he should have complained to his boss (McCown) about the expense," Miskimen said. As finance director and city treasurer, Averett is in a better position to know what the city is billed for than is City Manager McCown, according to Miskimen.

Miskimen said he dislikes the finance department's policy of issuing advance reimbursements for officials who want prepayment for expected expenditures. "If you advance money, there's an inclination to spend it," he said.

McCown said he would aid

Bike Bumps, Dents The Nixon 'Tank'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon's new armored limousine—with a reported price tag of half a million dolars and described as "strong as a tank" —got the worst of it in a collision with, of all things, a $197 bicycle.

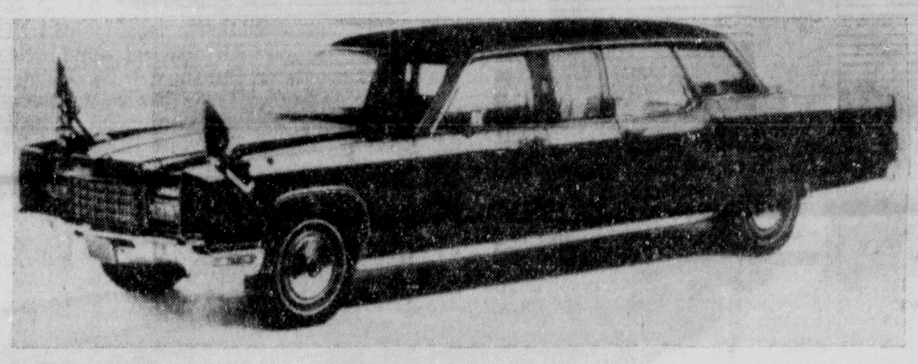
The bike rider, though, didn't come out of it as well as his vehicle.

A police report today showed that the bike ridden by Orville Jackson ran into the left rear fender of the presidential Continental (the President was not aboard) as both vehicles were turning into a service station Wednesday afternoon.

Police estimated the damage "in excess of $100" —all of it to the limousine, evidently, since all Jackson had to do to put the bike back in operation was to straighten the handlebars.

Jackson was treated at a nearby hospital for abrasions. While there he was presented with a traffic ticket, for failure to stay in the proper lane, by a police delegation he described as "one lieutenant, one sergeant, one motorcycle patrolman and two officers."

Someone suggested to Jackson that, in view of all this official attention, he had run into the wrong car. "No, sir," he replied, "the wrong car hit me." He said he plans to fight the traffic ticket in court.



THE LIMOUSINE — This is President Nixon's new armored limousine. It got the worst of it yesterday in a collision with a bicycle.

DEATH-BY-MAIL CAMPAIGN SPREADS

Israel Blunts Anti-Terrorist Plot

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Israeli police said today they had broken up an anti-terrorist plot involving the militant Jewish Defense League aimed at smuggling weapons to Europe to mount a counteroffensive against Palestinian guerrillas responsible for the deaths of Israeli diplomats and athletes.

The death-by-mail campaign against Israeli diplomats spread today to Africa where three booby-trapped letters were intercepted at the Israeli Embassy in Kinshasha, Zaire, the former Belgian Congo. And in Tel Aviv police said they had intercepted 10 more deadly letters addressed to prominent Israelis.

A police spokesman said an industrialist, Amichai Paglin, was detained for questioning Tuesday in connection with the reported bid to smuggle weapons to Europe so that militant anti-Palestinian groups could mount a terror campaign of their own against the Arabs.

A Tel Aviv magistrate ordered Paglin released on $5,000 bail, turning down a police request for a remand order for further questioning. Police said they planned to appeal the decision at the district court.

In a related development, police raided the headquarters of the Jewish Defense League, seizing dozens of documents. A police source said the raid followed the arrest of a JDL memberand the interception of a Europe-bound crate of weapons at Lod International Airport.

Police Minister Shlomo Hillel told Israeli newspapers his men would do all they could to prevent weapons being sent to Europe for antiguerrilla actions, especially by the JDL.

The explosive devices, so small they can be sent in an ordinary letter, have been received in a number of cities of Europe, Tel Aviv, Montreal and New York. The first one in London killed an Israeli embassy official; the others have been detected before they could cause harm.

The letters have been attributed to the Arab Palestinian Black September terrorist group held responsible for the Munich massacre of 11 Israelis at the Olympic Games and a shootout in which five guerrillas and a German policemen were killed. All were mailed from Amsterdam.

The new terror campaign has brought warnings from Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban and Deputy Premier Yigal Allon that the perpetrators must be liquidated. The implied threat was that there would be more Israeli strikes against guerrilla bases in Lebanon and Syria.

Israeli police intercepted 10 more booby-trapped envelopes today before they could be delivered to prominent Israeli addressees; Jerusalem dispatches reported. It brought to 12 the number of bombs to have arrived by mail in two days.

The latest batch of letters, discovered in a last-minute check in Jerusalem's post office was aimed at the chairman of the Jewish Agency, Arye Pucus, and many of the organizations officials, among others.

Transport Minister Shimon Peres and Moshe Kuretz, director-general of the Welfare Ministry, were the targets on Wednesday.

The Vatican warned today against Israeli reprisals. A press spokesman said such reprisals could only spark more hatred and he reminded Jews that the Old as well as the New Testament condemned vengeance.

The Israeli embassy in Brussels Wednesday received a second letter-bomb which was defused before it could explode, a Palace of Justice spokesman said today. The bomb was of the same type as the one intercepted Tuesday. Both were mailed in Amsterdam.

Two more parcels received by the embassy Wednesday aroused suspicions, the spokesman said. A cylindrical parcel, mailed from Holland, contained no explosives. It might have been sent by a practical joker, he said. Another letter, mailed in Italy, is being investigated by an army explosives expert.

The International Union of World War II resistance fighters and Deported Persons (UIRD) today called on the United Nations for international action against terrorism.

UIRD president Maj.-Gen. Albert Guerisse, in a cable to the General Assembly, asked that "the United nations adopt an international convention, linking all countries, to fight on a world scale the taking of innocent hostages, blind terrorism and torture as crimes against humanity."

Housing, Redevelopment Head Gets Pay Increase

By ERIC M. INGRAM

Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of Marin's housing authority and redevelopment agency, joined the ranks of higher-paid public officials last night when the agency boards increased his salary to $21,204 a year.

The $3,204 increase, retroactive to July 1, came as the two boards met jointly to consider personnel problems including the suspension of Shepherd's chief assistant, Keith E. Kelly.

Kelly was suspended last week by Shepherd, who told the Independent-Journal the two men found it "difficult to work together,"

Last night, however, the boards emerged from a joint closed session to announce Kelly had been improperly suspended, since Shepherd does not have that authority.

Another session was scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday at Marin County Civic Center to consider charges for dismissal of Kelly and to give him a chance to reply. He was not present at last night's session.

(State law governing closed sessions by public agencies, the Ralph M. Brown Act, makes no provision for two agencies which meet jointly behind locked doors.

(Possible violation of the law was pointed out last night to the two boards, which said they had the right anyway, since

Retirement Pay Benefit To Survivors

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon signed into law Thursday legislation providing the first real survivor benefits for widows and orphans of retired military personnel.

Retirement pay in the past generally has ended when the retiree died. Under the new law, survivors will continue to draw up to 55 per cent of what the retiree was paid.

Congress drafted the law after learning that many survivors of retired military men — some of them widows of high ranking officers —had been left almost destitute.

The new law gives military personnel the same survivor benefit privileges already enjoyed by federal civil servants.

Although participation in the new plan will be optional with the retiree, positive action will be required to "opt out" of the system and few if any career servicemen are expected to do that.

Sample benefits cited in congressional reports will range from $143 monthly for the widow of a staff sergeant who had 20 years of service to $1,237 monthly for the widow of a general who served 38 years.

The new law does not cover those already widowed; but there is a provision under which those in that category are covered by a minimum benefit so that their income from all sources will be guaranteed to reach at least $2,100 a year.

U.S. Judge Says Demos Can Go Ahead On Stan s Lawsuit

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Democrats have been allowed to proceed with a $3.2 million damage suit growing out of the break-in of Democratic national headquarters against Maurice Stans, chief fund-raiser for President Nixon, and three others formerly connected with the campaign.

At the same time, on a technicality, U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey dropped the five men accused of the actual June 17 break-in as defendants. The Democrats said they would appeal the ruling.

Richey ordered lawyers for both sides to appear at a closed hearing today to determine how much time it will take to file all motions and take depositions in the case.

By Richey's order on Wednesday, the original $1 million invasion of privacy damage suit brought by former Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien against the "Watergate Five" —since indicted by a federal grand jury along with two former White House aides —was superseded by the $3.2 million damage suit naming Stans and his campaign finance committee.

Other remaining defendants in the revised suit are Hugh W. Sloan Jr., former treasurer of the Committee for Re-election of the President, and two former White House aides who also were indicted Friday —G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt Jr.

Dropped from the Democratic lawsuit —but still under indictment on federal charges of conspiring to steal documents and install illegal bugging devices at Democratic headquarters —were Bernard L. Barker, Virgilio R. Gonzalez, Eugenio R. Martinez, Frank R. Sturgis and James W. McCord Jr., former security chief for the re-election committee.

The technicality Richey cited in dropping the original Watergate Five was that Democratic lawyers failed to file a response to an Aug. 31 motion by Henry Rothblatt, attorney for the five, asking that the suit be dismissed.

The amended suit charges that Stans diverted Nixon campaign funds for the purpose of financing a "political espionage squad" to gather intelligence on Democratic officials and candidates in violation of their constitutional rights.

Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., said today the indictment of the five break-in suspects, along with Hunt and Liddy, was evidence of "political dishonesty" on the part of the administration.

In a prepared Senate speech, Stevenson said the administration wants the public "to believe the unbelievable."

"We are asked to believe that these men operated with no authority but their own; that large sums of money slipped magically into their hands from Mr. Stans' remarkable safe. We are asked to believe that the accused men had no connection with the highest officials of the Republican campaign ... We are asked to believe that the fruits of the burglars' labors — the photographs and transcribed conversations —were for their own entertainment."

Amtrak Reports Huge Loss, But Notes Return To Trains

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Amtrak says Americans are beginning to return to the passenger train, but for every dollar the passenger has paid in fares, Amtrak has paid about $2 to carry him.

Amtrak, the semigovernment corporation established May 1, 1971, to save the vanishing passenger train, told Congress and its shareholders Wednesday that it lost $153.47 million during its first full fiscal year ending June 30, 1972.

It listed revenues of $152.71 million vs. expenses of $306.18 million.

But Amtrak also reported:

—Ridership in May and June of this year was 13.7 per cent more than May and June, 1971. This was the first opportunity to directly compare Amtrak's present ridership with a year ago.

—Revenue in June was 11 per cent more than June, 1971: $14.4 million compared with $13 million.

The ridership figures indicate "that a historical decline in railroad passenger service has been reversed," Amtrak said in a report to its stockholders, who are mostly the railroads operating Amtrak service.

The corporation indicated the ridership increase might have been substantially greater if Hurricane Agnes had not severly disrupted eastern rail service in June. The ridership increase in May was 28.1 per cent over May, 1971, but the increase in June was only 7.4 per cent, largely because Agnes shut down many eastern rail lines.

The ridership increases also might have been greater if Amtrak had been able to accommodate all the passengers who wanted to travel by rail this summer. Because of equipment problems (40 per cent of Amtrak passenger cars were out of service for repairs this summer), reservations were hard to get on some trains, particularly in the West.

Amtrak also suffered from air conditioning breakdowns during summer heat, and on-time performance was mediocre. Roughly one of every four trains was late.

Nationally, 2,761,861 passengers rode trains in May-June, 1972, compared with 2,429,758 in May-June, 1971.

State Supreme Court Ruling— No Death For Killer Of Nurses

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI)— Richard F. Speck, 31, convicted murderer of eight nurses, cannot be sentenced to death.

The Illinois Supreme Court Wednesday, interpreting rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court, said Speck must be sentenced again for the slaughter of the nurses in Chicago, but cannot be sentenced to death.

Speck had been sentenced to the electric chair five years ago for the murders of the nurses and the Illinois court had earlier upheld the sentence. However, the U.S. Supreme Court reversed the decision because of what it called deficiencies in the selection of the jury which tried Speck in Peoria, Ill. Then, no resentencing took place because Illinois courts were waiting to see what the U.S. Supreme Court would rule concerning challenges of the constitutionality of the death penalty.

The nation's highest court ruled last June that in cases of condemned men such as Speck, the sentences be remanded back to the state courts for resentencing. The high court called the death penalty "cruel and unusual punishment" which is barred by the U.S. Constitution.

The Illinois Supreme Court, in an opinion written by Justice Walter V. Schaefer, interpreted the ruling to mean that Speck "could not be validly sentenced to death under the same Illinois statutes that are applicable to this case."

Wallenda Loses His Grip, Falls

DETROIT (AP) — High wire artist Karl Wallenda has escaped serious injury in a 20-foot fall, another incident in a series of tragedies that has stalked his troupe.

The 67-year-old Wallenda was descending a rope from the high wire, hand over hand, when he lost his grip and dropped to the floor last night.

Doctors said a preliminary examination disclosed no serious injury.

The accident occurred as Wallenda finished his high wire act on the opening night of his new show at the Detroit Olympia.

Ten years ago, two members of the Wallenda troupe died in a fall at Detroit. Two other Wallenda erformers have been killed since that accident.

FBI Search For Robber Of Casino

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI)— The FBI is heading a two-state search for a gunman who held up busy Harrah's Tahoe Casino of $178,500 and escaped in the direction of California on a motorcycle.

A spokesman for Harrah's Tahoe said the robbery Tuesday night was the largest ever in a Nevada casino. The robber was described as wearing "an awful lot of clothes and a false beard" along with a Western hat and wraparound glasses.

The spokesman said that the gunman met a security detail of five men bringing money to the casino floor from a basement. He pulled out a .45 caliber pistol and said "give me the money or I'll blow your head off."

He took two bags and ordered the club workers to go back downstairs. He then hurried across the crowded casino and left through a door on the California side of the casino, which is right on the state line.

He dropped a sack holding $4,500 in gambling chips after running into a slot machine attendant, but held onto the bag of currency as a security guard gave chase.

They ran a short distance down U.S. Highway 50 until the robber arrived where someone with a motorcycle was waiting. The robber leaped aboard and they sped away.

Indian Activist Killed; Investigation Under Way

SANTA ROSA (AP) — Richard Oakes, a 30-year-old Mohawk Indian and member of the original band of Indians that occupied Alcatraz Island in 1969, was shot to death at a YMCA camp, the district attorney says.

John Hawk, Sonoma County district attorney, said yesterday sheriff's deputies arrested Michael Morgan on investigation of manslaughter.

Morgan, whose age and hometown were not immediately available, was connected with the YMCA camp where Oakes was shot. The camp is located about 60 miles northwest of here near the coastal town of Annapolis.

Hawk said he would issue a news release today after completing an investigation of the shooting.

A former high-rise steel worker, Oakes served as a chief spokesman for the Indians that occupied Alcatraz, a former federal prison in San Francisco Bay, on Nov. 20, 1969. The Indians demanded that the empty prison be turned into a cultural center, a proposal rejected by the government after nearly two years of haggling.

Oakes left the island after his daughter Yvonne, 12, was killed in a fall from a three-story building.

A frequent critic of the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs, Oakes subsequently became active on behalf of the Pit River Indians to reclaim land in north-eastern California from the National Park Service and Pacific Gas & Electric Co.

He was arrested several times for trespassing and was briefly jailed for attempting to collect road tolls from motorists passing through the Kashia-Pomo Reservation in Sonoma County.

Oakes was nearly killed in the summer of 1970 after being struck with a pool cue during a bar-room fight in San Francisco.

At first paralyzed, he made a long recovery after undergoing brain surgery at the University of California's Medical Center in San Francisco.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Trial Recessed

FT. ORD (UPI) — The court-martial of Pvt. Billy D. Smith, 24, was in recess today after a prosecution witness said Smith was not the soldier he saw running from the "fragging" explosion which killed two officers in Vietnam.

Army officials said the Friday session of the trial was also canceled and added it would be reconvened "at the call of the presiding judge."

The interruption of the court-martial came late Wednesday after Bradley W. Curtis, 20, testified that he saw a black man running from the scene of the slayings, but he was not Smith.

However, Curtis, who served as an enlisted man with the defendant, told the court that he had been "smoking heroin" at the time and this interfered with his "powers of observation."

FDA Accused

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration was accused by a group of lawyers today of permitting widespread use in fish products of a food additive linked to cancer in animals.

The additive, sodium nitrite, is widely used in preserved meat and fish as a curing agent and in some products as a preservative, the Environmental Defense Fund said in prepared testimony before the Senate Select committee on Nutrition and Health.

This substance combines with stomach acids and other chemicals in laboratory animals, including rats and monkeys, to form powerful cancer-causing agents, the organization said.

Arrest In Uganda

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI) — Uganda military police today arrested Chief Justice Benedicto Kiwanuka, a former premier, in a government crackdown on critics of President Idi Amins policies.

The action came at a time when Uganda was embroiled in a dispute with neighboring Tanzania with each side making threats to invade the other.

In addition, Uganda military broadcasts bitterly attacked Sudan for intercepting five Libyan jet fighters carrying men and arms to Uganda for the conflict with Tanzania.

Witnesses said Kiwanuka was seized at the High Court building in Kamala. They said his coat and necktie were taken away from him and he was led away in handcuffs.

Strikes Continue

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Teachers in Washington, D.C., in defiance of their union leadership, continued to strike today while Philadelphia's 285,000 student school system was into its third week of immobilization.

Members of the District of Columbia School Board and Washington Teachers Union leaders hammered out an agreement during a marathon bargaining session which ended early Wednesday. The union membership, however, rejected the pact less than 12 hours later after branding the settlement "inadequate."

In Philadelphia, 13,000 teachers dropped 150 demands, but refused to accept the board's call for a longer work day, larger classes and a 4 per cent pay hike.

Grain Bill Fails

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Agriculture Committee has rejected an administration-opposed bill which would have compensated farmers who sold their wheat crop before the government announced a $650 million grain deal with the Soviet Union.

A similar bill is expected to come before the House Agriculture Committee next week. It stands a better chance of approval there.

The Senate panel Wednesday overwhelmingly voted down the bill to authorize higher price support payments to farmers who sold their grain this summer before disclosure of the Russians' purchase of 400 million bushels of grain. The sale drove wheat prices up and, according to wheat industry spokesmen, cost farmers who sold early between $20 million and $25 million.

Talks Suggested

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet Union has suggested a European Security Conference be held next June and has bowed to U.S. demands that parallel talks be held on mutual force reductions in Central Europe, diplomatic sources said today.

Preparatory talks for the full-dress 34-nation conference were now certain to begin in Helsinki Nov. 22. All going well, the June date for the full conference, with U.S. participation, will probably be accepted.

Sources said the Russians have yielded to U.S. insistence that the full conference be preceded by exploratory discussions on mutual, balanced East-West force reductions

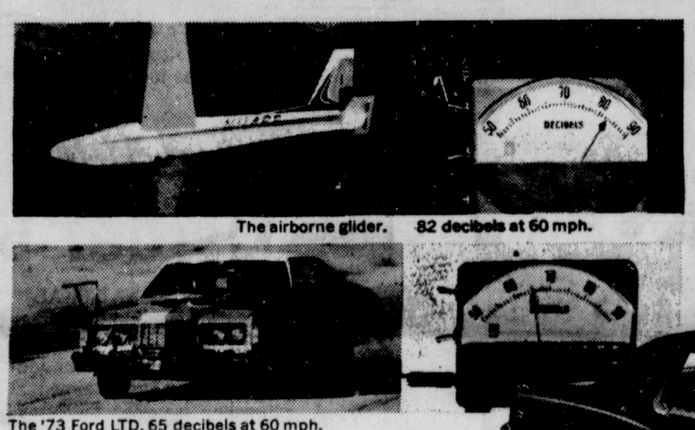
THE '73 FORDS ARE HERE.



The airborne glider. 82 decibels at 60 mph.

The '73 Ford LTD. 65 decibels at 60 mph. Quiet is the sound of a well-made car.

At 60 mph a '73 Ford LTD rode quieter than an airborne glider.

On July 27, 1972, General Radio Co. tested a '73 LTD against an airborne glider. Both at 60 mph and with identical sound level meters. The result: the Ford was quieter. But the new LTD is more than just quiet. It is well made from its power front disc brakes, power steering and automatic transmission, standard equipment, to its luxurious, comfortable, roomy interior. There are 16 new Ford models to choose from and each will convince you that quiet is the sound of a well-made car.

Chances are you won't try to balance yourself on top of your new Torino. But, when you're riding inside, you'll still appreciate Torino's refined suspension—because it helps to cushion bumps, absorb road vibrations and reduce body sway. You feel solidly in control while you ride in comfort and luxury.

'73 Pinto: When you get back to basics, you get back to Ford.

Ford, the company that built the first basic, solid, reliable car seventy years ago—has built today's basic, solid reliable car: Pinto. It's become America's top selling economy car for more reasons than economy. Here are some of those reasons: A 1600 cc. engine developed and perfected in over 10 years of actual driving. Rack-and-pinion steering. Solid welded body, electrocoated to fight corrosion. 4-speed transmission—lubed for life. Everything we've learned in seventy years of car making—all the basics—we build into every Pinto Wagon, Runabout and Sedan. When you get back to basics, you get back to Pinto.

FEDERAL DRUG CASES

We Gave U.S. Run For Its Money, Juror Says

Serving on a federal grand jury and being a chemical engineer share at least one common trait: both jobs call for drawing conclusions from data.

So says Richard A. Wuopio of San Rafael, who has done both. He is a senior research engineer at Chevron Research Co. in Richmond and recently completed the first of two four-month terms as a member of a special federal grand jury appointed in May to investigate wholesale drug trafficking in the Bay Area.

The grand jurors met about once a week from May through August in the 17th floor conference room of the federal building in San Francisco.

A skeptic by training and inclination, Wuopio described himself as the kind of person who questions advertising claims and statements of politicians. He nevertheless was impressed by the way the Justice Department presented its cases. "They answered most of my questions before I had a chance to ask them," he said.

Although there was frequent disagreement among the group,

RICHARD A. WUOPIO
San Rafael resident

Wuopio and the 22 other grand jury members were impressed enough by the government's evidence to hand down "several dozen" indictments.

More than that, Wuopio will not say. Since jury proceedings are supposed to be confidential, Wuopio would not talk about the number of cases he heard, the details of the investigations, or the extent of the narcotics traffic in the Bay Area.

Wuopio, who has served on municipal and superior court juries in Marin, was uncomfortable at first by a built-in characteristic of grand juries — hearing only the prosecution's side of the story.

"By and large we gave the government's case a pretty good run for its money. In some ways we acted as a kind of defense attorney to see if the government had a case. We were by no means a rubber-stamp jury," he said.

A strong believer in the grand jury system as a way of providing checks and restraints against the government, Wuopio criticized the way grand juries are chosen.

The $20 per day allowance, he said, makes it hard on small businessmen and other self-employed persons to give up working days to serve.

Wuopio said he was lucky. With his employer's blessing, he spent about 15 working days in the past four months on the jury.

He added, "I was never bored."

Terrorism Debate On U.S. Agenda

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)— Secretary General Kurt Waldheim recommended today that the issue of world terrorism be debated first in the general assembly's legal committee for "measured and calm analysis and discussion".

In this way, he advised the Assembly's 25-nation Steering Committee, he hoped to avoid "acrimonious debate" that would do nothing to ease "the feeling of general helplessness which peoples and governments all over the world have so often experienced in recent years."

Waldheim put the question of terrorism on the Assembly's agenda after China and the Soviet Union vetoed a Security Council resolution because it took note of the Arab terrorist attack on the Israeli Olympic team at Munich. The United States then vetoed the measure because reference to the Munich incident had been deleted.

China and the Soviet Union suffered a setback last night when the steering committee, which gives preliminary consideration to proposed agenda items, voted to shelve the Korean question and leave it to the authorities of North and South Korea to settle their own problems.

Deferred until at least next year were Communist-backed proposals to dissolve the 22-year-old U.N. commission for the unification and rehabilitation of Korea and to order withdrawal of 40,000 U.S. troops in South Korea, remnents of the 16-nation force that fought against Communism under the U.N. flag there 20 years ago.

U.S. diplomats were confident the assembly, which will meet Friday to consider the steering committee's agenda proposals, would uphold the 16-7 vote, with France abstaining, on the Korean question.

About 80 per cent of the books published in Brazil are sold in Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo.

Liberalized Benefits Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Payroll taxes would rise sharply next year to pay for a broad liberalization of Social Security and Medicare health insurance benefits under provisions approved Wednesday by the Senate Finance Committee.

The committee is expected to complete action on the measure today or Friday after approving other provisions replacing the welfare system with a "work-or- else" program. Senate debate may start next week.

Improvements approved Wednesday—many over the administration's opposition—call for providing some drugs to the elderly at a charge of $1 a prescription, raising pensions for widows by 17.5 per cent, providing Medicare coverage to the disabled and guaranteeing pensions of $200 a month to people who worked all their lives at poverty-level wages.

But $6 billion must be raised in additional taxes to pay for the changes and doing so will take a bigger chunk out of every worker's paycheck and increase the tax burden of employers, starting Jan. 1.

Well-paid workers will see withholding rise by $180 a year in 1973 and more in 1974.

The maximum tax, paid by those earning $10,800, would go to $648 from its present $468. The tax had been scheduled to rise next year anyway, but not that sharply. In 1974, the tax would go to $720 for those who earn $12,000 or more.

Since Congress increased all benefits by 20 per cent this summer, effective Oct. 1, the new measure carries no across-the-board increase for the 28 million people who draw Social Security checks.

The new provisions would:

—Allow people over 65 covered by Medicare to buy drugs for the treatment of chronic, long-term diseases at a cost of $1 for each prescription.

—Raise from $1,680 to $2,400 the amount a pensioner could earn with no loss of his Social Security benefits. But 74 senators are co-sponsoring a bill to put that figure at $3,000.

77 Streptococcus Cases Reported

Seventy-seven cases of streptococcus infection and 31 of gonorrhea topped the list of communicable disease cases reported in Marin County for the week ending Friday, according to Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Novato reported 34 streptococcus infections, San Rafael 15.

Suspect In Robbery Pleads

One of three men charged with robbing an invalid June 28 pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

A preliminary hearing for Leonard Franklin Pyles, 20, of Pittsburg, was scheduled for Oct. 3.

Pyles was arrested Sept. 9 by Petaluma police on suspicion of participating in the robbery of a 79-year-old television repairman.

San Rafael police said four persons gained entry to the San Rafael home of Ralph D. Hoy on the pretext of needing a television repaired, then held a toy gun to his head and demanded money.

The four took $300 and fled in a car which police traced.

On July 11, San Rafael police arrested Paul Brent Caldwell, 25, of Sonoma, and Danny Ray Pyles, 23, of San Rafael. Trial for the two is scheduled for the week of Oct. 24 in Marin Superior Court.

A 13-year-old boy believed to have been involved was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Prop. 17 Foes Name Chairman

Richard C. Sloan of Woodacre has been named Marin chairman of Californians Against Proposition 17, the initiative on the November ballot to restore the death penalty.

Sloan, a trustee of the Lagunitas School District, was selected by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco. Moscone is statewide chairman of the group opposing the proposition.

A former counselor at San Quentin State Prison, Sloan works now as a carpenter.

Finance chairmen of the Marin campaign are Evelyn Schaaf and Yogi Overton.

Moscone will discuss the proposition at 8 p.m. on Oct. 19 in the Edgewater Inn, Corte Madera. The meeting will be sponsored by the Marin branch of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Board Approves Phone Referral

A proposal of the Marin Suicide Prevention Center to establish an information and referral telephone service that could direct callers to proper sources of help was unanimously endorsed last night by the Mental Health Advisory Board of Marin County.

The suicide prevention center has been gathering endorsements of its proposal before it takes the plan to the board of supervisors, said a mental health board spokesman.

The plan calls for a comprehensive telephone service to operate Monday through Friday from 5 p.m. to 8 a.m. and all day Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

The mental health board also approved the county mental health plan for next year, without dissent.

Protest Against Redevelopment

Concerned over possible impact of redevelopment agencies on school district finances, members of the Marin Association of School Administrators decided yesterday to protest their formation to the board of supervisors and all city councils.

Association president Ralph D. Giovanniello, superintendent of the Reed Union School District, said he was directed to write to the supervisors protesting "the redevelopment concept", with copies to all 11 city councils.

Members began their meeting with a memorium to former president Anthony Bacich, superintendent of the Kentfield district who died Tuesday.

Year's Largest Test Detonated

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI)— The largest underground test conducted this canendar year was detonated today at the bottom of a 1,800-foot shaft in this remote area of the Nevada Test Site.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the test was "weapons related" and had a yield of 20 to 200 kilotons, meaning a maximum equivalent of 200,000 tons of TNT. The tremor from the blast caused some motion in high rise buildings in Las Vegas some 75 miles south of the test site.

All other announced tests this year have been 20 kilotons or less.

SHEPHERD

they share the same staff.

(The boards declined, however, to phone for advice from either of their attorneys each retained at $8,000 per year.)

Shepherd's salary increase came after more than an hour of discussion in which some board members questioned the 17 per cent raise.

Philip S. Ehrlich Jr., a housing authority board member, said he would support increasing the salary but noted it was only slightly less than that paid top county department heads.

He said he questioned the propriety of disregarding a state salary study which put the executive director's top salary at $21,204 after five years. Shepherd now will receive that amount after only 18 months on the job.

The director of the county welfare department has worked 20 years, and heads a larger organization but makes only slightly more, Ehrlich said.

The head of the county public works department, a licensed engineer, also makes only slightly more — about $24,000 a year, Ehrlich said.

Shepherd also drew criticism from board member Norman D. Campbell who said he couldn't support the raise because he thought there was a "lack of performance" by Shepherd during the past year.

He questioned why several projects — such as the move of offices from Marin City to San Rafael — had been delayed. "That move should have taken two weeks and it's been two months already and we are still in Marin City," he said.

Campbell, who cast the lone vote aginast the raise, said he wanted an analysis of work performance before considering a salary increase.

Housing authority chairman Arthur Miller defended Shepherd, saying he had performed adequately in the face of opposition from elements of the Marin City Community.

Miller was joined by boardmembers Collie Gaines and James O. Quiett of the redevelopment agency in praising Shepherd's administration of the two agencies.

"He has performed great under the circumstances and the boards have been part of the circumstances," Mrs. Gaines said.

Following adjournment of the joint meeting, the housing authority board reconvened and was approached by Melvin Randolph, a former housing authority employee, asking for a hearing on his dismissal last May.

Shepherd told the board that Randolph formerly the Marin City housing manager, hadn't been dismissed but, instead, lost his job in a reorganization of the agency.

The executive director later noted, however, that the reorganization was used to get rid of Randolph without causing him the embarrassment of being fired.

Randolph, a long-time employee of the agency, charged he had been dismissed unfairly under the guise of reorganization. He said he was in the hospital at the time he lost his job and that if he was, in fact, fired he had a right to a hearing. He said a formal request was made June 1 in a letter to the agency but he had not received an answer.

Shepherd said that under the personnel manual, the executive director had the right to hire and fire employees. If the board granted the hearing, he said, it would be usurping his powers as executive director.

Randolph countered, however, that the personnel manual provision cited by Shepherd were adopted after he lost his job.

SCHOOLS SHUT FOR FUNERAL OF BACICH

All Kentfield schools will be closed tomorrow, the day of the funeral for Anthony G. Bacich, superintendent of Kentfield School District, who died Tuesday.

The funeral will be held at 10 a.m. at Blessed Sacrament Church, 160 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia.

The district board will meet in closed session today immediately after a rosary service at 8 p.m. at the church and select an interim superintendent.

Averett in overhauling cash revolving account procedures, and asserted a summary sheet detailing revolving expenditures would be developed for the finance committee.

The city manager noted that officials are required to refund portions of advance reimbursements not spent, but that such refunds are not presently recorded on original vouchers.

"We're going to set up a cross-reference system on original vouchers so that when refunds are made we can determine whether in fact an expense took place," McCown said. He said that while qualified accountants had no problem with the city's record system, outsiders found it confusing.

Averett said last week that such a system of annotations had not been made because it was an improper accounting procedure.

Finance committee chairman Barbier was less sure yesterday of what changes would be made regarding the cash revolving account.

Barbier backed Miskimen and McCown in urging a summary sheet of revolving expenses be provided for council scrutiny, but said he did not know what else would be changed. "Once I find out what's involved in the revolving account, I'll make recommendations, but until then I can't say how it'll be changed," said Barbier, who has been on the finance committee since 1963.

The revolving account was set up about seven years ago to pay for day-to-day expenses incurred by city officials while on city business, according to Averett. Merged last July with the city's payroll trust account, the revolving account pays for conferences, luncheons, training courses, travel expenses including gas, airfare and hotel accommodations, and library postage, among others. Also paid from the account are "payroll trusts," or early payment of salaries to employees taking paid leave or vacation.

The account exists to take care of expenses that occur between council meetings and before council authority is given, according to Averett. A check is drawn aginst the account, and the account is replenished at the next council meeting through finance committee approval of expenses, Averett said.

More than $19,000 flowed through the cash revolving account in the last fiscal year, in addition to a $1,500 seed fund.

Sausalito Council Lowers Speed Limit

The Sausalito City Council, on the recommendation of City Engineer Norman Wohlschlaeger, has declined to reduce the speed limit on Bridgeway between Napa and Easterby streets from 35 to 25 miles per hour.

Some residents in the area complained at Tuesday, council meeting that the 35-mile-per-hour speed endangered pets and children.

OBITUARIES

James B. Elzey Dies In Germany

Funeral arrangements for Retired Navy Lt. James Bradley Elzey of Corte Madera are pending at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

He died unexpectedly Monday while on vacation in Germany. He was with his wife, Dorothy Lee Elzey, and had been in Germany only six days.

Elzey was born in Philadephia and enlisted in the Navy in 1928. He was on board the battleship Pennsylvania during the attack on Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941. He served on the carrier Coral Sea and the command ship El Dorado in the Pacific during World War II. He retired from the Navy in 1953.

Since then Elzey had been an engineer for the California Divison of Highways. He had lived in California for 30 years, making his home at 279 Golden Hind Passage since 1961.

Elzey was a member of the Naval Order of the United States, San Francisco Commandery; Retired Officers Association of Washington D.C., and the Marin County Retired Officers Association.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Lee Ann Zernik of Novato; a sister, Jane Lee Morrison of Bristol, Tenn., and two grandchildren.

DOROTHY McFARLANE

Mass for Dorothy McFarlane, San Rafael resident for the past 32 years, will be at 9 a.m. Saturday at St. Ambrose Church at Cornell and Gilman Streets, Berkeley.

Mrs. McFarlane died Tuesday in a local hospital after a long illness.

She was born in San Francisco and later moved to San Rafael. She was a claims adjuster for the State of California for 26 years prior to her retirement.

She was a member of the California State Employees Association and St. Anthony's Dining Room Guild.

She is survived by a son, Thomas J. McFarlane of Albany; a daughter, Marie T. Burton of Lancaster, Los Angeles County; two sisters, Ann Jones of Hayward and Stella Zumwalt of Novato; a brother, Frank Jones of San Francisco and 10 grandchildren.

Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Ellis-Olson Mortuary, 727 San Pablo Avenue, Albany. Burial will be private.

MATILDA MENEGUZZI

Graveside funeral service for Matilda F. Meneguzzi, mother of Joanne Priolo of Rohnert Park and Rosemary Alioto of Terra Linda was held yesterday at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

She died Sunday in a San Francisco hospital after a long illness.

She was born in San Francisco 55 years ago. She had lived all her life in the Bay area.

She is also survived by her husband, John Meneguzzi; another daughter, Josephine Park; a son, Dante Angelo Meneguzzi, all of Burlingame and 11 grandchildren.

Memorial contributions to the American Heart Association would be preferred by the family.

HENRY CHANG

Funeral for Henry Yin Chang, father of Darlene Lau of Mill Valley, will be at 11 a.m. Saturday at Cathay Mortuary at 1213 Powell Street, San Francisco.

Chang died Saturday in a San Francisco hospital. He was 67.

He was born in China and had lived in San Francisco for the past 17 years. He had been a merchant seaman.

He was a director of Chinese Six Companies and Gway Sen Association and Marine Cooks and Stewards' Union.

He is also survived by his wife, Moo Hin Chang; a son, Wilson Chang; three other daughters, Susan, Donna, and Lisa; three brothers, Sing Leong, Sing Ho and Sing Oi Chang, all of San Francisco.

Burial will be in the Six Companies Cemetery in Colma.

C. F. STAUFFACHER

Funeral for Charles F. Stauffacher, father of Charles F. Stauffacher Jr. of San Rafael, was held yesterday in Los Altos.

Stauffacher died at his home Monday. He was 90.

He was a native of Monroe, Wis., and a resident of California for about 74 years.

After arriving in California in 1898, he went to work for an uncle, who owned the Fink and Schindler Co. of San Francisco. He was continuously employed by the company — which manufactures equipment for offices, stores and banks — for 71 years. By the time he retired, in 1969, he was owner and president.

His son, Charles F. Stauffacher Jr. is now owner and president.

In addition to his son, Stauffacher is survived by his wife, Lili of Los Altos; a daughter, Jane Farina of San Carlos; three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Private funeral was held at Spangler Mortuary in Los Altos and burial was at the Cypress Lawn Cemetery in Colma.

The family prefers contributions to the Heart Fund.

MINNIE NEIMEYER

Minnie K. Neimeyer, 81, of Novato, widow of Milton H. Neimeyer, died Tuesday at a local convalescent hospital after a long illness.

Inurnment was at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael, and at her request, services won't be held.

Mrs. Neimeyer of 489 Gage Lane had been a resident of Novato since 1946 and previously lived in Wood, Siskiyou County. She was a native of Bradbecks, Pa.

She was a member of White Pine chapter, 487, Order of the Eastern Star, in Weed.

Surviving are two stepdaughters, Helen Carleton of Long Beach, Los Angeles County, and Naoma Packwood of Susanville, Lassen County, and two stepsons, Robert Neimeyer of Wrangel, Alaska, and Eugene Neimeyer of Salem, Ore.

MRS. SHILEIKIS

Eugenia Frances Shileikis of 423 Cedarhill Drive, San Rafael, died in a Redwood City hospital yesterday after a five-week illness. She was 48.

A Marin resident for four years, she had been a deputy clerk in the Marin County Sheriff's Department for a year.

Born in China of American parents, she came to California in 1949 and lived in San Francisco. She was a member of the Marin County Employees and Marin County Sheriff's associations.

She is survived by her husband, George Shileikis, and her son, James Alfonse Shileikis, both of the family home; by two daughters, Georgia Jeanne of San Francisco and Mary Louise of Santa Rosa; by her parents, Oleg and Valentine Matkovsky, and her sister, Valentine Bank, all of Daly City.

Funeral will be Saturday at 9:30 a.m. at Church of the Nativity, 240 Fell Street, San Francisco, where a Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Keaton Chapel, San Rafael.

Judge Allows Battery Plea

Four peninsula men who had been charged with kidnap were allowed to plead guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a misdemeanor count of battery.

Judge Peter Allen Smith accepted the pleas from James Tsopanakis and Eugene Garza, both 20 and from San Francisco, Eric Carlisle, 21, of Menlo Park, and Gerry Estrada, 20, of San Jose, then set sentencing for Oct. 27.

All were arrested April 16 by the California Highway Patrol after a beer can was tossed from the window of their vehicle. The patrol reported that after the car was stopped near the Corte Madera offramp of Highway 101 a San Francisco woman inside began screaming she had been kidnapped.

Misdemeanor Charges Filed

Only misdemeanor charges of possessing marijuana and drug injecting equipment have been filed against a 20-year-old Michigan resident arrested during a traffic stop Monday.

Joy Lynn Campbell pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court yesterday and her case was continued to Oct. 4 for pretrial conference.

Miss Campbell was arrested after the car in which she was a passenger was stopped for having a broken taillight. The arresting sheriff's deputy said he smelled marijuana and found possible marijuana and a hypodermic kit among Miss Campbell's possessions.

Investment Company Given An Extension

The Mill Valley Planning Commission last night granted the Cal-Fong Investment Company an additional year's time to submit precise plans and file a subdivision map for a proposed 109-unit apartment development in the Alto Bowl area.

Planning Secretary Evelyn B. McCrary said the development firm had not wanted to prepare plans or a map at this time because of the present moratorium on new sewer connections in Southern Marin.

FOR ONLY $4,000

Library Renovated, Now Multi-Purpose

For $4,000 a 60-year-old "beat-up nothing" multipurpose hall at Larkspur Corte Madera School has been transformed into a multi-media library and much more.

It's a colorful, carpeted place where children can go on rainy days, a center for plays and films and art displays and suppet shows. It's a meeting hall for the PTA and the Larkspur-Corte Madera School District board and teachers, and community groups.

It's also, of course, full of books.

"It really was an "old beat up nothing" before," said district Supt. Milton S. Cohen. "Built before the 1920s, and used as a multi-purpose hall for PTA and class meetings. Now it's the focal point for the whole school."

The facility was renovated in time for the first day of school last week, with turquoise carpeting, vividly painted walls in cerise, green and yellow, and a raised carpeted stage at one end.

Facilities include a listening center, records and film loops — with projectors that the kids can check out and take home overnight.

The library is turning out to be a genuine multiuse facility, with a district wide teachers' meeting set for it next month, plus other events, said Cohen.

It's open all day and after school, and children come in at recess and lunchtime too. Teachers bring whole classes in, and work closely with district librarian Barbara Dillon. The district's building librarian, Esther Woll, works at Neil Cummins and San Clemente schools.

"Each of our four libraries has a library clerk, which frees the two librarians to work directly with the youngsters and teachers," explained Cohen." They don't sit and do clerical jobs, they excite kids to the use and enjoyment of books and how to use a library. They read to the kids, study poetry with them, show them how to look up information. Children going through these schools won't have any trouble in high school or public libraries using card catelogs."

A few years ago the district's four schools possessed a total of two or three books a child, said Cohen, but now they meet the American Association of School Library standards of 20 books per child. Over 100,000 items were circulated in the district last year.

Mrs. Dillon, who also works at the Henry C. Hall school library, said the library isn't expected to maintain the traditional silence, "a certain level of noise is fine."

This year it's hoped to continue expanding student-produced audio visual materials, added Mrs. Dillon. Two years ago this started at Neil Cummins with slides and tapes; now it's spread to the district's four schools with students making 8mm movies at both Henry C. Hall and Larkspur-Corte Madera.

"And we'll have puppet, and slide shows, movies, drama and story telling and poetry sessions," she predicted.

Motorcycle Stolen From Larkspur Lot

A 1968 Triumph motorcycle was stolen from the Silver Peso parking lot on Magnolia Avenue on Monday night, Larkspur police reported today.

The motorbike is owned by Michael Lindell Brady of 59 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera.

How $24 Can Become A Million

LITTLE FALLS, N.Y. UPI —Ticket No. 8186082 in the state's "instant millionaire" lottery changed the lives of John and Anna Mizerak Wednesday.

Their income will rise from a Social Security pension to $50,000 a year for the rest of their lives, or a minimum of $1 million.

Mizerak, 76, is a blind retiree from a local knitting mill who immigrated to the United States, "more years ago than I remember."

"Miracle! Miracle! Miracle!" was all the east European native could say when his son, John Jr., 40, told him of his good fortune.

Mrs. Mizerak bought eight $3 tickets. Her reaction was much like her husband's: "It's just a miracle. Now we can remodel the house."

The new millionaires live in a tidy two-story frame house on quiet Loomis Street in this upstate city of 9,000.

Mizerak, who can only leave the house when accompanied by his wife or son because of his sight problem, appeared to be stunned as newsmen, neighbors and well-wishers pushed into their small living room.

One reporter offered his hand in congratulations and Mizerak grasped it and kissed it.

Mrs. Mizerak carried the winning ticket in the pocket of her house dress for two hours after learning that she had won, until a reporter suggested that it be put in a safety deposit box.

Miss New York State, Judith Ann Keithley, helped pick the winning ticket at the World Trade Center in New York, and lottery officials determined it was sold at the Arvid Sodergren Jewelers shop in Little Falls.

The ticket holder will get $50,000 a year for life. If he dies before receiving $1 million the balance will be paid to his estate.

Northern Front Tour By Thieu

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu, who just missed being hit by Communist artillery at Quang Tri City Wednesday, flew today to the central coast where Communist troops hours earlier attacked three district towns. The president, on a two-day tour of the northern battlefront, visited the province capital of Quang Ngai City 318 miles northeast of Saigon. The Communists last weekend shifted the emphasis of their offensive to the region and heavy fighting has been under way south of Quang Ngai City for six days.

The U.S. command in Saigon announced today that no Americans were killed in Vietnam combat last week and that seven men were wounded. It was the lowest overall weekly casualty toll of the war for the United States.

Command spokesmen said monsoon weather limited air strikes to 210 Wednesday over North Vietnam. They said pilots destroyed 20 warehouses in the Thanh Hoa-Vinh area, 137 to 210 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ). The closest raid to Hanoi was 30 miles to the south where Navy pilots reported knocking out or damaging six buildings at the Lang Loc army installation.

A command spokesman said a Navy A7 Corsair jet developed engine trouble during the raids and crashed into the Tonkin Gulf. The pilot, Lt. Stanley F. Bloyer, 26, of Ripley, Ohio, parachuted into the sea within sight of two U.S. 7th Fleet vessels and was rescued unhurt within 18 minutes.

Thieu told UPI reporter Edward Bassett that government forces had "the situation in hand" despite the attacks earlier today on the three towns. He arrived from Da Nang with Lt. Gen. Ngo Quang Truong, the South Vietnamese commander in the five northernmost provinces known as Military Region I.

Communist troops staged an all-night assault on Ba To, 25 miles southwest of Quang Ngai City, and by dawn today had partially captured a government ranger compound in the district town, field reports said. A South Vietnamese spokesman said at least 403 Communists were killed in the fighting He put government losses at eight dead and 36 wounded but reported no other details of the fighting.

900,000 Ford Vehicles Recalled

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. today announced it is recalling 900,000 1972 model cars and light trucks in an attempt to locate some 200 vehicles with suspected power steering malfunctions.

Ford said it also has instructed dealers to inspect the steering mechanisms of all early-production 1973 intermediate, standard-sized and luxury cars and light trucks and 1972 vehicles in stock before delivering them to customers.

A total of five malfunctions have been discovered on late 1972 and early 1973 model cars, none involving accidents or injuries, Ford said. The cause was traced to an omitted steering gear manufacturing operation.

Involved in the recall are 1972 model Torinos, Montegos, Fords, Mercurys, Thunderbirds, Lincoln Continentals, Mark IVs, Rancheros and light trucks built since March 1.

No GIs Die During Week In Viet War

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. command said today there were no American soldiers killed in the Vietnam war last week. It was the first time since the United States entered the ground war phase in Vietnam more than seven years ago that no American combat deaths were reported.

Last week's casualty toll of seven wounded and none killed is the lowest in the records of the U.S. command, which go back to Jan. 1, 1965. The last time there were no American deaths over a weekly period was March 1, 1965, when the United States officially entered the war.

The U.S. combat role in the Vietnam war ended last month but the air war is at the highest pitch ever.

Ground fighting for the week ending Saturday took its toll of Vietnamese soldiers, however, with 409 government and 4,625 Communist troops reported killed. In addition, 1,710 South Vietnamese were reported wounded.

Call For Cease Fire By U.S. Negotiator

PARIS (UPI)—The United States called on the Vietnamese Communists today to agree to an internationally-supervised cease-fire in all of Indochina and to begin direct political negotiations with South Vietnam.

U.S. peace negotiator William J. Porter told Hanoi and Viet Cong diplomats the latest Communist call for the creation of a tripartite coalition cabinet in Saigon with Viet Cong participation will not be accepted.

Porter, denouncing the demand as designed to assure a Viet Cong political and military takeover, said the most practical way to peace was a cease-fire and direct talks between the warring South Vietnamese factions as demanded by Washington and Saigon.

Porter, speaking at the 160th Vietnam conference session, said Communist calls for a three-segment coalition cabinet to be formed after the dismissal of President Nguyen Van Thieu and a complete U.S. military pullout "would, if achieved, lead neither to peace nor to self-determination for the south Vietnamese population."

"Instead, prolonged warfare and Communist dictatorship by the north would be the clearly predictable consequences," he said.

Porter added, "By contrast, the need for an internationally supervised cease-fire throughout Indochina, and the subsequent resolution of political questions throughout discussions among the Vietnamese themselves, has become even more apparent than before."

Porter said the Viet Cong, in their latest call for a tripartite coalition or "national concord" cabinet, called for a pledge that none of the contesting political factions should seek the elimination of the other by physical violence.

Such a non-elimination guarantee, Porter said, can come only through an impartially controlled cease-fire.

Peevy, Giacomini To Debate Oct. 4

A debate between Fourth Supervisorial District candidates Michael R. Peevey and Gary T. Giacomini will be held at noon on Oct. 4 in the Straw Hat Pizza Palace, Larkspur, according to Larkspur City Councilman Joan Sestak, who is organizing the event.

The Independent-Journal Tuesday carried two stories, one listing the correct place and the other giving it as in Mrs. Sestak's home.

Chrysler Aims For New Smog Curb Device By '75

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. has announced two major steps toward equipping its 1975 models with catalytic converter emission control devices, including a multimuliion dollar purchase from Russia.

Chrysler said Wednesday it has contracted through an international trading company to purchase 100,000 troy ounces of palladium, a metal akin to platinum, from the Soviet Union. Delivery was set for 1973.

Auto industry sources said the cost of palladium was "in the same ballpark" as platinum, which costs $130 per ounce. A troy ounce weighs 480 grains, compared with the 437 grains in the ordinary ounce.

Chrysler said it also signed an agreement with Universal Oil Products Co. of Des Plaines, Ill., to begin engineering work on a factory to produce catalytic converters — muffler-like devices containing chemicals to change exhaust gases into harmless carbon dioxide and water. The auto makers see the converters as the only way to meet stiff 1975 emission standards set by the federal government.

In 1871, Alcorn A & M College at Lorman, Miss., became the nation's first state-supported college for Negroes.

Maier, of 8 Upland Road, is vice president of Specialty Brands in San Francisco.

Guilty Plea To Property Concealment

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Three San Franciscans charged with receiving stolen property including a valuable painting from Kentfield and an antique clock from Sausalito entered guilty pleas to some of the charges in San Francisco Superior Court and will be sentenced Oct. 6.

Gary Webb, 26, pleaded guilty to receiving stolen goods and a drug charge. Gary and Norma Schlemme, both 24, pleaded guilty to one drug charge. Other charges against the trio were dismissed. They had pleaded not guilty in May.

They and another man, Villard Martin III, were arrested in a raid on the Schlemme home April 18 in which large quantities of drugs and stolen property were seized, according to police.

Included in property confiscated were a $30,000 painting taken March 28 from a Kentfield residence and an 18th century clock stolen in Sausalito.

Salt Sued By Accident Victim

I-J Special Report

SANTA MARIA — Haddon N. Salt of San Rafael, founder of H. Salt's Fish and Chips, has been sued in northern district Santa Barbara County Superior Court today for $150,000 for injuries suffered by a pedestrian in an auto accident last May.

The suit was filed by Thomas Park Neely, 43, of San Marino, who was struck by a car allegedly driven by Salt at 9:30 p.m. on May 7 on Highway 246 outside Solvang. Both of Neely's legs were broken and he suffered head injuries. The suit charges Satl with negligence. It says he was driving a rented car at the time of the accident.

A California Highway Patrol report on the accident said Neely was hit when about six feet onto the roadway.

Oregon 'Bottle Bill' Date Is Upheld

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—An Oregon "bottle bill" aimed at reducing litter by the re-use of containers goes into effect next month despite a pending suit by brewers and soft drink producers, the Oregon Court of Appeals ruled Tuesday.

Opponents of the measure had wanted the effective Oct. 1 date delayed until the appeals court held hearings on whether the law was constitutional.

The suit to overturn the law passed by the 1971 Oregon Legislature was filed by can and bottle manufacturers, brewers and soft drink producers and claimed the law discriminated against their industries and was an unjustified interference with interstate commerce.

Board Asks Voice In Rezonings

The Cotati School District board has asked a voice in proposed residential rezonings to protect itself from student crowding.

Board Secretary Miriam Horne said the board on Tuesday adopted a resolution asking the Cotati and Rohnert Park City councils to submit requests for residential rezonings to the board for impact reports. The board has been receiving subdivision plans only for comment.

The board also approved a resolution urging residents of the two cities to bring pressure on their city councils to share costs in providing portable classrooms for interim school housing.

Schools Supt. James H. Davidson said opening day enrollment of 1,695 students had jumped to 1,826 in two weeks. He projected even faster growth as more subdivision homes become occupied.

Davidson said he had met with representatives of the state board of allocations on the possibility of building an eight-classroom school in the Holiday Park area, but noted that interim classroom space must be provided within two years.

In other business, the board approved adding a fourth bus to handle the increased enrollment and hired two new teachers. They are Gayle M. Bulger, to be paid an annual salary of $6,969, and Suzanne Cosette, whose pay has not been determined.

Climate System

Nature devised a climate-control system that is built into the human body and is far more remarkable than anything man has produced, says the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute.

Tools Worth $265 Taken From Store

Tools valued at $265 were taken between 5 p.m. Monday and 5:23 a.m. Tuesday from San Rafael Sales at 513 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, police reported.

Patrolmen found the garage had been broken into and called the owner, George Steinert, who listed the items missing, according to police reports.

WHERE IS IT? — Apartments proliferate on Bon Air Hill with a bewildering variety of postal addresses, so bewildering, in fact, that no one knows which fire department to call; next door neighbors may live in Kentfield or Greenbrae or San Rafael or Larkspur, yet may all be within Larkspur Fire Department's jurisdiction — but then again they might not. Only the fire departments know for sure. Said one fireman, "My department might be taking care of a house on some street, then skip two or three before coming to another. My department may have houses on one side of a street, and another department the other side." (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

Firemen Explain Mix-Up Door To Door

By PAT PERRY

If you live in Greenbrae or if your mailing address is Kentfield or even San Rafael, don't be surprised if a Larkspur fireman rings your doorbell soon — he's your legal fireman.

The mixed-up postal addresses of the Greenbrae and Bon Air areas have got residents so confused that hardly any of them know they should call the Larkspur Fire Department in an emergency; according to Larkspur Fire Chief William C. Shurtz.

So in an attempt to clear up the confusion all Larkspur's firemen, paid and volunteers, have begun going from door to door distributing fire protection brochures, and issuing fire call telephone number stickers.

The location of greatest muddle is in Greenbrae and the Bon Air Hill apartment areas. Residents have all kinds of postal addresses — Kentfield, Greenbrae, San Rafael — yet they're all within the city limits of Larkspur, and under its fire protection.

The mixup arose some ten years ago said Asst. Chief William C. Lellis, when Larkspur's little post office was unable to handle the growing Bon Air and Greenbrae area because carriers couldn't cross the creek. It was easier to get mail delivered from Kentfield or San Rafael.

By the time Bon Air Bridge was constructed the postal addressing system was "locked in" said Lellis, and too difficult to change.

The effect is that next-door apartments can have postal addresses of Kentfield and San Rafael. A house at number 30 can be Kentfield, the next one, at 32, Larkspur.

The towering Tamalpais Retirement Residence has a Greenbrae address, but is in Larkspur's city limits. Apartments on Bon Air Hill are postally in Kentfield but physically in Larkspur.

"What happens is that if you have a heart attack case for instance," said Lellis, "a resident will call the Kentfield Fire Department for assistance, knowing their address is Kentfield.

"Then Kentfield will have to notify us to turn out, and precious minutes are lost. "Every minute counts."

Work on the firemen's public relations project began this week, said Lellis, with firemen carrying out a door-to-door public education campaign.

Reactions from residents range from astonishment to disbelief, according to Lellis, when told they are in Larkspur's jurisdiction.

Firemen also are telling people about the department's other services besides firefighting, including rescue, first aid, resuscitation, fire prevention inspections and home and school programs.

And they're distributing special instructions on fire escape from apartments. Lellis said it's estimated at least 1,000 apartment units are involved in the confused address situation.

FBI's Grapp Is 'Granted Request For Retirement'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Wesley G. Grapp, former head of the FBI office in Los Angeles who was censured and suspended recently for defying orders by Acting Director L. Patrick Gray and for bugging his own office, is retiring, Gray said today.

Gray announced in a lengthy statement that Grapp, 54, a veteran of more than 25 years service, had been granted a request to retire effective next Tuesday. Gray said Grapp's censure and suspension had been withdrawn but that both would remain part of Grapp's file.

Gray stressed in his statement that Grapp's failure to adhere to his policy relaxing former director J. Edgar Hoover's strict groom and dress standards —like length of hair —constituted "a direct violation of orders regularly and lawfully issued" by him.

Grapp's retirement means the veteran agent, who headed the nation's second largest FBI office for eight years, will leave government with a rating of GS18 which carries a $36,000 annual salary. His retirement benefits will not be affected. Gray had reduced him to GS13, which carries a top salary of $24,362.

Grapp, a native of Aberdeen, S.D., was demoted Aug. 25 as chief of the Los Angeles office for telling several agents to shave off their mustaches and reportedly boasting that he did not intend to abide by Gray's orders.

Temporary Inspector Decides To Retire

Mill Valley's temporary building inspector, Milton Reed, quit his job and retired when he was notified recently that it was unlikely he would be offered the permanent position.

Reed had filled the temporary post since the departure of former building inspector Henry E. Anderson, who is now chief building inspector of Petaluma.

Reed left last Thursday after working for the city for 39 days.

According to planning director Tom W. Newton, he did not score well on the exam administered to all candidates for the permanent position.

When Newton informed Reed of his score, the 62-year-old inspector decided to retire immediately.

Reed had previously spent 23 months in Mill Valley as building inspector during the construction of the new Mill Valley Middle School.

Newton told the Independent-Journal yesterday that he expects to advertise the vacancy widely and hire a permanent inspector by the end of October.

In the interim, another part-time inspector, Richard Shelley, has been hired to work two days each week. Newton said there will be no interruption in the building inspection process while the search for a new man is under way.

Shelley, who is also 62, recently retired after 11 years with the Marin County Planning Department. He will be paid about $140 per month, said Newton.

New Papaya Drug Getting Results

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—A bone specialist says a drug made from papaya can dissolve spinal cord tissues damaged by an injury, possibly eliminating the need of surgery for reducing pain.

Dr. Edward H. Mills said that good results have been achieved with 83 of 100 back patients given the drug chymopapain. He told the Washington State Medical Association Wednesday the Food and Drug Administration is presently investigating the drug for safety and usefulness.

The drug can be injected into the damaged spinal disc to dissolve or digest the damaged tissue and eliminate pain, said Mills. He said that although some unwanted side affects were noted, the drug involved less risk than surgery.

Reed School District Approves Joint Powers

The Reed School District board last night approved a joint powers agreement with the town of Corte Madera to build two tennis courts at Granada School.

Under the agreement, the school district will supply the land and Corte Madera will pay the $28,000 construction cost.

According to Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello, the project will include two tennis courts, landscaping and a road down from Prince Royal Passageway.

The construction will be completed by the end of October, said Giovanniello.

At the request of the superintendent, the board also considered hiring an additional teacher to teach a combined class of kindergarten, first grade and second grade students at the Belvedere School.

Currently, those three grades have 89 students who overburden the school's three teachers, said Giovanniello.

Of the three board members present at the meeting, two voted to hire the new teacher. In the absence of a clear majority of the full board, the three members decided to reconsider the additional teacher at an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. today.

The board also endorsed Tiburon's $1.25 million open space bond election because the acquired open land could be put to recreational and educational uses, said Giovanniello.

Americans conduct more than 75 per cent of their daily business by using personal checks, says the American Banker's Association.

Drinking Policeman Files Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Arthur T. Lord Jr., the whisky-drinking cop who said he got down a fifth a day as a cure for hives, has filed suit for the disability pay to which the city Retirement Board says he is entitled.

The suit, filed Wednesday in Superior Court, demands that the Police Department pay him $1,161 a month and names as defendants the Police Commission and Police Chief Donald M. Scott.

In ruling that the 45-year-old policeman — recently fined in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving on Highway 101 — was entitled to disability pay for 12 months, the board decided his drinking was job-related, that the tensions of patroling on a motorcycle made him so nervous that he broke out in hives and took to drink.

Objecting, the Police Department fired Lord, saying that such a ruling would make it possible for every cop with a hangover to claim disability pay.

"Let the Retirement Board pay him," said George Eimil, police personnel director. But the board has no funds for such payments and Walter Johnson, the retirement system's administrative assistant, contended: "It's up to the Police Department to pay disability checks for its disabled men from the police payroll."

Judge Ira A. Brown Jr., starting Tuesday, will make the decision.

Moscow Recalls Envoy In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)— Russian Ambassador Viktor Minine has been recalled to Moscow some 10 days after a junior embassy staff member with intelligence links defected to the Americans, informed Foreign Office sources said today.

The sources said Minine, who cut short a home leave in Russia to return to Vientiane last Saturday, has informed the Foreign Office of his recall and asked for an audience with King Savang Vatthana to say farewell.

The defector, Yevgeni Sorokin, 24, was interpreter and driver to the Russian military attache, Col. Vladimir P. Gretchanine. Sorokin defected to the Americans the evening of Sept. 10. He was flown out of Laos the next day and is now in the United States.

Guilt Found In Fairfax Assault

A Marin Superior Court jury has convicted Roger Elliott Lindman, 29, no known address, of assault with a deadly weapon but cleared him of robbery.

The jury deliberated almost five hours Tuesday in the court of Judge E. Warren McGuire.

Lindman was arrested by Fairfax police on June 21, the day after Bruce F. Grams of Fairfax told officers two men burst into his home, beat him and took $300.

Lindman was traced through the license number on the car used by the assailants, police said.

Defense Policies Draw Fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rejecting administration policy statements to the contrary, the McGovern Panel on National Security charged today that U.S. defense plans for the 1970s call for the United States "to undertake unilaterally the policeman's role throughout the world."

In a sharply-worded, 39-page report the panel appointed by Sen. George S. McGovern also charged President Nixon and his aides with poor defense management, excessive military spending, deliberate overstatement of the Soviet threat and misuse of recent nuclear arms limitation agreements "as a hunting license to stepup the arms race."

The panel pledged McGovern's support for NATO, Israel, Australia and New Zealand but said U.S. forces should be withdrawn from Korea, Vietnam and from other Pacific areas supporting the war in Indochina. While calling for major cutbacks in arms spending, the panelists said the federal government should start programs to employ former defense workers in solving domestic problems.

The report contended that the government could eliminate waste in defense spending and "still retain more than enough in nuclear forces to prevent any use of foreign nuclear power and more than enough in conventional forces to protect our vital interests abroad."

"Basic changes in the management of our military establishment are essential," the 10 co-chairmen and vice-chairmen of the panel said in a separate introductory statement.

They said if Nixon's defense policies are continued for four more years, the Pentagon budget will reach $100 billion by 1977.

By contrast, the panel cited as ideal the $54.8 billion defense budget for fiscal 1975 proposed by McGovern in January.

McGovern Will Return To War As Main Issue

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Sen. George McGovern has returned to the issue that built his national career with a powerful speech, charging the administration with "an assault on the decency and self-respect" of the American people by the bombing of Vietnam.

The 50-year-old nominee, who built his national career with a relentless crusade against American involvement in Vietnam, vowed that he would use the remainder of his campaign to remind Americans who might have forgotten that thousands of Asians are "burning, bleeding and dying" every day in a war which he said President Nixon promised to end.

Holding up cannisters for anti-personnel bombs he said were being used for the sole purpose of "penetrating human flesh." He promised "with every fiber of my being" to bring "every soldier, every bomb, every plane and every prisoner" out of southeast Asia within 90 days of his inauguration.

The speech, delivered in a solemn, almost ministerial tone that McGovern reserves exclusively for the war, was the first devoted entirely to Vietnam since the nomination. It brought an audience of about 500, some of whom sat with their heads buried in their hands, to their feet cheering for several minutes.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, who ran against McGovern in the primary, and who joined the McGovern campaign Wednesday, led the applause for a colleague who preceded him by several years in speaking out against the war.

The address—probably a preview of a nationwide television talk McGovern is planning to tape next week—seemed to breathe life into a campaign in which McGovern had come off sounding flat next to men like Muskie and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who introduced him.

Advisers to McGovern said he planned to stress the war more frequently in the coming days in a direct appeal to the conscience of the people.

They said Vietnam clearly was the one issue which revealed McGovern's personality and compassion to listeners.

In a speech to a small gathering of Southern New Jersey labor and political leaders this morning, McGovern said that if the United States would "put an end to killing, destruction, dying and waste" in Vietnam it would work to restore the nation to a prosperous economy and full employment.

He said it was time to "stop the bombing of South Vietnam and begin the building of America."

McGovern was up at dawn for an early morning tour of the RCA plant in Camden where he was greeted enthusiastically by several hundred workers. One man tried to stop him to ask for his views on amnesty and McGovern chatted with him briefly but moved on at the urging of his aides who wanted to avoid a repetition of Wednesday's long dialogue in Columbus with a severe critic of McGovern's Vietnam policies.

The plant workers, many of them wearing McGovern buttons distributed by an advance man before the candidate arrived, shouted at McGovern, "bring it home" and "no more war."

His next stop was New York City, where he scheduled a walking tour through Brooklyn, a meeting with Jewish leaders, and a handshaking stint at a Flushing subway stop.

Children, Dads To Hear Stories

Storytellers Tom Weller and Leif Glomset will read tales to children ages 2 to 6 and their fathers in the Corte Madera Regional Library from 10:30 to 11 a.m. Sept. 30.

Children's librarian Teddy Olwyler said mothers may come too, but the experiment is designed especially to lure fathers and their small fry into the brightly decorated story corner to sit on pillows, hear the yarns and get acquainted.

Weller is administrative supervisor of the radiology department at Kaiser Foundation Hospital; Glomset is a former Peace Corps volunteer and teacher.

Two Jailed In Petaluma Arson

Two Petaluma men were arrested last night on suspicion of arson after police said they tried to set fire to restrooms at Wickersham Park in Petaluma.

Gordon Willian Jensen, 22, of 230 Payran Street, and James Emmett Rolison, 19, of 300 Bodega Avenue, were booked into city jail for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Police said they were caught breaking windows in the building and had set fire to a window ledge. Officers said the youths were found at 10:45 p.m. with beer bottles filled with a flammable liquid and wicks. Damage was estimated at $25.

BARGE BARGES INTO BRIDGE

A 285-foot barge, after being broken away from a tug by strong winds early today, smashed a 60-foot gap in the roadway and pilings of the trestle of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel at Virginia Beach, Va. It was the third time since 1967 that the 17.6-mile complex was closed after being struck by a vessel. It will be closed for several days.

Pat Nixon Out West– 'No Long Hairs Here'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Pat Nixon is happy with the all-American "no long hairs here" crowds she has been attracting on her campaign tour of the West.

That might be because her crowds run to the very young and the old, with not many from the long hair generation.

The first lady, stumping in seven states on a western swing this week to re-elect the President, has been heartened by the youngsters who hold up signs reading: "We Are Pat People" and cheered by the senior citizens who tell her "We're going to vote for your husband."

But the college youth and protesters who four years ago cut classes to dog candidates and their wives on the hustings are missing this time around.

Mrs. Nixon makes it plain she likes the new "all American" look she has seen from Illinois to California.

She told an audience of several thousand who gathered to honor her at the Idaho Falls, Idaho, high school stadium Wednesday that the President and their daughter, Julie Eisenhower, told her they "didn't see any long hairs here" when they stopped in Idaho last year.

Pollster: Deceptions Corrected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A New York pollster testified today that a correction is promptly issued if a politician uses data from a private poll taken by the firm to make false claims about the popularity of his candidacy.

Oliver A. Quayle III told a House Administration subcommittee that in one case an unnamed governor who was trailing in several public polls announced the Quayle survey showed the election would be very close.

"He did not give any figures but his words were false," said Quayle. "We released the correct figures."

Quayle said that earlier this year his firm's private poll on the Wisconsin Democratic primary appeared incorrectly in press accounts and "We immediately supplied the correct figures and the details of our methodology."

Oliver Quayle and Company has completed over 10,000 political polls in the last 10 years, according to Quayle who emphazsied that politicians rarely misuse or abuse private polls.

He said that a candidate in a recent Senate race who was trailing in the Quayle polls "undertook a late, widespread telephone campaign that gave voters the impression that he had a poll showing him to be very close. That one turned out to be a survey of newspaper editorials and news stories around the state."

In another instance, Quayle said, a mayor trailing in the polls announced he was even with his opposition or slightly ahead on the basis of his own polls which turned out to be based on interviews by members of his own party apparatus.

"My major recommendation is that you direct your attention to the person who orders the poll and then makes it public either inaccurately or without making clear who did it and how it was done," Quayle said in his prepared testimony.

The subcommittee headed by Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., is considering a bill to require pollsters to file with the Library of Congress data about public polls.

Agnew: TV Debates Not Needed By Nixon

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has rejected suggestions that President Nixon step up his schedule of campaign trips and debate Sen. George S. McGovern on television.

The vice president told a news conference Wednesday that Nixon's record of accomplishments speaks for itself; that he does not need debates, and that his proper place is in Washington looking after the country's problems.

Agnew visited Columbus to speak before the Ohio Republican Convention, and he told the news conference a series of televised debates with McGovern would "serve no useful purpose and would help Sen. McGovern improve his recognition factor."

"Even three or four debates would bring out only a handful of questions," Agnew said. "The performance of the candidates would depend on their ability of the moment to be either sharp or flat on that particular day.

"The President has been on the tube a number of times explaining his policies, and there is just no need for a debate. Furthermore, it just isn't good politics, just as it wasn't when Barry Goldwater asked President Johnson to debate in 1964. It would serve no useful purpose and would help Sen. McGovern improve his recognition factor."

Agnew also rebuffed a suggestion that he debate his Democratic opponent, Sargent Shriver.

"He's on the trail, and I'm on the trail," Agnew said. "There's nothing on my mind that you fellows haven't been able to plumb or discover."

Asked why Nixon did not plan more campaign trips to keep up with his opponent, the vice president replied:

"We only have one President to deal with our nation's problems, and we need him in the White House. There's no dearth of information about the President."

An estimated 3,000 persons on their way home from work turned out to greet Agnew as he arrived at a downtown hotel across the street from the Statehouse.

Nonviolent Group Slates A Benefit

A benefit performance for the Bay Area Nonviolent Community, will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium at the Civic Center.

Performing will be Seals and Crofts, The Committee, and Mimi Farina and Carol McComb.

Old Tradition At The Faire

Lagunitas Woman Spins, Weaves Like Ancestors

A young woman in 16th Century dress, spinning yarn and weaving cloth at the Renaissance Pleasure Faire each weekend near Black Point is a modern version of her own forbears who wove and spun centuries ago.

For Rayven Hockett of Lagunitas (Mrs. Randall Smith) weaving and dyeing have been a tradition in the family for almost every generation on her mother's side since the first English settlements in North Carolina.

"Since almost every woman spun, wove and dyed in ancient times, it is probably safe to assume my ancestors also carried on these arts in Elizabethan times, just a few years before comming to the "New World" ", Rayven surmises.

FOR THE PAST year she has been concentrating on spinning and weaving tapestries, tubular gowns and one-piece capes while also teaching in a special arts program at San Rafael High School.

At the Renaissance Pleasure Faire, Rayven continues her gift of instruction, teaching fairegoers how to spin while, of course, offering her own yarns for sale.

"Most of those who want to learn spinning at the Faire are young girls from 10 to 14 although many high school and college girls also try their hand," she notes.

"There seems to be a reawakening interest in the older arts; and certainly spinning and weaving are among the earliest, born of necessity," Rayven adds.

Rayven teaches two methods of spinning at the Pleasure Faire; drop-spindle, which one can learn6in an hour; and wheel spinning, which is more complicated.

"The drop-spindle method requires the hand-twisting of fibres which then must be continually pulled and wound on a spindle-shaft," she explains.

"The wheel does two things for the spinner; twists the thread and winds it on the bobbin."

"The average four-ounce skein of yarn spun on a wheel takes about 15 minutes," Rayven adds.

The basic techniques of spinning, weaving and dyeing have changed little from Elizabethan times, although 20th Century spinning wheels offer some benefits," Rayven observes.

She, herself, spins on a Saxony wheel which Rayven believes may be 200 years old.

Reyven works with raw wool, mohair, camel, goat and yak hair, cotton and flax, silk and even dog hair.

Her aunt in Montana raises goats just for the hair. Wool she gets from New Zealand; silk, camel and yak hair from the Orient; and friends bring her Shepherd, Afghan and Poodle hair.

SHE MUST first tease or separate all the fibres and then cart (comb) them so that they are all parallel before spinning.

The dyeing process is next, which first means she must mordant the fibres to accept the dyes. To do this, she simmers the yarn with one of a number of materials such as alum, copper, tin or iron.

Rayven then prepares her dyes which she drops into a pot. She uses only organic materials for her dyes such as wood chips and roots which she boils overnigh, then strains and pours into the dyeing pot. All of this requires continuous research.

For instance, madder root is used for her reds and red-oranges; crushed Cochineal beattles provide a brilliant red and Cochineal with log wood chips or indigo give her purples.

AMONG THE oldest of dyeing materials is tumeric which was used throughout the Orient for yellow, she explains, adding that bright greens are, perhaps, the most difficult to obtain.

People in Elizabethan times and even in early Colonial America, of course, didn't have access to as many dyes and generally did their dyeing in iron pots, resulting in drab colors due to the darkening effect of the iron on the dye."Rayven explains.

Hand-spun yarns look different and are more lustrous with a greater sheen then commercial yarns; and there are the advantages of one-ply yarns instead of two-ply which last just as long, plus the ability to mix fibres just as one wishes, or spin them thick or thin, she said.

"Another advantage is that one has a greater variety of colors with softer hues which also are faster than most commercial dyes; and the spinner can match almost any color a person wants, Rayven avers.

"ALMOST EVERY middle class home or poorer middle class in Elizabethan England did its own spinning, weaving and making of clothes for the family; and most of those accomplished women also produced a much finer linen than can be found commercially today." Rayven observes.

"However, it all took time. A woman would probably spin four pounds of yarn, enough to dress a man or woman, in a week, as the Elizabethans like to spin fine and weave tight," according to Rayven.

"Then another week would be required to weave, and a thir week to cut and sew the garments," she continues.

Working at home on the top floor of a glass-walled, skylighted studio which her husband built, Rayven spins in the morning from around 8 a.m. to noon or 2 p.m., and then does her dyeing and weaving in the afternoons, when she is not teaching.

I find spinning and weaving very relaxing and enjoyable and sometimes I spend as much as 18 hours at a stretch at it," Rayven adds. "It is a craft however, that does require great patience."

RAYVEN HOCKETT teaches Pleasure Faire-goers the ancient art of spinning. "There seems to be a reawakening of interest in the older arts," she says.

Air Base Is Setting For Wedding

Chapel One at Hamilton Air Force Base was the setting for the wedding of Cecilia Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Holland of Novato, to Sgt. Christopher Bolin, son of Merril Bolin of Minneapolis, Minn., and Mrs. Frank De Lorenzo of Riverside.

Carolyn Holland of Novato, sister of the bride, was maid of honor for the Sept. 9 nuptials, and best man was Richard Bolin of Riverside, brother of the bridegroom. Ushering guests to their seats were Wally Morris and Ed Wood of Hamilton.

The reception was held at the bride's parents' home. The couple went on a wedding trip to Minnesota and Texas and then to Tampa, Fla., where they are living.

The bride was graduated from Novato High School and attended College of Marin. She is also the sister of Butch and Samuel Holland of Novato.

The bridegroom was graduated from Pomona High School and attended Riverside City College. He is serving in the Air Force.

KEY U.S. JOB

Black, Female: It's No Handicap

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Being black and a woman is more of an asset than a disadvantage in finding and holding an important job, according to one who should know.

She is Barbara M. Watson, first black woman to hold the rank of assistant secretary of state. She is head of the State Department's Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs.

"A woman can bring to any type of work, and especially to government, a kind of sensitivity which is valuable in dealing with problems, particularly human problems," she said. "It gives you a broader view.

"Being black is another asset, since you are able to bring another point of view, because you are in a minority as well."

EXPERTISE IN a chosen field is an advantage —and here, too, she is fortunate. Her grandfather was a magistrate in Jamaica, her father served in the New York City municipal court, and her brother is one of nine federal Customs Court judges.

Miss Watson also brought plenty of personal experience to her State Department position, whose main functions are to provide passports, visas and consular services to travelers. She was an assistant corporation counsel in New York, then pleasure of the White House, "I tor of the city's Commission to the United Nations. In tpat job, she dealt with problems of international law, "particularly with respect to the settlement of the UN in New York."

She says she has no particular ambition for a judicial appointment. She was named to her present position by President Nixon and will serve at the pleasue of the White House. "I have no thought of what I will do when I leave here. I like my work."

Miss Watson likes to spend occasional weekends in New York City where she has a 10-room apartment on Riverside Drive.

WHILE NEW YORK is big and bustling, she said, it has an undertone of excitement. But she also enjoys Washington.

She has a house only six blocks from the State Department, with a patio where spring and winter camillias bloom, and a rambler rose mixed with pink and white clemantis cover a stockade fence. Azaleas and tulips decorate the small garden behind the house, and two tubs o geraniums bloom profusely.

"I've found Washington very, very friendly," she said. "The pace is more leisurely than in New York, and there's a great deal more greenery in gardens that people are proud of. And lots of social parties."

Her work is time-consuming. Her day begins early, at 7 a.m. sometimes, and occasionally continues until after 8 p.m.

Fairfax Man Takes Bride In Richmond

Susan Candace Parker of El Sobrante and James Nathaniel Dismuke Jr. of Fairfax were married at St. Luke's United Methodist Church in Richmond on Sept. 9.

A reception was held afterward at the Bermuda Room of the Richmond Civic Center. The couple will live in San Leandro.

For the nuptials the bridal attendants were Anita Cagle, maid of honor, and Melody Palmer and Virginia and Jeannette Dismuke, sisters of the bridegroom.

James' brother Joseph Dismuke was the best man. The guests were escorted to seats by Steve Pelleriti, Ken Svanum, Mike Conroy and Pat Doherty.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Parker of El Sobrante. Now a junior at California State University, Hayward, she was graduated from DeAnza High School.

James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dismuke of Fairfax. He was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and is a senior at CSU, Hayward. He is also employed in San Leandro.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Talk About His Childhood And Maybe He'll Loosen Up

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I am the mother of two growing boys, 13 and 14. They are active in many sports. They also eat umpteen meals a day — so my husband says. He is their stepfather. Whatever he is doing, when the boys come into the house, he immediately gets up to see which way they are headed. If they go to the refrigerator (even for a glass of water) he hollers, "Get the h— out of there! Don't you eat for 10 already?" He constantly checks to see how much fruit and other food is gone — he's been known to hold an apple-count! Says he never saw kids eat so much. The truth is; he has never been around teenagers before.

The boys aren't hogs. They're actually on the slim side. They eat wholesome meals, but they get hungry in between times. Must they beg for every snack, and be refused? I've seen my husband tell them they can't have this or that and it's stayed in the refrigerator until it's spoiled.

Another thing, he won't allow them to watch any type of sports on TV because he doesn't care for sports.

I tell him better food and sports than hanging around the streets or popping pills. He says that's an illogical female argument — the first doesn't shut off the possibility of the second. Incidentally, we aren't broke.

So what CAN I tell him? Boy, do I need help! — WITS' END

DEAR WITS' END:

Boy, you sure do! I could see a refrigerator-guard if the boys were overweight, or you had a big budget problem. Neither of these being the case, then your husband needs a refresher course on teenage hunger pangs. Can't he remember what it's like to be 14, active and never quite full? Start him talking about his childhood and maybe he'll loosen up a bit — on food, sports and all-around fatherhood. — SUE

DEAR W.E.:

For your husband's information, that "illogical female argument" of yours makes a lot of sense. Kids who are denied normal privileges (and between-meal snacks for growing boys are normal!), yelled at, treated as expensive nuisances and given few rights, could easily drift to the streets where drugs are plentiful. Of course a closed refrigerator won't drive a boy to dope but an unfriendly stepfather can drive him out of the house, and into company that goes for different kinds of "sports." — HELEN

DEAR RAP:

I've read those advertisements about enlarging your bust "up to two inches in 14 days" if you just buy "our product." One company has a massager that costs $19.98 and hooks to your bathtub faucet. It guarantees your money back and no harm to your body.

If you're sure to get your money back unless you get bigger upstairs, would it be safe to send the $19.98? — HOPEFUL

DEAR HOPEFUL:

You can be sure of only one thing: nothing outside of surgery will enlarge your breasts two inches in 14 days! No mere machine can make mountains out of molehills.

As for getting your money back: don't count on it! A company that puts out false advertising might also renege on its "guarantee." — HELEN AND SUE

America's Own Education Terms

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

This week we'll discuss two education terms which are peculiar to the United States — "career education" and "community colleges." But "evaluation" is in wide use throughout the world.

Career education: You may know this term by some of its other names: "vocational education" or "technical education" or "occupational training."

"Career education" is the new term being used at the U.S. Office of Education. And in all fairness, it intends to represent more than just a name change.

The words "vocational" and "technical," narrowly interpreted, signify training in such specific skills as plumbing, auto mechanics, typing, nursing, power mechanics, bricklaying, etc., while the phrase "career education" implies learning about skills and jobs as well. IF YOUR FIRST or second grader comes home from school talking about career education, you can assume that he is getting an early introduction to a vast array of skilled and professional job opportunities.

Some career education programs actually have the little ones perfecting earning skills; that is, skills that earn money. Other career-education programs combine in-school visits by professional parents with field trips to teach all schoolchildren what the world of work is like.

SUZZANNE HORTON
Worthy advisor

Rainbows To Install Miss Horton

Suzzanne Horton of Novato will be installed worthy advisor of Novato Assembly 194, International Order of Rainbow for Girls, Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the Druids' Hall in Novato.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Horton of Novato.

Other elected officers are Kathleen Fountain, worthy associate advisor; Karen Wagner, charity; Janet Gilmore, hope; and Andrea Nordstrom, faith.

Appointed officers are Kathleen Hitchcock, chaplain; Patricia Foster, drill leader; Cathleen Gramlich, love; Nena Clements, religion; Sandy Bowyer, nature; Jean Anderson, immortality.

Linda Andrews, fidelity; Kit Koykendal, patriotism; Carol Woods, service; Elizabeth Fountain, confidential observer; Joyce Thompson, outer observer; Sue Harrington, musician; Holly Allen, choir director; Terri Oliver, rainbow banner, and Nancy Hall, Christian flag.

Community colleges: These institutions are uniquely American. In 1900, there were just eight junior (two-year) colleges in the United States. All were privately owned and operated. Total enrollment in all eight was about 100 students.

But unless another community college has opened in the past two months, there now are 1,120 two-year colleges; they enroll2.7 million students. Most of these institutions are public and are known locally as community colleges.

Some parents, whose goal for their children is four years at college and a bachelor's degree, overlook the community college field. You don't need to.

THEY ARE fine alternatives to four-year institutions and cny actually have just the atmosphere your high school graduate needs. Most offer the same courses that four-year colleges do in their first two years, hundreds have transfer arrangements, a great many provide training for immediate employment. And most live up to their name — they serve as a focal point in the community for cultural and intellectual pursuits.

Evaluation: Do you know that even the people who make up standardized tests distrust their own tests' abilities to evaluate what any given child had learned?

It's true. The testmakers readily admit how weak their instruments are to evaluate learning; those who give the tests to children make similar admissions if pressed. But this has not stopped schools around the world from using tests not only to evaluate an individual pupil's work, but to designate which children should be made to leave school, and which should be encouraged to learn more.

SINCE THE word "testing" has fallen into disfavor, educators have turned to the word "evaluation." But it's the same, and parents would be wise to be alert to its use and abuse.

When the word "evaluation" is not used as a replacement for "testing," it has a positive meaning. Everything a school does should be subject to evaluation —the goals should be stated and some way must be designed to test whether the goals are being met. This is what the true evaluation is all about.

Nurse In Sonoma Scholarship Study

Carole E. Benson of San Rafael, a registered nurse, will attend Sonoma State College to study effects of environmental pollution on respiratory disease. She is recipient of a $1,500 Eight and Forty Tuberculosis Scholarship for nurses.

A graduate of Redwood High School and the College of Marin nursing program, she has been a nurse in the heart unit at Marin General Hospital.

Film Festival Visitors Will Need Guides

Volunteers are needed by the International Hospitality Center during the San Francisco International Film Festival Oct. 12 to 22.

Stars, producers, directors and others in the film industry begin arriving Oct. 11 and volunteers will be needed to meet them at the airport then escort them to their hotels and to the Palace of Fine Arts in San Francisco where the festival will be held, according to Mrs. Bruce Bosley of Hillsborough, chairman of the volunteer committee.

The film festival will need men and women volunteers on a standby basis and also will need a crew to staff the office at the Palace of Fine Arts nights and days.

Since many of the visitors will be foreigners, volunteers with knowledge of other languages are preferred. The visitors may also want to be taken sightseeing, shopping or entertained in private homes.

Persons wishing to volunteer should contact Bunny Hinckley at the International Hospitality Center in San Francisco.

Ingredients Will Be On Jars

Kraft Foods is putting an ingredient clause on all jars of salad dressing, mayonnaise and bottles of French dressing as a service to consumers, according to Chester R. Green, senior vice president of marketing.

The company is not required by law to list the ingredients on the package itself because these products are made in accordance with federal standards established by the Food and Drug Administration for the manufacture of salad dressing, mayonnaise and French dressing.

The company's action follows guidelines established by the sub-council on packaging and labeling of the National Business Council for Consumer Affairs.

Other products in the company's salad product line that were not covered by government standards already list ingredient information on labels or lids.

Simple Candles

Candles are simple to make, using household paraffin colored with dye powder. Set out a variety of molds before beginning. Choose from juice cans, gelatin molds, milk cartons, paper cups and muffin pans.

ON THE AGENDA

Bagley, Moore To Appear At Novato BPW Dinner Meeting

A candidates' legislative dinner meeting will be sponsored by the Novato Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Alvarado Inn in Ignacio.

Guest panelists at the public meeting will be candidates for California Assembly District Seven — William T. Bagley, the Republican incumbent, and Hary J. Moore, Democrat of Novato. Panel moderator will be Lois McLain, immediate state BPW past president.

According to Penny Kane, the club's legislation chairman, it is important to keep the public informed on legislative matters affecting the community and to hear platforms of the candidates in order to be informed voters.

Through the efforts of Mrs. Kane, the Novato BPW "has kept abreast of state and national legislation affecting the welfare of all women and men," publicity chairman Mrs. Dorothy Krieger said.

Reservation chairmen for the dinner are Mrs. Gloria Hansen and Mrs. Walter Kane.

BELVEDERE'S SAN Francisco Yacht Club will hold its women's fall sailing training program on five consecutive Mondays beginning next week. Students will bring their lunches to the 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. sessions aboard Rhodes 19s.

Mrs. William Sparrow of Novato is chairman. Teachers are Mmes. Benton Mathews, Robert Potter, Herbert Ross and Edwin DeFrees.

SAN RAFAEL Assembly 195, International Order of Rainbow for Girls, will hold a farewell meeting for the retiring worthy advisor, Patty Garbarino, on Saturday at 1 p.m. at the San Rafael Masonic Hall.

THE FALL general meeting of the Mill Valley Branch of the American Association of University Women is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Michael Praszker in Mill Valley.

Previews of the year's activities, emphasizing this year's theme, "Women," will be presented.

The Mill Valley Branch serves Southern Marin.

Mrs. George Olson of Mill Valley is box luncheon chairman, and Mrs. Thomas Kostic of Mill Valley is baby-sitting chairman.

ST. RAPHAEL'S Mothers' Guild is having a "Junk, Etc." sale Saturday and Sunday in the St. Raphael School gymnasium. Hours are Saturday, noon to 5 p.m., and Sunday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Chairmen are Mmes. John McEwen and James Szy Kowny, and members of the committee are Mmes. Diana Thomas, Helen Fodness, Susan Howard, Almarima Viscovi, Elvira Lindeman, Adreanne Hale, Marlene Ritter, Irma Ferrer, Kay Hicken and Peggy Bernardoni.

Donations of articles for sale may be delivered to the gymnasium tomorrow between 1 p.m. and 3 p.m., according to the chairmen.

MARRIAGE AND Its Alternatives will be the topic for the second in the "SOS — Stress in Our Society" series Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Olney Hall at College of Marin.

Speaker will be Charles Gompertz, ordained minister and Marin County mental health educator, who will discuss the factors which determine the quality of the relationship between two individuals.

The series is sponsored by the Marin Association for Mental Health and the Marin Community College district.

ASSEMBLYMAN WILLIAM T. Bagley will discuss school financing at the "Broaden Your Horizons" luncheon to be sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Central Marin Monday at noon at Lark Creek Inn in Larkspur.

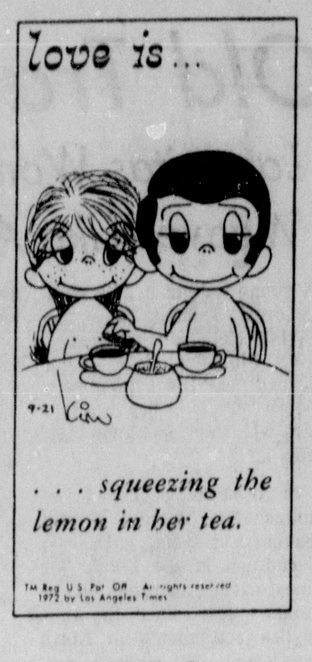
Reservations chairman is Mrs. Thomas R. Dahlgren of San Rafael.

THE ANNUAL meeting of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Marin will be held Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. at the home of M.B. McGowan in San Rafael.

Cocktails and a buffet supper will be served.

LAWYERS' WIVES of Marin will have the annual membership tea Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Glenna Colistra in San Rafael.

Mrs. Frederick W. Bradley of San Rafael is reservations chairman, and membership chairman is Mrs. James M. Kennedy of San Rafael.



Fall 1972 Starts 'Year Of Collar'

Fall 1972 will start the "year of the collar," according to a men's shirt maker spokesman.

Speaking at the firm's fall sales meeting, the executive predicted there will be more interest in collar styles than in the past few seasons. "The big news is not button-downs, which are going to be good, but blunt and round style collars.

"The big fashion collar is going to be the pin collar, then the spreads an button-downs."

Follow The Fashion Leader With Smocks

When the petite miss of the family wants to follow-the-leader in fashion she'll ask for smocks. And, a charming array is ready for her choice.

She'll find tenty and pinafore smocks. One yoked style has long full sleeves — just like Mom's.

Get Estimates

When having any kind of major repairs done to your home get three estimates and judge for yourself which price is the best buy for you— considering quality and reputation of the repairman. It's a good idea to check references, too—from persons who have used the repairman. He may just give you the names of three relatives or bogus customers, but it's worth a try.

Fiberglass Sculptures— Latest Work Of Kishi

By ADA GARFINKEL

SAN FRANCISCO — Masatoyo Kishi, painter turned sculptor, uses tough, industrial materials — fiberglass and polyester resin —to create airy, semitransparent, chrysalis-like shells of the human figure, currently on exhibit at the Triangle Gallery.

Kishi, a professor of art at Dominican College, came to the United States from Japan in 1960 and has had wide recognition as an important painter in the Abstract-Expressionist mode. This was followed by shaped canvases, and abstract sculpture in wood. He was invited to exhibit one of the latter in the International Expo '70 at Osaka.

His present work, the fiberglass sculptures, done this year, was preceded by a period of intense concern with the human figure, mostly in drawings as shown in a smaller room in the gallery, tracing the direct development through textural, dry-brush Sumi ink drawings to the matty, stringy fiberglass head, torsos, and figures.

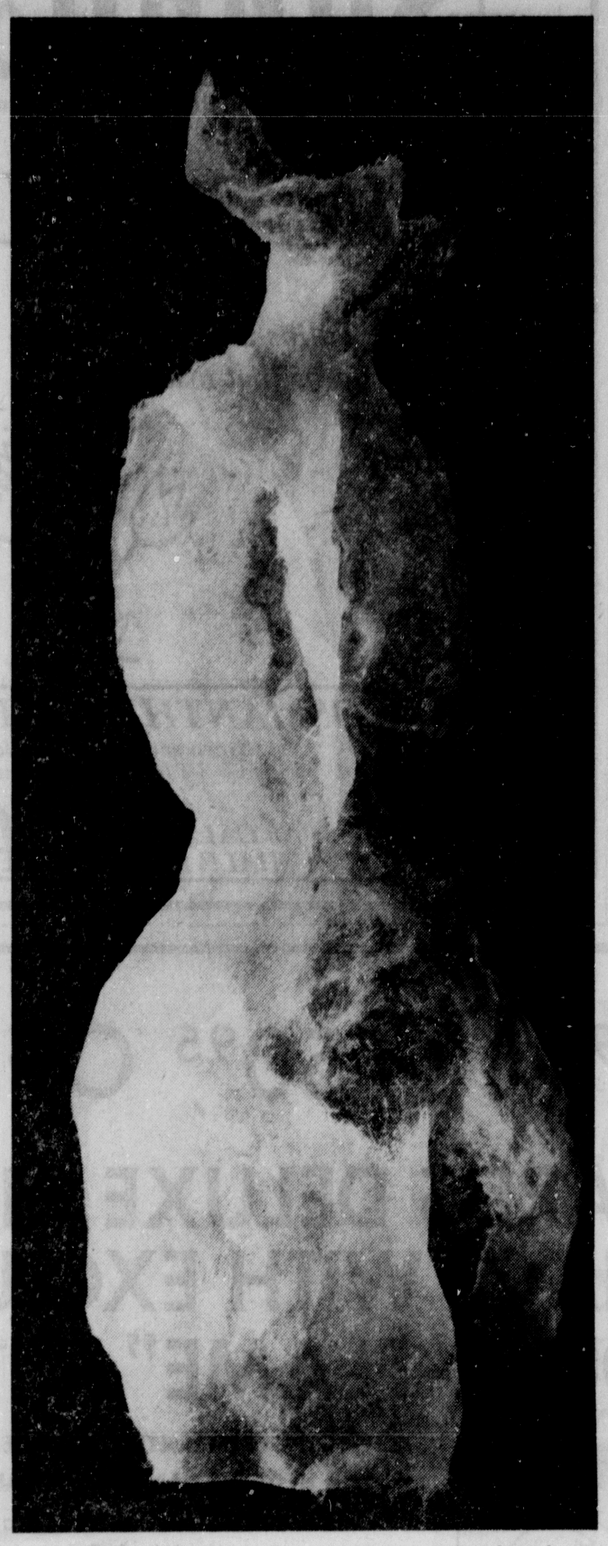
The Kishi sculptures, which are untitled, consist of the most minimal aspects of the human form. They are hollow; some have no backs, some have see-through openings which become shaped voids, or facial planes alone suggest the head; they are dominated by asymmetry. Yet they are expressively rational and classical, two recalling the Winged Victory and a slender, elongated goddess figure.

Comparisons are not the essence of the Kishi sculptures, only the direction he may be taking according to his plans to further reorient himself to his earliest roots in Japan in his future work.

What the artist has done in his present phase is to align the fluidity of his imagination to the malleability of his material in a very original and striking form. And he has also succeeded in drawing the viewer in as an accomplice to the act with almost a command performance to complete the form in a personal extension of the creative process.

As for process, Kishi starts with a small model of crumpled and crunched aluminum foil for inspiration. He then proceeds by cutting and shaping chicken wire to the desired size and adhering the splintery fiberglass to it with liquefied polyester resin, wearing a mask and gloves for protection.

The Triangle Gallery is at 251 Post Street on the fourth floor. Viewing hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.



FIBERGLASS SCULPTURE — Industrial materials and a lively imagination are combined to create new and personal versions of the human form in the work of Masatoyo Kishi at the Triangle Gallery through Oct. 7.

New Clinic For Care Of Animals

Work will begin by Oct. 2 on a $65,000 spaying and veterinary clinic addition to the Marin County Humane Center in Novato, according to John N. Gill, new executive director for the society.

Gill reported a contract has been awarded to the Page Construction Co. of Novato, the firm that built the center. The building job is expected to take 120 days, Gill said.

The present carport for society vehicles will be walled in to provide 2,000 square feet, and rooms within the building will be remodeled to give an additional 1,500 square feet for the long-planned clinic.

The clinic will offer low-cost spaying and neutering of cats and dogs — with the fees yet to be determined — as well as veterinary checkups for every animal entering the humane center or placed into a home, Gill said. The society also plans to offer welfare veterinary care for animals whose owners are indigent or on low, fixed incomes, the director added.

Gill said the society's board of directors will decide soon whether to contract with a veterinarian, employ its own in-house veterinarian or follow some other policy for staffing the clinic.

Behr To Speak At Conference

Sen. Peter H. Behr, D-San Rafael, will be the main speaker at a Sonoma County open space conference Saturday at the New Methodist Church, Montgomery Drive, Santa Rosa.

Behr will give the luncheon address and speak on the future of the Russian River.

The session will begin at 9 a.m. with a slide show on potential open space preserves and a panel discussion with representatives of the Army Corps of Engineers, local governments and geologists.

Other sessions will include a report by Petaluma City Councilman Fred V. Mattei on the city's environmental design plan; Col. John L. Lammie of the Army Corps of Engineers on flood plain zoning for safety and open space; and David Kelly, a Napa County attorney, on "Making open space pay its way."

Sponsors fo the conference include league of women voters, American Association of University Women and Sonoma County Organization for Planned Environment.

'Encores' Opens Ballet Season

By DAVID EINSTEIN

San Francisco's Pacific Ballet dance company opens its fall season tomorrow night at San Francisco's Veteran's Auditorium with the world premiere of John Pasqualetti's production of "Romeo and Juliet."

Set to the Prokofiev score, the ballet will star 22-year-old John Loschmann. Choreographer Pasqualetti, at 26, has already established himself in the Bay Area with productions of Stravinsky's "Firebird" and "Petrouchka" for Pacific Ballet, and "The Flaming Angel" for the San Francisco Ballet.

"Romeo and Juliet" will be the first of five performances in Pacific's "Encores" series, which will include performances Saturday night of Rimsky-Korsakov's "Scheherezade," Stephen Simmons's "The Silver Pilgrimage," and "Firebird." Shows begin both nights at 8:30.

DRAMA

Jack Aranson's San Francisco Theater Company, which has been homeless since its San Francisco City Theater was torn down in 1969, will move into new permanent headquarters at 3250 19th Avenue next Wednesday. The company's opening offering will be a two-week engagement of "Juno" with Aranson in the title role. Later this year Aranson will perform his one-man productions of "Moby Dick" and "Dylan Thomas."

MUSIC

The Modern Jazz Quartet opens tonight at the El Matador on Broadway in San Francisco. Saturday night the focus switches to rock music with a concert by Boz Scaggs at the Berkeley Community Theater.

British rock group Pink Floyd will be in concert at San Francisco's Winterland on Sunday, and Joe Cocker, also from England, will play Monday at the Civic Auditorium. Both shows are Bill Graham productions, and tickets for both can be obtained at all Northern California Ticketron outlets.

Other events:

Youth Sentenced For Auto Theft

An 18-year-old San Rafael youth convicted of auto theft by a jury was sentenced yesterday to the California Youth Authority by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court.

The judge who heard the trial ordered Charles James Gaines turned over to the state juvenile authorities in connection with his arrest Feb. 13.

San Rafael Police arrested him in the Montecito Shopping Center after following a car that gave him a ride after he abandoned a car in the left turn lane on Second Street at Grand Avenue.

The abandoned vehicle had been stolen near the residenc of its owner, Marie Casassa of 275 Canal Street, San Rafael, police said.

Second Berkeley Strike Threat

BERKELEY (UPI) — City workers who went on strike for three weeks in July have threatened to walk off the job again in a squabble with the city over retroactive pay raises.

The strike ended Aug. 1 and the city agreed that pay raises would be retroactive to July 1. The union demands the money by Monday, but the city said it cannot arrange the payment before Oct. 6.

Paul Baracalli, executive secretary of Local 390 of the United Public Employes, which led the July strike, said Wednesday the union would ask for strike sanction from the Alameda County Central Labor Ctuncil if the situation were not settled by Monday.

Check-Writing Charges Dropped

Charges against a 29-year-old Marinwood man suspected of writing a check on a closed account have been dismissed because the prosecution was not prepared to present evidence at a preliminary hearing.

But the district attorney indicated the charge of passing a fraudulent check against David Hennessy will be refiled, and Judge David R. Baty scheduled arraig ment for Friday.

Novato police arrested Hennessy on Aug. 29 at the Cala Market at 1530 Center Road when he tried to cash a check on an account closed in May. Police said 70 checks totaling $5,400 had been cashed in the Bay Area since the account was closed.

Mayor To Talk On New General Plan

Novato Mayor Wayne Sartain will talk about the city's proposed new general plan and the proposal for a redevelopment agency at a meeting of the San Marin Improvement Association board at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Home Savings and Loan office, 1450 Grant Avenue.

It will be an open meeting and a member of the Novato Jaycees will talk about the city's $500,000 bond measure for a community swimming pool, publicity chairman Diane Ryken reported.

Treatment System Plans Reviewed By Committee

The Marin Municipal Water District's Improvement District A advisory committee last night reviewed a rough draft of plans for a consolidated waste treatment system for southeast Marin, then agreed to provide copies of the report to all sanitary agencies which will be involved in the merger.

John T. Schulte, project manager for district A, said the agencies will be asked to study material in the report relating to their particular district, then submit in writing any correction or addition they think needed.

The plans for the consolidated system have not yet been presented to the MMWD board, which is scheduled to see them next month.

The advisory committee also agreed to ask the water district directors to proceed with plans to obtain financial, administration and environmental impact reports on the project, which would consolidate sewage treatment and disposal in southeast Marin into one huge system.

Commission Assigns Priority To Park

Development of Lucchesi Park got top priority last night from the Petaluma Recreation Music and Parks Commission.

Recreation Director James R. Raymond said the commission agreed that the 33-acre park on Maria Drive be developed before any spending on Schollenberger River Park adjacent to the city boat launching ramp.

Raymond said the commission recommended the 2-year-old master plan for Lucchesi be resurrected and developed in three phases. The first phase would be tennis courts and athletic facilities, followed by a turf area in phase two, and parking lots and buildings in phase three including restrooms and a senior citizens center. Total cost of the entire park has been estimated at $1.2 million.

Representatives of the Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association also urged that Lucchesi Park get top priority and said it would be more beneficial to the city than Shollenberger Park.

The commissions said that work on Miwok Valley Neighborhood Park on St. Francis Drive should also move ahead before the river park.

Raymond said the commission adjourned to Oct. 4 at 7:30 p.m. to prepare a priority list of all park development as well as a five year capital outlay program.

Israelis 'Have No Travel Fear'

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo. (UPI)—Yaacov Yannai, Israeli national parks commissioner, isn't opening his door to strangers these days—but he says Arab terrorism won't stop Israelis from attending international conferences.

The 59-year-old Tel Aviv resident said official Israeli travel has increased since the Lod and Munich massacres.

"We have no fear, especially here where President Nixon has promised to protect us," he said.

'Custody' Fight Over Rail Car

Going . . . going . . . but not quite gone.

The antique railroad car which actor Sterling Hayden at one time occupied in Sausalito is on the auction block again to help pay his back taxes.

But Hayden's 21-year-old daughter, Gretchen, has filed suit in U.S. District Court in San Francisco claiming the vintage car belongs to her, not her father.

According to Miss Hayden, her father never owned any part of the 79-year-old car, which now reposes on a railroad siding in Greenbrae.

She claims the car was actually bought by the actor's wife, Catherine, six years ago and was given to her last year. The car was purchased from the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad for about $2,700, Miss Hayden said.

Doug Morgan, owner of a railroad refurbishing company in Greenbrae, recently appraised the car at about $10,000 after it had been extensively refurbished.

The auction is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Monday at Morgan Railcar Co., 15 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Greenbrae.

But the auction may not occur. Judge Charles B. Renfrew was to hear Miss Hayden's plea today for an injunction blocking the sale.

An Internal Revenue Service spokesman has said that the actor-author-sailor, who now lives in Connecticut, owes about $42,000 in unpaid taxes for 1968 and 1969.

Highway Traffic Report

Projects in progress on Highway 101 which will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic were announced today by the State Division of Highway.

Sections of the freeway involved are:

1. Southbound, between Richardson Bay Bridge and Golden Gate Bridge, outside lane subject to closure at spots between 9 a.m. and 12 noon for cleanup.

2. Northbound, between Richardson Bay Bridge and Golden Gate Bridge, subject to closure at spots between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. for cleanup.

3. Both northbound and southbound, north of the Highway 37 Interchange, inside lanes closed from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. for drainage work.

4. Northbound, between Marinwood and Hamilton Air Force Base, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. for crack sealing.

Year In Prison For Michaud

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (UPI)—Marine Pvt. Thomas Michaud, who surrendered in July on the floor at the Democratic National Convention, has been sentenced to one year in prison for being absent without leave for three years.

The sentence handed down Wednesday by a court-martial panel produced protests from Michaud's attorneys, who said they had been promised he would be sentenced to no more than six months if he pleaded guilty.

Defense attorney Thomas Loftin III told newsmen that Brig. Gen. Robert Nichols made the agreement in a conversation last week.

Fog Closes London Airport

LONDON(UPI)-Fog closed London's Heathrow airport for more than three hours today, packing terminal buildings with annoyed passengers and snarling air traffic throughout Europe.

Reagan Aide: Get Into Politics

By FRANK FARRARA

Frank Walton, Secretary of Business and Transportation in Gov. Ronald Reagan's cabinet, urged Novato businessmen "to get into politics and to get into government."

He warned at a meeting of the Novato Chamber of Commerce that there are "strong, loud, potent" antibusiness forces "that want to wipe you out."

He told the luncheon group at Shipwreck Pete's restaurant that some feel that business has become a menace and they are providing the impetus of the anti-business forces. "Some want to take us back to the days of the buffalo and that's not the way America goes and grows," he said.

Education Class In Marin, Sonoma

The Marin Association for Mental Health and Sonoma State College will sponsor a five-session class for people in education entitled "How Are Things at School?"

The first session will begin at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 3 in Olney Hall at the College of Marin, with subsequent sessions to be held at St. Vincent's School for Boys. A fee is charged.

In past years, when businessmen failed to take an active part in government, "certain elements of our citizenry stepped into the breach," including militant anti-capitalists and "kami-kaze environmentalists," he said.

Walton said he favored preserving whatever benefitted mankind, but wouldn't preserve some species just because it was rare: "I wouldn't want to preserve the dinosaur.

"If some had their way, there never would have been a project bringing water from Northern California to Southern California," he said.

Those who are trying "to have business stopped" don't recognize business as benefitting mankind. Business has brought a "great way of life," and "I, as a businessman hope we are going to improve the lot of people, he said. "Business has moved this nation to what it is."

Businessmen have allowed profit to become a dirty word, but profit encourages initiative and creativity, he said.

Businessmen, who often are preoccupied with "business at hand," should "apply themselves to what's going on in government," Walton said.

"One problem is that too many people in public office have as their goal keeping the job rather than doing the job," he said.

The state isn't getting the kind of representative government it should have, Walton said. "We wouldn't have 22 propositions on the ballot if we were getting it. This is a barometer of the loss of faith in the kind of representative government we have."

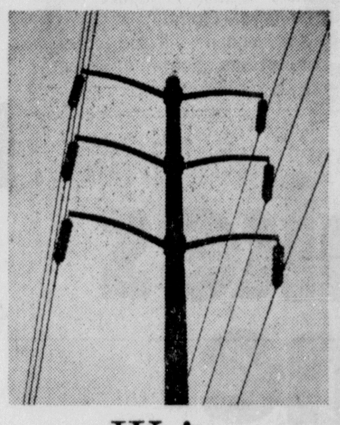
Your environment: What we're doing for it around our own plants.

We remodeled this substation to blend in with the early Spanish style of Monterey.

When we build something, we want it to be attractive as well as useful.



We're spending extra money for better-looking transmission towers.

We planted 5000 trees to enhance the sight of a power plant site.

To fight air pollution, we're experimenting with electric and natural gas-fueled vehicles.

We're working hard to preserve and enhance your environment and also to provide you with adequate, reliable energy. Both are essential to the good life everybody wants to enjoy.

Leitzell Lot Split Before Hub Council

The San Anselmo City Council will consider a proposal for a two-lot subdivision on a parcel at 30 Oakwood Avenue owned by City Engineer Charles R. Leitzell when it meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The planning commission has rejected the proposal on three separate occasions.

The lot split has been proposed by Dennis B. Canning, who has offered to buy the parcel on condition of subdivision approval, according to Leitzell.

Neighbors have opposed the proposed subdivision, citing a 42 per cent slope, limited access, a sewer easement which bisects the parcel, traffic congestion and slide problems.

The commission first rejected the proposal on July 17, saying that although all conditions of the municipal code had been met, the slope was too steep and a second house would have undue impact on the neighborhood.

A ruling from City Atty. John G. Buresh - requested by Leitzell — declared the commission action illegal, however, because written notice outlining reasons for denial had not been sent to the applicant. "Matters such as the whims and desires of neighbors are not proper considerations" for denial unless they represent law violations, Buresh said.

Buresh said that if proposed subdivision met all requirements of the municipal code, it must be approved.

The commission on Aug. 7 reaffirmed its denial of the subdivision, citing a steep slope, limited access and sewer easement problems, and issued a written explanation in compliance with the Buresh ruling.

Buresh again considered the commission action, this time calling the denial illegal since neighbors and the applicant had been deprived of due process by not being notified of the hearing.

The commission last week for a third time rejected the proposal, after notifying neighbors and applicants, and found that a tentative map "could not be remedied by alteration."

Leitzell said that he would not issue a recommendation to the council on the subdivision proposal since he had a vested interest in the matter. "It seems when you become a public official you lose some of the rights you would ordinarily have as a citizen, however," he said, saying the proposal met all municipal code requirements.

Leitzell said that although he didn't think it proper for a city engineer to be in the businessof subdividing within his own city, anyone — public official or not — should have the right of subdividing the parcel on which he lives.

Leitzell became the center of controversy for a brief period in July 1969, when anonymous accusers charged him with using city personnel to install a driveway on the Oakwood Avenue property. The flap ended with the council giving the city engineer a vote of confidence after finding no new driveway had been installed.

Two To Be Tried In Assault Case

Two men said to have robbed a 90-year-old woman have been bound over to Marin Superior Court for trial.

Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court ordered Kenneth Foss Allen, 23, of Larkspur and Don Edward Fleischer, 26, of Lagunitas to report to the higher court Monday.

San Rafael police arrested the two Sept. 3 after angry witnesses cornered them, then called police.

The attack on Margaret Farrar of Laurel Place took place on Fourth Street as she walked home from church, police said. The elderly woman was knocked to the ground when one of the two hit her in the head, police said.

Mexico Buys 10 U.S. Ships

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Ten former U.S. minesweepers were turned over to the Mexican navy Tuesday.

Authorities said the price was about $280,000.

Adm. Bravo Carrera, head of the Mexican navy, accepted the ships. He said they will be used for countering narcotics smuggling and enforcing the 12-mile fishing limit.

He said the Navy also is seeking to buy another 20 minesweepers.

U.S. Files Suit To Lower Prices

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—The federal government is suing the state of California on grounds that while Washington is trying to cut the cost of living, California won't let liquor stores reduce some prices.

The federal Cost of Living Council filed suit in U.S. district court Tuesday against the California Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, saying it was the first such suit in the nation.

The suit centers on attempts by Fed-Mart stores to reduce prices to meet the federal rules. The complaint said the state fair trade laws, enforced by the beverage control department in the case of liquor, set higher minimum price levels on "national" brands of liquor than the federal ceiling.

The council said the federal regulations should supercede the state rules.

Syria Plans To Try American As A Spy

BEIRUT (UPI)—Syria is planning to try Maj. Richard Barratt, the American assistant military attache in Amman, on spy charges, the weekly news magazine Al Hawadess said Thursday.

Damascus will use the trial to denounce American policy in the Middle East, in the same way as Russia exploited the trial of U2 pilot Gary Powers in the 1950's, the magazine said.

Barratt was arrested by Damascus authorities on Sept. 9, as he traveled from Amman, through Syria, to Lebanon to see his wife and child.

The U.S. Government has protested his detention to Damascus via the Italian embassy, which looks after American interests in Syria, in the absence of diplomatic relations.

Both Lebanon and Italy intervened on America's behalf to secure Barratt's release, but their efforts have failed so far, political sources said.

Damascus has so far failed to confirm Barratt's arrest officially, and the reason for his detention was not known.

Al Hawadess said there were two theories in diplomatic circles in Beirut on why Barratt was arrested.

The first is that Damascus has proof that Barratt was spying for American intelligence and his job in the American embassy in Amman was only a cover.

The second theory is that the Syrians wanted to use the incident to pressure the Americans to intervene with Israel to set free five Syrian officers who were captured by the Israelis a few weeks ago.

110 Tons Of Pot Seized In Mexican Drug Haul

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (UPI)—Mexican officials said today they believe their seizure Wednesday of more than 200 pounds of pure heroin and cocaine and 110 tons of marijuana might be the biggest drug haul in history.

Estimates of the market value of the drugs in street sales run as high as $100 million.

Police said they needed 22 trucks to haul away the 110 tons of marijuana seized on a single plantation.

The heroin and cocaine were found in a house in Guadalajara, along with eight persons who were arrested at the scene.

Police said they also confiscated a small arsenal of weapons and two luxury cars. The eight suspects all gave Mexican names, but federal police said today they suspected some of them might be "important international smugglers."

The marijuana was found on a 47.5 acre plantation in the mountains outside the city. Two persons were arrested, but authorities said they were only farmers paid to tend the fields, not the growers.

Mexican Assistant Attorney General David Franco Rodriguez, who heads anti-drug forces, officiated Wednesday at a giant burning party near the plantation.

Lagunitas School Fire Damage Told

The fire on Sept. 13 in the multimedia center at Lagunitas School did $32,000 damage, according to Richard D. Pedroli, Marin County Fire Department chief.

Pedroli, who announced the figure after an assessment of losses, also said the fire apparently started in a plastic wastepaper basket, probably caused by a cigarette.

Damage was given as $12,000 to the building and $20,000 to contents.

Marin Painter's Stamps Issued

Another set in a series of wildlife conservation stamps designed by Kentfield painter Stanley W. Galli has been issued by the U.S. postal department.

Galli said that a block of four eight-cent stamps was issued yesterday in Warm Springs, Ore. The stamps depict a brown pelican, Bighorn sheep, fur seal and cardinal, he said.

Another set of wildlife conservation stamps designed by the 59-year-old artist were issued last June and won "best of the year" honors from the Postal Commemorative Society.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Dear Birthday Editor:

My little daughter has the same birthday as another child in the same room at school. Isn't this unusual? What are the mathematical chances of this happening? Mrs. S.C.

Dear Mrs. C.:

What you have discovered is not unusual. According to the laws of chance, this happens all the time, only you don't know about it. Statisticians figure it this way: Let 1.0 represent certainty and 0.5 an even chance. We only need to put 22 people in the same room for the probability to be 0.493 that two will share the same birthday. Increase the people to 23 and the odds increase to 0.524. And so forth. With approximately this number of pupils in your average schoolroom, it is not surprising for coincidental birth dates to occur. When Julie Andrews was apperaring in the hit musical, "My Fair Lady," she discovered she had the same birthday as her co-star, Stanley Holloway, in a cast which hardly numbered a dozen people. Both were born October 1st.

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS TODAY

Larry Hagman (1931-), Hollywood TV actor ("I Dream of Jeanie.")

H. G. Wells (1866-1946), English novelist and lecturer

Mrs. Zachary Taylor (1788-1852), wife of the 12th U.S. President

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Larry Hagman is the real-life son of Hollywood film star Mary Martin.

2. H. G. Wells invented the submarine in his book, "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea."

3. Mrs. Zachary Taylor spent 35 years on frontier Army posts with her soldier-husband.

ANSWERS

1. True; 2. False; 3. True.

(Send local birthdays to Birthday Editor, Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael, Calif. 94902, at least four days before the date of the birthday. Include name to be published and telephone number of sender; print legibly.)

Drawing Trumps Prematurely Like Guarding Against Fire

Drawing trumps at the earliest possible moment is like turning on the sprinklers to guard against fire. This is a good idea when there is danger of a fire but no help at all when you're threatened by a flood.

TRUMPS ABANDONED

South took the ace of hearts and drew two rounds of trumps with his own ace and dummy's ten. He then abandoned trumps, but it was already too late.

Declarer tried a finesse with the jack of clubs, losing to the queen. West returned a heart to the queen, and East shot back a third trump.

South cashed the ace of clubs, dropping the king, and then led a diamond, losing dummy's king to the ace. Back came a diamond to the queen, and South could ruff a heart in dummy to iscard a diamond on the ten of clubs.

This was the end of the road. South still had a losing diamond and could do nothing with it. Down one.

START CLUBS EARLY

South should start the clubs at the second trick, losing to the queen. West's best defense is to return a trump. South wins, cashes the ace of clubs and leads a diamond to force out the ace. East returns a second trump.

Declarer wins in dummy with the ten and ruffs a low club with the ace of trumps so that he can then lead the jack of trumps to dummy's queen. South can discard two diamonds on the ten and seven of clubs and can eventually ruff a heart with dummy's last trump to make the contract.

ANSWER: Bid one no trump.

In standard bidding systems this bid shows 16 to 18 points in high cards, with balanced distribution and strength in at least three suits.

Chalet Raided— Hash Oil Found

SQUAW VALLEY (UPI) —A ski resort chalet was raided Tuesday where a laboratory was found that produced liquid hash oil, a powerful derivative of marijuana and hashish, police reported.

Ten persons were arrested and 1,500 vials discovered which were ready to be filled with the oil, a potent chemical said to be 100 times stronger than hashish, said Ralph Clay, supervising agent for the Nevada Division of Narcotics.

Clay said the chalet had been under surveillance for about a month before agents from California, Nevada and the federal government moved in.

The 10 persons arrested were charged with possession of narcotics and conspiracy to set up a clandestine laboratory to manufacture illegal narcotics.

Market Theft

Burglars who broke into the Lagunitas market in Lagunitas Friday or Saturday took $1,000 and broke three large front windows, sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

Effects Of Marijuana, Pot Initiative Debated

The harmful effects of marijuana — or lack of them — was the central issue today in a radio debate in Marin on Proposition 19, the pot initiative on the Nov. 7 ballot.

And it was the remarks of two physicians who appeared on KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" that set the tone of the discussion, one saying the compulsive use of anything was potentially harmful and the other warning that the mystery over medical effects of marijuana was the very reason it should not be "decriminalized."

Proposition 19, while not legalizing the narcotic, would remove criminal penalties for private use and cultivation by adults. Sale of marijuana would remain illegal.

Besides the two physicians, Dr. Alan Matzgar of San Francisco and Dr. Elmer Weden of San Anselmo, Lt. Albert Howenstein of the San Anselmo Police Department and Gaile O'Connor, an attorney in the county public defender's office, appeared on the program to debate the ballot measure.

Speaking to the question of possible deterioration of judgment from extensive or prolonged pot use, Matzgar, who is a member of the California Marijuana Initiative Speakers Bureau, said: "There's no doubt about it — anybody who gets into compulsive use of anything will lose his judgment."

As to medical effects, heavy ingesting of food and water could be looked upon as potentially as dangerous as heavy marijuana use, Matzgar said. "Obesity is a massive problem," he noted.

Weden, in an opposing stance, argued, "It's not in the historical interest of mankind to encourage any use of drugs unless they have therapeutic value." Although he said studies seemed to indicate the need for a neutral position on the marijuana issue, it is a valid reason against "imposing a new toxin on our culture."

Weden also believed passage of the initiative would compound social ills already posed by alcohol use, and remarked that a study by the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse seemed to dictate the conclusion that Proposition 19 "flaunts the established morality" of the nation.

Mrs. O'Connor, declaring a "pragmatic" outlook on the initiative, said she personally supported its passage because of her experience as an attorney that "marijuana is not, in fact, harmful."

While remarking she could distinguish heroin and amphetamine users and alcoholics from nonusers, even though the users were not under the influence, Mrs. O'Connor said she couldn't do the same with marijuana.

She argued, moreover, that pot did not lead to hard drugs in the present day, although there may have been a correlation years ago, and that the narcotic was not a "causative factor" in crime.

Howenstein, however, said he considered marijuana the "most dangerous drug" on the illicit market because it is a "rallying point" for many young people.

Expressing confidence Proposition 19 would be "resoundingly" rejected the officer noted potential law enforcement problems arising from the "very ambiguous" nature of the measure.

The panelists were asked by an audience listener whether they had used marijuana.

Matzgar said he had tried the drug twice, falling asleep once and experiencing no effect the second. Mrs. O'Connor said she had tried it and didn't like it, but held open the possibility she might use it again as a "social gesture."

Howenstein said he didn't think it necessary to "reduce myself to the level of participation" in order to judge marijuana, preferring instead to rely on his experience as a policeman. Weden said he had never found a reason to depart "from reality" through use of the narcotic.

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be repeated at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Two Counties Get Tax Shares

Marin and Sonoma counties received $346,269 as their share of the Bradley-Burns local sales and use tax and the rapid transit district transaction and use tax, state Board of Equalization member William M. Bennett announced.

Marin County received $87,360, with the cities' apportionment thus: Belvedere, $1,826; Corte Madera, $41,726; Fairfax, $7,275; Larkspur, $17,398; Mill Valley, $27,882; Novato, $54,475; Ross, $940; San Anselmo, $20,049; San Rafael, $186,242; Sausalito, $50,689 and Tiburon, $11,568.

Sonoma County's share was $258,908, with Cotati receiving $8,709; Petaluma, $66,143, and Rohnert Park, $15,911.

Unlocked Car Stolen In Corte Madera

Nancy Bates Yates of 810 Pine Lane, San Rafael, reported to Corte Madera police yesterday that her unlocked car was stolen from the Corte Madera shopping center parking lot at 1 p.m.

The car, a 1962 green Chevrolet has license CUZ 302.

Cash Is Stolen By House Guest

An impromptu house guest allegedly stole more than $300 from his host in a bizarre incident Monday, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Charles A. Lidourel of 2 Captain's Landing near Tiburon called deputies shortly after 5 a.m. to report he had been awakened when the guest came into his bedroom strangling a cat and threatening to wring Lidourel's neck.

Lidourel told deputies that when he fled to a neighbor's to call, the man apparently took his wallet containing $312 in cash, checks and receipts and left.

The man, whose name Lidourel didn't know, had been at a party at the residence and was too drunk to leave so he was allowed to spend the night, deputies said.

Sewer Work Low Bid Acceptance Delayed

The San Rafael Sanitation District board last night postponed acceptance of a low bid on construction regarding the Bayside Acres Sewer Assessment District in the face of news that project costs could run $180,000 more than estimated.

"The estimate was so much lower than what the project may actually cost that the board delayed acceptance of the bid to Oct. 4," said Virginia Congdon, board secretary.

She said the board did not want to act without board chairman C. Paul Bettini, who was absent.

Low bidder on the project was Prodanovich, Inc., which bid $570,000, she said. The engineer had estimated project costs at $478,627, she said.

In addition, the Prodanovich bid did not include land acquisition or off-site and on-site construction of three pumping stations. The engineer had estimated the total project to cost $686,000, but the figures last night showed total cost might run as high as $866,000, she said.

The new cost figures could increase the average cost to the homeowner from an estimated $4,430 to $5,620, she said. Costs differ to each individual homeowner because of varying slope and terrain, she said.

The board on Oct. 4 will either accept the low bid and renotice a public hearing because of the increased cost, or throw out the bid and call for new ones, Mrs. Congdon said.

Social Security Benefits Noted

Residents of Marin County received $2,365,000 a month in Social Security benefits during 1971, Edwin H. Leuin, Social Security district manager, announced today in San Rafael.

Of the more than 19,000 Social Security beneficiaries in Marin, 12,121 were retired workers and their dependents.

Another 4,829 received benefits as survivors of workers who have died, and 1,496 received benefits as disabled workers or their dependents.

There were 3,921 people under age 60 who collected Social Security payments; about 2,000 of them were under 18.

San Rafael Sets Example In Vote

San Rafael residents have shown that they are interested in saving open space in the city, and are willing to pay to save it.

The 3-to-1 approval of a $2,250,000 open space bond issue in Tuesday's voting makes it plain that the people of San Rafael are concerned about their environment. It makes it plain also that they recognize that it's7up to them to save it — and that if wooded and scenic areas are in private ownership, the owner has a right to sell them. Proceeds of the bond issue will be used to buy such lands for the benefit of the public — San Rafael's own public.

THE CAMPAIGN in behalf of the bond issue was low-keyed. As we commented earlier, the organizations usually most vocal about conservation and saving the environment weren't heard from. The vote proves their voices weren't necessary; the people recognized the need without a lot of rhetoric about it.

Only a minority turned out to vote. This always distresses us, but it is the usual case in local elections, especially one-issue special elections such as this. The 34.19 per cent turnout actually was better than expected, and better than usual in local bond issue elections which are not tied in with elections to office for which the campaigning candidates have drummed up interest.

SAN RAFAEL may have pointed the way for other Marin communities. The next test will come Oct. 3 in Tiburon, in a special election on a $1.25 million bond issue for open space land purchase there.

It may not be so easy to get the necessary two-thirds approval for the Tiburon issue. Tiburon has much smaller assessed valuation than San Rafael, so the load on the individual taxpayer will be greater. Whereas the San Rafael issue will mean initial cost of just under 10 cents on the city tax rate, that in Tiburon will add 27 cents to the tax rate, according to figures prepared by City Mgr. Bert W. Balmer.

"Based on the average value of a house sold in Tiburon in 1970 ($55,000), this would cost the property owner $37 a year," Balmer reported. He then used the favorite equation in appealing for funds — "less than the cost of two packs of cigarettes" per week.

WE DOUBT that Tiburoners, or much of anyone else, equates such matters on the basis of open space vs. cigarettes. And $37 per year is not a tiny item to anyone — not even to all those who live in Tiburon. But again, the choice is clear: If we want to restore lands to public ownership to keep them open, we must pay the cost.

We congratulate the San Rafael voters who showed their willingness to pay to preserve their environment. We hope their example will be followed by those in Tiburon.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Labor Ignores Presidency But Not Lesser Offices

By RUS WALTON

If the California AFL-CIO has its way, the nation will be without a president for the next four years, starting in January, 1973.

At its recent state convention, the California Federation of Labor called for the defeat of President Nixon. It did not endorse the election of Sen. George McGovern. As far as the labor bosses are concerned, the White House shoud be vacant from 1973 to 1977.

That's kind of silly.

I mean, if they don't want more of Nixon, then they must want McGovern. And, if they can't stand McGovern, they must favor Nixon. Or, do they want John Schmitz of the American Independent Party? There has to be someone in that big executive mansion on Pennsylvania Avenue.

BUT, IF THE UNION fat cats want to sit out the presidential campaigns of 1972, that's their business. It does not mean that they won't be active in politics. No way!

In the final analysis, what the state AFL-CIO decided was that it would put its money and its muscle into campaigns for congressional and legislative offices. That could be a lot of money and a lot of muscle.

All-in-all, it could add up to several million dollars and hundreds of campaign workers — smart, sharp professionals trained and set in motion by COPE, the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Action.

Most of the money and effort — about 97 per cent of it — will go to Democrats. While the AFL-CIO was hanging the "Vacant" sign on the White House, it was endorsing 131 candidates for California's federal and state offices: 126 Democrats and 5 Republicans — which, for organized labor, is about par for the course.

Meanwhile, the Committee to Re-elect the President is busy building a new majority for Nixon. That is not the same as building a new majority for the Republican party or other Republican candidates.

IN MANY California counties, the Nixon vaccuum cleaner has sucked up most of the campaign money; candidates for lesser offices are having a rough time raising funds. Many Republican congressional and legislative campaigns are limping along for lack of competent management; the pros were drawn away into well-paid jobs in the Nixon campaign.

The awesome controls evident at the GOP convention in Miami Beach are now visible in the states and counties and districts.

The vaunted Republican Cal Plan — originated in 1962 by former GOP chairman Gaylord Parkinson and responsible for building a Republican majority in the legislature by 1968 — is in disrepair. It is not getting off the ground this year. Not enough money, poor leadership, dissenstion, and confusion.

Democratic leaders and workers, who feel McGovern will not govern come January, are shifting their money and efforts to local races. They are thinking ahead.

A RECENT statewide poll indicates that most of the Democrats who plan to vote for Nixon plan to vote Democratic on the rest of the ballot. Nixon's armor looks strong but his coat-tails seem to be weak.

Add it all up. The AFL-CIO disengagement with the presidential race; its efforts on behalf of Democratic candidates throughout the state; the lop-sided Democratic increases in registration; the Nixon organization's tunnel vision at the expense of other races. It spells trouble for the Republican party.

"I hope those Gallup poll undecideds aren't standing in front of me at the polls."

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, Sept. 21, the 265th day of 1972 with 101 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Virgo.

English author and historian H. G. Wells was born Sept. 21, 1866.

On this day in history:

In 1893, the first successful American-made gasoline-operated motor car appeared on the streets of Springfield, Mass. It was designed and built by Charles and Frank Duryea.

In 1938, an estimated 600 persons were killed by a hurricane which battered the coast of New England.

"At first I thought I was getting a suntan through the smog, but it's only the oil slick from the water."

Two-Year-Old Hub Report Still Pondered

The city fathers of San Anselmo struggled again last week with the citizens' report on "Non-Conforming Residential Uses" prepared by the Citizens Committee on Zoning and Housing in August 1971.

I regret that not all councilmen see it my way, but the least I can hope for is that they read the report and come to the conclusion that it deals with existing units only, those units that existed in the fall of 1970 — yes, two years ago.

Welfare System 'Pay Or Get Paid'

It's true — the welfare system in this country is a farce. A friend of mine, whose assets exceed $15,000, applied for food stamps here in Marin when he was out of work. It's such easy money, he sees no reason to ever go back to work. My sister, who lives in Los Angeles, describes the welfare office as an assembly line, giving you what you want, just to get rid of you. My other sister, living in Washington with her illegitmate child, gets almost as much from the government for not working as my mother gets for working fulltime in a department store in the same state.

It's a "pay-or-get-paid" system, and you can't blame someone who wants to "get paid," can you? Nor can you blame the wage earner for wanting to lynch those planners in government who throw their precious money around.

When Can Others Remove Bracelets?

How fortunate for the relatives and friends of the three prisoners of war soon to be released by Hanoi! Jill Degnan can remove her bracelet, now that her wishes, and perhaps prayers, have been answered.

How unfortunate for the other 1,800 men who remain on the prisoner-of-war or missing-in-action lists! When can those wearing their bracelets remove them?

The prisoner-of-war bracelets have helped keep the plight of 1,800 men in the public eye. They have helped the families of these men, by making them feel their sons and husbands have not been forgotten.

The local Red Cross has further information on how to obtain these bracelets, for those interested.

Fluoridated Water And Kidney Patients

The question of possible hazard of fluoridated water to patients using artificial kidneys has been raised. These patients are exposed to 400 gallons of water weekly via their artificial kidneys and have impaired ability to excrete fluroide because their own kidneys are damaged. The normal person has normal kidneys and consumes one to two gallons of water weekly.

I discussed this matter with several doctors specializing in renal disease at the artificial kidney unit of the San Francisco General Hospital. Dr. Patricia Schoenfeld, who is the acting director of the artificial kidney unit there, provided the following information: There is some evidence that using fluoridated water for renal dialysis (artificial kidney) may contribute to bone disease. Bone disease occurs in patients on chronic use of the artificial kidney, whether there is fluoride in the water or not, and there is no clear-cut data at this time that patients who are dialyzed with fluoridated water have a higher incidence than those dialyzed with water not containing fluoride. Dr. Schoenfeld felt that ideally non-fluoridated water would be preferable. There is a growing feeling amongst experts that tap water, which is now generally used for the artificial kidney, is not entirely satisfactory since other substances besides fluoride may cause problems. San Francisco General Hospital is instituting special purifying devices for the water they will use for their artificial kidney patients.

Such water purifying apparatus is readily available. . .It would seem that an ideal solution would be to make such water purifying devices available to those patients who have artificial kidneys. Fluoride could be removed from their water without denying the benefits of fluoridation to the rest of the population of the county.

Swedish Pharmacologist On Water Fluoridation

My dictionary says that pharmacology is the science of drugs, and pharmacy is the administering of drugs. Now if the pharmacist whose letter appeared in the I.J. on Sept. 5 is concerned, as he should be, with the pharmacological aspects of artificial fluoridation, I suggest that he consider a recent report by one of Sweden's top scientific authorities on fluoride and fluoridation, Prof. Arvid Carlsson. Dr. Carlsson is head of the department of pharmacology, University of Goteborg, and his report was presented as back-up evidence for the banning of fluoridation throughout Sweden, which became effective late in 1971.

What the professor charges has to be common knowledge among worthy pharmacists. Members of the dental profession might be excused for lack of such information, but not the dispensers of drugs. For example, the Carlsson report emphasizes that fluoridation supplies "a pharmacologically active substance (a drug) to an entire population in order to induce a systemic effect."

Within pharmacology, says Dr. Carlsson, there's hardly any drug that hasn't side effects, even at normal levels. "By adding a drug to tap water, the risk of overdosage becomes greater than normally because of wide individual differences in water consumption," Professor Carlsson concludes.

The entire report, translated from the original Swedish, is recommended reading for all fluoridation advocates and must be considered a major step toward re-evaluation of the fluoridation theory in the United States as well as Sweden.

Problem Of Saving Environment Especially Difficult 'Down East'

NEWAGEN, Maine — The equinoctial rains have come, the summer visitors have departed, and in the brilliant sun of Indian summer the rockbound coast, the long sweep of the ocean, the dark forest of pines take on a new and gentler life here. The best season of the year, Indian summer is a belated blessing and a promise against the long winter to come.

Around the pond across the road the goldenrod glows as though with an inner light. On the top of some of the taller maples the first brush of frost has left its scarlet mark. The sumac is beginning to turn.

How to keep Maine green? How to keep it relatively unspoiled when tourists are second only to lumbering in the state's economy? These are questions Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis is trying to answer. It comes down to striking a balance between the need for more industry and more jobs — in Maine with unemployment over seven per cent as the urgent need, and keeping the coastline, the lakes, the rivers, the silent, empty spaces in something like their natural state; that is to say, unpolluted and not too cluttered with the rash of motels and hamburger stands that spring up with the tourists.

IT IS THE dilemma of all of America as a rapidly increasing affluent population takes to the road and as industry expands. For Maine the dilemma is acute, since many of the four million visitors come for unspoiled beauty and for the solitude that has been obliterated almost everywhere else.

Governor Curtis has just received the report of a distinguished task force set up by Resources for the Future. The report recommends that heavy industry on the coast be limited to two zones, one at Portland and the other at Machias Bay. Portland last July had the second largest oil spill in the east coast — 10,000 gallons —and the muck has not yet been entirely cleaned up.

In view of the spill, oil development, limited to Portland, should be deferred even there until corrective action has been taken with regard to navigation, training and stockpiling. Dependent for domestic and industrial use on oil, Maine is at the end of the line and the expectation is for shortages and higher prices this winter. Over this vital flow the state has virtually no control other than a limited veto.

It is like the timber industry, owned almost entirely outside the state. Maine is, therefore, a province with the decisions on economic destiny taken in board rooms in New York and elsewhere. While there is no competition in the oil industry, the hope here is that with the development of Canadian oil a pipeline can be brought down from the north and this could be a lever on the pricing of the big domestic producers.

THE TASK FORCE proposed, hopefully, that perhaps 98 per cent of the 3,300 miles of coastline should with certain exceptions be kept for open, scenic benefits, recreation, tourism, summer and year-round residences and light industry such as boat-building. This is a noble prescription but the degree to which the state can carry it out is one of the uncertainties. It sometimes looks as though government deliberately designed to frustrate any action and that goes double for Maine.

Curtis during his six years as governor — he is in the middle of his second and last term — has had not only a Republican legislature but a Republican executive council. The council with extensive powers over state officeholders is chosen not by popular election but by the legislature. In effect, it means a veto on even small matters, such as firing an incompetent officeholder.

In the state capitol in Augusta, Governor Curtis speaks with modest hope of what can be accomplished. He notes that the Republican speaker of the house, David J. Kennedy, a member of the task force, had earlier called for some of the recommendations contained in the report.

But effective antipollution measures cost money and they can cost jobs. They can mean the closing of older and less efficient plants. Turning several hundred men out of work in a pulp mill in a small community is a grievous blow.

"And was Jerusalem builded here among those dark Satanic mills?" That was the dour response of William Blake to England's industrial revolution. The mills have scarcely smudged the Maine landscape. But it is a struggle that at times seems to be a losing one.

ERWIN D. CANHAM

Uncle Sam, Big Industrialist, Depends On Farms For Trade

The new trade relations the United States is building up with various countries — with the Soviet Union, with mainland China, with Japan — have one curious aspect. A large part of the American exports consist of primary products — raw materials — like wheat and soybeans and, in the case of Japan, lumber.

Most nations which export such products think rather poorly of themselves. They regard themselves as in a kind of colonial status, at the mercy of prices set by the buyers. They see the fruits of their soil being exploited while the products of their industry — if any — are spurned.

Here is the United States, an advanced industrial nation, being reduced to the function of supplier of farm and forest. It's a switch.

OF COURSE the picture is not total. Many governments, like the Chinese, are buying impressive quantities of jet airplanes. They also are buying great American engineering skills, as in the plan of American oil companies and big construction firms to enlarge greatly the petro-chemical resources of Central Asia.

American agribusiness is scarcely the same thing as the production of cocoa in Ghana or coffee in Brazil. The American farms are exceedingly productive and efficient, due to their heavy capitalization, merchanization, and genetic advancement. And they are American-controlled, not dominated by the foreign importer-exploiter.

All the same, a paradox remains, especially between the United States and Japan. Americansare the farmers. Japanese are the highly skilled industrialists.

THIS INVERTED state of affairs has been produced by various causes. There is no getting away from the immense productive power of the American agricultural revolution. Someday this green revolution may hit the Ukraine, or central China, with equal force. It hasn't yet.

Nor is there any evading the competitive power of retooled Japanese industry, manned by its exceedingly skilled and economical work force, strengthened by astute management, banking, and alliance with government.

Nor can one escape the high costs of American industrial production, beginning with steel and running right through the factories and transportation systems and marketing. Trade union pressures, seeking a higher standard of living, have forced costs of production up and up. Management has not been far behind in its search for profits, and sometimes in its wasteful organization and operation. Taxes place a very heavy burden, from the community through to the Internal Revenue Service. Defense contracting has produced bad habits.

Of course, the United States isn't going to take a back seat as an industrial power. Its research and development, especially in the areas of information gathering and sharing, and of computerization, are far from standing still. International corporations which are largely controlled by Americans have penetrated into much of the world and share in the generalizing of industrial progress elsewhere.

THE WORLD ECONOMY is taking on a far better balanced posture than ever before in history. The development of Siberian oil and natural gas, for example, may be seen by some Americans as adding to the war-mking capacity of the Soviet Union.

Maybe it does, although the military power of Soviet thermo-nuclear weapons was already as massive as can be imagined, and is serving as a deterrent to war (matched by the American stockpile) rather than as a threat. So to have more oil and gas in the Soviet Union is much more likely to raise the standard of living. It would give the Russian citizen a stake in prosperity which would help to preserve peace. The economic rise of Japan, also, is not necessarily a factor of war-making power but rather of peace-preserving.

Uncle Sam, farmer, is first cousin to Uncle Sam, aero-space merchant, or Uncle Sam, engineer, or Uncle Sam, capitalist. The world economy does not stand still. Nor can the United States.

What Worries NASA Officials: Did Astronauts Sell The Moon?

WASHINGTON — The retail value of the commercial exploitation of the Apollo program has now passed $1 million. That is to say, people have made over a million dollars cashing in on the astronauts' trips to the moon. Unfortunately the astronauts have shared in this questionable rip-off of the space program. Every day reveals some new commercial aspect of the Apollo trips that was not known to the American public. There is a fear among some that the million dollars is just the tip of the iceberg, and the really big deals that the astronauts made with promoters have not come out yet.

THE BIGGEST nightmare of all for the space agency is that astronauts may have sold the moon to an unscrupulous real estate developer. One day in the not-too-distant future someone like E. Pluibus Yunum may walk into NASA headquarters and say, "I understand you're building a space shuttle to land on my moon."

"Your moon?" a NASA official asks.

"Yes, I bought the moon from the astronauts 16 months ago. Here's the deed, registered in Houston, Tex."

"But they had no right to sell the moon to anyone," the NASA man says frantically.

"Who says so? I gave them each $2,500, and they sold the place to me, air rights and all. Now don't get me wrong. I'm not against the space shuttle, because we will need transportation when we develop 'Moonlight Acres.' But we just want to make sure the landing field for the shuttle won't interfere with our master plan."

"JUST A MINUTE," the NASA man says. He pushes the button on his intercom. "Send in any Apollo astronauts you can find in the building."

A few minutes later three astronauts come into the office.

"Did you sell this guy the moon?" the NASA man asks.

"He took an option on it," one of the astronauts replies sheepishly.

"And I picked up the option," Yunum says. "Don't you remember I gave you each a check and the right to build a house apiece on the Sea of Tranquility?"

"I knew we signed some papers," another astronaut admits, "but I didn't know the sale was final."

"IT'S FINAL, all right," Yunum says. "We're taking ads in next Sunday's newspapers announcing the sale of lots on the Sea of Fertility. We're making it into a senior citizens' complex.

"We're also selling acreage, $10 down and $10 a month, along the Sea of Serenity. We'll provide a golf course, tennis courts, schools, roads and fishing and boating facilities to the lucky owners. And each site will have an unobstructed view of earth."

The NASA man says, "I don't know what it is, but there has to be something illegal about this sale."

Yunum says, "I checked it out with my lawyers. There is no question about it; I own the moon and I'm going to develop it. Now if you people still want to land on it, it's all right with me. But I don't want a lot of spaceships landing late at night. It could discourage real estate sales."

THE NASA EXECUTIVE looks at the astronauts. "How could you do it? How could you cheapen the whole space program by selling the moon to this joker?"

"If we hadn't," an astronaut says defensively, "one of the other guys would have done it. Besides, he told us he wanted to make a national park out of it."

"If you want," another astronaut says, "we'll give the $2,500 back."

"It's too late," the NASA man says. "But you will have to live with it for the rest of your lives. Whenever someone looks at the moon and sees a Holiday Inn sign blinking in the night and the neon lights of a McDonald's hamburger stand, he'll know you guys put them there."

Jazz Ensemble To Play Tuesday

The Sonoma State College Concert Jazz Ensemble will bring its "Cavalcade of Big Bands" to San Rafael Tuesday with an 8 p.m. performance at San Rafael High School.

The group, directed by Walter Oster played to packed houses at the college last spring. The San Rafael program will be the start of a Bay Area tour.

The program will also feature narration, dances and vocalists Bertha Wims, Jeff Oster, Billy Browning and Ben Benzmiller.

Trial Date Set In Injury Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Trial has been set for Oct. 31 in superior court here in a $5 million damage suit filed by a San Francisco man on behalf of his young son who was seriously injured in a school yard fight.

The suit was filed against the City of San Rafael by David Niles of San Francisco on behalf of his son, Kelly.

The boy, according to the suit, was almost totally paralyzed, the result of a fight in 1970 with another boy at Bahia Vista School in San Rafael during a city-sponsored recreational program.

The suit contends that the school district and the city failed to provide proper supervision over the school yard.

The injured boy, who is now 13, lives in San Rafael with his mother, Joan.

Bullet Ricochets, Man Wounded

A 47-year-old Marin City man was treated for gunshot wound in the leg Monday, received as he walked toward his home at 271 Drake Avenue.

Handy Eskue was shot about 5:30 p.m. in the 200 block of Drake Avenue, apparently by accident, according to Marin City sheriff's deputies.

Eskue told officers he did not see who fired the gun, but noticed a group of young boys near the scene after the bullet hit the ground near him, then richocheted into his leg.

The injured man refused hospital treatment and was treated by a private physician.

Guilty Plea In Richmond Knifing

A 23-year-old Marin City man who had been charged with felony assault stemming from an argument over an unpaid debt was allowed to plead guilty Tuesday to misdemeanor assault with a deadly weapon.

Judge David R. Baty of Marin Municipal Court scheduled sentencing for Oct. 20 for Herman Turner Jr., arrested July 25 after a Richmond man was knifed during an argument.

100 Hear Tiburon Land Bond Panel

By JAY GOODWIN

About 100 Tiburon residents turned up at Del Mar School last night and politely listened to a panel of speakers endorse the city's $1.25 million open space bond election Oct. 3.

The five-member panel, moderated by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, discussed the bond issue and fielded questions for about two hours. A few residents expressed concern over their escalating property taxes, but no one clearly opposed the bond issue.

The panel consisted of former Mayor Denis T. Rice, former councilman Anne L. Ellinwood, planning commissioner Jacqueline Parnell, former parks and recreation commission chairman George Ellman, and Peter H. Watson.

If the bond issue is approved, the City will sell up to $1.25 million worth of general obligation bonds to finance the acquisition of about 125 acres of undeveloped land in Tiburon. Though no specific parcel has yet been designated for purchase, the city council has indicated it intends to buy a 300-foot-wide corridor of open space running along the top of the ridge.

Rice said he learned while a council member that zoning ordinances by themselves are insufficient to protect open space from impending development. The ordinances must be supplemented by land acquisition, he said.

"While the bond issue is not a panacea, it is a necessary touchstone to getting any meaningful preservation of the Tiburon environment," he said.

Miss Ellinwood found herself playing the "devil's advocate" in the absence of any bona fide opponent of the bond issue. She said she supports the bonds, but was bothered by a few unanswered questions.

For example, what happens to the property owner who has dreamed of building a house on his land for years and is suddenly forced to sell the land?

Since we don't know which open space parcels are to be purchased, are we being asked to buy a pig-in-a-poke? Why doesn't the city consider buying some of the lands lower on the hillsides, where they are more accessible? Will the city face inverse condemnation proceedings by property owners reluctant to sell their land at less than what they consider fair market value?

Miss Ellinwood predicted property values would rise throughout Tiburon when the city council purchased the 125 acres and removed the lands from the market. The remaining lands would become more scarce, thus more valuable, she said.

She stressed the need for additional recreational areas and a more balanced housing stock in Tiburon.

After Ellman demonstrated the percentage of the taxpayer's dollar that would go toward the bonds by slicing up an aluminum pie plate, Mrs. Parnell attempted to answer Miss Ellinwood's questions.

She said few property owners would be deprived of their "dream houses" if the bond issue is approved.

There are relatively few parcels being considered for acquisition, she said. The owners of those parcels that are bought would probably be allowed to keep a small portion of their property to build on.

She agreed with Miss Ellinwood that ridgetops should not be the only open space considered for acuisition, and encouraged acquisition of "community separators" of open space that would maintain a distinction between existing neighborhoods.

Mrs. Parnell opposed paying property owners less than the fair market value for their land.

Watson said the Citizens Committee for Open Space, spearheading the campaign for the bonds, is a heterogeneous group with members from all areas and economic levels of Tiburon. "In a sense, I feel the bond issue can be a stimulus for unity in this community," Watson said.

In answer to a question about the bond issue's affect on the tax rate, Rice said the rate would increase less if the land is purchased than if it is developed.

"Residential development does not pay for itself," he said.

Rice predicted a greater increase in taxes, if the land is developed, to pay for new schools, sewers, streets and other services required by an influx of residents to a new development.

October 4-H Parade In Novato

A 4-H-sponsored parade for members and others will be held at 1 p.m. Oct. 8 in Novato, according to parade chairman Nancy Gauer.

The theme is "Our America — The Land and the People," marking National 4-H week. A similar parade last year drew more than 200 entries.

Entrants may check in at Marion School at Seventh Street and Grant Avenue at 12:15 p.m. The parade will proceed down Vallejo Avenue to First Street, south on First Street to Grant Avenue and west back on Grant Avenue, to Marion School.

All 4-H clubs in the county have been urged to enter.

Parade categories include families, groups, decorated nonmotorized vehicles, motorized vehicles, mounted horses, individuals and bands. Three prizes will be awarded in each category, plus a trophy for the best 4-H club entr and a grand prize for other entries.

Further information or entry blanks may be obtained from Mrs. Gauer at 2358 Dominic Drive, Novato.

Smog District Action On Oxides Delayed

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — The staff of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District yesterday said they have too little information on nitrogen oxides to justify controlling their emission from some 8,000 sources.

At least one to two years will be needed to get enough information to tell whether any controls are warranted, staff members told the district's ad hoc committee on nitrogen oxides.

The district's top administrator, D. J. Callaghan, repeatedly rejected the committee's pleas for a deadline for the staff to complete its study of the problem. Anyway, he said, the major source of nitrogen oxides is the motor vehicle — and vehicles are under the state's jurisdiction, not the district's.

Callaghan did not make clear his reasons for refusing to set a deadline, except to say his staff was too busy with enforcement work to devote its time as well to other problems.

He drew sharp criticism from James F. Reed III of San Anselmo, who said "everything is always a year away, and it never gets any closer. 'One to two years' just goes on and on," said Reed, a member of the committee.

While Callaghan was out of the room, however, other members of the staff promised to come up with a deadline by the end of next month.

The chairman of the committee, Bernard D. Tebbens of Berkeley, cautioned that the staff's proposed delay in controlling nitrogen oxides was contrary to the board of directors' request for prompt action on controls.

Warren Crouse, supervising engineer for the district, explained the controls may prove unwarranted because of their high cost for a modest reduction in pollution.

Of 720 tons of nitrogen oxides thrown into the region's air every day, 500 are from vehicles and aircraft, according to Crouse. Of the remaining 220 tons under district jurisdiction, more than half come from Pacific Gas and Electric Co. power stations and from oil refineries. The rest come from home heaters and industrial boilers.

Improvements to boilers to meet tougher standards could cost up to $1 million per unit, with PG&E putting its cost alone at up to $50 million, Callaghan reported.

Nitrogen oxides give the air its brown tint on smoggy days and are the key ingredient in the photochemical smog process. They are considered potentially hazardous to human health.

Cimmarron County in Oklahoma is the only county in the United States bordering on four states: Colorado, Kansas, Texas and New Mexico.

Tanner Has Not Given Up Hope Despite A's Loss

By JOE SARGIS

OAKLAND (UPI) — Chuck Tanner, as gracious in defeat as he is in victory, hasn't given up hope his Chicago White Sox will catch the Oakland A's, but you'd have to saynow his chances range from poor to none at all.

After the A's, behind the home run bats of Reggie Jackson and Sal Bando and the pinpoint shutout relief pitching of Rollie Fingers, beat the White Sox, 6-3, Wednesday night, no one, not even Tanner, was making plans beyond Oct. 4 — the last day of the season.

"This was the one to win and we won it," said A's skipper Dick Williams, who was thrown out in the sixth inning for arguing a call at the plate and watched the rest of the game on closed circuit television. "Now, we're in the driver's seat and while we haven't clinched anything yet, I feel our chances are very good."

The victory, Oakland's eighth in 15 meetings with the White Sox this year, put the A's five games up on Chicago with 12 to go. The simple mathematics of the race would indicate the White Sox have no chance at all but Tanner is still hoping.

"It can be done," he said. "I remember one year (1964) the Phillies had an unbeatable lead in the last six games and blew it, so you are never sure of anything until you've won it. We're in the position now of having to win all our games (11 are left) and hope someone knocks off Oakland."

Then in the next breath Tanner talked about what a great ball club Oakland has and the fine managing by Williams.

"Dick has done a great job with that club," said Tanner. "He came in two years ago and did a job few others could have done. He made the club produce and I'm sure that wasn't lost on Mr. (Charlie) Finley because he gave him another two-year contract."

Over on the other side, Williams was promoting Tanner for American League manager of the year.

Jackson hit his 25th homer leading off the second in Wednesday night's big game and Bando followed with his 15th after a single by Gene Tenace.

That gave Ken Holtzman and the A's a 3-0 lead over Wilbur Wood but Holtzman buckled a little in the fourth when Rick Reichardt and Carlos May reached him for back-to-back homers.

But Wood, failing to win his 25th game for the fourth straight time, was touched for two more runs in the fifth. Bert Campaneris started the inning with a single, stole his 44th base and rode home on a single by Joe Rudi for one run and Rudi scored the second after a wild pitch, an infield hit by Jackson and an error by Dick Allen.

The White Sox got their final run in the sixth on a single by Reichardt, an error by Bando on a smash to third by May and a fielder's choice grounder to short by Ed Spiezio.

A walk to Dal Maxvill, a sacrifice and a single by Campaneris scored an insurance run for the A's in the bottom of the sixth.

Holtzman left in the sixth but Fingers came on to hold the White Sox hitless the rest of the way and save Holtzman's 18th victory.

Williams said he will give Holtzman three more starting assignments and will even have him in the bullpen if necessary this weekend against Kansas City.

"I want to give Ken every chance I can to win 20," said Williams. "He deserves it for the way he has pitched for us all year long."

Vida Blue will start against Kansas City's Dick Drago Friday night while on Saturday it will be Jim Hunter against Paul Splittorff. Kansas City's Sunday pitchers are uncertain but John Odom and Dave Hamilton will start for Oakland.

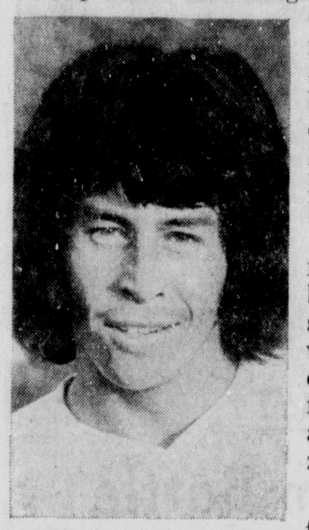
Outstanding Soccer Match Set In Marin

The best soccer Marin County has ever seen is in store for those who take in the game next Thursday night between University of San Francisco and St. Louis University on the San Rafael High School field.

Responsible for bringing this game to Marin County are the men who run the Marin Youth Soccer Association, the bulk of the work being done by Robert A. Braghetta of Ross, perhaps the biggest soccer buff in Marin County.



URBANO BOUCSIEGUEZ

It will be one of two regular season meetings between the two college soccer powers; there will be a rematch two days after the San Rafael game, the Saturday afternoon contest at Kezar Stadium.

IF YOU HAVEN'T followed college soccer, you might not realize St. Louis University is perennially the No. 1 team in the nation. The Billikens are like the New York Yankees when I was a kid, always winning pennants and playing in the World Series.

USF made it all the way to the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) semi-finals last year before losing to St. Louis U., 3-2. It was the fifth time in six meetings St. Louie has gotten the best of USF's soccer team.

DOING THE COACHING at USF is Steve Negoesco who makes his home in Corte Madera. Two of the players on his team came up through the ranks of Marin County Athletic League — Urbano Boucsieguez from San Marin High and Bill Mejia from San Rafael High. Boucsieguez, a kicker on the 1971 USF football team, is a starter for the Dons' soccer team this season.

Both Marin players are good examples of what soccer has over the United States' brand of football — you don't have to be a moose to play. Urbano is 5-foot-8 and 145 pounds and Bill is 5-8 and 165. Both are sophomore sociology majors.

A glance at the USF roster shows players on the team have come from places such as Mexico, West Germany, England, Colombia, Iran and Greece. In these countries, soccer is THE sport and they supply many of our college teams with manpower. That's today. Tomorrow things might be different.

ONCE SOCCER GROWS in stature and local programs start developing the U.S. youngsters, things will change. The Marin Youth Soccer Association program has tripled in size in just one year. Where 126 boys participated last year, the association's first, there are 430 players, boys AND girls, this year. Last year there were 10 teams in Ross, one in Mill Valley and one in Greenbrae. This year there are 26 teams in Ross, six in Kentfield, four in Greenbrae and four in Mill Valley.

AN OLYMPIC atmosphere will prevail at halftime of Thursday night's soccer game. The San Rafael Chamber of Commerce will present certificates to seven Marin County residents who performed in the Munich Olympics and executive director Robert Nelson hopes all will be back in Marin County in time for the presentations. Swimmer Rick DeMont is back and swimmer Robin Backhaus, who will be living in San Rafael, is due in Marin County in the next few days. Bicyclist Emile Waldteufel of Mill Valley has returned, but race walkers Goetz Klopfer and Tom Dooley and boxers Jesse Valdez and Ricardo Carreras have not yet returned to Marin.

Tickets for the Thursday night game are being sold at Ross Valley Savings and Loan in San Anselmo and Greenbrae; all six Marin County offices of Frank Howard Allen Realty; Mill Valley Realty, and Taveggia-Brusati Sport and Saddle Shop in San Rafael.

Erving Awarded To Milwaukee

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Julius Erving, facing possible export from the Atlanta Hawks to the Milwaukee Bucks, has suggested that the Hawks may want to offer a deal to the Bucks involving "cash and a future draft choice."

The 6-foot-7 forward expressed surprise at Wednesday's ruling by the National Basketball Association's board of governors that rights to his talents belonged to Milwaukee, not Atlanta.

"I hadn't anticipated this," said Erving.

Floyd: No Need To Hide After Muhammad Victory

NEW YORK (UPI)—Floyd Patterson won't have to wear a mustache and beard today but he'll probably have on a pair of dark glasses to hide an ugly left eye toat forced an end to his fight with Mahammad Ali Wednesday night in Madison Square Garden.

"I'm ashamed whenever I lose a fight," said Patterson after Dr. Harry Kleiman stopped the scheduled 12-round fight at the end of the seventh as Floyd's eye was slashed and swollen shut.

"I hope you (press) will see this fight as I saw it. He did not carry me like the last time. I'm still ashamed that I lost but there will be no more mustache and beard."

That old disguise that Patterson once used after being humiliated by Sonny Liston was part of the old Floyd Patterson.

The new Floyd Patterson, the man who no longer fights with the whole world on his shoulders, put up a game effort against Ali for five rounds. But Ali, disinterested in the early going, put an end to Patterson's endless dream of getting another shot at the heavyweight title in the sixth round.

Told by his trainer Angelo Dundee, that he was behind on points, Ali rushed from his corner at the start of the sixth and nailed Patterson with a hard combination. Floyd never recovered. A hard right caught Patterson on the left temple and he came off the ropes with his eye puffed and bleeding.

When the final round began, Patterson's eye already was closed and Ali was hitting him with everything he threw.

Three more minutes of leather from Ali and that was enough for Floyd. "The cut was too close to the eyeball," said Dr. Kleiman, who stopped the fight just before the bell sounded for the eighth. "I didn't want him to suffer any permanent damage."

Ali, who back in 1965 as champion punished Patterson for 12 rounds and felt no remorse about it, was sympathic

Reds Top Giants In Series Finale

CINCINNATI (UPI)—It was a somewhat joyous goodbye to Riverfront Stadium for the San Francisco Giants.

That's because they won't have to play in that place again this year after dropping an 8-6 decision to the Cincinnati Reds Wednesday night to close out the season series between the two clubs.

Catcher Johnny Bench and reliever Clay Carroll again proved too much for the Giants to handle. Bench hit his third homer in three games against Giants starter Don Carrithers leading off the second.

Carroll came on in the ninth inning and struck out two of the three batters he faced to notch his 32nd save of the season and third straight against the Giants.

San Francisco was leading 6-4 until the Reds salted it away with a four-run explosion in the eighth against Elias Sosa and Jerry Johnson.

Al Gallagher and Ken Henderson each drove in two runs for the Giants.

Billie Jean's Easy Coast Net Victory

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI)—Billie Jean King breezed past Jill Cooper, 6-0, 6-2 in first round competition of the Pacific Coast International tennis tourney.

"I guess it's good the match ended when it did," said Miss Cooper, a 23-year-old British girl. "I was getting tired of running for drop shots."

"I guess I played all right," said Billie Jean after Wednesday's match. "It's my first match on cement in maybe seven weeks. I've been playing on grass and clay courts and they're pretty slow compared to this. Still I didn't think much of my first serves."

Mrs. King had one mishap when she swiped at her face with a towel between games of the second set and broke off a silver earring. "I not only ruined the earring," she complained, "I hurt my ear." She tossed the offending jewelry into a trash can.

The tourney is being played at Golden Gate Fields and in San Francisco.

Second-rated Margaret Court of Australia breezed past Margaret Cooper of Florida 6-1, 6-1 in the main San Francisco match.

The Astrodome's Leaking Roof

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Houston Sports Association began a $1.2 million project to repair the leaking roof of the Astrodome Wednesday.

A spokesman said holes in the Dome are being taped, covered with polyster and then covered with another substance to protect against ultraviolet rays.

ANALYSIS

Prep Grid Tomorrow

By LEW CODDINGTON

Introducing a new, true-to-life football game called "comparative scores." It's challenging, fun, and almost meaningless.

When the seven Marin County Athletic League football teams finish their schedule of games tomorrow and Saturday, analysts will have a fistful of scores agaist common opponents, all the better to compare the title contenders.

The schedule calls for four games tomorrow. George Washington of San Francisco will play at Redwood High in Larkspur, 3:30 p.m., and Terra Linda will entertain Alameda at San Rafael High, 8. Drake visits Vallejo and San Rafael journeys to Antioch, also at 8.

Saturday's schedule calls for Novato at Lincoln of San Francisco, 11 a.m.; Sonoma vs. San Marin at Novato, 1:30 p.m.; and Tamalpais at Marin Catholic, 2.

Redwood last week defeated Antioch, 7-6, and San Rafael's score against the Panthers will provide a comparison. San Rafael annihilated Lincoln last week, 38-0, which can be compared with Novato's effort Saturday. The Giants, Bulldogs and Hornets all are expected to contend for the MCAL title, along with Terra Linda.

Redwood's foe Washington is "inconsistent right now, but an explosive team with good speed. Their quarterback is an exceptional short passer. They're off to a slow start, and they're not big up front, but they're tough on defense," according to Giant coach Phil Roark.

Redwood suffered several injuries against Antioch. Halfback Daryl Edralin will miss this game and possibly the next with a shoulder pointer, and gauard Pete Massoletti, linebacker Gerald Jack and fullback Ron Small are doubtful starters.

San Rafael coach Bob Muster is wary of the Antioch toughness that forced those injuries.

Bulldog tackle Dan Dell'Era will miss the game with stretched knee ligaments, but is expected to return to practice next week.

Coach Don Lucas juggled Terra Linda's lineup drastically after last week's 22-7 loss to Concord, installing five new starters on defense and three on offense.

Greg Beltran, Kevin Kirby and Kevin O'Keefe will start in the secondary, Cam Lieth and Larry Madden in the defensive line, Larry in the offensive line. The game will tell if all-star tackle Madden has recovered from the side effects of a broken leg.

"Alameda is easily one of the best teams in Northern California year after year," Lucas says.

Drake defensive back Ric Herbert will miss the Vallejo game with a collapsed knee, but otherwise the Pirates will be healthy.

Cross Country Wins By Redwood In Loop Opener

Redwood High School Varsity runners swept the first four places yesterday in winning twice in a triple-duel meet to open the 1972 Marin County Athletic League cross country season.

Dave Brainerd won on the three-mile course with a time of 15:52.8. Sdcond was Ned Overland, 15:58; third was Pete Sweeney, 16:08, and a surprising fourth was Jan-Eric Moller, the course record holder, 16:26.

In team scoring, Redwood defeated San Rafael, 15-49, and whipped Novato, 15-50. San Rafael won its meet with Novato, 29-30.

In another league varsity meet yesterday at Terra Linda High School, Tamalpais defeated Terra Linda, 23-33.

Frosh-Soph scores: Redwood 23, San Rafael 32; Tamalpais 18, Drake 38; Drake 27, Terra Linda 28; Tamalpais 18, Terra Linda 41.

Skywalking Act Of Wallenda

CINCINNATI — Karl Wallenda says there is one fundamental difference between baseball and his favorite sport — skywalking.

"An error in baseball becomes a book statistic," said the amazing 67-year-old aerialist. "An error in my business becomes a vital statistic."

Wallenda would welcome the opportunity to walk across Candlestick Park on a high wire — for a fee, of course. He received $3,500 for his 600-foot walk across Atlanta Stadium on a 142-foot high tightrope following last Sunday's baseball game between the Giants and the Braves.

Wouldn't Candlestick's wind deter him?

"It doesn't blow all the time," said Wallenda. "I know San Francisco from my circus visits there. It is one of my favorite cities."

WALLENDA THEN RECALLED his 1970 walk of 1,100 feet across Tallulah Gorge in the northeast corner of Georgia.

"Just before I started that walk someone said I was crazy to try it because of a down draft in the gorge.

"Fifty years ago in Germany when I told my father and mother the career I was going to follow, they, too, told me I was crazy. But, being circus people themselves, they understood. Anyone ever connected with the circus dreams about doing the unusual, the thrilling act."

WALLENDA CAME to the United States 42 years ago and has been here ever since his first stateside high wire walk in Madison Square Garden April 5, 1928.

Wallenda speaks with deep feeling about the tragedies that claimed the lives of his daughter, sonin-law, and other members of his family in high wire accidents but he isn't maudlin in his sorrow.

"I have been asked many times how I could continue after the accidents," he said. "A man can't give up because of personal sorrow. A man doesn't quit his job because of personal grief. And my job is on the high wire.

"FEAR? I HAVE no fear up there. But I do have great faith in God. I put my trust in the Lord. I pray to Him."

Wallenda speaks about praying matter-of-factly, without any holier-than-thou attitude. Indeed, he switched from the subject of prayer to the fact that he enjoyed a couple of martinis before dinner with the greatest of ease and no embarrassment whatsoever.

"Karl is a man without pretense," said Jack Leontini, Wallenda's lifelong friend and manager. "He's like an old shoe, very comfortable to be around."

And Wallenda has a delightful sense of humor. He chuckled when asked if he intended to take Don Davidson on his shoulders for the skywalk across Atlanta Stadium.

"Donald," said Wallenda, referring to the four-foot midget who is the traveling secretary of the Braves, "is not crazy."

after it was over.

Floyd Patterson fought a great fight," said Ali. "He stunned me a couple of times and he was winning the fight. Floyd, you keep in training and I'll give you a rematch. You deserve it."

Actually Patterson was behind on two of the officials' cards and the other judge had the fight even through the seventh.

"I felt I was holding my own," said Patterson. "As the fight progressed I tried to step up the pace but I got hit in the eye and that was it.

"I felt I should have thrown more punches, done more fighting. I'll do it next time."

Raiders Change Lineup

ALAMEDA, Calif. (UPI)— Daryle Lamonica at quarterback won't be the only switch in the Oakland Raiders lineup Sunday when they call on Green Bay.

Lamonica, who led the Raiders to three fourth-quarter touchdowns last Sunday in a losing effort at Pittsburgh, was announced earlier this week as Sunday's starter.

Coach John Madden says Bob Moore will replace the injured Ray Chester at tight end while Charlie Smith is back off the injury shelf and will start ahead of Don Highsmith at one running back spot.

The fourth change finds receiver Mike Siani getting the nod over Cliff Branch in the battle of rookies for one wide receiver spot.

Siani caught 24 and 70 yard scoring passes last Sunday and may be in the starting lineup for quite a while.

A.L. Flag Flag Fever For Boston

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

The 28,777 fans at Fenway Park Wednesday night thought they saw the end of the race in the American League's Eastern Division.

Their Red Sox are only a game ahead but there was definitely an air of celebration at the old but cozy park as their favorites jolted Baltimore twice 9-1 and 4-0 and dealt a severe blow to the Orioles' hopes for a fourth consecutive pennant.

The guy who got most of the cheers was veteran Luis Tiant, who pitched a four-hitter in the second game.

Of course, it's not over yet but the race now seems to have boiled down to a two-team struggle between Boston and Detroit—two clubs who have seven games left against each other and open a four game series in Boston tonight.

Baltimore and New York, which was trailing Milwaukee 2-0 in the fourth inning Wednesday night when the game was rained out, are both four behind Boston in the loss column and they face an uphill struggle.

Detroit, which beat Cleveland 4-1, is two behind Boston in the loss column with a 78-66 record to Boston's 78-64.

In the first game, Carlton Fisk and rookie Dwight Evans hit two-run singles as Boston exploded for seven runs in the forth inning while routing Jim Palmer. In the second game, Tiant boosted his record to 13-5 with his four-hitter.

Duke Sims doubled in the tie-breaking run and winning pitcher Woody Fryman added a two-run single in the three-run ninth inning as Detroit downed Cleveland.

In the other games, Oakland beat Chicago 6-3, Minnesota edged Texas 3-1 and Kansas City beat California 9-2.

In the National League Philadelphia edged St. Louis 2-1, Cincinnati topped San Francisco 8-6, Los Angeles edged San Diego 5-3, New York defeated Pittsburgh 4-1, Chicago smacked Montreal 6-2 and Atlanta walloped Houston 13-6.

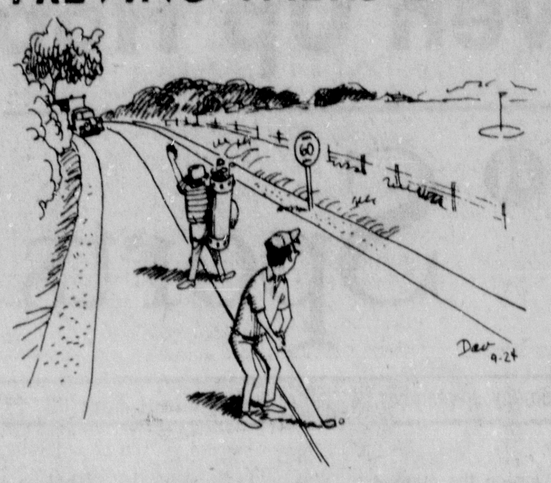
TREVINO TALKS GOLF



Hardpan Ain't Hard

By LEE TREVINO

One of the easier shots to me is off a hard surface. It'll be simple to you with a little practice.

Jack Nicklaus hit a great approach from a road to the 13th green to help him win the 1972 U.S. Open at Pebble Beach. It looked harder than it really was.

This isn't a situation calling for a full shot. Hit one club more than you would from a fairway —an eight-iron instead of a nine-iron, for example. (Is that more, or less?)

Anyway, you can control a ball good from hardpan. I mean you can do things with it — hook, slice, hit it high or low. Or you can blow it.

A bad shot from a hard surface usually comes from bad thinking. A guy will figure he has to lift the ball off the ground as clean as if he's using a chili ladle. He's wrong.

The shot is handled much like a chip from a depression, except it usually involves more distance. Play it back, with your hands forward. Strike the ball a descending blow and it'll jump off the hard stuff. And it'll have the kind of action on it that'll stop it on the green when it hits.

Chargers' Thomas Leaves After Day

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

SAN DIEGO — Running back Duane Thomas left the San Diego Chargers training camp Wednesday after a one-day stay.

Coach Harland Svare said Thomas did not report for the team meeting and told him he was returning to his home in Dallas. He said no reason was given.

Thomas reported to the Chargers Tuesday, seven weeks after he had been acquired from the Dallas Cowboys. Svare imposed a $150-a-day fine Aug. 29, but there was no indication whether the fine had been paid or was part of the reason for the disappearance.

More Football

CHICAGO — George Seals has signed with the Kansas City Chiefs the Chicago Bears announced Wednesday, and the Bears will get the Chief's No. 1 draft pick for the next season.

Seals, a defensive line star with the Bears, played out his option last year and has been seeking a new connection with a National Football League team almost since the end of the 1971 season.

WASHINGTON — Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., introduced a bill Wednesday to ban television blackouts of sell-out professional football games.

Six other senators jumped to their feet to become co-sponsors.

The bill prohibits local blackouts of home games if all tickets to the game are sold 48 hours before game time.

Tennis

LOS ANGELES — Defending champion Pancho Gonzales, 44, ousted from the Pacific Southwest Tennis Tournament by his 21-year-old pupil Roscoe Tanner, says "I'm tired, that's all."

The veteran tennis star, who was unseeded, lost 7-6, 7-6, in the $60,000 event he won last year. He said after the match, "I worked pretty hard to get in shape, but the legs aren't there any more."

In other major matches in second round play Wednesday, Stan Smith, the 1972 Wimbledon champion, ousted Brian Fairlie of New Zealand, 6-7, 6-3, 6-3.

Golf

ROBINSON, Ill. — In any other season, Frank Beard would probably have been a headliner in the Robinson Fall Golf Classic which began today at Crawford Country Club.

But this season, the 33-year-old slipped into this tiny Southern Illinois community — population 7,200 — with something less than fanfare. He is a respected, but not revered member of a 144-man field which is scheduled to compete in the $100,000 tournament.

This year's Robinson is indeed lacking in name power — none of the top 10 is present and only 18 of the top 50 are here, but its the likes of Jim Jamieson and Bob Goalby, a pair of Illinois favorite sons who are capturing the spotlight.

For 49ers: Willard Out, Schreiber In

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — Veteran San Francisco 49er running back Ken Willard, still suffering from the effects of a knee injury, is definitely out for Sunday's game at Buffalo, club officials say.

The eight-year pro, who gained 855 yards as San Francisco's top rusher last year, saw action for just two plays in the 49er's 34-3 rout of San Diego last Sunday.

He will be replaced by Larry Schreiber, who rushed for 13 yards in 11 attempts against the Chargers.

Meanwhile, coach Dick Nolan said Wednesday that veteran Johnny Fuller is assured a position at free safety, giving Fuller high marks after a review of Charger game films.

Rookie cornerback Ralph McGill hurt his back against San Diego and will not appear in the contest with the Bills, Nolan said.

However, Nolan said Mike Simpson, playing behind Fuller at free safety, may be off the injury list in time for the game. Simpson suffered a shoulder separation in a preseason contest.

FOOTBALL

Tam's Charge Of Light Brigade

By LEW CODDINGTON

(Last in a series on Marin County Athletic League football prospects.)

Tamalpais High School's football team this year will reenact the charge of the Light Brigade, hopefully without the same results which befell the original Light Brigade in the Crimean War.

Tam also could use the services of Florence Nightingale, who rose to fame as a nurse for the sick and wounded in that same war.

The Light Brigade is Tam's offensive line, which averages 166 pounds. Both guards, a tackle and the tight end weigh 160, the center weighs 170 and the other tackle 185. And don't call in the split end for additional blocking support — he weighs 140.

There are heavier players around, but they are in the hospital. Two-way tackle Rob Michaelson and offensive tackle-defensive end Alvin Hall are both expected to be out an additional three weeks with injuries, and starting quarterback Tim Nowell will miss five weeks with a broken collarbone sustained in Saturday's season-opening 8-2 loss to Bishop O'Dowd High in Oakland.

When you add in the fact that eight lettermen from last year's squad decided not to play this year for various personal reasons, it's easy to see why coach Mike Davlin's optimism has ben blunted.

"We had the best spring practice at Tam in several years," he said in May. "But now we're really hurting with injuries. We'll be small and hustling, and I guess we'll see how far attitude takes us."

Tam's roster of 28 players includes 10 lettermen back from last year's team, which went 0-9 for the year and 0-6 in the Marin County Athletic League. The Indians have a losing streak of 10 dating back to a season-ending, 28-7 victory over San Marin on Nov. 14, 1970.

Veterans in the line include center Gerald Russell (170 pounds), guard Art Slocum (160). Playing their first varsity season are tight end Mike Rinck (160), tackles Ray Snell (160) and Mike Lamb (185) and guard Ray Bell (160), son of the school's principal. Dennis Morini (140) plays split end.

Davlin thinks his offensive backfield is the team's strong point, with Fred Adams and Alvin Price at the running back spots, Mike Shimmin to do the blocking, and now Steve Gaddis replacing Nowell at quarterback.

Linebackers Kanoe Lyons and Steve Kohler and defensive end Bill Duvall caught Davlin's eye in practice. Speedy Rodney Williams plays monster on defense. The defense played a strong game against O'Dowd, stopping the Dragons once inside the 10-yard-line once and yielding the game's lone touchdown only after a fumble put the ball on the Tam five.

Tam will play at Marin Catholic Saturday at 2 p.m. and will open its MCAL season at San Rafael Sept. 29.

The remaining schedule:

Sept.	23	at Marin Catholic	2 p.m.
Sept.	29	at San Rafael	8 p.m.

SOCCER FORECAST

Five-Team Battle In Prep Loop Race

The battle for the Marin County Athletic League soccer championship figures to be a close one this season, with at least five teams being accorded reasonable chances for the title by the league's eight coaches.

The situation does not resemble last year, when Drake and San Rafael high schools were a head above Redwood and head and shoulders above everybody else.

"We will have a very green team," said Drake coach Imants Abers, whose Pirates went 11-2-1 to win last year, but did not prevail over 1970 champion San Rafael until the final day of the season.

Transfer student Enriue Weissenberg, a center forward from Guatemala, bolsters Drake. Center halfback John O'Shea is a returning letterman, but otherwise, the Pirates are inexperienced.

Chief challengers will be San Rafael, Redwood, Tamalpais and Terra Linda. The season opens Tuesday.

San Rafael returns an outstanding halfback, Misak Pirinjian, "possibly the league's strongest player" in coach Bill Monti's words. Star fullback Dave Hardin has been converted to a winger, and Dave Castro is a fine inside forward, but the team lacks experience otherwise. The Bulldogs were 9-2-3 last year.

Redwood will again have the services of all-league center hlfback David Harvard, sparkplug of an 8-3-3 team. Coach Pat Bacchus also likes the work of forward Tom Sleisinger, a high scorer, and goalie Sam Goodhope.

Tamalpais has a new coach, Jim Wehner (replacing Stan Ritchie), and four returning starters. They are goalie Paul Kewin, wing Tom Barbour, forwards Geoff Webster and fullback Kim Combs. Webster is a junior. Transfer forward Henry Onwubiko will help.

Terra Linda coach Bob Vasser will field "the strongest team since I've been here." It will include all-league fullback Joe Corbelli (now a halfback), honorable mention fullback Rich Martino, and strong offensive player Steve Kostecki. Martino currently is injured.

Novato, San Marin and Marin Catholic brought up the rear last year, and do not appear to have added enough to contend for the title.

Airlines To Meet— Security Conference

SAN DIEGO — Security chiefs from all the airlines of the world will meet here next week with a slate of top state and federal regulatory agency officials to further cooperation between them and to seek solutions to security problems which plague all airlines.

Pacific Southwest Airlines will host some 50 security chiefs representing as many airlines plus many delegates from related law enforcement agencies at Vacation Village Sept. 25-28.

Heading the list of distinguished guests scheduled to attend the meeting is Secor Browne, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, who will address the group Tuesday, Sept. 26.

International association members consider this series of meetings to be the most important ones ever held in that so many top government officials will be in attendance at a time when their advice and cooperation is so badly needed.

"While all airlines and regulatory agencies have always worked closely together as individuals this is the first time we have all been able to sit down at the same time to discuss our problems and the solutions," said PSA Director of security Stephen L. Gardella Jr., chairman of the seminar.

Gardella said most of the meetings will be closed to the public because of the nature of their discussions but revealed their talks will include problems in fraud prevention, prosecutin of crimes against aircraft and crews, airport/airline cooperation and investigation of hijackings.

SPORTY CORVETTE

Entering its 21st year as America's only production sports car, the 1973 Corvette offers a newly-styled front end featuring an improved body-colored bumper system. Other styling and engineering features include a new domed hood with automatic outside air induction to the carburetor, new cushioned body mounting system, increased passenger compartment sound insulation and new standard steel-belted radial ply blackwall tires. The new Chevrolets will be introduced on Sept. 21. Marin dealers are DeLong in San Rafael, Campbell-Bishop in Corte Madera, Cheda in Point Reyes Station and Empire in Novato.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Hold Stock For A Recovery Despite The Drop In Price

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. On our broker's recommendation we bought 50 shares each of ASE-listed Brad Ragan and Jewelcor. Both are down from our buy price. While we hate to sell and take these losses, we can't afford to hold and risk furthar loss. Your comments would be appreciated. — P.B.

A. Despite the drop in price, particularly for Brad Ragan, you have no cause for concern; both companies are healthy and growing. A recent flurry in Jewelcor shares has pushed this issue close to your cost. Investor interest was sparked by the announcement of a joint venture with W. T. Grant for a catalog showroom in Tucson, Arizona. Through the first half Jewelcor had reported a doubling of sales volume. Earnings gains were pared to 24 per cent by a higher tax rate, 30 per cent more shares outstanding and a narrower profit margin. Full-year net should reach the $1.00-a-share area.

President Bradley E. Ragan has estimated that sales for the current fiscal year to end next April will reach $50 million. No earnings figure was projected. However, assuming that the profit margin remains stable, earnings takedown of $1.25 is feasible. Several acquisitions of rubber companies or retailing and retreading companies have been completed or are in the works.

Q. I hold 100 shares of RCA (NYSE) at a cost of 52⅝. Shall I sell and take the loss or hold for recovery? — R.D.

A. Having held your shares through two years of reduced profits, now with earnings in a recovery phase, I would not suggest selling. In the first half earnings moved ahead 80 per cent to 99 cents a share, on an 8 per cent gain in volume. The disposal of RCA's computer business is the major factor in the earnings rebound, although problems still plague the company's car rental and semiconductor divisions. These areas contributed less than 25 per cent to sales in 1971. Color TV sets and communications, RCA's major fields, have enjoyed a strong resurgence this year, more than offsetting any weaknesses in other areas. Hold for recovery.

BUSINESS ROUNDUP

Novato Sign Business Is Now International

A Novato sign business has gone international.

It happened more or less by accident, but Nor-Cal Signs of 1064-E Machin Avenue has a salesman in Grenada, British West Indies — and he's producing orders.

The chain of events leading to "internationalization" of Nor-Cal Signs began last year when the shop sold some magnetic signs for automobiles to a San Rafael funeral parlor, according to Dirf Benford, Nor-Cal proprietor. A trainee at the funeral parlor was Thomas James Laqua of St. George's; Grenada. He expressed interest in the signs and bought some for himself.

Back home in Grenada, Laqua wrote Benford last month asking whether he could be a sales representative. Benford was agreeable and proposed a commission arrangement. Last week the orders started coming in, and four had arrived yesterday. Evidently Laqua has found a demand for the Novato shop's products.

Nor-Cal Signs makes plastic outdoor signs as well as the magnetic signs for cars and trucks.

Also in Novato, Edward F. and Elaine T. Jewell have acquired a half interest in the Town Club cocktail lounge at 1005 Grant Avenue, formerly wholly owned by Harold L. and Pierrette D. Popiels, who will remain in a management role. Richard A. Cromwell has purchased Nelson's Chevron Service at 1549 South Novato Boulevard from Grant Nelson.

Three warehouse leases on Hamilton Drive in Novato's Hamilton Industrial Park have been announced by William Hoey Co., leasing agent. Lessees are Rock Island Foods headed by Henry Abramson of Sausalito, health food suppliers; Barry Blakley of Novato, who will operate an auto body repair shop, and Abe's Cylinder Sanctuary operated by Kris Stenz, a motorcycle repair shop.

Fritz Wannamaker has leased a 1,021-square foot warehouse at 50 Lisbon Street, San Rafael, also through William Hoey Co., for a woodworking and sculpturing shop. Lynn Woods has purchased Critters From Paradise Pet Shop at 5607 Paradise rive, Corte Madera, from John Dauksha and James Hougan. Gloria Hamilton has bought Larkspur Natural Foods at 460 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur, from Christopher and Jacqueline Rosenfelder. Miroslav Kvapilik had purchased Oak Manor Texaco service station at 2400 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax, from Sixto N. Rodriquez.

New corporations being formed include Medicus Corp. of Chicago, forming a California corporation to operate data processing service from 300 Valley Street, Sausalito; House of Kebab, being incorporated by John B. Ohanian, Bedros S. Maronian and Boutros S. Maronian, all of Walnut Creek, to operate a restaurant at a yet-unannounced location in Marin; E-Z Garage Door Co., being incorporated by Leonard and Dewayne G. Smith and David Price Jones to continue an existing business at 126 Front Street, San Rafael, and Ronald P. Ashley, D.D.S., who is incorporating himself to operate his dental practice at 2400 Las Gallinas Avenue, San Rafael.

Names in the business news: Philip K. Stockstill of Larkspur has been promoted to relief manager of Magic Pan Creperie at 341 Sutter Street, San Francisco, announced F. D. Montgomery of San Rafael, general manager . . . Terry J. Sternberg of Tiburon has been appointed loan officer, and James J. Chapman of San Rafael, administrative officer, in the San Francisco regional office of Ralph C. Sutro Co., mortgage bankers . . . Whitney Harris of Mill Valley has been named general sales manager of San Francisco television station KEMO-TV (channel 21) . . . Herbert M. Kristal of Novato, who is affiliated with Insurance Associates, Berkeley, has been awarded the chartered life underwriter designation by the American College of Life Underwriters . . . Howard I. McGill Jr. of Greenbrae has joined the commercial division of Grubb and Ellis's real estate office on Montgomery Street in San Francisco . . . Eugene J. Amato, manager of manufacturing at Fairchild Semiconductor plant in San Rafael, has been promoted to manager of central engineering services for Fairchild Camera and Instrument Corp.'s semi-conductor components group in Mountain View.

Market Lower In Early Hours

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market, lacking public and institutional interest, moved lower during the first two hours today in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Declines led advances, 650 to 487, among 1,537 issues crossing the tape. Two-hour turnover amounted to more than 4,790,000 shares.

Mutual fund redemptions in August surged ahead of the July pace, indicating again the public is investing its money in things other than securities. This action has led many funds to sit on the sidelines, analysts said.

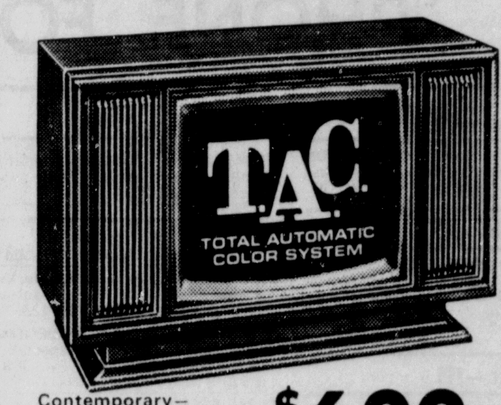
There also is uncertainty among investors about the question of taxes, according to many analysts. The Nixon administration has said it won't raise them in the next four years, but some experts, including the Bank of America, say increases are inevitable.

House of Fabrics was the most active issue, off 1 at 7 on 66,800 shares. The issue was delayed in opening because of an order imbalance.

Prices also were lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Coit International was the most active Amex issue, unchanged at 17 3-4 on 53,200 shares.

MAGNAVOX introduces Modular 100% SOLID-STATE Color TV with exclusive VIDEOMATIC™

...the world's most Totally Automatic Color TV!



Contemporary—model 7582

$699

100% Solid-State is the most reliable Color TV . . . and now Magnavox introduces Modular 100% Solid-State . . . the SS-100 Chassis. Simpler, with five plug-in circuit panels and plug-in mini-modules and transistors. No tubes to heat up or burn out. Utterly reliable. If anything goes wrong the first year (and it's Magnavox's fault) it's serviced free—no charge for parts or labor! The exclusive Videomatic watches the light you watch television by and automatically adjusts your picture for color, brightness and contrast. It's part of the Magnavox Total Automatic Color System, T.A.C. . . . so sophisticated, it automatically compensates for color changes between scenes and channels. You'll always get a color-right, perfectly-tuned picture—day or night. Early American, Contemporary and Mediterranean styles . . .

$41,500. FAIRFAX. Just listed. A Cascade Drive home. It's just darling! Ideal for a couple. See the pecky cedar-exterior — beautiful stone work, hardwood floors and a great outlook to the trees. Remodeled with extra quality details such as foldaway bar, color TV and Hi-Fi. Level property with great patio. 3 bedrooms, 1½ baths, dining room. It's outstanding! Eves. 454-3434

$43,950. TERRA LINDA. An Orange Blossom Lane home meant for the large family. Spacious thruout with 4 bedrooms plus, large patio, private yard surrounded by beautiful trees and sunny deck. 2nd fireplace in family room. Trade your smaller home in on this. Eves. 456-3835.

$48,000. SAN ANSELMO. It's up on the hill — but this Oak Springs home is meant for the large family. 4 bedrooms, 3 baths, huge family room and lots of storage. If you're handy with the paint brush and decorating you can make money here. Magnificent view clear out to the bay. See! Eves. 454-3434.

$48,500. SAN ANSELMO — BRAND NEW. Built beneath a mighty oak tree, this spacious home is the best buy on the market for under $50,000. Compare. Quality construction, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, patio and sun deck. Steps to bus and shopping and owner will take low down payment. Eves. 456-4159.

$49,950. SAN GERONIMO at its secluded best. Luxury 6 year old home in a picturesque setting. ½ acre in San Geronimo — near the town yet beside a babbling brook; 3 bedrooms, 2½ baths, family room, dining room, decks, and double garage. It's beautifully decorated with huge floor to ceiling fireplace, carpeting, etc. Extra lot available. Eves. 456-3835.

$54,950. CUSTOM BUILT SLEEPY HOLLOW 8 year old home. You'll enjoy the large rooms. There's a lava rock fireplace, slate entry, dining room, 3 bedrooms and 2 baths. Attractive open kitchen and family room. Transferred owner offers this level corner property. Outstanding! Eves. 454-3434.

$67,950. PRIVATE PARK? This SLEEPY HOLLOW home can be your very own — a fabulous ½ acre mini-estate. This home has 3 bedrooms, 2½ baths and features the most fantastic family room we've seen — 22x40, beam ceiling, wet bar, and built-in BBQ. Close to schools. Lovely pool site and it's on one of the prettiest streets in the Hollow. Call for an appointment. Eves. 454-9297.

$88,700. ROSS. One of a kind — like a piece of art. There's beautiful brick and carved wood everywhere. All doors, cabinets, fireplace are hand hewn. There's leaded windows — it took 3 years to build. On a level corner lot, this is absolute value! 4 bedrooms, den, dining room, family room and other extra rooms. Shown by appointment. HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Many Drugs Taken By Mother Could Hurt Breast-Fed Baby

Hundreds of drugs and medicines when taken by a nursing mother are excreted in the milk. So small an amount is involved that detection is almost impossible. However, there are instances in which breast-feeding is not advised because the drugs being used may affect the baby. This is especially true when the mother is ill and taking large doses of any medication. Under these circumstances, larger amounts are excreted in the milk leading to overdosage in the child.

Several specific drugs are known to cause problems in the infant and should be avoided by nursing mothers. These include anticoagulants, bromides, antithyroid drugs, radioactive preparations, antimetabolites, and steroids including cortisone-like hormones. New or unusual drugs also should be avoided because they may induce unexpected reactions in the infant. When medicines are needed, it is suggested that the baby be fed by bottle.

AS WE SAID, most drugs used in ordinary doses are allowable. There are reports of babies getting drunk or sedated after being nursed by a mother who drank a large amount of wine within 24 hours of the feeding. Blood disorders also have been traced to milk from mothers being treated with phenobarbital, Dilantin, and certain steroids. Infants born of narcotic addicts may develop serious withdrawal symptoms. Occasionally, these babies die, if untreated.

EVERYONE APPRECIATES the value of breast-feeding. However, it should not be done by a mother with a known breast malignancy or with a strong family history of these lesions. Electron microscopic studies of the milk demonstrate particles suggestive of the involved malignancy. In mice the leukemia virus is transmitted thru mother's milk.

Nicotine also is passed along in the mother's milk, but to my knowledge, has not been a problem.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

WANTS DEEPER TAN

J. writes: I tan fairly well, but would like to get darker. Is there a pill I can take to step up the tanning process?

REPLY

If you tan well, spend more time in the sun. Pills are available to hasten the process, but why use medicine and run the risk of unpleasant side effects?

FOOT ODOR

W. F. writes: What can be done about foot odor that can't be eliminated by frequent washings?

REPLY

Find and eliminate the cause which apparently is not being washed away. Ringworm and allergy to a chemical in the shoes are possibilities.

OATMEAL IN SUMMER

W. E. writes: Will eating oatmeal in the summertime heat the blood?

REPLY

No. Like other foods, oatmeal produces energy after it is eaten, but it will not set you afire.

Newsmen Rights Laws Opposed By Justice Dept.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department said today that it opposes proposed legislation to give newsmen the privilege of refusing to testify about news sources in federal court and congressional hearings.

Assistant Attorney General Roger C. Cramton said there was no need for legislation in light of guidelines for the subpoena of newsmen that the Justice Department laid down in 1970.

"Since the guidelines appear to be sufficient to protect the legitimate interests of the press from incursion by federal grand juries, legislation is unnecessary at this time," Cramton said in a statement prepared for a House Judiciary subcommittee.

The subcommittee is considering six bills that provide testimonial exemption. The bills range from complete exemption to provisions that newsmen could be asked to testify only when life or national security hung in the balance.

Jail Terms For Porno Showing

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—The owner and two employes of a downtown theater were fined a total of $10,125 and given jail terms Wednesday for showing pornographic movies in 1970.

Lawrence Nissinoff, 37, owner of the T & D Theater was sentenced to 540 days in the Alameda County Jail in addition to $3,750 in fines. The theater's manager, Harold Davis, 69, was fined $3,375 and given 360 days in jail and the ticket taker, Morris Nissinoff, 58, was fined $3,000 and 270 days in jail.

The group was found guilty last month of showing "lewd and obscene" films. Their attorney said he would appeal the sentences, handed down by Municipal Court Judge Malcolm Champlin.

Defeat Is Asked Of Prop. 17

The Marin Democratic Central Committee has urged defeat of Proposition 17, the death penalty initiative on the Nov. 7 ballot.

The vote on Tuesday was 14-1 with committeeman Michel J. Anthony dissenting.

According to Robert A. Mills, secretary, the committee felt that in light of the U.S. Supreme Court's recent decision declaring the death penalty unconstitutional, the initiative would be "an exercise in futility."

The committee unanimously endorsed Proposition 20, the Coastline Initiative which would limit development of California's shoreline.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidant, light air pollution

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, light air pollution.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

Oakland, light air pollution.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Board Against Fluoride Poll

The North Marin County Water District board has decided against conducting a poll to determine resident opinion on fluoridation of water.

Directors, holding a neutral position, believed that conducting a poll might be construed by some persons as indicating the district favors it, S. L. Morris, district auditor reported.

About a dozen persons attended the board meeting Tuesday and only one favored a poll. Morris said Directors believed that any poll should be taken by proponents of fluoridation, he said.

The board awarded BIF of Providence, R.I., a contract to supply three butterfly valves at a cost of $1,529 each.

Eagleton Wouldn't Work For McGovern

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI)— Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., says he isn't interested in any post with Sen. George McGovern's administration if McGovern is elected president.

Eagleton, campaigning in Illinois Monday with Thomas Lyons, Democratic candidate for Illinois attorney general, said he would prefer to stay in the U.S. Senate than to serve either in the cabinet or as a presidential adviser.

Professor Dies, Youth Is Arrested

NEW YORK (UPI)—Detectives early today arrested a 16year-old boy in connection with the fatal stabbing of Columbia University law professor Wolfgang G. Friedmann.

Police identified the youth as Daniel Mingues and said he was picked up at his home. Two other teen-aged youths also were being sought in connection with the Wednesday slaying.

Mingues, was taken to the West 100th Street stationhouse and booked on homicide charges.

Friedmann, 65, who had successfully fought off a gang of youths who attacked him in 1956, was killed near the university's Morningside Heights campus while trying to fight off three teen-age attackers.

The international law professor, who fled Germany in the 1930s rather than live under the Nazi regime, was stabbed to death by one of the attackers as he struggled to keep them from taking his money and wristwatch.

Witnesses told police the youths, about 14 to 17 years of age, jumped Friedmann as he walked from the campus about 4:30 p.m. He resisted and during the struggle, his wallet was taken.

The professor continued fighting as the youths grabbed for his watch, witnesses said. Friedmann was then stabbed near the heart and the assailants fled. He was pronounced dead on the scene.

Sixteen years ago, Friedmann was attacked by two youths in the same neighborhood on his way home from classes. He fought back, wrestling one attacker to the ground, and the assailants fled.

Friedmann became a magistrate in a Berlin labor court after receiving his doctorate in jurisprudence from the University of Berlin in 1930. After the Nazis came to power, Friedmann lost his job in a confrontation with storm troopers and fled to England.

An acquaintance said Friedmann told him that when Nazis would come into his courtroom demanding stiff penalties for their opponents, Friedmann would order them to get out.

Friedmann taught law at the Universities of London, Melbourne and Toronto before coming to Columbia as professor of international law in 1955. He also was director of the international legal research program at Columbia.

American Travelers Warned On Uganda

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State Department has urged Americans not to travel in Uganda because of the uncertain political conditions in the African nation.

Charles W. Bray III, a State Department spokesman, said Monday that five U.S. citizens are known to be under arrest in Uganda. He said the Ugandan government has refused to allow American diplomats to see them.

CALLING ALL
CAMERA FANS
By Ken Reichard

PRESERVING UNUSED FILM

If you have more film left over from a vacation than you think you can use before its marked expiration date, we recommend that you store it in your refrigerator or freezer. Aging of the film will be greatly retarded in either place so you will have much more time to use it. In the freezer the aging will be almost negligible. This recommendation applies to both still including Polaroid, and movie films.

Most film these days come packaged in sealed foil wrapping or gasketed screw-cap cans. Such film can be placed in cold storage without further protection from dampness.

When removing film from cold storage for use, allow time for the film to reach room temperature before opening its inner packaging. This is to prevent condensation of moisture on the film. For refrigerated film allow 1½ hours; for frozen film, 2 hours.

Want to open up new avenues for exciting picture taking? Step up to one of the better cameras in our displays . . . We'll be glad to give you expert advice on selecting a camera that will be right for you.

Labor Council Defies Meany, Defends Backing Of McGovern

DENVER (UPI)—The Colorado Labor Council has scoffed at AFL-CIO President George Meany's order to suspend it and boot out all officers because they violated Meany's neutral political stand and endorsed George McGovern for President.

"We're going to hold our ground and operate independently in spite of any harassment from George Meany," said CLC President Herrick Roth. "We'll operate in exile if need be—and we refuse to turn over any of our records."

Roth filed suit in federal court Wednesday asking an injunction to keep Meany and the AFL-CIO from suspending the Colorado group. He said the hearing will probably come next week.

Meany issued a terse statement from AFL-CIO headquarters in Washington earlier saying the Colorado group had endorsed the Democratic presidential nominee "in violation of AFL-CIO policy and refused to rescind its endorsement."

In justifying the suspension, the AFL-CIO cited its own constitution which says, "State central bodies, as chartered organizations of the AFL-CIO, shall conform their activities on national affairs to the policies of the AFL-CIO."

Presidential endorsements are definitely "national affairs," the union said.

Meany has not contested the right of any individual AFL-CIO union to endorse a presidential candidate. But state and local chapters of the national organization must follow the rulings from headquarters, he said.

"It would of course, be utterly destructive of the AFL-CIO's political effectiveness if state bodies were free to pursue their own courses in national elections," the AFL-CIO headquarters said.

Roth said his group voted to back McGovern because the Democrat had previously enjoyed strong labor support on the basis of his Senate voting record, while President Nixon was consistently criticized by national labor leaders.

The national AFL-CIO called this "mere playing with words."

Meany sent a trustee, Daniel J. Healy, to Denver to take over the CLC, but Healy did not appear at the state group's offices.

"He did not show up because he knows even if he delivered the suspension order he couldn't enforce it without going to court," Roth said.

Albert Zack, chief spokesman for the AFL-CIO in Washington, said Wednesday's action was the first time a state labor organization had been ordered placed in trusteeship since the AFL-CIO merger in 1955.

fall fashions '72

Independent Journal
San Rafael, California, Thursday, September 21, 1972

DENIM AND knits are a winning combination for boys this fall. Sears will have the blue denim parka with pile trim (left.) The go-with-everything jacket is shown with denim stripe flared jeans. The joker (right) wears the popular Wallace Beery shirt with mariner jeans.

SEARS Men's Stores have contemporary styles such as the bold orangeand brown plaid long sleeve, zip front shirt shown with flared rust, bush jeans in brushed denim. Both shirt and pants are also available through the Sears catalog.

ACCESSORIES ARE a specialty at Sears, and especially popular for fall are suede and wool matchmates. The knit cap has insets of softly colored suede, and the roomy shoulder-bag in suede has great shaggy loops of wool.

FASHIONS FOR THE FAMILY

When the new Sears store on the Northgate Fashion Mall opens next month teen-age girls will find contemporary styles in the Lemon Frog Shop. Available in the shop at Sears are the wide tartan cuffed solid green acrylic pants (left) and the long sleeve, man-tailored knit shirt shown with it. The long tartan, sunburst pleated skirt (right), shown with a white seersucker middy blouse will also be found at Sears.

News In Bags — Shapes, Straps, Soft Leathers

The big news in bags this fall can be found in three areas: shapes, straps and soft leathers.

Handbag shapes come on soft, squashy and spacious for daytime, more compact and firmer for late day and evening. Leathers are supple to provide the creamy pliable textures needed. And the shoulder-strap, fashion's most popular device in bags, gets some new looks — as well as a run for the money from non-shoulder styles.

Giving substance to this season's fresh ideas from handbag designers is a capital collection of leathers. These include suede, smooth, grained, waxy, brushed, antiqued, embossed and real patent leather finishes.

THIS FALL'S operative accessory for the active woman is a good-sized softly leathered shoulder-strap bag. Envelope, pouch or tote, it will be smartly casual outside and roomy within, notes Leather Industries of America. Silhouettes vary, with some deep, some horizontal, some rounded off. There are scoop or crescent shapes, and pouchy feedbag or hobo styles. Leathers in just about every finish make up all these models.

Suede will be a favorite, also grained, waxy, smooth, brushed, antiqued and crushed patent leathers. In a number of bags, two tones offer contrast. Others use two leathers, as suede trimmed with smooth.

The shoulder-strap itself — functional and fun, as well as part of the bag's decor — comes in a wide assortment of looks. There are broad contoured straps, chains, chain-and-leather straps, heavily stitched straps, and simple self-leather straps. To convert the bag from shoulder to arm or hand-carry type, a number of methods are used including snaps, buckles, clips and removable straps. In addition, some bags carry a second handle for use when the strap is removed.

Accompanying the long-strapped bag are many non-shoulder strap handbags to accessorize handsomely with new layered looks, easy dresses and soft wrappy coats. These include casual leather totes, pouches and hobo-bags with regulation handles or straps, trimmed with lots of stitching or brass bits.

DRESSIER DAYTIME bags come in leathers such as suede, smooth, fine-grained, patent and reptile-embossed leathers. Here, too, leather combinations often come into play, with suede and smooth leather a popular teaming, and suede and crushed patent leather another. These clutches, envelopes, box-bags and swaggers also utilize refined hardware and smart handles or short straps as decoration.

One of the most important handbag looks this season is the supple leather envelope with no strap at all. It's large and flat, and tucks tidily under one's arm.

For dress-up occasions the best bag shapings are the chic clutch, the mini-envelope, the petite pouch, and the scaled-down shoulder bag. The latter will swing from jewelry-finished chains or leather-and-chain straps.

Textured leathers crafting these bags lead off with suede, followed by smooth, luster metallic-grained and real patent leathers. To add glamour, these styles may show off intricate frames, fancy closings, braid trim or jeweling.

The cast of colors in this season's leather handbag story stars the browns, along with tan and beige, black and navy. Among other featured shades are red onion, rust, red and purple. For further high fashion colors, watch for camel, grey and green.

French Denim Look Rapidly Catches On

Jeans fans — and who isn't — will be attracted to brushed denims trimmed with studs, grommets or colored stones. It's a look born on the French Riviera during the summer and rapidly catching on here.

The basic jeans cut is also great for bold lumberjack and box plaids on brushed cotton flannel in a season when plaids, scads of 'em, will be seen everywhere.

Fashions Begin Next To Nothing

Clingier fashions begin next to nothing. The natural shaping of softly constructed underthings smooths the way for skimming chemises as well as defined waistline dresses.

V-neck plunges, bare backs and shoulders get their support from the convertibles — bras that go haltered, criss-crossed or low backed and deeply plunged. They can also be worn the conventional way.

Like most popular bras they are no-seamed, molded, flat seamed or very gently underwired.

Long-line and all-in-oners glamorize by firming midriff, tummy and hips.

Hi-waist girdles and briefs slenderize waistlines and hips for fluid fashion lines.

Along with any-lecgth hems are half and full slips. Knee skimming, over-the-knee, mid-calf and long.

The Neat Look

In keeping with the classic neat look of fall fashion, the pile of fake furs will be short and trim. Colors stick fairly close to natural animal markings, but there are some red, blue, yellow and green fabrics that get plaid and stripe treatments as they stray off the beaten path. One stylist says, "The long, shaggy look in fakes is going out of style and the furs are shorter and closer to the body."

The Soft Look

The soft look natural fibers will be back next fall in the once almost totally synthetic-fiber-dominated sweater and knitwear industry. Trade sources claim that natural fibers, predominantly mohair, angora and wool blended with synthetics, will be big this fall. The soft look is wanted in sweaters and knitwear to go with the layered and classic look in sportswear.

All-Time Best Fashion Ideas To Reappear In Fall Season

This fall, look for some of the best-loved fashion ideas of all time to make their reappearance — in a slightly different guise.

Today's classics have a spirited feeling that's anything but "safe" or tame. The delight is in the new and unexpected equations of familiar fabrics and silhouettes. Wear them anywhere, but don't expect to blend into the background.

Remember the sweater set? It's back. This time around, you'll wear the longsleeved pullover under a sleeveless cardigan. Have a set in Fair Isle pattern and another in Argyll checks. If you're a real fashion baby, you'll want a sweater set in baby blue or pink angora, sweet and sexy and very, very new.

FOR FALL the sweaterdress goes to new lengths to show its versatility. Halston has designed an anklelength version of this ultra-wearable classic in unbelievably luxurious camel colored cashmere. To toss around your shoulders, there's a matching cardigan, all adding up to a picture of unstudied elegance after dark.

The great gray flannel suit? It's come a long way from the strictly tailored jacket and skirt. Anne Klein puts it together in the spirit of '72: gray flannel pants are topped with a blouson jacket in dark brown suede. Add a printed foulard tie, a pale satin shirt, and you have the whole luxuriously easy message.

THE OLD gray sweatsuit ain't what it used to be, either. This fall's sweatsuit takes a new lease on your leisure life — as a hooded khaki knit by Marimekko, or a bright red nylon cire sweatsuit from Beene Bag.

Last summer's beloved smock shape is still a winner. Updated in solid color wools, it becomes this season's classic topper — probably the best car coat you could own. Originala does a charming variation on the double-faced coat theme, designing a solid color wrapper that reverses to gingham checks.

Missing from the after-five scene for several years, the short evening dress is staging a dramatic reappearance. Sarmi uncovers the full siren potential of black velvet with a halter-necked dress that plunges to the midriff in front. Hubert Latimer prefers the short velvet dress covered-up and positively clinging to the waist with elasticized ribbing.

Fabric Picture To Be Brighter

Bright colors for children's wear: the fabric picture for children's apparel will be turning brighter for fall, with lots of plaids — both tartans and checkerboards — and brushed fabrics.

According to one children's wear designer, the move away from the bonded fabrics is a result of poor consumer reaction. She noted that in many cases the bonded fabrics used to shed apart from the backing.

Replacing bonded goods for most children's wear designers are unbonded polyester and acrylic double-knits, brushed denim, flannel, sueded cottons, woven acrylics and quilted looks. Another industry spokesman mentioned that the clear primary colors are big. "Bottle green, burgundy and navy are good and there is a lot of black."

CLASSICAL ENCHANTRESS

Black is back and with it goes gold, according to Granat Bros jewelers on the Northgate Shopping Mall. The jewelers suggest dangly gold earrings and looped bracelets.

THE ANKLE-LENGTH BOOT

Men have a choice of ankle-length boots in styles to match their own tastes. Some are strapped and some are zippered up the side. Made by Pedwin, ankle-length and tall boots are available at Chapman's Shoes, San Rafael and Novato.

Byword Is Control

Hair: No longer flying in careless abandon; the byword is control. Longer hair should be clean, sleeked back in a knot placed high on the head or low with a snood. Short hair looks great in a soft and shiny cap of waves. Those tendriled coifs are great — in the right place, with the ultra-feminine looks, usually after five.

Time says, "It's the most passive reduction plan yet developed."

Big Fall Fashion Topic Is Tent Topper Look

The tent topper is a big fall fashion topic.

It gives pants a new mood and a new proportion.

"It's a soft way to do a short look with pants. Toppers are free and get away from the body. They are comfortable, and I see them only with pants," says one fashion analyst.

He adds that it takes some adjustment.

Another spokesman says, "The topper is the perfect look with pants. It's time for a look that's short, wider to give pants a new proportion. It's also time for function."

Another, a designer, agrees. "It is the newest shape and the newest way to put yourself together with pants. I'm doing what I call a leisure jacket, which is unlined. I think of it as more of a sportswear item than a coat."

The tent topper can look like a shirt, a poncho, a loden coat or be a jacket so soft it's almost like a second blouse. And designers like them in everything from plaids, tartan and lumberjack wools to brushed wools, chinchilla, gray flannel and soft knits.

The short raglan-sleeved topper zips up the front at one house . . . and the designer does it in red, dark green and navy plaid wool chinchilla. She puts it over a cotton shirt in te same plaid and dark green wool jersey pants.

Lumberjack checks are the topic at another couture house . . . and designers check them out on a wool tent topper in green and black over matching pants and a sleeveless pullover sweater in green and black striped mohair and angora.

The hooded poncho sets the mood in some showrooms . . . in pale shrimp, camel, avocado, heather pink and blue wool plaid over pale rust wool flannel pants.

Designers Move Away From Pattern Mixes

Designers move away from eclectic pattern mixes and on to simple sweater suits and more of those bodydresses.

Watch them define fashion in all areas — fabrics, colors, shapes.

THE PLAIDS ARE BACK

Easy care and easy wear polyester and cotton are made into a popular smock dress featuring the classic large plaid pattern. The dress by Cinderella is buttoned with heads-up shiny pennies for fun. The one-piece outfit gets a two-piece look with its make believe blouse that can't come untucked. Available at McKenzie's Junior Vogue, San Rafael and Northgate Shopping Mall.

SUBTLE PLAID DUET

Quiet elegance is a plaid suit with a gently tapered coat with flap pockets and a hint of flare to the pants. The man accustomed to the good things in life will find the suit at the Oxford Shop on the Northgate Shopping Mall.

PANT SUITED — In an all-wool pantsuit by Norman Todd, model Joan Saylor stands in front of the James Sears of Marin shop at Strawberry Town and Country Village in Mill Valley. The suit in cinnamon and black check with matching vest is available at James Sears.

Prominent Position For Hats This Fall

With the return of classic fashions, the hat takes a prominent position for fall. It's definitely a headstarting accessory.

At a trade fashion show and luncheon in New York, the hat regained its top position. Hats take on an essential part of the new femininity, yet they have more than one specific look.

The Little Hat — White leather cuffed cap with a stitched crown and a matching pussycat bow.

The Little Hat — Off-the-face black felt cloche with a brushed plaid facing on brim.

The Flying Colors — Large gold velour slouch hat trimmed with gold eyelets.

Haberdashing — Stenciled fake fur fedora with leather band and matching bag.

Gray Is The Autumn Color That Matters

Neutrals are important. Especially gray. That's the color that matters for fall. Taking a tip from dresses and coats, accessories designers have come up with their own gray matters.

Handbags, belts, hats, jewelry and gloves carry the gray message — it's a tailored, Classic look. Designers like the look of gray in a variety of fabrics from soft suedes to rough wools. Jewelry goes gray with pewter and dark-finished silver. Even sunglasses are going a shade of gray.

Gloves In Comeback

Gloves will come back to keep the lady "dressed to the fingertips." New versions include crinkle leathers, crochets, cut-outs, hardware trim with grommits or buckles. The gauntlet is expected to return.

A Designer Gives Smock A New Look

The smock gets a new look when one designer does it in navy wool chinchilla. She adds wide shoulder pads and buttons it over navy, white, blue and grape Donegal tweed wool trousers.

The plaid shirt is the way another does it. She does it in unlined burgundy, cream, black and beige plaid wool over cuffed creamy white wool trousers and a burgundy shirt collared in white.

Vinyl, Fake Fur In Courreges Collection

PARIS (AP) — Andre Courreges, the man who designs "second skins" for women, used to like his body stockings in heavy ribbed wool. Now, they are sheer.

His collection for fall and winter was pure Courreges. This means vinyl and fake fur, visors and chunky boots, and the Courreges colors — orange, white, navy and yellow.

This look this season is wearable. Slightly flaring dresses have short sleeves and high waistlines. So do the belted coats, even the one in orange mink.

Courreges is very proud indeed of his new square armhole, which fits into the coat "like a puzzle piece."

Skirts, sometimes soaring to three inches above the knee, are A-line and slit up the front. In gray flannel or wool, they go with ribbed T-shirts and over-the-knee socks sticking out of vinyl boots. The "in" color for these is pink.

Women who otherwise might soon be hard put to find a pair of couture pants will be reassured to know they can count on Courreges. This season, his are wider, straighter and cuffed.

Corduroy's Stand

Corduroy, formerly a country cousin, appears to be taking a sophisticated stand for city life as well. Many new weaves, textures and tweed-look prints make up the roster of this exciting new fashion trend.

JUNIOR LOOKS FOR FALL

The Emporium on the Northgate Shopping Mall has a variety of fresh fashions for junior for fall. The new look is big on wide-leg pants and plaids.

Top Drawer News Could Be Sleeve

Top drawer news this season could be the sleeve. It's been many a season since sleeve treatment has been given such a fashion play.

The dolman, roomy but cut with non-bulky lines, is seen on coats, dresses, sweaters for night and day.

The raglan is soft and interesting — sometimes just an extension of the shoulder line — as in the capped effect in jumpers and vests.

At other times it's full-length, narrowing to the wrist. The epaulette frequently rides high on the raglan sleeve.

The sleeve-on-sleeve effect is often seen with coat sleeves rolled up, then worn over a sweater or a turtle-neck top.

Capelets can be found on coats, and in lesser numbers, on dresses.

PANT SUITED — In an all-wool pantsuit by Norman Todd, model Joan Saylor stands in front of the James Sears of Marin shop at Strawberry Town and Country Village in Mill Valley. The suit in cinnamon and black check with matching vest is available at James Sears.

Focus In Fashion Lifted To The Face

Make-up: The focus is lifted to the face, an area of greater individual interest. Facial artistry is an important part of fashion, and the purposeful change is happening here, too. The look is healthy, natural, glowing. Eyes are still very important. Long lashes, upper and lower, keep the face soft. Cheeks are rosy, high and wide, polished with clear gels rather than powder. The general impression is confident, alluring and well cared-for.

Colors Brighter

Colors are brighter and warmer than last winter, although rust, purple, brown and black are much in evidence again.

The Emporium Better Coats

PURE WOOL

The Woolmark label is your assurance of quality-tested products made of the world's best . . . Pure Wool.

THE BOOT TOPPER

Fully lined suede cloth with a furry pile trim make a dramatic combination in this boot-top coat for fall and winter. The wooden toggle closures and top stitching give it distinctive detail. In chamois at Stan's for Sports, Novato, San Rafael and Mill Valley.

DYNAMIC CREPE AND LACE

This late afternoon-to-evening maternity dress is right for fall with its blue-white lace top detail and tight-fitting sleeves. Of light crepe, the dress is fully lined. Available at Mother-To-Be Maternity Shop in the Northgate Shopping Mall.

Layered Look Popular Today

A wardrobe of sweaters, jackets, shirts and smocks is what's required to keep on top of fashion today as the layered lookcontinues in popularity. And what to wear under this top notch finery? Pants, of course.

Pants were responsible for bringing about our casual way of dressing and pants are a must again this fall in a season when separates are still the name of the fashion game.

Look for pants designed with flared legs (sometimes as wide as 38 inches) styled in cotton denims, pinwale thick and thin corduroys and smooth-as-suede brushed flannels. Wear them with Western-styled shirt jackets, or with dolman or batwing wide-sleeved sweaters often ribbed at the waistline for a new silhouette.

Try the classic tailoring of the new Oxford bags, sometimes called baggies: trouser-pleated pants with high-rise waistbands and turned-up uffs. Team them to fitted jackets over vests and shirts or accessorize them with twin sweater sets that either match or mix pattern-with-pattern for a more sophisticated effect.

Both flared leg and baggie pants come designed in the glen, box and abstract plaids that have sprung up in profusion of late. Give them a cuddly feeling by adding a furry, cap-sleeved jacket or look like a little girl with a storybook print smock.

Giant Lapels On The Big Coats

Seen at a preview of fall fashions: the big coat with giant lapels cascading down the front in a green, brown and black wool plaid. Underneath is a bias dress in a color-matching sheer printed wool. The deep armhole coat, shaped in red wool fleece with a fly-front.

One prestige designer picks a claret wool fleece for the dolman sleeve coat he does which is inset with leather down the front and on the big collar. A hyacinth blue melton tent coat over a caramel jumper teamed with a mustard sweater.

Fall Accessories Down To Earth

Fall accessories are down to earth. That's the direction designers of belts, handbags, jewelry, millinery, gloves and scarfs are taking this season.

There is a return to nature and to natural materials. Wood, bone, horn, ivory, nuts, seeds, leather, rope, tortoise shell, canvas, agate and even coconut bark are the newsmakers. Silver and gold get back to nature, too —either on their own or in combination with the natural materials.

WOOL PLAIDS are givingoff the biggest down-to-earth fabric message. Honest homespun plaids taken from the lumberjack and from the horse blanket are making news.

The charm bracelet, clusters of teeth as necklaces, the oversized beret, the continuation of the pendant, soft wool shoulderbags, large leather envelope bags, skinny belts, vibrant plaid scarfs and stoles, gloves heavily patterned or in softy fabrics like mohair and angora, and ropes made of nuts and seeds — these are all trends to watch on the down-to-earth route for fall accessories.

The oversized beret is in angora in coffee and cream plaid.

The plaid oblong scarf is silk with a mixture of green, navy and yellow plaids on a maroon ground.

The plaid belts are skinny bands of denim in clan tartans.

The wool plaid toteis a Black Watch plaid with a wooden bar and convertible straps.

The plaid pouch is in red and green wool with a wooden bar and convertible straps.

THE PLAID and leather handbag is red, gray and white brushed wool trimmed in black leather with a gold chain handle.

The plaid hat is a floppy brim navy, green and red sou'wester in brushed wool.

The plaid necklace featured is a shoelace-like cord in yellow, blue and red plaids with a blue cat's eye marble pendant.

The plaid saddlebag is brown and white wool horse blanket plaid with a self-fabric shoulder strap. It is banded in brown leather.

The conductor's plaid cap is blue, green and white brushed wool.

Hunt For Fabrics Of The Season

This season's hunt for the most rewarding collection of fabrics has turned up some old favorites — some new species.

Among the trappings are soft, touchable wools, blends and knits.

It seems natural in a season of classics, that grey flannel has been recaptured for a contemporary revival.

Mohair and cashmere are evident here, there and everywhere for an even softer separates story — in day and evening wear.

The fuzzies have been coaxed out of hibernation — angora has come to light again. This time it may be blended with wool, rabbit hair, mohair or acrylics.

Wool is fair game in lightweights and appears in crepes, flannels, worsteds and gabardines.

Fall's knit pickings include homespun looks in crunchy tweeds, elegant looks in wool, casual looks in knits.

Corduroy merits a prized trophy for its super-and-big-wales, plushy no-ribs, cobble cords prints.

Fall Color For Men Richer And Cleaner

Color for men's fall '72 fashions will be richer and cleaner as men's wear returns to a more traditional look. A fibers fashion director says men are getting "away from the color riot, the costume look.

Men will definitely not be the anything-goes dresser, with a change of look for every change of mood." And this reversion is affecting all aspects of men's wear from business and casual suitings to shirtings and sportswear.

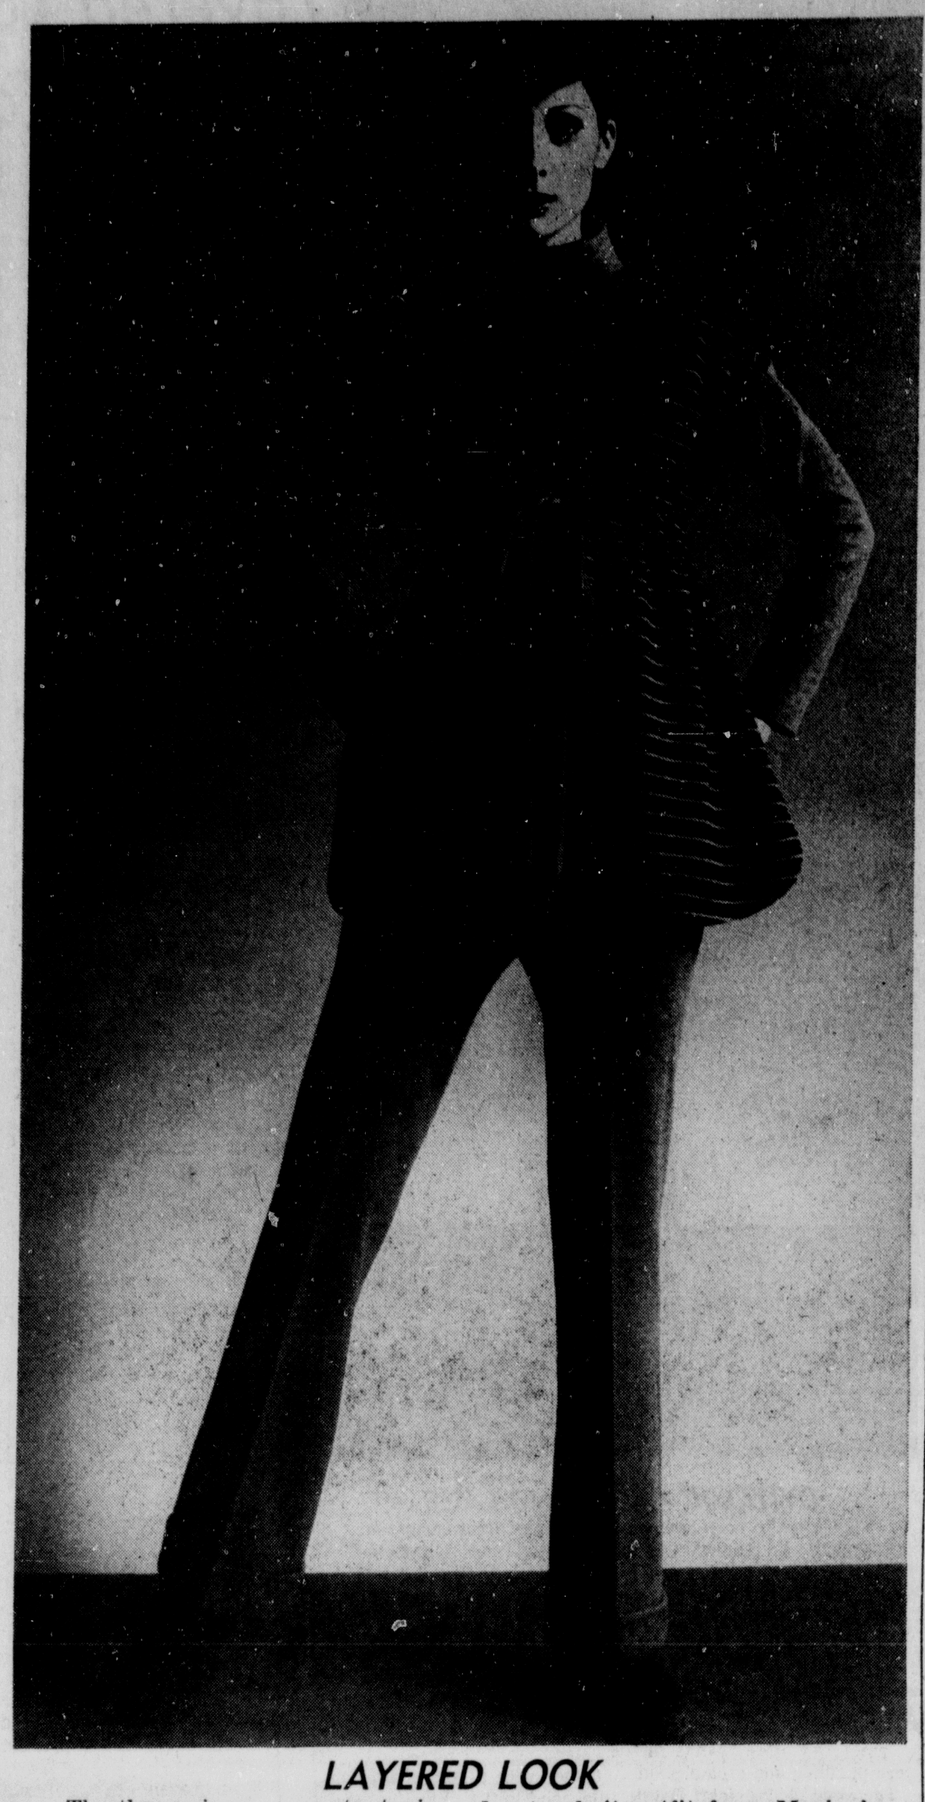
LUXURIOUS LAMB IN STYLE

For those nippy fall and winter afternoons this coat of fine shearling lamb keeps its wearer warm — with or without a matching hood. It comes in a choice of three colors and lengths at Le Beau Monde in Mill Valley.



LAYERED LOOK

The three pieces — pants, tunic and shirt — combine for a fall pant outfit. Orange is the predominant color in this orlon-and-polyester knit outfit from Marion's Maternity Fashions in San Rafael and Mill Valley.

Jewelry Important, Scarves Accenters

Jewelry is still very important. Throats will be decorated with pearls or delicate strands of beads perhaps with a campy home-strung look, perhaps falling below the waist. (If too "busy", the look comes apart and begins to look sloppy.)

Scarves will continue to be strong accenters, small squares tied at the head (often hiding hair completely) or neck (ascot or choker with small ends toward the back).

CLOTHESLINE

No two men are built alike...why should their suits be?

Alexander Taylor Custom Suits offer you a better fit than you've ever had - thanks to an exclusive computerized measuring system!

Why pay money for a suit that really doesn't fit right — or feel right — when for just a little more you can have a custom made suit, which fits you and you alone! Alexander Taylor's new computerized measuring system, called Automeasure® ensures you a perfect fit. Only one of 10 such machines in the United States, the Automeasure® eliminates the human error factor as it quickly and accurately measures posture and body contour, the slope of your shoulders, the curve of your spine. This system is capable of producing over 2 billion measurement combinations!

Do clothes make the man? — absolutely. But only if they fit perfectly. Come into our display room and let us fully explain how computerized measuring can give you this kind of fit . . . and a suit that will be uniquely yours! Select from a wide assortment of styles in over 100 distinctive fabrics.

GOLFER ON THE GO

Jack Nicklaus, for the past two years the leading money winner on the Professional Golf Association tour, is also one of the sport's fashion leaders. Here he wears a double-knit wardrobe by Hart, Shaffner and Marx. This and other combinations are available at Schwartz, Inc., in San Rafael.

'Classics,' 'Costumes' Split Scene

Although the fall fashion scene is split between the pedigreed "classics" and the parvenu "costumes," both looks agree at the top.

Short, smooth hairstyles go best with both traditional and far-out designs of the fashion radicals.

The head-to-toe consensus is a classic recipe spiced with a bit of costume fun depending on the woman's whim for day or evening.

The classic revival in fashion is reflected in today's hairstyles, according to Ian Harrington.

"We believe in the "D.A." cut, an updated version of the short, swept-back style popular in the 1950s.

"It has the range of accentuating the alluring feeling of a long, slinky evening dress or the subtle aura of a man-tailored suit.

"I cut the hair to go back from the face, highlighting the cheekbones. The softness and movement is controlled by the length of the cut."

THE TENT-TOPPERS, bigcoats, and the loose-fit chemise will have a great influence on hair this season, reports Pierre Hambur.

To create this look, Hambur selects the short-page that lies smooth and close at the top of the head and then puffs slightly to curl under or wave at the bottom.

"I cut the hair six inches long all over the head, except for a fringe of uneven bangs in the front. There must be absolutely no teasing, no height. Because the hair is cut all one length, it will fall naturally, moving away from the head just below the ear. The idea is flat on top with slight width at the sides, like today's fashion silhouette."

JASON CROY predicts a neoclassic revival in hair. "There's a new consciousness today that directs women to want a less contrived, more realistic look. This is reflected in the short, simple hairstyles ranging from the super-short cut in the tiniest layers to a blunt-heaviness-cut that's evenly hemmed all around to frame and flatter the face."

Summing up the look for 1972: fashion falls divided into classics and novelties, while hair stands united in simple, short styles that make well-groomed toppings for either fashion choice.

Camel, Stone Gray Are Colors Of Fall

The colors of fall? Look for camel and stone gray, a new rich and dark brown, black. As high-lights, the fire engine reds, the marigolds. Kelly green and an electric blue show up occasionally.

All in all, it promises to be a gala coat season with wide revers, stand-up, dramatic collars, important patterns.

Men's Fall Slacks To Be More Refined

Men's slacks for fall will be less gimmicky and more refined according to leading marketing representatives. In lower-priced slacks and jeans, "there will be a return to the classic look in both fabrics and models," says one. He noted that higher-priced casual slacks ($13 and over at retail) will have a look of "subdued elegance."

Both men felt the basic models will be very clean with four patch pockets. Low rise models will be very important "because girls are buying men's pants."

Keeping Teens On Sure Footing

Appealing leather shoes — with a new and now look — will keep teens on a sure fashion footing this fall.

Today's teen miss seems to have a special instinct for the right styles for herself, notes Leather Industries of America. In her leather footwear, this fashion sensitivity will be well satisfied this season with the bountiful choices open to her. New tie-shoes, pumps, moccasins, boots and sandals come up to expectations in a fine assortment of leathers. This leather roll-call ticks off finishes such as smooth, suede, brushed, waxy, glove, grained, clear and crushed patent leathers. And with flexible leather soles and smooth leather linings, her new shoes assure a teen-ager of maximum comfort inside, outside and underfoot.

To lighten and brighten both school and after-class hours, teens want updated leather tie-shoes. The laced shoe is a leader with its bumpy toes, its perfs or stitching, and its new sole treatments —thicker, stacked and stiched-down. Many ties come in two or more colors, or in two leathers. There are ghillie ties, and occasional sporty speed-hook styles, but primarily the laced look teens like best features eyelets, especially the larger-sized type.

TWO STANDARD laced types this semester are the "athletic" tie and the newly returned saddle oxford. Rugged-looking ties patterned after bowling or racing shoes come equipped with long rows of eyelets, lots of stitching, multi-colors, and often stick-out soles. These are principally crafted in soft suede, glove and waxy leathers. The suddenly-smart-again saddle oxford looks newest with stitched-down soles, higher heels and in leather combinations.

Like saddle oxfords, leather moccasins are enjoying a renaissance this fall. There are many novelty versions to please teens — some sporting thick soles, bump toes and heavy hardware, and others with self-leather trim and higher heels. The traditional loafer, too, makes the classroom circuit. In addition, high-tongued slip-ons in smooth, grained, waxy, sueded and patent leathers will serve to complement her school and casual wardrobe.

This fall and winter, the boot gives aid, comfort and fashion to co-eds in a number of leathers, and at several heights. Above-ankle boots, to pair with pants, are special favorites, but there will also be calf and knee-high styles for skirt and coat accessorizing. Among boot leathers are suede, smooth, brushed and waxy leathers, many of which have been given a tanned-in resistance to weather and moisture effects. For warmth, shearling linings are often added.

THE LOOK OF the boot has been refined this year through sleeker lines and less trim. Side zippers or gored insets may provide closer fit, although a front zipper is sometimes used as a decorative footnote. Further ornamentation might include wedge or sole treatment, bucked straps, perfs, stitching, front panels, and two-tone or two-leather themes.

Neat, Nifty Looks For This Season

Layer looks could be leading little girls into a season of pert and pretty, neat and nifty looks.

A bit of fashion awareness can pull separates together for a super effect.

Flip skirts, A-lined or pleated, pull-over shrink vests and long sleeved shirts may be the ocmponents that get this fashion picture off the ground.

There are other additions, too. Slacks and jeans can substitute for the skirt, short sleeved ribbed sweaters for the vest, and a puckered bodysuit for the blouse.

There's still more! A smock, a blazer, a jeandress, an ascot can be donned for a layer-atop-layer look. The more the merrier!

Multi-layer looks can also be achieved another way. One-piece dresses and jumpers with the look of layer on layer make the scene. It's easy as pie for a young miss to be a fashion hit — however she chooses to get the look on.

Cardigan sweater sets make their comeback in fuzzy angora, mohair, cashmere and acrylic blends.

TRAVEL IN FASHION

Luggage has become an extension of the individual's fashion tastes, especially pieces such as these carry-on-board bags, designed for the traveler who needs a functional and elegant travel case. They will be available at De Tour Luggage and Gifts, which is opening this month at the Northgate Shopping Mall.

Handbags In Swing Of Things

Come fall, the handbag that will really be in the swing of things is the soft leather shoulder-strapper. Casual and dress shoulder-bags are fall's overriding favorites.

Deep envelopes, soft roomy pouches and totes, and quilted Chanel-type bags see the most action. Leathers in just about every finish make up these newest shoulder-bag models.

Suede is the hands-down favorite, but grained, smooth, waxy, brushed, antiqued and patent leathers also look very good.

Offering the shoulder bag some lively competition will be a bright-looking group of more conventional styles.

Casual totes, pouches and box bags with regulation handles or straps sport such details as bold stitching, brassy-hardware and brush-blended trim.

New leather gloves are long and sleek, streamlined and extended. Shorties are in second place, with four and six-button lengths in the lead.

Leather belts are changing their image, scaling down in width and softening up on detail.

FOR THE SPORTS-MINDED

A fashionable warm-up suit of polyester stretch fabric is popular and features a zip front and pockets, a stand-up collar and flair pants. It is styled by Head and is available at the Seasons Ski and Sports Shop in San Anselmo.

Forecasting Fashion Trends Must Be Done A Year Ahead

By PEACE MOFFAT

NEW YORK (AP) — Virginia Sorem's job is to publish 12 books a year showing the fashions women will want to buy. Sounds easy enough, but there's one hitch — she has to work more than a year ahead of time — forecasting fashion trends long before clothes are off the designers' sketch pads.

How does she do it? The fashion coordinator, catalog division of J.C. Penney Co., explains: "I talk to a lot of fashion sources, read a lot of domestic periodicals and go to all the fashion showings. Just looking at people helps. And I'm familiar with the markdown racks at the stores — what hasn't sold. Fashion makes sense, too. You don't have to be the smartest graduate of Radcliffe to know that certain seasons will bring on certain colors and styles."

Mrs. Sorem, a bright blue-eyed woman with a trim tailored look, wryly notes that "there are no erasers in a catalogue" so she has to be sure she knows what she's talking about. She's quick to point out that her work is a team effort but, nevertheless, she's the one who is responsible for the $11 million in paper and $2 million in ink alone that go into those catalogs each year.

The way fashion trends are born has changed in the past 10 years, Mrs. Sorem says.

There used to be a filtering-down process," she points out.

"The couture houses in Paris would originate trends that would then find their way across the ocean to New York City and the expensive stores on 57th Street. Eventually, those same looks would end up at the cheaper stores, but it was months after the original had appeared in Europe.

"This started changing a decade ago," she says. "People in the United States needed clothes to wear for their active lives. In England, there was an uprising of youth. Fashions started coming from the young people on the streets. As a rule, trends today come from all over the world."

According to this fashion authority today's look has two main ingredients — individuality and a casual manner.

"Women don't want to look all alike," Mrs. Sorem says. "Now they can buy separates, put them together and change the look for a job, or for a date."

She attributes this individuality partly to the ill-fated midi skirt. "When designers tried to foist the midi off on women, and found it didn't work, they realized they couldn't make women buy something just to be fashionable.

"The casual look can be understood," she says. "It doesn't mean torn sneakers. It can actualiy mean elegant, and the same care and planning should go into a casual look as goes into a formal one."

Smocks Are Delicious For Fall

Autumn's running smack into smocks for delicious casual shirtings.

In baby doll pinafore and 'today" renditions of classic artists' smocks, they pop on over jeans, slacks and skirts.

On its own, the smock covers the dress scene and goes merrily on its way when worn with colorful tights.

Shirring, lace, applique or rick-rack trim, apron ties and ruffles are some of the pretties that make smocks so yummy.

Short, long, capped and dolman sleeved or, sleeveless smock toppings readily become part of the layered looks.

The role is versatility when buttoned smocks go unbuttoned over bodysuits and blouses for a perky jacket routine.

Gray Matters

Gray. That's the color that matters for fall accessories.

Autumn Bride Can Find Dress Of Her Dreams

Dramatic or romantic, simple or sophisticated, this fall's bride can find the wedding dress of her dreams.

Although most gowns seen are quite traditional in style, each has its own individuality.

The princess, the dolman-sleeve, the Chinese influence, the shirtdress and the layered-look are among the many styles.

Ruffles, lace, pearl beading, passementerie and insets of tiny crystal-pleating are some of the most popular trim details.

A wide range of fabrics is to be found. Included are silk-faced peau de soie, soft jersey, faille, nylon, gabardine, silk moire taffeta and ottoman.

Veil runs the gamut from long filmy sweeps to the tiniest head-hugging caps. An attached hood completes one medieval design gown.

Preview Of Men's Fashions For Fall

By LUIX OVERBEA
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Tall men, baggy men, layered men, color-aware men, matched men— all approved by wives, mothers, girl friends — will be the men people see this fall and winter. These are the clothing ideas that prevailed at the recent showings of the Men's Fashion Association of America.

In the fall fashion parade men will be tall — not because they all hail from Texas — but because they will wear high-heeled shoes or boots.

Men's trousers may be hip huggers, but from the hip down they will be big and bulky, even the flares. Cuffs will make a comeback, as deep as three inches on some of these "baggies."

Ken O'Keefe, MFA fashion director, says that elegance will be evident in flannel with gray the big color, in the blazer with plaids, mostly subtle, soft suits in corduroy, velvet, brushed-demin, and suedelike fabrics, and formal attire, with lots of velvets and new cuts.

The fray-flannel look also will be found in double knit wool and polyester, navy and denim blue. Everything will be single-breated. In keeping with the layered look, many suits will have vests, contrasting and matching.

BLAZERS AND jackets will be more subdued in color, subdued plaids, navy, brown, and bottle green, plus a few tartans and multi-colors. Some plaids will have the tweedy look.

A variety of leather and suede trims in several colors will distinguish the new from the early old on coats, sweaters, suits, and sports coats.

Creativity in suits and sports outfits will center around outerjackets — really another name for the non-traditional suit coat or blazer — and outershirts. They are becoming the upper halves of new-look suits or casual coordinates.

Most of these outfits give either the military look of battle jackets, Eisenhower jackets, and the like, or the bulky bulge of lumber jackets. Men coordinate these jackets with the baggies to become sophisticated or casual.

Competing with jackets and coats for coordination combinations will be the sweater — cardigan, cable, and turtleneck. It will come in the usual black, gray, green, brown, and tan, but will be supplemented with fanciful argyles, designed to match a favorite pair of slacks.

REMEMBER THE baggy pants that Cary Grant wore in the old movies? They're coming back for fall and winter with wide lapels and flap pockets on the coat. These styles are by Pierre Cardin in flannel and wool for an athletic look.

And sleeveless sweaters will vie with vests for the right to become the first layer of the layered look. They will feature all the colors — with vests offering contrasts, too.

On the evening scene, there will be tails with the shortened cut, slant pockets, and velvet lapel inserts. Dinner jackets will be even more fanciful, with a choice of velvet or suede touches. Tuxedoes will have their traditional look. And there will be a new choice of big bow ties to light up the evening attire.

TOPCOATS AND OVERCOATS will return to the "good old days" with the raccoon coat, the double-breasted look, and camel-hair featured. The military trenchcoat look will reappear in rainwear and storm coats.

The young man's look is supposed to be individualistic, but it is really more of the same. Brighter colors ae permitted, specially plaids and velvets and velveteens.

A casual youthful element is sought with jeans, layers, turtlenecks, argyles, knits, cardigans, baggies, cuffs and patterns. The young men will give up their so-called funky look to be neater, but not necessarily duller.

They will borrow from many others for their fads:

The military for styles in jackets, slacks, and colors.

Pro sports for bulky outfits with bold, brave hues.

Ski circles to cycling outfits for the sporty and the monster look.

"What shall I wear with . . .?"

Today's man will be asking this question after he buys a suit, a sports outfit, a sweater, or a jacket.

IN LINE with the mood for elegance and the revival of the classic look for men, accessories will take on a quieter tone compared to the brilliant colors and bold patterns of today.

Shirts must be coordinated with whatever the man wears, come fall. Even in the layered look, the shirt must not clash with the sweater or vest that covers all but the sleeves and collar.

A man will no longer wear white shirts; the name of the game will be white on white. Solid colors, more darker shades than pastels, are coming. There will be patterns too, all designed to match the outer garment. Turtlenecks will make a comeback to give the man the natural, rugged look.

For the young man who wants more excitement, shirts will feature Oriental motifs, tartans, checks, twills, glens, and oxford looks. And knits will move in. One shirt man predicts 35 per cent of the new shirts will be knit.

Styling will include long point collars, rounded shorter collars, and button-down collars. Many knit and woolens will have the stretch look. There will be French cuffs with the one-button look. Shirts may be worn outside or inside the slacks although the layered look moves shirts inside.

Ties will be worn with many shirts. Some stylists will stick with the bold, wide ones, but others are toning down. The news is in tie-your-own bow ties with bold bows in strong colors. This goes even for formal attire.

OF COURSE men will go tieless with the bold knit of jumbo paisley or the tailored sport shirts.

Belts will be different this year — more narrow bands, quiet buckles rather than the fancy shieldlike affairs of the recent past.

Men will be taller next year, thanks to the growth of the shoe heel. High hels, at least one inch and as high as two inches, and boots are the keys to foot fashions.

Knits don't prevent cold winter blasts, according to Alan S. Friedland, a spokesman for the hosiery industry.

The answer, he said, is in the new warm johns, or what is best known as "pant-he-hose." They will keep a man warm when he wears knit trousers.

Men's Ties Make Classic Return

By WALTER OGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — You've been reading about the return to the classics in men's suits and shirts. Ties are even more classic with fabrics your grandfather might have worn. Bow ties are in again although these are bigger and floppier than the ones worn back in the 1920s.

There are brocades inspired by the recent interest in China, ties with chess figures inspired by the Bobby Fischer-Boris Spassky set in Reykjavik, ties adorned with sports figures inspired by anything from steeplechasing to golf.

HANDWRITING ON the wall? The J.S. Blank Co. reports orders of 3½-inch ties for the Christmas season instead of the current 4-inch width.

If you're older than 19 you'll remember some of the fabrics — English foulards, ancient Madder, repp stripes, wool challis, wool tartans, grenadines, and Macclesfield — which your great-grandfather might have worn. The last is a woven silk fabric with tiny allover patterns named for the village in England where it was invented in the 1800s.

Many manufacturers are showing bow ties this fall. Hut, which makes the Lanvin tie, shows them 3½ inches wide, which is very wide, in neat figured designs, club prints, paisleys. Four-in-hands were in rich-looking silks with brocaded stripes, bright silk prints. The newest things were checks and plaids.

MOST SHIRT manufacturers are returning to the classics for fall and winter shirt-lines, such as white on white and button-down collars. But Pierre Cardin came up with a more colorful approach — embroidered panel shirts for semi-formal wear. (UPI Telephoto)

PULITZER WENT back into the past for English foulards in neat patterns and paisley, wool challis, wool tartans with fairly large patterns and very classic, handblocked English ancient Madders with their soft, dusty finish; Macclesfields, and ties with game scenes — pheasants in muted colors or a hunting scene.

Bill Miller used Quiana for vivid prints in florals, abstract designs, embossed nouveau-Damask designs in black on solid colored repps. There were big lacy designs of squares and circles on solids, many, many plaids, much surface interest and huge paisleys in deep jewel tones.

"With men adopting the neo-classic look his suits are more subdued and the best way to get color into his wardrobe is through the classic silk print ties," Miller said. "But then for the flower children who have to put on a suit and go to work there are wild flower designs."

Ralph Lauren of Polo used the word "classic" in everything he showed and shirts and ties were no exception. He liked a paisley foulard tie with a narrow, pin-striped shirt worn with a pinned collar as a foil to a classic gray flannel suit.

COUNTESS MARA, again with a $1,000 tie adorned with diamonds and gold, also had some classic bow ties and such items as classic stripes, a Chinoiserie collection of hand painted Chinese designs, career ties with appropriate symbols for doctors, lawyers, etc. There were polka dots, and new Mara stripes on backgrounds of mosaics, damask weaves, twills.

Robert Schafer, the chief designer at Burma Bibas, came out with his own line of wide knit ties designed especially for wear with sports shirts. They are basically solid or in unobtrustive patterns to coordinate with almost any kind of sports shirt.

John Weitz showed foulard printed silks, some very neat flag designs in two colors, framed diamonds that gave a plaid look and real plaids in subdued two color designs decorated with widespaced dots. Oleg Cassini had jacquard prints with borders or tips in the same color as the wide spaced printed designs above.

The Schiaparelli line had a frosty, swirly design like a Chinese tapestry done in watercolors.

BRONZINI OFFERED classic foulard prints and figured stripes in silk, political ties with such symbols as elephants and donkeys and the stars and eagles that appear on the ballot. And if you can wait until Christmas there are ties with Christmas trees, bells, candy canes and holly sprigs.

Superba had a line of Chess Yes ties with chess piece designs. In the Don Loper division there were borders, underknot designs and classic prints. King's Lynn showed classic wool plaids and Jacquard woven Mandarin designs. Superba showed more classic neat figures, Qiana ties with contrast borders and big underknot designs and ties with foreign coin designs. The Johnny Carson line included plaids with figures, very wide paisley stripes and paisleys with plaid border prints.

Ruffles by Rooster reported the biggest thing this season is wool. There were loose woven basketweaves with neat plaid effects, a similar in a brushed, fuzzy effect, tattersall and houndstooth in the same brushed wool. There were sweater-like jacquard knits in windowpanes, houndstooth and argyle designs. And with them were shown wool knitted mufflers in argyle and tartan designs — but big.

WEMBLEY FEATURED tops and bottoms, which in one case included a plaid top and a tip with various designs such as crests, bagpipes and cloverleafs. There were velvets with mat, all over designs, and a lot of classic wool challis.

Best Look— Wools And Pastels

A recipe for the best in young fall fashion — take the newest wools in the palest pastels and mix them with the latest looks — and you'll come up with a formula to make you a standout on the first crisp day.

Ivory flannels and pearl gray wool coatings, ice blue wool crepes and hint-of-tan wool jerseys all look fresh and unexpected in a season which usually wraps itself in bright or dark colors at the first dip of the thermometer.

The new platinum 'shades' are as flattering as cosmetics and in wool they'll never look like summer hangovers.

If you're worried about upkeep, some of the newest wools are machine washable and machine dryable.

Other light-colored wools can be maintained by coin-operated dry cleaning. They need only a slight touch with an iron afterward.
